(3) If during the calendar year 1942 or in succeeding calendar years, property held as such community property (unless considered by reason of paragraph (2) as not so held) was by the donor and the donee spouse converted, by one transaction or a series of transactions, into separate property of the donor and such spouse (including any form of co-ownership by them), the separate property so acquired by the donor and any property acquired at any time by the donor in exchange therefor (by one exchange or a series of exchanges) shall, for purposes of paragraph (1), be considered as "held as community property."

(4) Where the value (at the time of such conversion) of the separate property so acquired by the donor exceeded the value (at such time) of the separate property so acquired by such spouse, paragraph (3) shall apply only with respect to the same portion of such separate property of the donor as the portion which the value (as of such time) of such separate property so acquired by such spouse is of the value (as of such time) of the separate property so acquired by the donor.

§ 25.2523 (f)–1 Marital deduction in cases involving community property—(a) In general. The marital deduction is allowable with respect to any transfer by a donor to his spouse only to the extent that such transfer can be shown to represent a gift of property which was not, at the time of the gift, held as "community property", as defined in paragraph (b) of this section. The burden of establishing the extent to which a transfer represents a gift of property not so held rests upon the donor.

(b) Definition of community property. (1) For the purpose of paragraph (a) of this section, the term "community property" is considered to include—

(i) Any property held by the donor and his spouse as community property under the law of any State, Territory, or possession of the United States, or of any foreign country, except property in which the donee spouse had at the time of the gift merely an expectant interest. The donee spouse is regarded as having, at any particular time, merely an expectant interest in property held at that time by the donor and herself as community property under the law of any State, Territory, or possession of the United States, or of any foreign country, if, in case such property were transferred by gift into the separate property of the donee spouse, the entire value of such property (and not merely one-half of it), would be treated as the amount of the gift.

(ii) Separate property acquired by the donor as a result of a "conversion", after December 31, 1941, of property held by him and the donee spouse as community property under the law of any State, Territory, or possession of the United States, or of any foreign country (except such property in which the donee spouse had at the time of the "conversion" merely an expectant interest), into their separate property, subject to the limitation with respect to value contained in subparagraph (5) of this paragraph.

(iii) Property acquired by the donor in exchange (by one exchange or a series of exchanges) for separate property resulting from such "conversion."

(2) The characteristics of property which acquired a noncommunity instead of a community status by reason of an agreement (whether antenuptial or postnuptial) are such that section 2523 (f) classifies the property as community property of the donor and his spouse in the computation of the marital deduction. In distinguishing property which thus acquired a noncommunity status from property which acquired such a status solely by operation of the community property law, section 2523 (f) refers to the former category of property as "separate property" acquired as a result of a "conversion" of "property held as such community property." As used in section 2523 (f) the phrase "property held as such community property" is used to denote the body of property comprehended within the community property system; the expression "separate property" includes any noncommunity property, whether held in joint tenancy, tenancy by the entirety, tenancy in common, or otherwise; and the term "conversion" includes any transaction or agreement which transforms property from a community status into a noncommunity status.

(3) The separate property which section 2523 (f) classifies as community property is not limited to that which was in existence at the time of the conversion. The following are illustrative of the scope of section 2523 (f):

(i) A partition of community property between husband and wife, whereby a portion of the property became the separate property of each, is a conversion of community property.

(ii) A transfer of community property into some other form of coownership, such as a joint tenancy, is a conversion of the property.

(iii) An agreement (whether made before or after marriage) that future earnings and gains which would otherwise be community property shall be shared by the spouses as separate property effects a conversion of such earnings and gains.

(iv) A change in the form of ownership of property which causes future rentals, which would otherwise have been acquired as community property, to be acquired as separate property effects a conversion of the rentals.

(4) The rules of section 2523 (f) are applicable, however, only if the conversion took place after December 31, 1941, and only to the extent stated in this section.

(5) If the value of the separate property acquired by the donor as a result of a conversion did not exceed the value of the separate property thus acquired by the donee spouse, the entire separate property thus acquired by the donor is to be considered, for the purposes of this section, as held by him and the donee sponse as community property. If the value (at the time of conversion) of the separate property so acquired by the donor exceeded the value (at that time) of the separate property so acquired by the donee spouse, only a part of the separate property so acquired by the donor (and only the same fractional part of the property acquired by him in exchange for such separate property) is to be considered, for purposes of this section, as held by him and the donee spouse as community property. The part of such separate property (or property acquired in exchange for it) which is considered as so held is the same proportion of it which the value (at the time of the conversion) of the separate property so acquired by the donee spouse is of the value (at that time) of the separate property so acquired by the donor. The following example illustrates the application of the provisions of this paragraph:

Example. During 1942 the donor and his spouse partitioned certain real property held by them under community property laws. The real property then had a value of $224,000. A portion of the property, then having a value of $160,000, was converted into the donor's separate property, and the remaining portion, then having a value of $64,000, was converted into his spouse's separate property. In 1955 the donor made a gift to his spouse of the property acquired by him as a result of the partition, which property then had a value of $200,000. The portion of the property transferred by gift which is considered as community property is

$160,000 (value of property acquired by donor spouse)

×$200,000=$80,000. The marital deduction with respect to the gift is, therefore, limited to one-half of $120,000 (the difference between $200,000, the value of the gift, and $80,000, the portion of the gift considered to have been of "community property"). The marital deduction with respect to the gift is, therefore, $60,000.

SEC. 2524. Extent of deductions. The deductions provided in sections 2522 and 2523 shall be allowed only to the extent that the gifts therein specified are included in the amount of gifts against which such deductions are applied.

§ 25.2524–1 Extent of deductions. (a) Under the provisions of section 2524, the charitable deduction (see section 2522) and the marital deduction (see section 2523) are allowable only to the extent that the gifts with respect to which those deductions are authorized are included in the "total amount of gifts made during the calendar year", computed as provided in section 2503, that is, the total gifts less exclusions. (See § 25.2503–1.) The limitation under section 2524 is effective with respect to the marital deduction when less than one-half of the gifts with respect to which the deduction is authorized is included in the "total amount of gifts." The following example illustrates the application of the provisions of this section:

Example. The only gifts made by a donor to his spouse during the calendar year were a gift of $3,000 in May and a gift of $2,000 in August. The first $3,000 of such gifts is excluded under the provisions of section 2503 in determining the "total amount of gifts made during the calendar year." The marital deduction of $2,500 (one-half of $3,000 plus one-half of $2,000) otherwise allowable is limited by section 2524 to $2,000.

PROCEDURE AND ADMINISTRATION

SEC. 6001. Notice or regulations requiring records, statements, and special returns. Every person liable for any tax imposed by this title, or for the collection thereof, shall keep such records, render such statements, make such returns, and comply with such rules and regulations as the Secretary or his delegate may from time to time prescribe. Whenever in the judgment of the Secretary or his delegate it is necessary, he may require any person, by notice served upon such person or by regulations, to make such returns, render such statements, or keep such records, as the Secretary or his delegate deems sufficient to show whether or not such person is liable for tax under this title.

§ 25.6001–1 Records required to be kept—(a) In general. Every person subject to taxation under chapter 12 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, shall for the purpose of determining the total amount of his gifts, keep such permanent books of account or records as are necessary to establish the amount of his total gifts (limited as provided by section 2503 (b)), together with the deductions allowable in determining the amount of his taxable gifts, and the other information required to be shown in a gift tax return.

(b) Supplemental data. In order that the district director may determine the correct tax the donor shall furnish such supplemental data as may be deemed necessary by the district director. It is, therefore, the duty of the donor to furnish upon request copies of all documents relating to his gift or gifts, appraisal lists of any items included in the total amount of gifts, copies of balance sheets, or other financial statements obtainable by him relating to the value of stock constituting the gift, and any other information obtainable by him that may be necessary in the determination of the tax. (See section 2512 and the regulations issued thereunder.) For every policy of life insurance listed on the return, the donor must procure a statement from the insurance company on Form 938 and file it with the district director who receives the return. If specifically requested by the district director, the insurance company shall file this statement direct with the district director.

§ 25.6001–2 Donees and trustees required to file information return. An information return on Form 710 must be filed by every donee or trustee (except in the case of an organization receiving a gift for a public, charitable, etc., purpose as hereinafter explained) to whom is transferred in any one calendar year property by gift for which, as set forth in § 25.6019–1, the donor is required to file a gift tax return. An organization which has been held by the district director to come within the purview of section 2522 (a), or the corresponding provision of prior law, need not file such information return if the gift was made by a citizen or resident of the United States. An organization which has been held by the district director to come within the purview of section 2522 (b), or the corresponding provision of prior law, need not file such information return if the gift was made by a nonresident not a citizen of the United States. When a gift is made in trust the information return should be filed by either the beneficiary of the trust or the trustee, but only one information return is required. If the donor retains a power over transferred property, the information return (which is for information purposes only) should be filed even though it is considered that the retention of the power renders the transfer wholly incomplete as a gift within the meaning of the statute. The information return shall disclose the following information: (1) name and address of donor, (2) date of transfer, (3) a general description of the property transferred, and (4) the approximate value thereof at the date of the transfer. When a husband and wife consent (or contemplate consenting) that gifts made by either of them to third-party donees shall be considered as made one-half by each spouse, as provided by section 2513, the information return shall, nevertheless, identify the actual donor. If the donee dies or becomes legally incompetent, his executor, administrator, guardian or committee, as the case may be, shall file such information return as would be required of the donee. See §§ 25.6071–1 and 25.6091–1 for the time and place for the filing of the information return.

SEC. 6011. General requirement of return, statement, or list—(a) General rule. When required by regulations prescribed by the Secretary or his delegate any person made liable for any tax imposed by this title, or for the collection thereof, shall make a return or statement according to the forms and regulations prescribed by the Secretary or his delegate. Every person required to make a return or statement shall include therein the information required by such forms or regulations.

• • • • •

(c) Income, estate, and gift taxes. For requirement that returns of income, estate, and gift taxes be made whether or not there is tax liability, see sections 6012 to 6019, inclusive.

§ 25.6011–1 Form of information return, gift tax return, and certain evidence—(a) Information return. The donee's or trustee's information return of gifts shall be made on Form 710. See § 25.6001–2 for the circumstances under which the filing of a donee's or trustee's information return of gifts is required.

(b) Gift tax return. The gift tax return shall be made on Form 709, regardless of whether the donor was a citizen or resident of the United States or was a nonresident not a citizen. See §§ 25.6019–1 and 25.6019–2 for the circumstances under which the filing of a gift tax return is required.

(c) Life insurance statement. The life insurance statement shall be made on Form 938. See § 25.6001–1 (b) for the circumstances under which furnishing of a life insurance statement is required.

§ 25.6011–2 Use of prescribed forms. Copies of the forms prescribed by § 25.6011–1 may be obtained from district directors. The fact that a person required to file a form has not been furnished with copies of a form will not excuse him from the making of an information return or a gift tax return, or from the furnishing of the evidence for which the forms specified in § 25.6011–1 are to be used. Application for a form should be made to the district director in ample time to enable the person whose duty it is to file the form to have the form prepared, verified, and filed with the district director on or before the date prescribed for the filing thereof.

SEC. 6019. Gift tax returns—(a) In general. Any individual who in any calendar year makes any transfers by gift (except those which under section 2503 (b) are not to be included in the total amount of gifts for such year) shall make a return with respect to the gift tax imposed by subtitle B.

(b) Tenancy by the entirety. For provisions relating to requirement of return in the case of election as to the treatment of gift by creation of tenancy by the entirety, see section 2515 (c).

§ 25.6019–1 Persons required to file returns—(a) In general. Any individual citizen or resident of the United States who within the calendar year 1955, or within any calendar year thereafter, makes a transfer or transfers by gift to any one donee of a value or total value in excess of $3,000 (or regardless of value in the case of a gift of a future interest in property) must file a gift tax return on Form 709 for that year. A nonresident not a citizen of the United States who made such a gift must also file a return if under § 25.2511–3 the transfer is subject to the gift tax. The return is required even though because of the deductions authorized by sections 2522 (specific exemption), 2523 (charitable, etc., deduction), and 2524 (marital deduction) no tax may be payable. Individuals only are required to file returns and not trusts, estates, partnerships or corporations. See §§ 25.6011–1, 25.6075–1, and 25.6091–1 for the form on which the return shall be made, and for the time and place for filing. The filing of only one copy of the gift tax return is required.

(b) Deceased donor. If the donor dies before filing his return, the executor of his will or the administrator of his estate shall file the return. If the donor becomes legally incompetent before filing his return, his guardian or committee shall file the return.

(c) Ratification of return. The return shall not be made by an agent unless by reason of illness, absence, or nonresidence, the person liable for the return is unable to make it within the time prescribed. Mere convenience is not sufficient reason for authorizing an agent to make the return. If by reason of illness, absence or nonresidence, a return is made by an agent, the return must be ratified by the donor or other person liable for its filing within a reasonable time after such person becomes able to do so. If the return filed by the agent is not so ratified, it will not be considered the return required by the statute. Supplemental data may be submitted at the time of ratification. The ratification may be in the form of a statement, executed under the penalties of perjury and filed with the district director, showing specifically that the return made by the agent has been carefully examined and that the person signing ratifies the return as the donor's. If a return is signed by an agent, a statement fully explaining the inability of the donor must accompany the return.

§ 25.6019–3 Contents of return—(a) In general. The return shall set forth: (1) each gift made during the calendar year which under sections 2511 through 2515 is to be included in computing taxable gifts; (2) the deductions claimed and allowable under sections 2521 through 2524; and (3) the taxable gifts made for each of the preceding calendar years (see § 25.2504–1). In addition the return shall set forth the fair market value of all gifts not made in money, including gifts resulting from sales and exchanges of property made for less than full and adequate consideration in money or money's worth, giving, as of the date of the sale or exchange, both the fair market value of the property sold or exchanged and that of the consideration received by the donor. If a donor contends that his retained power over property is of such nature as to render the gift incomplete (see § 25.2511–2) and hence not subject to tax as of the calendar year of the initial transfer, the transaction should be disclosed in the return for the calendar year of the initial transfer and evidence showing all relevant facts, including a copy of the instrument of transfer, should be submitted with the return. The instructions printed on the return should be carefully followed. All documents and vouchers used in preparing the return should be retained by the donor so as to be available for inspection by representatives of the Internal Revenue Service whenever required. A certified or verified copy of each document required by the instructions printed on the return form, or any documents the donor may desire to submit, should be filed with the return.

(b) Disclosure of transfers coming within provisions of section 2516. Section 2516 provides that certain written agreements between husband and wife relative to their marital and property rights are deemed to be for full and adequate consideration in money or money's worth if divorce occurs within two years. In any case where a husband and wife enter into a written agreement of the type contemplated by section 2516, and the final decree of divorce is not granted on or before the due date (see § 25.6075–1 (b)) for the filing of a gift tax return for the calendar year in which the agreement became effective, the transfer shall be disclosed by the transferor upon a gift tax return filed for the calendar year in which the agreement became effective and a copy of the agreement shall be attached to the return. In addition, a certified copy of the divorce decree shall be furnished the district director not later than 60 days after the divorce is granted. Pending receipt of evidence that the final decree of divorce has been granted (but in no event for a period of more than two years from the effective date of the agreement), the transfer will tentatively be treated as one made for full and adequate consideration in money or money's worth.

§ 25.6019–4 Description of property listed on return. In listing upon the return the property comprising the gifts made during the calendar year, the description of it should be such that the property may be readily identified. Thus, there should be given for each parcel of real estate a legal description, its area, a short statement of the character of any improvements, and if located in a city, the name of street and number. Description of bonds should include the number transferred, principal amount, name of obligor, date of maturity, rate of interest, date or dates on which interest is payable, series number where there is more than one issue, and the principal exchange upon which listed, or the principal buisness office of the corporation, if unlisted. Description of stocks should include number of shares, whether common or preferred, and, if preferred, what issue thereof, par value, quotation at which returned, exact name of corporation, and, if the stock is unlisted, the location of the principal business office, the State in which incorporated and the date of incorporation, or if the stock is listed, the principal exchange upon which sold. Description of notes should include name of maker, date on which given, date of maturity, amount of principal, amount of principal unpaid, rate of interest and whether simple or compound, and date to which interest has been paid. If the gift of property includes accrued income thereon to the date of the gift, the amount of such accrued income should be separately set forth. Description of the seller's interest in land contracts transferred should include name of buyer, date of contract, description of property, sale price, initial payment, amounts of installment payments, unpaid balance of principal, interest rate and date prior to gift to which interest has been paid. Description of life insurance policies should show the name of the insurer and the number of the policy. In describing an annuity, the name and address of the issuing company should be given, or, if payable out of a trust or other fund, such a description as will fully identify the trust or fund. If the annuity is payable for a term of years, the duration of the term and the date on which it began should be given, and if payable for the life of any person, the date of birth of that person should be stated. Judgments should be described by giving the title of the cause and the name of the court in which rendered, date of judgment, name and address of judgment debtor, amount of judgment, rate of interest to which subject, and by stating whether any payments have been made thereon, and, if so, when and in what amounts.

SEC. 6061. Signing of returns and other documents. Except as otherwise provided by sections 6062 and 6063, any return, statement, or other document required to be made under any provision of the internal revenue laws or regulations shall be signed in accordance with forms or regulations prescribed by the Secretary or his delegate.

§ 25.6061–1 Signing of returns and other documents. For regulations with respect to the signing of returns and other documents, see the Regulations on Procedure and Administration (Part 301 of this chapter).

SEC. 6065. Verification of returns—(a) Penalties of perjury. Except as otherwise provided by the Secretary or his delegate, any return, declaration, statement, or other document required to be made under any provision of the internal revenue laws or regulations shall contain or be verified by a written declaration that it is made under the penalties of perjury.

(b) Oath. The Secretary or his delegate may by regulations require that any return, statement, or other document required to be made under any provision of the internal revenue laws or regulations shall be verified by an oath. This subsection shall not apply to returns and declarations with respect to income taxes made by individuals.

§ 25.6065–1 Verification of returns. For regulations with respect to the verification of returns, see the Regulations on Procedure and Administration (Part 301 of this chapter).

SEC. 6071. Time for filing returns and other documents—(a) General rule. Where not otherwise provided for by this title, the Secretary or his delegate shall by regulations prescribe the time for filing any return, statement, or other document required by this title or by regulations.

§ 25.6071–1 Time for filing donor's and trustee's information return of gifts. The information return required by § 25.6001–2 shall be filed on or before the 15th day of April following the close of the calendar year in which the transfer was made. See § 25.6011–1 for the form on which the information return shall be made, and § 25.6091–1 for the place for filing.

SEC. 6075. Time for filing • • • gift tax returns.

(b) Gift tax returns. Returns made under section 6019 (relating to gift taxes) shall be filed on or before the 15th day of April following the close of the calendar year.

§ 25.6075–1 Time for filing gift tax returns—(a) In general. Gift tax returns required by section 6019 must be filed on or before the 15th day of April following the close of the calendar year in which gifts are made, unless an extension of time is granted pursuant to the provisions of section 6081, and except as otherwise provided in paragraph (b) of this section. However, for provisions relating to postponement of the time for filing the gift tax returns by reason of an individual serving in, or in support of, the Armed Forces of the United States in a combat zone, see section 7508.

(b) Due date of return. The due date is the date on or before which a return is required to be filed (see paragraph (a) of this section). However, when the due date falls on a Saturday, Sunday, or a legal holiday, the due date shall be the next day succeeding which is not a Saturday, Sunday, or a legal holiday. For definition of a legal holiday see § 301.7503–1 of the Procedure and Administration Regulations (Part 301 of this chapter). If the return is placed in the mails, it should be posted in ample time to reach the office of the district director under ordinary handling of the mails, on or before the date on which the return is required to be filed. If a return is made and placed in the mails in due course, properly addressed and postage paid, in ample time to reach the office of the district director on or before the due date, no penalty will attach should the return not actually be received by the district director until after that date. If a question may be raised as to whether the return was posted in ample time to reach the office of the district director on or before the due date, the envelope in which the return was transmitted will be preserved by the district director and attached to the return. As to additions to the tax in the case of failure to file a return within the prescribed time, see section 6651.

SEC. 6081. Extension of time for filing returns—(a) General rule. The Secretary or his delegate may grant a reasonable extension of time for filing any return, declaration, statement, or other document required by this title or by regulations. Except in the case of taxpayers who are abroad, no such extension shall be for more than 6 months.

(c) Postponement by reason of war. For time for performing certain acts postponed by reason of war, see section 7508.

§ 25.6081–1 Extension of time for filing returns. It is important that the donor file on or before the due date a return as nearly complete and final as it is possible for him to prepare. However, the district director is authorized to grant a reasonable extension of time for filing returns. Applications for extensions of time for filing gift tax returns should be addressed to the district director of internal revenue for the internal revenue district in which the donor files his returns and must contain a full recital of the causes for delay. Except in the case of donors who are abroad, no extension for filing returns may be granted for more than 6 months. An extension of time for filing a return does not operate to extend the time for payment of the tax or any part thereof, unless so specified in the extension. For extensions of time for payment of tax, see § 25.6161–1. No extension of time for filing a return may be granted unless the application is received by the district director before the expiration of the time within which the return otherwise must be filed. The application should, when possible, be made sufficiently early to permit the district director to consider the matter and reply before what otherwise would be the due date of the return.

SEC. 6091. Place for filing returns or other documents—(a) General rule. When not otherwise provided for by this title, the Secretary or his delegate shall by regulations prescribe the place for the filing of any return, declaration, statement, or other document, or copies thereof, required by this title or by regulations.

(b) Tax returns. In the case of returns of tax required under authority of part II of this subchapter—

(1) Individuals. Returns (other than corporation returns) shall be made to the Secretary or his delegate in the internal revenue district in which is located the legal residence or principal place of business of the person making the return, or, if he has no legal residence or principal place of business in any internal revenue district, then at such place as the Secretary or his delegate may by regulations prescribe.

• • • • • •

§ 25.6091–1 Place for filing returns and other documents. If the donor is a resident of the United States, the information return required by § 25.6001–2 and the gift tax return required by section 6019 shall be filed with the district director for the internal revenue district in which is located the legal residence of the donor. If the donor is a nonresident (whether a citizen or not a citizen), the information return and the gift tax return shall be filed with the Director of International Operations, Internal Revenue Service, Washington 25, D. C., or with such other official as the Commissioner may designate.

§ 25.6151 Statutory provisions; time and place for paying tax shown on returns.

SEC. 6151. Time and place for paying tax shown on the returns—(a) General rule. Except as otherwise provided in this section, when a return of tax is required under this title or regulations, the person required to make such return shall, without assessment or notice and demand from the Secretary or his delegate, pay such tax to the principal internal revenue officer for the internal revenue district in which the return is required to be filed, and shall pay such tax at the time and place fixed for filing the return (determined without regard to any extension of time for filing the return).

(c) Date fixed for payment of tax. In any case in which a tax is required to be paid on or before a certain date, or within a certain period, any reference in this title to the date fixed for payment of such tax shall be deemed a reference to the last day fixed for such payment (determined without regard to any extension of time for paying the tax).

§ 25.6151–1 Time and place for paying tax shown on return. The tax shown on the gift tax return is to be paid by the donor at the time and place fixed for filing the return (determined without regard to any extension of time for filing the return), unless the time for paying the tax is extended in accordance with the provisions of section 6161. However, for provisions relating to certain cases in which the time for paying the gift tax is postponed by reason of an individual serving in, or in support of, the Armed Forces of the United States in a combat zone, see section 7508. For provisions relating to the time and place for filing the return, see §§ 25.6075–1 and 25.6091–1. For provisions relating to payment of the tax by check or money order, see § 25.6311–1.

SEC. 6161. Extension of time for paying tax—(a) Amount determined by taxpayer on return—(1) General rule. The Secretary or his delegate, except as otherwise provided in this title, may extend the time for payment of the amount of the tax shown, or required to be shown, on any return or declaration required under authority of this title (or any installment thereof), for a reasonable period not to exceed 6 months from the date fixed for payment thereof. Such extension may exceed 6 months in the case of a taxpayer who is abroad.

• • • • • •

(b) Amount determined as deficiency. Under regulations prescribed by the Secretary or his delegate, the Secretary or his delegate may extend, to the extent provided below, the time for payment of the amount determined as a deficiency:

(1) In the case of a tax imposed by chapter 1 or 12, for a period not to exceed 18 months from the date fixed for payment of the deficiency, and, in exceptional cases, for a further period not to exceed 12 months;

• • • • • •

An extension under this subsection may be granted only where it is shown to the satisfaction of the Secretary or his delegate that the payment of a deficiency upon the date fixed for the payment thereof will result in undue hardship to the taxpayer in the case of a tax imposed by chapter 1, to the estate in the case of a tax imposed by chapter 11, or to the donor in the case of a tax imposed by chapter 12. No extension shall be granted if the deficiency is due to negligence, to intentional disregard of rules and regulations, or to fraud with intent to evade tax.

§ 25.6161–1 Extension of time for paying tax shown on return—(a) In general. If it is shown to the satisfaction of the district director that the payment of all or any part of the amount determined as the tax by the donor upon the due date will result in undue hardship to the donor, the district director, at the written request of the donor, may grant an extension of time for the payment of all or any part of the tax. The period of the extension shall not exceed 6 months from the date fixed for payment thereof except in the case of a donor who is abroad. The granting of an extension of time for paying the tax does not relieve the donor from the duty of filing the return on or before the date provided in § 25.6075–1, nor will it operate to prevent the running of interest. The granting of an extension of time for the payment of part of the tax does not extend the time for the payment of the balance of the tax. Nor does an extension of time for filing a return operate to extend the time for payment of all or any part of the tax unless so specified in the extension. The amount for which an extension has been granted (together with interest thereon as provided in section 6601), shall be paid on or before the expiration of the period of extension without the necessity of notice and demand being made by the district director.

(b) Definition of undue hardship. An extension will not be granted upon a general statement of hardship. The term "undue hardship" means more than an inconvenience to the donor. It must appear that substantial financial loss, for example due to the sale of property at a sacrifice price, will result to the donor from making payment of the amount at the due date. If a market exists, the sale of property at the current market price is not ordinarily considered as resulting in an undue hardship.

(c) Application for extension. An application for an extension of time for the payment of all or any part of gift tax shown, or required to be shown on the return must be accompanied or supported by evidence showing the undue hardship that would result to the donor if the extension were refused. A statement, executed under the penalties of perjury, showing the assets and liabilities of the donor, together with a record of all receipts and disbursements for each of the three months immediately preceding the month in which falls the date prescribed for the payment of the tax, is required and should accompany the application. The application, with the supporting information, must be filed with the district director on or before the date prescribed for payment of the tax and, upon its receipt, the application will be examined by the district director and, if possible, within 30 days, will be denied, granted, or tentatively granted subject to certain conditions of which the donor will be notified. The district director will not consider an application for such an extension unless the application is received by him on or before the due date. If an additional extension is desired by the donor, request must be made to the district director on or before the expiration of the prior extension granted.

(d) Condition. As a condition to the granting of such an extension the taxpayer will usually be required by the district director to furnish a bond as provided in section 6165 and the regulations thereunder, or to furnish such other security as is permitted by section 7101 and the regulations thereunder.

§ 25.6165 Statutory provisions; bonds where time to pay tax or deficiency has been extended.

SEC. 6165. Bonds where time to pay tax or deficiency has been extended. In the event the Secretary or his delegate grants any extension of time within which to pay any tax or any deficiency therein, the Secretary or his delegate may require the taxpayer to furnish a bond in such amount (not exceeding double the amount with respect to which the extension is granted) conditioned upon the payment of the amount extended in accordance with the terms of such extension.

§ 25.6165–1 Bonds where time to pay tax or deficiency has been extended. For general provisions relating to bonds when extensions of time to pay the gift tax are granted, see the regulations under sections 6165 and 7101 contained in the Regulations on Procedure and Administration (Part 301 of this chapter).

SEC. 6311. Payment by check or money order—(a) Authority to receive. It shall be lawful for the Secretary or his delegate to receive for internal revenue taxes, or in payment for internal revenue stamps, checks or money orders, to the extent and under the conditions provided in regulations prescribed by the Secretary or his delegate.

(b) Check or money order unpaid—(1) Ultimate liability. If a check or money order so received is not duly paid, the person by whom such check or money order has been tendered shall remain liable for the payment of the tax or for the stamps, and for all legal penalties and additions, to the same extent as if such check or money order had not been tendered.

(2) Liability of banks and others. If any certified, treasurer's, or cashier's check or any money order so received is not duly paid, the United States shall, in addition to its right to exact payment from the party originally indebted therefor, have a lien for the amount of such check upon all the assets of the bank or trust company on which drawn or for the amount of such money order upon all the assets of the issuer thereof; and such amount shall be paid out of such assets in preference to any other claims whatsoever against such bank or issuer except the necessary costs and expenses of administration and the reimbursement of the United States for the amount expended in the redemption of the circulating notes of such bank.

§ 25.6311–1 Payment by check or money order. District directors may accept checks drawn on any bank or trust company incorporated under the laws of the United States or under the laws of any State, Territory, or possession of the United States, or money orders in payment of the tax, provided the checks are collectible in United States currency at par. For complete regulations under this section, see the Regulations on Procedure and Administration (Part 301 of this chapter).

SEC. 6313. Fractional parts of a cent. In the payment of any tax imposed by this title not payable by stamp, a fractional part of a cent shall be disregarded unless it amounts to one-half cent or more, in which case it shall be increased to 1 cent.

§ 25.6313–1 Fractional parts of a cent. For regulations concerning fractional parts of a cent, see § 301.6313–1 of the Regulations on Procedure and Administration (Part 301 of this chapter).

§ 25.6601 Statutory provisions; interest on underpayment, nonpayment; or extensions of time for payment of tax.

SEC. 6601. Interest on underpayment, nonpayment, or extensions of time for payment of tax—(a) General rule. If any amount of tax imposed by this title (whether required to be shown on a return, or to be paid by stamp or by some other method) is not paid on or before the last date prescribed for payment, interest on such amount at the rate of 6 percent per annum shall be paid for the period from such last date to the date paid.

§ 25.6601–1 Interest on underpayment, nonpayment, or extensions of time for payment of tax. For regulations concerning interest, see the Regulations on Procedure and Administration (Part 301 of this chapter).

§ 25.7101 Statutory provisions; form of bonds.

SEC. 7101. Form of bonds. Whenever, pursuant to the provisions of this title (other than sections 7485 and 6803 (a) (1)), or rules or regulations prescribed under authority of this title, a person is required to furnish a bond or security—

(1) General rule. Such bond or security shall be in such form and with such surety or sureties as may be prescribed by regulations issued by the Secretary or his delegate.

(2) United States bonds and notes in lieu of surety bonds. The person required to furnish such bond or security may, in lieu thereof, deposit bonds or notes of the United States as provided in 6 U. S. C. 15.

§ 25.7101–1 Form of bonds. For general provisions relating to bonds, see the regulations under sections 6165 and 7101 contained in the Regulations on Procedure and Administration (Part 301 of this chapter).

§ 25.7701 Statutory provisions; definitions.

SEC. 7701. Definitions. (a) When used in this title, where not otherwise distinctly expressed or manifestly incompatible with the intent thereof—

(1) Person. The term "person" shall be construed to mean and include an individual, a trust, estate, partnership, association, company or corporation.

(2) Partnership and partner. The term "partnership" includes a syndicate, group, pool, joint venture, or other unincorporated organization, through or by means of which any business, financial operation, or venture is carried on, and which is not, within the meaning of this title, a trust or estate or a corporation; and the term "partner" includes a member in such a syndicate, group, pool, joint venture, or organization.

(3) Corporation. The term "corporation" includes associations, joint-stock companies and insurance companies.

(4) Domestic. The term "domestic" when applied to a corporation or partnership means created or organized in the United States or under the law of the United States or of any State or Territory.

(5) Foreign. The term "foreign" when applied to a corporation or partnership means a corporation or partnership which is not domestic.

(6) Fiduciary. The term "fiduciary" means a guardian, trustee, executor, administrator, receiver, conservator, or any person acting in any fiduciary capacity for any person.

(7) Stock. The term "stock" includes shares in an association, joint-stock company, or insurance company.

(8) Shareholder. The term "shareholder" includes a member in an association, joint-stock company, or insurance company.

(9) United States. The term "United States" when used in a geographical sense includes only the States, the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii, and the District of Columbia.

(10) State. The term "State" shall be construed to include the Territories and the District of Columbia, where such construction is necessary to carry out provisions of this title.

(11) Secretary. The term "Secretary" means the Secretary of the Treasury.

(12) Delegate. The term "Secretary or his delegate" means the Secretary of the Treasury, or any officer, employee, or agency of the Treasury Department duly authorized by the Secretary (directly, or indirectly by one or more redelegations of authority) to perform the function mentioned or described in the context, and the term "or his delegate" when used in connection with any other official of the United States shall be similarly construed.

(13) Commissioner. The term "Commissioner" means the Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

(14) Taxpayer. The term "taxpayer" means any person subject to any internal revenue tax.

(15) Military or naval forces and Armed Forces of the United States. The term "military or naval forces of the United States" and the term "Armed Forces of the United States" each includes all regular and reserve components of the uniformed services which are subject to the jurisdiction of the Secretary of Defense, the Secretary of the Army, the Secretary of the Navy, or the Secretary of the Air Force, and each term also includes the Coast Guard. The members of such forces include commissioned officers and personnel below the grade of commissioned officers in such forces.

* * * * *

(26) Trade or business. The term "trade or business" includes the performance of the functions of a public office.

(27) Tax Court. The term "Tax Court" means the Tax Court of the United States.

(28) Other terms. Any term used in this subtitle with respect to the application of or in connection with, the provisions of any other subtitle of this title shall have the same meaning as in such provisions.

(29) Internal Revenue Code. The term "Internal Revenue Code of 1954" means this title, and the term "Internal Revenue Code of 1939" means the Internal Revenue Code enacted February 10, 1939, as amended.

(b) Includes and including. The terms "includes" and "including" when used in a definition contained in this title shall not be deemed to exclude other things otherwise within the meaning of the term defined.

(c) Commonwealth of Puerto Rico. Where not otherwise distinctly expressed or manifestly incompatible with the intent thereof, references in this title to possessions of the United States shall be treated as also referring to the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico.

(d) Cross references—(1) Other definitions. For other definitions, see the following sections of Title 1 of the United States Code:

(1) Singular as including plural, section 1.
(2) Plural as including singular, section 1.
(3) Masculine as including feminine, section 1.
(4) Officer, section 1.
(5) Oath as including affirmation, section 1.
(6) County as including parish, section 2.
(7) Vessel as including all means of water transportation, section 3.
(8) Vehicle as including all means of land transportation, section 4.
(9) Company or association as including successors and assigns, section 5.

(2) Effect of cross references. For effect of cross references in this title, see section 7806 (a).

§ 25.7701–1 Definitions. For regulations concerning definitions, see the Regulations on Procedure and Administration (Part 301 of this chapter).

SEC. 7805. Rules and regulations—(a) Authorization. Except where such authority is expressly given by this title to any person other than an officer or employee of the Treasury Department, the Secretary or his delegate shall prescribe all needful rules and regulations for the enforcement of this title, including all rules and regulations as may be necessary by reason of any alteration of law in relation to internal revenue.

(b) Retroactivity of regulations or rulings. The Secretary or his delegate may prescribe the extent, if any, to which any ruling or regulation, relating to the internal revenue laws, shall be applied without retroactive effect.

(c) Preparation and distribution of regulations, forms, stamps, and other matters. The Secretary or his delegate shall prepare and distribute all the instructions, regulations, directions, forms, blanks, stamps, and other matters pertaining to the assessment and collection of internal revenue.

§ 25.7805–1 Rules and regulations. For regulations concerning rules and regulations, see the Regulations on Procedure and Administration (Part 301 of this chapter).

SEC. 7806. Construction of title—(a) Cross references. The cross references in this title to other portions of the title, or other provisions of law, where the word "see" is used, are made only for convenience, and shall be given no legal effect.

(b) Arrangement and classification. No inference, implication, or presumption of legislative construction shall be drawn or made by reason of the location or grouping of any particular section or provision or portion of this title, nor shall any table of contents, table of cross references, or similar outline, analysis, or descriptive matter relating to the contents of this title be given any legal effect. The preceding sentence also applies to the sidenotes and ancillary tables contained in the various prints of this Act before its enactment into law.

SEC. 7851. Applicability of revenue laws—(a) General rules. Except as otherwise provided in any section of this title. * * *

(2) Subtitle B. * * *

(B) Chapter 12 of this title shall apply with respect to the calendar year 1955 and all calendar years thereafter, and with respect to such years chapter 4 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939 is hereby repealed.

* * * * * *

(6) Subtitle F—(A) General rule. The provisions of subtitle F shall take effect on the day after the date of enactment of this title and shall be applicable with respect to any tax imposed by this title. * * *

TOLERANCES AND EXEMPTIONS FROM TOLERANCES FOR PESTICIDE CHEMICALS IN OR ON RAW AGRICULTURAL COMMODITIES

NOTICE OF PROPOSAL TO ESTABLISH TOLERANCES FOR RESIDUES OF INORGANIC BROMIDES IN OR ON CERTAIN RAW AGRICULTURAL COMMODITIES AFTER FUMIGATION WITH ETHYLENE DIBROMIDE

On September 22, 1956, an order was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (21 F. R. 6045) which established tolerances of 10 parts per million for residues of inorganic bromides (calculated as Br) in or on the following commodities that have been fumigated with ethylene dibromide in accordance with the Mediterranean Fruit Fly Program or the Quarantine Program of the U. S. Department of Agriculture: Beans (string), bitter melon (Mormodica charantia), Cavendish bananas, citrus fruits, cucumbers, guavas, mangoes, papayas, peppers (bell), pineapples, zucchini squash.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has requested that action be taken to permit the use of ethylene dibromide as a fumigant on cantaloups and litchi nuts.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture states that the residues from the use of ethylene dibromide in the Mediterranean Fruit Fly Control Program or the Quarantine Program do not exceed 10 parts per million of inorganic bromide. These residues on the crops involved will not constitute a hazard to man.

By virtue of the authority vested in the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare by the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (sec. 408 (b) and (e), 68 Stat. 511; 21 U. S. C. 346a (b) and (e)) and delegated to the Commissioner of Food and Drugs by the Secretary (21 CFR 20.129 (a)), it is proposed by the Commissioner of Food and Drugs, on his own initiative, that the regulations for tolerances for pesticide chemicals in or on raw agricultural commodities (21 CFR 120.146; 21 F. R. 5620, 7212) be amended by changing § 120.146 (b) to read as follows:

(b) Tolerances of 10 parts per million are established for residues of inorganic bromides (calculated as Br) in or on the following raw agricultural commodities that have been fumigated with ethylene dibromide in accordance with the Mediterranean Fruit Fly Control Program or the Quarantine Program of the U. S. Department of Agriculture: Beans (string), bitter melon (Momordica charantia), cantaloups, Cavendish bananas, citrus fruits, cucumbers, guavas, litchi nuts, mangoes, papayas, peppers (bell), pineapples, zucchini squash.

A person who has registered or who has submitted an application for the registration of an economic poison under the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide, and Rodenticide Act containing ethylene dibromide, may request, within 30 days from publication of this proposal, that the proposal be referred to an advisory committee in accordance with section 408 (e) of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act.

Any interested person is invited at any time prior to the thirtieth day from the date of publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER to file with the Hearing Clerk, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, Room 5440, 330 Independence Avenue SW., Washington 25, D. C., written comments on the proposal. Comments may be accompanied by a memorandum or brief in support thereof. All documents shall be filed in quintuplicate.

TOLERANCES AND EXEMPTIONS FROM TOLERANCES FOR PESTICIDE CHEMICALS IN OR ON RAW AGRICULTURAL COMMODITIES

NOTICE CONCERNING PETITION FOR ESTABLISHMENT OF EXEMPTION FROM THE REQUIREMENT OF TOLERANCES FOR RESIDUES OF DIPHENYL

Pursuant to the provisions of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (sec. 408 (d) (1), 68 Stat. 512; 21 U. S. C. 346a (d) (1)), the following notice is issued:

A petition was filed by Crown Zellerbach Corporation, 343 Sansome Street, San Francisco 19, California, proposing that the pesticide chemical diphenyl (biphenyl) be exempted from the requirement of a tolerance when it is applied as a postharvest treatment to grapefruit, lemons, and oranges. The notice of filing, which included references and descriptions of the analytical methods proposed in the petition for determining residues of diphenyl, appeared in the FEDERAL REGISTER of July 6, 1956 (21 F. R. 5016).

On July 26, 1956, an order appeared in the FEDERAL REGISTER (21 F. R. 5619) establishing a tolerance of 110 parts per million for residues of diphenyl in or on grapefruit, lemons, and oranges. The order stated that the method of applying diphenyl to citrus has undergone material changes in recent years and that the petition did not show what residues of diphenyl will occur in citrus treated by methods other than the one proposed in the petition.

It was concluded to be in the interest of public health to provide tolerances of 110 parts per million for postharvest use of diphenyl on grapefruit, lemons, and oranges rather than an exemption.

After the order was published but within the time limit specified in section 408 (d) (3) of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, the petitioner requested that an advisory committee be appointed to consider the petition for an exemption and make recommendations to the Commissioner. The petitioner also requested a public hearing to take evidence on the objection to the establishment of the tolerances in lieu of the exemption.

The National Academy of Sciences was requested to appoint an advisory committee and the petitioner was notified that the action on the public hearing would be deferred until the report from the advisory committee had been received. Before the advisory committee could be activated, the petitioner requested that activation be withheld and submitted a substantive amendment consisting of data on residues from additional methods of application of diphenyl to grapefruit, lemons, and oranges. Following consideration of this substantive amendment, the Commissioner will publish an order acting upon the renewed request for an exemption from the requirement of tolerances which accompanied the substantive amendment.

NOTICE OF FILING OF PETITION FOR ESTABLISHMENT OF TOLERANCE FOR RESIDUES OF MANEB

Pursuant to the provisions of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (sec. 408 (d) (1), 68 Stat. 512; 21 U. S. C. 346a (d) (1)), the following notice is issued:

A petition has been filed by E. I. du Pont de Nemours and Company, Inc., Wilmington, Delaware, proposing the establishment of a tolerance of 7 parts per million for residues of maneb (manganese ethylenebisdithiocarbamate) in or on apricots.

The analytical method proposed in the petition for determining residues of maneb is the method described in "Analysis of Manganese Ethylenebisdithiocarbamate Compositions and Residues," by W. K. Lowen, published in the Journal of the Association of Official Agricultural Chemists, Volume 36, pages 484-492, May 1953.

FEDERAL POWER COMMISSION

[Docket No. E-6719]

GEORGIA POWER AND LIGHT CO. AND FLORIDA POWER CORP.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION

DECEMBER 26, 1956.

Take notice that on December 17, 1956, an application was filed with the Federal Power Commission pursuant to section 203 of the Federal Power Act by Georgia Power and Light Company (hereinafter called "Georgia Light") and Florida Power Corporation (hereinafter called "Florida Power") for sale of facilities, hereinbelow described, to Georgia Power Company (hereinafter called "Georgia Power"). Georgia Light is a corporation organized under the laws of the State of Georgia and doing business in said state with its principal business office at Valdosta, Georgia. Florida Power is a corporation organized under the laws of the State of Florida and doing business in the States of Florida and Georgia, with its principal business office at St. Petersburg, Florida. Georgia Light is a subsidiary of Florida Power. Georgia Light proposes to sell and convey all the assets, properties and business to Georgia Power for cash at and for a base sales price of $8,650,000, plus any increase or minus any decrease between April 30, 1956, and the last day of the first calendar month immediately preceding the closing date of the transaction, in the stated value of the outstanding shares of common stock of Georgia Light, its capital and earned surplus, and the amount of the account payable by Georgia Light to Florida Power subject to such further adjustments as provided in the agreement of sale. Florida Power, as owner of all of the outstanding shares of common stock of Georgia Light, will upon the completion of the transactions, liquidate its investments in Georgia Light by a dissolution of that corporation and the transfer of the proceeds of the sale from Georgia Light will be made to Florida Power. Upon the conclusion of the sale of the assets, properties and business of Georgia Light to Georgia Power, Florida Power will sell to Georgia Power electric energy at varying demands for a period of three years at demand and energy charges corresponding to those now in effect in the wholesale power agreement now existing between Florida Power and Georgia Light. Florida Power will sell and dispose of to Georgia Power that portion of a certain 110 kv. transmission line owned by Florida Power but located in Georgia in the territory served by Georgia Light extending from the Florida-Georgia state line from Jasper, Florida, to Barneyville, Georgia, being 47.46 miles in length comprising the 21.57 mile section from the Florida-Georgia State line to the Pine Grove Substation and the 25.89 mile long section from the Pine Grove Substation to Barneyville, Georgia. Said transmission line is to be sold for cash, at the original cost thereof less applicable depreciation reserve at the date of transfer.

The assets, properties and business of Georgia Light proposed to be sold to Georgia Power, are utilized in the generation, transmission, distribution and sale of electric energy at wholesale and at retail in 19 counties in South Georgia serving approximately 36,000 customers among the inhabitants of 35 incorporated cities and towns and 14 unincorporated towns and rural communities. Said facilities comprise all of the facilities of Georgia Light.

The properties and facilities are integrated with those of Florida Power and the transmission facilities of Georgia Light and Florida Power are interconnected at six points along the Florida-Georgia boundary line. Upon completion of the sale of such properties and facilities by Georgia Light to Georgia Power, the properties will be interconnected and integrated with the properties and facilities of Florida Power at the same interchange points now in existence between the two applicants or at additional interchange points.

Any person desiring to be heard or make any protest with reference to said application should on or before the 18th day of January 1957, file with the Federal Power Commission, Washington 25, D. C., a petition or protest in accordance with the Commission's rules of practice and procedure. The application is on file and available for public inspection.

[Docket No. G-9124]

NORTHERN NATURAL GAS CO.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION AND DATE OF HEARING

DECEMBER 26, 1956.

Take notice that Northern Natural Gas Company (Applicant), a Delaware corporation having its principal place of business at 2223 Dodge Street, Omaha, Nebraska, filed on July 11, 1955, an application for a certificate of public convenience and necessity, pursuant to section 7 (c) of the Natural Gas Act authorizing Applicant to construct and operate certain natural gas facilities and to render service as hereinafter described, subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission, all as more fully represented in the application which is on file with the Commission and open for public inspection.

Applicant proposes to construct and operate a measuring and regulating station at a point on its existing Blair Nebraska 6-inch branch line located in the SE¼ of Section 12, Twp. 18 N., R. 8 E. near the community of Nickerson, Dodge County, Nebraska. It is proposed to use these facilities for the sale and delivery of natural gas by Applicant to Central Electric & Gas Company (Central) for resale on an interruptible basis to the Gifford Alfalfa Company for use in its alfalfa dehydration plant near Nickerson.

Central will construct, own and operate the necessary pipeline between Applicant's facilities and the alfalfa dehydration plant.

The total estimated cost of the proposed facilities is $3,800, for which Applicant will be reimbursed by Central.

The maximum daily demand of the alfalfa plant is estimated at 700 Mcf and the estimated annual requirements are 2,000 Mcf.

This matter is one that should be disposed of as promptly as possible under the applicable rules and regulations, and to that end:

Take further notice that, pursuant to the authority contained in and subject to the jurisdiction conferred upon the Federal Power Commission by sections 7 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act, and the Commission's rules of practice and procedure a hearing will be held on January 31, 1957, at 9:30 a. m., e. s. t., in a hearing room of the Federal Power Commission, 441 G Street NW., Washington, D. C., concerning the matters involved in and the issues presented by such application: Provided, however, That the Commission may, after a non-contested hearing, dispose of the proceedings pursuant to the provisions of § 1.30 (c) (1) or (2) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure. Under the procedure herein provided for, unless otherwise advised, it will be unnecessary for Applicant to appear or to be represented at the hearing.

Protests or petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington 25, D. C., in accordance with the rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) on or before January 18, 1957. Failure of any party to appear at and participate in the hearing shall be construed as waiver of and concurrence in omission herein of the intermediate decision procedure in cases where a request therefor is made.

[Docket No. G-9156]

NORTHERN NATURAL GAS CO.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION AND DATE OF HEARING

DECEMBER 26, 1956.

Take notice that Northern Natural Gas Company (Applicant), a Delaware corporation having its principal place of business at 2223 Dodge Street, Omaha, Nebraska, filed on July 20, 1955, an application for a certificate of public convenience and necessity, pursuant to section 7 of the Natural Gas Act, authorizing Applicant to construct and operate certain regulating facilities as hereinafter described, subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission, to provide interruptible service to the Albert Lea Co-operative Creamery Association for use in its creamery located in Twin Lakes, Minnesota, all as more fully represented in the application which is on file with the Commission and open for public inspection.

Applicant proposes to construct and operate additional regulating facilities at its existing measuring and regulating station serving the Dairland Co-operative Power Plant at Twin Lakes, Minnesota, located in Section 11, Twp. 101 N., R. 22 W. in Freeborn County, Minnesota.

The metering facilities at the creamery together with the pipeline between the regulating facilities and the creamery will be constructed, owned and operated by Peoples Natural Gas division of Applicant.

The estimated cost of the proposed regulating facilities is $1,000, which will be financed out of funds on hand.

The maximum daily demand of the creamery is estimated at 325 Mcf and the estimated annual requirements are 57,600 Mcf.

Take further notice that, pursuant to the authority contained in and subject to the jurisdiction conferred upon the Federal Power Commission by sections 7 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act, and the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, a hearing will be held on Thursday, January 31, 1957, at 9:30 a. m., e. s. t., in a hearing room of the Federal Power Commission, 441 G Street NW., Washington, D. C., concerning the matters involved in and the issues presented by such application: Provided, however, that the Commission may, after a non-contested hearing, dispose of the proceedings pursuant to the provisions of § 1.30 (c) (1) or (2) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure. Under the procedure herein provided for, unless otherwise advised, it will be unnecessary for Applicant to appear or be represented at the hearing.

Protests or petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington 25, D. C., in accordance with the rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) on or before January 18, 1957. Failure of any party to appear at and participate in the hearing shall be construed as waiver of and concurrence in omission herein of the intermediate decision procedure in cases where a request therefor is made.

[Docket No. G-9966, etc.]

NATURAL GAS PIPELINE COMPANY OF AMERICA ET AL.

ORDER MODIFYING AND AMENDING ORDER FOR HEARING AND SPECIFYING PROCEDURE

In the matters of Natural Gas Pipeline Company of America, Docket No. G-9966; Texas Illinois Natural Gas Pipeline Company, Docket No. G-10103; Colorado Interstate Gas Company, Docket No. G-10176; Chicago District Pipeline Company, Docket No. G-10214; Pacific Northwest Pipeline Corporation, Docket No. G-10455.

The Commission, on November 30, 1956, issued its order setting the above-styled proceedings for hearing commencing on January 7, 1957, at 10:00 a. m., e. s. t., in a hearing room of the Federal Power Commission, 441 G Street NW., Washington, D. C., and in such order specified the procedure to be followed with respect to the presentation of testimony at the hearing.

The intent of the order issued November 30, 1956, was to require that all testimony relating to the various aspects of the certificate applications be presented orally upon the record at the hearing in question and answer form and that each witness presenting direct testimony would be cross-examined immediately upon the completion of his direct examination. Further, any redirect testimony and cross-examination with respect thereto would be presented immediately thereafter. In short, the foregoing was intended to prescribe only the form in which all testimony of whatever nature was to be presented.

The order then prescribed the sequence for the presentation of testimony, i. e., the order required each applicant to present its evidence with respect to market demands in accordance with the numerical docket designation assigned to its application, prior to the presentation of any testimony relating to other aspects of the same application.

Natural Gas Pipeline Company of America (Natural Gas), Texas Illinois Natural Gas Pipeline Company (Texas Illinois) and Chicago District Pipeline Company (Chicago District), on December 10, 1956, filed with the Commission a letter requesting clarification of the order and a change in the sequence prescribed for the presentation of testimony in the proceedings. In such letter the three applicants named state that the Commission's order issued November 30, 1956, is ambiguous and request clarification thereof. In addition they request the Commission to change the sequence in which the applicants have been directed to present testimony concerning market demands so as to permit Natural Gas, Texas Illinois and Chicago District each to present its testimony with respect to markets prior to the presentation of market testimony by Colorado Interstate Gas Company (Colorado Interstate) and Pacific Northwest Pipeline Corporation (Pacific Northwest). These two companies, Colorado Interstate and Pacific Northwest, have concurred in the request for change in the sequence prescribed for presentation of testimony.

Our order issued November 30, 1956 (specifying procedure), was designed to expedite the hearing in these proceedings, and to enable the Commission, if possible, to reach an early decision upon, as a separate preliminary issue, the issue of exclusiveness between the applications of Natural Gas, Texas Illinois and Chicago District in the areas they serve or propose to serve and the applications of Midwestern Gas Transmission Company (Midwestern), et al. filed in Docket Nos. G-9451, et al.

In connection with the foregoing statement, we desire to point out that the issue of exclusiveness has been raised not only in these proceedings as between Natural Gas, Texas Illinois and Chicago District and Midwestern but also as an issue in other proceedings pending before the Commission as between Midwestern and Northern Natural Gas Company (Northern), et al., Docket Nos. G-2399, et al., and Midwestern and Michigan Wisconsin Pipe Line Company, et al., Docket Nos. G-2327, et al. and Docket No. G-9850. We are cognizant of the great public interest which has been generated and manifested among potential customers located in areas which would be served by the pipeline projects covered by the respective applications referred to above, and among the local and state authorities in the states in which the competitive areas are located. It is our intention, therefore, to set down for hearing at the earliest possible date in appropriate consolidated proceedings the applications of the pipeline companies referred to above in order to consider the competitive or mutually exclusive aspects presented in the light of their relation to the overall determination of the feasibility of each project for which authorization is sought. However, until the Commission is possessed of sufficient information, it cannot determine which proceedings can be appropriately consolidated. We feel that action looking toward increased service to markets presently being served in non-competitive areas should not, where possible, be deferred until after the competitive aspects of the respective applications can be considered and determined.

In accordance with the foregoing we will amend our order for hearing and specifying procedure issued November 30, 1956 as hereinafter indicated.

The Commission finds:

It is appropriate and in the public interest under the provisions of the Natural Gas Act to clarify and amend the Commission's order issued in these proceedings on November 30, 1956, and to provide that the procedure be as hereinafter ordered in the conduct of hearing set to commence on January 7, 1957, in these consolidated proceedings.

The Commission orders:

(A) The procedure at the hearing in the above-styled proceedings in Docket Nos. G-9966, G-10103, G-10176, G-10214 and G-10455 shall be as follows:

(i) All testimony in these proceedings shall be presented orally at the hearing in question and answer form.

(ii) Each witness as he appears to testify concerning a particular aspect of an application shall give his full and complete testimony with respect thereto. "Full and complete testimony" shall include direct testimony, cross-examination, redirect testimony, recross-examination, etc., it being the intent of this order that each witness shall give his full and complete testimony with respect to a particular aspect of an application as he is presented at the hearing.

(iii) In the sequence in which named Natural Gas, Texas Illinois and Chicago District shall present full and complete market testimony prior to the presentation of any testimony relating to other aspects of the applications or other matters or issues involved. The presentation of the market testimony by Natural Gas, Texas Illinois and Chicago District shall be completed prior to the presentation of testimony by any other party to the proceeding.

(iv) Upon completion of the presentation of testimony as required by subparagraph (iii) hereof, other parties to the proceeding shall be afforded an opportunity to present immediately any counter testimony to that presented by the parties referred to in subparagraph (iii) hereof.

(v) Upon the completion of the presentation of counter testimony by other parties to the proceeding, Natural Gas, Texas Illinois and Chicago District shall be afforded an opportunity to present rebuttal testimony.

(vi) Upon completion of the presentation of the testimony as described in subparagraphs (iii), (iv) and (v) hereof the record shall immediately be certified to the Commission for its consideration and decision, as a separate preliminary issue, the issue of exclusiveness of the applications of Midwestern and Natural Gas, Texas Illinois and Chicago District. Opportunity will be afforded all parties to file briefs or for oral argument.

(vii) Pending the determination of the issue as set forth in subparagraph (vi) hereof, the hearing shall proceed for the presentation of full and complete market testimony by Colorado Interstate and Pacific Northwest.

(viii) Upon completion of the presentation of market testimony by Colorado Interstate and Pacific Northwest, in the following sequence full and complete testimony shall be presented by Natural Gas, Texas Illinois, Chicago District, Colorado Interstate and Pacific Northwest with respect to each other aspect of its particular application and other matters and issues involved. Thereupon other parties shall be afforded an opportunity to present counter testimony, and the applicants afforded an opportunity to present rebuttal testimony.

(B) No recess shall be taken during the course of the hearing for the purpose of preparing cross-examination or for preparation of other testimony.

Issued: December 26, 1956.

CONTINENTAL OIL CO. (OPERATOR) ET AL.

ORDER SUSPENDING PROPOSED CHANGE IN RATES

Continental Oil Company (Operator) et al. (Continental et al.),[1] on November

[1] In addition to Continental, the following named producers are parties to the rate schedule hereinafter designated: Fred Goodstein, d/b/a Trigood Oil Company, Fred M. Manning Company, Estate of E. E. Brown (The International Trust Company of Denver, Colorado, Executor), Knox Oil Company, Oxford Oil Company, and Wyopark Oil Company.

23, 1956, tendered for filing a proposed change in their presently effective rate schedule for sales subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission. The proposed change, which constitutes an increased rate, is contained in the following designated filing which is proposed to become effective on the date shown:

Description; Purchaser; Rate Schedule Designation; and Proposed Effective Date

Notice of change, undated; Montana-Dakota Utilities Company; Supplement No. 2 to Continental et al., FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 2; January 1, 1957.

The increased rate proposed in the aforesaid filing has not been shown to be justified, and may be unjust, unreasonable, unduly discriminatory, or preferential, or otherwise unlawful.

The Commission finds: It is necessary and proper in the public interest and to aid in the enforcement of the provisions of the Natural Gas Act that the Commission enter upon a hearing concerning the lawfulness of the said proposed change, and that the above-designated supplement be suspended and the use thereof deferred as hereinafter ordered.

The Commission orders:

(A) Pursuant to the authority contained in sections 4 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act and the Commission's general rules and regulations (18 CFR Chapter I), a public hearing be held upon a date to be fixed by notice from the Secretary concerning the lawfulness of said proposed change in rates; and, pending such hearing and decision thereon, the above-designated supplement be and the same hereby is suspended and the use thereof deferred until June 1, 1957, and until such further time as it is made effective in the manner prescribed by the Natural Gas Act.

(B) Neither the supplement hereby suspended, nor the rate schedule sought to be altered thereby shall be changed until this proceeding has been disposed of or until the period of suspension has expired, unless otherwise ordered by the Commission.

(C) Interested state commissions may participate as provided by §§ 1.8 and 1.37 (f) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 and 1.37 (f)).

PHILLIPS PETROLEUM CO.

ORDER SUSPENDING PROPOSED CHANGE IN RATES

Phillips Petroleum Company (Phillips) on November 26, 1956, submitted for filing a proposed change in rate schedule for a sale of natural gas subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission. The proposed change is contained in the following filing which is proposed to become effective on the date shown.

Description; Purchaser; Rate Schedule Designation; and Proposed Effective Date

Notice of change, dated November 21, 1956; Northern Natural Gas Company; Supplement No. 7 to Phillips FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 24; January 1, 1957.

By order issued January 3, 1955, in Docket G-6621, a prior increase under the same rate schedule was suspended and its use deferred until March 1, 1955, and until made effective in the manner prescribed by the Natural Gas Act. The increase in Docket No. G-6621 was permitted to become effective subject to refund on March 1, 1955, by order issued in that docket.

The proposed increased rate and charge designated above has not been shown to be justified and may be unjust, unreasonable, unduly discriminatory or preferential, or otherwise unlawful.

The Commission finds: It is necessary and proper in the public interest and to aid in the enforcement of the provisions of the Natural Gas Act that the Commission enter upon a hearing concerning the lawfulness of the said proposed change, and that the above-designated supplement be suspended and the use thereof deferred as hereinafter ordered.

The Commission orders:

(A) Pursuant to the authority contained in sections 4 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act and the Commission's general rules and regulations (18 CFR Chapter I), a public hearing be held upon a date to be fixed by notice from the Secretary, concerning the lawfulness of the proposed increased rate and charge contained in Supplement No. 7 to Phillips FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 24; and, pending such hearing and decision thereon, said supplement be and it is hereby suspended and the use thereof deferred until June 1, 1957, and until such further time as it is made effective in the manner prescribed by the Natural Gas Act.

(B) Neither the supplement hereby suspended, nor the rate schedule sought to be altered thereby, shall be changed until this proceeding has been disposed of or until the period of suspension has expired, unless otherwise ordered by the Commission.

(C) Interested state commissions may participate as provided by §§ 1.8 and 1.37 (f) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 and 1.37 (f)).

FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM

FIRST NEW YORK CORP. ET AL.

NOTICE OF APPLICATIONS FILED FOR APPROVAL OF ACTION TO BECOME BANK HOLDING COMPANIES AND ORDER FOR HEARING THEREON

Notice is hereby given that applications have been made to the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, pursuant to section 3 (a) of the Bank Holding Company Act of 1956 (12 U. S. C. 1842), by the following applicants for the prior approval by the Board of the following actions:

First New York Corporation, a Delaware corporation, seeks Board approval of action whereby it would become a bank holding company with respect to each of the following banks: The Metropolitan National Bank, into which would be consolidated The First National City Bank of New York, under the latter name; The First National City Trust Company of New York, into which would be consolidated City Bank Farmers Trust Company; and County Trust National Bank, into which would be consolidated County Trust Company of White Plains, New York;

The First National City Bank of New York seeks Board approval of action whereby it would become a bank holding company with respect to The Metropolitan National Bank, The First National City Trust Company of New York, County Trust National Bank, and International Banking Corporation;

International Banking Corporation seeks Board approval of action whereby it would become a bank holding company with respect to The Metropolitan National Bank, The First National City Trust Company of New York, and County Trust National Bank.

It is proposed that First New York Corporation will operate as a holding company of the three subsidiary national banks, namely, The Metropolitan National Bank, The First National City Trust Company, and County Trust National Bank. It is further proposed that The First National City Bank of New York, City Bank Farmers Trust Company, and County Trust Company will respectively consolidate with these subsidiaries pursuant to the provisions of the national banking laws.

It appearing to the Board of Governors that it is appropriate in the public interest that a hearing be held with respect to these applications:

It is hereby ordered, That, pursuant to section 7 (a) of the Board's Regulation Y (12 CFR 222.7 (a)), promulgated under the Bank Holding Company Act of 1956, a public hearing with respect to these applications be held commencing January 24, 1957, at 10 a. m., in Room 1202 of the offices of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, 20th Street and Constitution Avenue NW., Washington, D. C., before a hearing examiner selected by the Civil Service Commission pursuant to section 11 of the Administrative Procedure Act, such hearing to be conducted in accordance with the Rules of Practice for Formal Hearings of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System (12 CFR Part 263). The right is reserved to the Board or such hearing examiner to designate any other place for such hearing or any part thereof which may be determined to be necessary or appropriate for the convenience of the parties.

It is further ordered, That the following matters will be the subject of consideration at said hearing, without prejudice to the designation of additional related matters and questions upon further examination:

1. The financial history and condition of the companies and the banks concerned;

2. The prospects of said companies and banks;

3. The character of their management;

4. The convenience, needs, and welfare of the communities and the area concerned;

5. Whether or not the effect of such action would be to expand the size or extent of the bank holding companies' system involved beyond limits consistent with adequate and sound banking, the public interest, and the preservation of competition in the field of banking.

It is further ordered, That any person desiring to give testimony in this proceeding should file with the Secretary of the Board on or before January 14, 1957, a written request relative thereto, said request to contain a statement of the reasons for wishing to appear, the nature of the petitioner's interest in the proceeding, and a summary of the matters concerning which said petitioner wishes to give testimony. Such request will be presented to the designated hearing examiner for his determination in the matter at the appropriate time. Persons submitting timely requests will be notified of the hearing examiner's decision in due course.

By order of the Board of Governors.

SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION

[File Nos. 52-28, 54-183]

ELMER E. BAUER ET AL.

SUPPLEMENTAL ORDER APPROVING PROPOSED SETTLEMENTS AND RELEASING JURISDICTION IN CONNECTION THEREWITH

DECEMBER 27, 1956.

In the matter of Elmer E. Bauer, trustee of Pittsburgh Railways Company, debtor, and Philadelphia Company (File No. 52-28); Philadelphia Company (File No. 54-183).

I. Elmer E. Bauer, Trustee of Pittsburgh Railways Company, Debtor ("Railways"), and Philadelphia Company, a registered holding company which owns 50.9 percent of the common stock of Railways, jointly filed a plan and amendments thereto ("Combined Plan") for the reorganization of the Pittsburgh Railways System under Chapter X of the Bankruptcy Act and section 11 (f) of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("Holding Company Act") and for the discharge under section 11 (e) of the Holding Company Act of Philadelphia Company's guarantees affecting securities of the Pittsburgh Railways System.

On March 27, 1950, the Commission entered its order approving the Combined Plan (Holding Company Act Release No. 9759) and in said order the Commission reserved jurisdiction;

(e) To examine and approve settlements of claims arising from the rejection of contracts, agreements or leases between Railways and Philadelphia Company and its subsidiaries;

• • • • •

(g) To entertain such further proceedings, to make such supplemental findings, to take such further action, and to enter such further orders as the Commission may deem necessary or appropriate in these proceedings.

On May 1, 1950, the United States District Court for the Western District of Pennsylvania ("Court") entered orders approving and enforcing the Combined Plan and said Court confirmed such plan by order dated August 31, 1950.

The Combined Plan which was duly consummated as of January 1, 1951, provided, among other things, (a) that the public holders of unguaranteed Pittsburgh Railways System bonds should receive cash and new bonds of the reorganized Railways in an amount in the aggregate equivalent to the principal of said bonds, and 14 percent of the new common stock of the reorganized Railways in settlement of the claims for the unpaid interest on said bonds; and (b) that the public holders of unguaranteed stocks of the Pittsburgh Railways System in the par amount of $4,515,550 should receive the sum of $449,607 in cash and 35.1 percent of the new common stock of the reorganized Railways. Pursuant to the plan, the public holders of the securities of Pittsburgh Railways System received, in the aggregate, 49.1 percent of the new stock and $5,849,500 principal amount of the new bonds of the reorganized Railways and Philadelphia Company received 50.9 percent of the new stock. At the present time the principal amount of outstanding new bonds has been reduced to approximately $3,500,000.

Article V of the Combined Plan provided, as follows:

The New Company will assume executory contracts, agreements and leases of the System which have been or shall be assumed by the Trustees with the express approval of the Court, whether in the form existing at the time of the institution of the reorganization proceedings or as thereafter or hereafter modified by agreement. Where desirable and feasible, the Trustees will negotiate new agreements, subject to approval by the Court, which shall be assumed by the New Company, including agreements with Philadelphia Company and subsidiaries. Claims, if any, arising out of the rejection of executory contracts, agreements and leases shall be heard and determined by the Court.

Order No. 6 of the Court, in aid of final consummation of the Combined Plan, provided as follows:

20. Subject to further order of this Court, the Court reserves jurisdiction to consider the assumption or rejection of all executory contracts not heretofore expressly assumed by the Trustees with the approval of the Court; the continued operation of the New Company pursuant to any contractual arrangement not yet assumed by the Trustees with the approval of this Court shall be without prejudice to the right of the Trustee to petition for assumption or rejection of such contracts or their modification and without prejudice to the power of this Court to approve such assumption, rejections or modifications.

Article VI of the Combined Plan provided that the net proceeds resulting from prosecution by the Trustee of all claims undetermined at the effective date of the Combined Plan shall be paid to Railways. By order dated December 29, 1950, the Court ordered as follows:

10.d. To the extent that any funds remain with the Trustee after payment of or provision for the liabilities set forth in subdivision "b" above, the excess funds shall be delivered by the Trustee to the New Company, and the New Company shall forthwith deposit such excess as an additional sinking fund payment pursuant to Section 5.02 of the Trust Indenture securing the bonds of the New Company, with the provision, however, that the New Company shall not take such additional sinking fund deposit as a credit against any future sinking fund obligations.

II. The Trustee and Philadelphia Company filed with the Commission on December 4, 1956, a Petition for an "Order Approving Proposed Settlement and for Order Releasing Jurisdiction in Connection Therewith" and a "Memorandum in Support of Petition for Order Approving Proposed Settlement". It appears from such Petition, among other things, that executory contracts, agreements or leases outstanding at the time of and following the commencement of the reorganization proceedings were as follows:

(a) An arrangement with Equitable Real Estate Company, a former subsidiary of Philadelphia, whereby a portion of a building at 435 Sixth Avenue, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, was occupied by Railways and its former subsidiary, Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company, at an agreed rental;

(b) An arrangement whereby Philadelphia operated certain departments of Railways and its former subsidiary and of other subsidiaries or affiliates of Philadelphia and allocated the cost of operations among them;

(c) The occupancy by Equitable Gas Company, a former subsidiary of Philadelphia, and by Duquesne Light Company, a subsidiary of Philadelphia, at a rental of $775 per month plus taxes of Railways' premises at 6119 Penn Avenue, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania;

(d) The occupancy by Railways' former subsidiary of the Lexington Avenue Garage as a sub-lessee of Equitable Auto Company, a lessee of Equitable Real Estate Company, both former subsidiaries of Philadelphia;

(e) The maintenance and servicing of the buses of Railways' former subsidiary by Equitable Auto Company, a former subsidiary of Philadelphia;

(f) A contract between Railways and Duquesne Light Company, a subsidiary of Philadelphia for the use of power by Railways;

(g) Other matters of inter-company relationships between Railways' system and Philadelphia and its subsidiaries prior to and during the reorganization.

III. The Petition referred to in II above also discloses that from the date of the death of the former Trustee of Railways, Thomas M. Benner, on April 19, 1943, to the appointment of Elmer E. Bauer on May 10, 1949, as his successor, W. D. George, now deceased, acted as the sole Trustee; that on June 7, 1948, the Commission filed with the Court a petition for the removal of George as Trustee; that hearings on the Commission's petition were held in 1948 and 1949 before a Referee in Bankruptcy as Special Master; that George resigned as Trustee on May 31, 1949, and died on March 2, 1953; that in May 1953 Bauer filed his final accounts as Trustee including therein those of George for the year 1948 and the first five months of 1949; that in June 1953 the Commission filed, with the Court, Objections and Exceptions to the aforesaid accounts of George by reason of his affiliations with certain banks, deposits of idle funds, the financing of purchases of equipment, buses and street cars, the leasing of garages, and other dealings alleged to be unauthorized; that the executors, heirs and legatees under the will of George ("George Estate") filed, with the Court, a motion to strike or dismiss the aforesaid Objections and Exceptions of the Commission which motion was denied and thereafter extensive hearings were held on the aforesaid Objections and Exceptions; that upon conclusion of the Commission's case counsel for the George Estate moved for the right to examine all records of the Commission relating to Railways' reorganization, which motion was granted; that the Commission appealed to the United States Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit; that subsequently counsel for the George Estate and counsel for the Commission entered into a stipulation providing for examination of the Commission's records and discontinuance of the appeal; that following examination of the Commission's records, counsel for the George Estate filed requests for admissions and requested the production of many documents from the Commission's files, all of which documents have been marked for identification at a special pretrial hearing; that in the three years which have elapsed since the filing of the George accounts extensive proceedings have been held in connection with the Commission's Objections and Exceptions to such accounts; and that in the judgment of the petitioner, Bauer, the conflict between the positions asserted by counsel for the Commission and counsel for the George Estate, if litigation is to continue, could be resolved only by the Supreme Court of the United States with consequent further delay and great financial expense to the reorganization estate and other interested parties.

IV. It appears from the aforesaid joint petition of Bauer and Philadelphia Company that the Trustee and his counsel, the Staff of the Commission, and counsel for Philadelphia Company have had numerous conferences, jointly and severally, relating to the assumption or rejection of the executory contracts, agreements or leases referred to in II above looking toward a possible compromise to the mutual advantage of the reorganization estate, Philadelphia Company and the public interest.

It further appears from the aforesaid joint petition that counsel for the Trustee and counsel for Philadelphia Company have reached a compromise, subject to approval by the Commission and the Court, as set forth in the following excerpt from a letter from counsel for Philadelphia Company to counsel for the Trustee:

This letter will confirm the result of our recent conversations in which you, on behalf of the Trustee, and I on behalf of Philadelphia Company, have agreed to the following:

Philadelphia Company is to be discharged from any and all liabilities of it and its former parents or subsidiaries with respect to the debtors, estates and proceedings, in Case No. 20225, for reorganization of Pittsburgh Railways Company, and the proceedings to enforce a plan, pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1953 (Civil Action No. 8676), now pending in your District Court, upon payment to the reorganization trustee, in Case No. 20225, of the sum of $20,000.00. Philadelphia Company, in accordance with this settlement, will waive any and all rights it has to any of the funds in the hands of the trustee, or which may come into possession of the trustee by virtue of this settlement or by virtue of any matter affecting the estate of W. D. George.

It further appears from the aforesaid joint petition that the Trustee, Bauer, represents that to terminate the controversy regarding the final accounts of George and to expedite the final closing of Railways' reorganization proceedings which have lasted for more than eighteen years, he and his counsel sought to induce a compromise with the George Estate; that after conferences among and between counsel for the Trustee, counsel for the Commission, and counsel for the George Estate an agreement has been reached between the Trustee and the George Estate whereby the latter has agreed to pay $25,000 to the Trustee in full settlement of all claims against the estate: Provided, however, That such payment is without admission of any legal liability on the part of the George Estate and that such settlement is without any adverse reflection upon the integrity or good faith of George or upon the spirit of public service and good faith of the Commission and its Staff. The George Estate has also agreed not to assert any claims against Railways' estate for costs and expenses in connection with the litigation regarding the George accounts or for compensation for services rendered by George as Trustee for which no compensation has heretofore been allowed.

V. It appears from the aforesaid joint petition that in the event of the approval and consummation of the proposed settlements with Philadelphia Company and the George Estate, petitioner, Bauer, as Trustee, will hold cash in the following approximate amounts:

Commonwealth Trust Co. of Pittsburgh, 2½ percent time account	[1] $53,120
Mellon National Bank & Trust Co., checking account	28,000
George estate settlement	25,000
Philadelphia Company settlement	20,000
Miscellaneous	4,450
Total	130,570

[1] Plus interest from July 1, 1956.

It further appears that petitioners propose that the net proceeds in the hands of the Trustee after deduction of the expenses of reorganization and of such other claims as may be judicially determined to be proper charges will be delivered by the Trustee to Railways for the purpose of distribution to the public holders of Railways' stock and that to accomplish such distribution petitioners will request the Court to make appropriate modification of paragraph 10.d of its order of December 29, 1950, referred to in I above.

Said joint petition having been filed for the purpose of complying with the provisions of section 11 (b) of the Holding Company Act and with the Commission's reservation of jurisdiction under its Order of March 27, 1950, and of settling and compromising all pending litigation and controversies affecting the reorganization of Railways, including the issues with respect to (a) possible claims arising from the rejection of contracts, agreements or leases between Railways and Philadelphia Company and its subsidiaries and with respect to (b) the Commission's Objections and Exceptions to the George accounts; and the Commission deeming it appropriate to consider said petition as being in aid of the consummation of the Combined Plan; and

The Commission having considered the joint petition and the memorandum and exhibits filed in support thereof and finding that the proposed settlements are in aid of the consummation of the Combined Plan and are necessary to effectuate the provisions of section 11 (b) of the Holding Company Act and are feasible and fair and equitable to the persons affected thereby:

It is ordered, Pursuant to sections 11 (e) and 11 (f) and other applicable provisions of the Holding Company Act, that the settlements set forth in the joint petition are approved as in aid of the consummation of the Combined Plan, subject to the conditions specified in Rule U-24 of the General Rules and Regulations promulgated under the Holding Company Act.

It is further ordered, That the jurisdiction heretofore reserved to examine and approve settlements of claims arising from the rejection of contracts, agreements or leases between Railways and Philadelphia Company and its subsidiaries be, and the same hereby is, released.

By the Commission.

MISSISSIPPI POWER & LIGHT CO.

ORDER PERMITTING DECLARATION TO BECOME EFFECTIVE REGARDING PROPOSAL TO ISSUE AND SELL TO BANKS SHORT-TERM NOTES

DECEMBER 27, 1956.

Mississippi Power & Light Company ("Mississippi"), a public utility subsidiary of Middle South Utilities, Inc., a registered holding company, having filed with this Commission a declaration, pursuant to section 7 of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("act"), regarding a proposal to issue and sell to banks short-term notes as follows:

Pursuant to a credit agreement dated November 15, 1956, Mississippi proposes, during the period beginning January 2, 1957, and extending to January 31, 1958, to borrow an aggregate of not to exceed $9,000,000 from banks as follows:

The Chase Manhattan Bank, New York	$7,500,000
Deposit Guaranty Bank & Trust Co., Jackson, Miss.	1,000,000
First National Bank of Jackson, Jackson, Miss.	500,000
Total	9,000,000

Each borrowing is to be evidenced by a note maturing on or before two years from the date of the first borrowing, which is to be made during the month of January 1957, and is to bear interest at the rate of 4 percent per annum during the period of nine months from the date of the first borrowing, and at the rate of 4¼ percent per annum thereafter to maturity. A commitment fee is to be paid, computed on the average unused portion of the commitment, at the rate of ¼ of 1 percent per annum from the date of the Commission's order permitting the declaration to become effective. The company is to have the right at any time to terminate or reduce the commitment.

The proceeds of the loans will be used to defray a portion of the cost of the company's construction program, presently estimated to result in expenditures of approximately $14,000,000 during the year 1957 and approximately $20,000,000 during the year 1958, and for other corporate purposes. The company states that it expects to refund the notes from the proceeds of the sale of additional bonds in 1958.

The declaration states that no state regulatory body or agency, and no Federal commission or agency, other than this Commission, has jurisdiction over the proposed transactions.

The declaration also states that the fees and expenses to be incurred in connection with the proposed transactions are estimated to be $2,900, including $1,500 of counsel fees; and

Notice of the filing of the declaration having been duly given in the manner prescribed by Rule U-23 (Holding Company Act Release No. 13330, December 7, 1956) promulgated under the act, and no hearing having been requested of or ordered by the Commission; and

It appearing that the fees and expenses to be incurred in connection with the proposed transactions are not unreasonable; and the Commission observing no basis for adverse findings or the imposition of terms and conditions, and finding in respect of said declaration that the applicable provisions of the act, and of the rules, promulgated thereunder, are satisfied, and deeming it appropriate in the public interest to permit the declaration, as amended, to become effective, forthwith:

It is ordered, Pursuant to Rule U-23 and the applicable provisions of the act, that the declaration, as amended, be, and it is hereby, permitted to become effective, forthwith, subject to the terms and conditions prescribed in Rule U-24.

By the Commission.

OHIO VALLEY ELECTRIC CORP. ET AL.

ORDER EXTENDING TIME TO AMEND APPLICATIONS AND ORDER POSTPONING HEARING

DECEMBER 27, 1956.

In the matters of Ohio Valley Electric Corporation, Indiana-Kentucky Electric Corporation, American Gas and Electric Company, The Cincinnati Gas & Electric Company, Kentucky Utilities Company, Louisville Gas and Electric Company, Ohio Edison Company, The West Penn Electric Company, American Gas and Electric Service Corporation, File No. 70-2945; Ohio Valley Electric Corporation, Indiana-Kentucky Electric Corporation, American Gas and Electric Company, Appalachian Electric Power Company, Indiana and Michigan Electric Company, The Ohio Power Company, The West Penn Electric Company, Monongahela Power Company, The Potomac Edison Company, West Penn Power Company, Ohio Edison Company, Pennsylvania Power Company, The Cincinnati Gas and Electric Company, Kentucky Utilities Company, Louisville Gas and Electric Company, File No. 70-3106; Ohio Valley Electric Corporation, American Gas and Electric Company, The West Penn Electric Company, Ohio Edison Company, File No. 70-3513.

On November 19, 1956, the Commission issued an order reopening and consolidating the proceedings in File Nos. 70-2945, 70-3106 and 70-3513 and gave Notice of and Order for hearing to consider matters in the consolidated proceedings over which jurisdiction had heretofore been reserved (Holding Company Act Release No. 13313). These proceedings concern, among other things, the applications of American Gas and Electric Company ("American Gas"), the Cincinnati Gas & Electric Company ("Cincinnati"), Kentucky Utilities Company ("Kentucky"), Louisville Gas and Electric Company ("Louisville"), Ohio Edison Company ("Ohio Edison"), and The West Penn Electric Company ("West Penn Electric"), (hereinafter referred to as the "participating companies"), to acquire the common stock of Ohio Valley Electric Corporation ("Ohio Valley"). Ohio Valley also filed an application to acquire all the common stock of Indiana-Kentucky Electric Corporation ("Indiana-Kentucky"). In its order the Commission specifically directed, "that Ohio Valley and the six participating companies subject to the jurisdiction of this Commission shall file with the Secretary of the Commission on or before December 21, 1956, amendments to their applications setting forth the facts as they now exist with regard to their respective relationships to Ohio Valley and of Ohio Valley to Indiana-Kentucky and with particular reference to the matters to be considered under section 10 of the act."

Ohio Valley and the six participating companies have now filed with the Commission a request to extend the time within which these amendments are required to be filed with the Commission. The request states that it has proved impossible for the companies to assemble all of the required information within the time specified in the order of the Commission and asks that the Commission extend to February 1, 1957, the time within which such amendments shall be filed.

It appearing to the Commission that it will not be detrimental to the public interest for the time to be extended beyond December 21, 1956, in which the amendments to the applications shall be filed; and it also appearing to the Commission that the granting of such an extension requires the postponement of the hearing as originally ordered and the ordering of another date for hearing:

It is hereby ordered, That Ohio Valley and the six participating companies subject to the jurisdiction of this Commission shall file with the Secretary of the Commission on or before February 1, 1957, amendments to their applications setting forth the facts as they now exist with regard to their respective relationships to Ohio Valley and of Ohio Valley to Indiana-Kentucky and with particular references to the matters to be considered under section 10 of the act.

It is further ordered, Pursuant to the applicable provisions of the act that the hearing in the consolidated proceedings as previously ordered be postponed and such hearing be held at the offices of the Securities and Exchange Commission, 425 Second Street NW., Washington 25, D. C., on March 18, 1957, at 10:00 a. m., e. s. t. On such date the hearing room clerk in room 193 will advise as to where such hearing will be held.

Any person desiring to be heard or otherwise wishing to participate in this proceeding shall file with the Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington 25, D. C., on or before March 11, 1957, a request relative thereto as provided by Rule XVII of the Commission's Rules of Practice and shall state the reasons for wishing to participate, the nature and extent of his interest in the proceeding, and the issues of fact or law raised by the applications which he desires to controvert.

It is further ordered, That the Secretary of the Commission shall serve notice of the hearing aforesaid by mailing a copy of this notice of and order for hearing by registered mail, not less than 30 days prior to the date fixed therefor, to each of the participating companies, the Atomic Energy Commission, the Federal Power Commission, Public Service Commission of Indiana, Kentucky Public Service Commission, Public Service Commission of Maryland, Michigan Public Service Commission, The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio, Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, Public Service Commission of West Virginia; and that notice of said hearing is hereby given to the aforesaid and to all states, municipalities, and political subdivisions of states within which are located any of the physical assets of the applicant companies, to all state commissions, state security commissions, and all agencies, authorities or instrumentalities of any state, municipality, or other political subdivision having jurisdiction over any of the applicant companies or any of the business affairs or operations of any of them, and to all other interested persons, such notice to be given by a general release of the Commission, distributed to the press and mailed to the mailing list for releases issued under the act; and by publication of this Notice and Order in the FEDERAL REGISTER not later than 30 days prior to the date hereinbefore fixed as the date of hearing.

By the Commission.

TITLE 3—THE PRESIDENT

LETTER OF AUGUST 16, 1955

[EMERGENCY FUND FOR INTERNATIONAL AFFAIRS]

[WAIVER OF CERTAIN PROVISIONS OF LAW]

THE WHITE HOUSE,
Washington, August 16, 1955.

DEAR MR. STREIBERT:

The Supplemental Appropriation Act, 1956, appropriated $5,000,000 for the "Emergency Fund for International Affairs." As set forth in my letter to you of September 15, 1954,[1] it is my intention that this fund be used to extend U. S. participation in international trade fairs and to demonstrate to peoples of other countries our accomplishments in the cultural field both through direct Government activities and by means of assistance and encouragement to private groups. It is also my desire that this fund be used for projects of all kinds that will demonstrate in a dramatic and effective manner the excellence of our free enterprise system as reflected in our products and our cultural values.

I hereby designate you the coordinator of the appropriations made to date under the title "Emergency Fund for International Affairs." These appropriations are available for allocation by you among the agencies which are participating or may participate in the program. These agencies will submit their requests for apportionment of allocations directly to the Bureau of the Budget. I shall continue to look to you for the preparation of a quarterly report of expenditures for me to transmit to the Congress as required by law.

I wish to emphasize that these funds are to be used solely for expenses directly chargeable to approved projects or to administrative expenses of the program. Direct administrative expenses chargeable to the program should be kept to a minimum and agency overhead should be met from the general funds of the participating agencies.

In order that this emergency program may proceed as expeditiously as possible, and pursuant to authority contained in the Acts appropriating these funds, I hereby delegate to the agencies using funds allocated to them under this letter the power to expend them in their discretion for items that will further the general purposes set out above and without regard to the following provisions of law:

(a) Section 3648 of the Revised Statutes, as amended; 60 Stat. 809, as amended (31 U. S. C. 529) (advance of funds).

(b) Sections 302–305 of the Act of June 30, 1949 (Federal Property and Administrative Services Act), c. 288; 63 Stat. 393–396 (41 U. S. C. 252–255) (competitive bids; advances).

(c) Section 3709 of the Revised Statutes, as amended (41 U. S. C. 5) (competitive bids).

(d) Section 3710 of the Revised Statutes (41 U. S. C. 8) (opening of bids).

(e) Section 2 of the Act of March 3, 1933, c. 212; 47 Stat. 1520 (41 U. S. C. 10a) (Buy American Act).

(f) Section 3735 of the Revised Statutes (41 U. S. C. 13) (contracts limited to one year).

(g) Section 901 of the Act of June 29, 1936, c. 858; 49 Stat. 2015 (46 U. S. C. 1241) (Travel of U. S. employees on U. S. ships).

(h) Section 1009 of the Act of January 27, 1948, c. 36, as amended; 62 Stat. 14 (22 U. S. C. 1440), to the extent necessary to permit the Department of State to participate in this program without regard to the provisions of Section 1001 of said Act of January 27, 1948, 62 Stat. 13, as amended (22 U. S. C. 1434). (Special personnel security provisions relating to activities under the United States Information and Educational Exchange Act of 1948 and applicable to all such international activities carried on under the jurisdiction of the Department of State.)

(i) Section 16a of the Act of August 2, 1946, c. 744; 60 Stat. 810 (5 U. S. C. 78) (hiring automobiles and aircraft).

(j) Section 322 of the Act of June 30, 1932, c. 314; 47 Stat. 412 (40 U. S. C. 278a) (rental of buildings).

(k) Section 1 of the Act of June 20, 1878, c. 359, as amended; 20 Stat. 216, as amended (44 U. S. C. 322); and Section 3828 of the Revised Statutes (44 U. S. C. 324) (advertising).

Washington, August 21, 1956.

DEAR MR. STREIBERT:

As you know, the "International Cultural Exchange and Trade Fair Participation Act of 1956" became Public Law 860, 84th Congress, on August 1, 1956. It is my intention to issue in the very near future an Executive order implementing this Act, which will appropriately delegate the powers and duties conferred upon me by the Act.

The Supplemental Appropriation Act, 1957, Public Law 814, 84th Congress, appropriated $5,900,000 under the head "President's Special International Program" to carry out the provisions of Public Law 860. The Second Supplemental Appropriation Act, 1957, Public Law 855, 84th Congress, appropriated an additional $4,000,000 under this head for United States participation in the Universal and International Exposition of Brussels, 1958, as authorized by Section 3 (c) of Public Law 860.

In order that this program may proceed as expeditiously as possible, you are hereby authorized to allocate the funds thus appropriated. Until the issuance of the Executive order mentioned above, the provisions of my letter to you of August 16, 1955,[1] regarding the apportionment of funds and the power of the operating agencies to expend these funds without regard to certain provisions of law as specified therein, shall continue in effect. These funds may be also expended without regard to the limitations of Section 15 of the Act of August 2, 1946 (5 U. S. C. 55a) on the employment of experts and consultants. I hereby determine that the waiver of the requirements of law referred to in this paragraph is in furtherance of the purposes of Public Law 860, approved August 1, 1956.

Sincerely,

DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER

Honorable THEODORE C. STREIBERT,
Director, U. S. Information Agency,
Washington 25, D. C.

LETTER OF DECEMBER 27, 1956

[U. S. PARTICIPATION IN BRUSSELS UNIVERSAL AND INTERNATIONAL EXHIBITION, 1958]

[WAIVER OF CERTAIN PROVISIONS OF LAW]

THE WHITE HOUSE,
Washington, December 27, 1956.

DEAR MR. SECRETARY:

With respect to United States participation in the Brussels Universal and International Exhibition, 1958, as authorized by the International Cultural Exchange and Trade Fair Participation Act of 1956 (Public Law 860, 84th Congress, approved August 1, 1956), I hereby determine, pursuant to authority vested in me by section 8 of that Act, that the performance of functions without regard to the following additional provisions of law and limitations of authority is in furtherance of the purposes of said Act:

(1) That part of section 3734 of the Revised Statutes, as amended, now codified in section 257 of title 40 of the United States Code (40 U. S. C. 267) (restrictions on buildings; approval of sketch plans; changes; limit of cost).

(2) Section 1 of the act of August 24, 1935, 49 Stat. 793 (40 U. S. C. 270a) (bonds of contractors for public buildings).

(3) Provisions contained in section 1 of the act of October 22, 1913, 38 Stat. 212 (5 U. S. C. 54) (publicity experts).

(4) The Civil Service Act of January 16, 1883, 22 Stat. 403, as amended (5 U. S. C. 632 et seq.), and other civil service laws, and the Classification Act of 1949, as amended (employment and compensation of personnel).

(5) (a) Standardized Government Travel Regulations, (b) rates of per diem allowances in lieu of subsistence expenses under the Travel Expense Act of 1949, as amended (5 U. S. C. 835–842), and (c) section 10 of the act of March 3, 1933, 47 Stat. 1516, as amended (5 U. S. C. 73b) (travel expenses).

(6) Sections 189 and 365 of the Revised Statutes (5 U. S. C. 49 and 314, respectively) (employment of attorneys or counsel and payment of fees therefor), except with respect to litigation involving an interest of the United States.

Waivers of provisions of law and of limitations of authority coming into existence by reason of the foregoing determination shall be deemed to be additional to those heretofore existing under my letters of August 16, 1955,[1] and August 21, 1956,[2] to the Honorable Theodore C. Streibert, Director of the United States Information Agency.

All waivers of statutes and limitations of authority effected above should be utilized in a prudent manner and as sparingly as is feasible. Suitable steps should be taken to insure that result, including, as may be appropriate, the imposition of administrative limitations in lieu of the waived statutory requirements and limitations of authority.

Sincerely,

DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER

Honorable JOHN FOSTER DULLES,
Secretary of State,
Washington 25, D. C.

RULES AND REGULATIONS

TITLE 7—AGRICULTURE

Chapter I—Agricultural Marketing Service (Standards, Inspections, Marketing Practices), Department of Agriculture

PART 53—MEATS, PREPARED MEATS, AND MEAT PRODUCTS (GRADING, CERTIFICATION, AND STANDARDS)

SUBPART A—REGULATIONS

FEES FOR GRADING SERVICE

Pursuant to the authority of sections 203 and 205 of the Agricultural Marketing Act of 1946 (7 U. S. C. 1622, 1624), and section 520 of the Revised Statutes (5 U. S. C. 511), the provisions prescribing feeds for Federal meat grading service in 7 CFR 53.35a, as amended, are hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 53.35a Fees for grading service. (a) The hourly rate for grading service shall be $5.00 per hour with a minimum charge of $2.50, and double said amounts for service on legal holidays.

(b) Fees for grading performed on a weekly contract basis shall be $200.00 per calendar week (less any allowable credits), to cover up to 40 hours of weekly grading service.

(c) When grading service is requested at a place so distant from a grader's official headquarters that a total of 1 hour or more is required for the grader to travel to and from such place, the fee for such grading service shall equal the usual fee calculated at the applicable rates prescribed in paragraph (a) or (b) of this section, as the case may be, plus a mileage fee of 8 cents per mile for such travel.

(d) When grading service is requested at a place so distant from a grader's official headquarters that the work and travel required for such service cannot be performed within a calendar day, the fee for such grading service shall equal the usual fee calculated at the applicable rates prescribed in paragraph (a) or (b) of this section, as the case may be, plus any mileage chargeable under paragraph (c) of this section and a per diem charge at the rate of $12 per day for each day or quarter portion thereof spent by the grader away from his official headquarters in the performance of such work and travel. A fee of $3 shall be charged for such work and travel although the time spent therein is less than a quarter portion of a day.

(e) The following fees are prescribed for each investigation other than the first one necessary to determine the acceptability of an inspection system at any nonfederally inspected plant preparing products for which application for grading service is made. A fee at the rate of $5.00 per hour shall be charged for time actually spent by an authorized official in making such investigation and in traveling to the particular plant from the place at which he receives the assignment to perform such work and in traveling back to such place or to another place equally distant from such plant. In addition there shall be charged a transportation fee not to exceed 8 cents per mile for such travel plus any per diem at the rate of $12 per day or portion thereof paid to such official in accordance with applicable regulations of the Department of Agriculture. In no case shall the total fees for any such investigations be less than $15.

The Agricultural Marketing Act of 1946 provides for the collection of fees equal as nearly as may be to the cost of the services, such as Federal meat grading service, rendered under its provisions. What such cost is and the fees necessary to cover it are matters wholly within the knowledge of the Department of Agriculture. It has been determined that the fees for Federal meat grading service must be increased as provided for herein to cover the cost of the service. Therefore, under section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U. S. C. 1003), it is found that notice and other public procedure with respect to the changes in fees provided by this amendment are impracticable and unnecessary and good cause is found for making such amendment effective less than 30 days after its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER. This amendment shall become effective at 12:01 a. m., January 13, 1957, with respect to all Federal meat grading service thereafter rendered including service under weekly grading contracts whether theretofore or thereafter made.

PART 729—PEANUTS

PROCLAMATION OF RESULTS OF REFERENDUM ON MARKETING QUOTAS FOR YEARS 1957, 1958, AND 1959

§ 729.804 Basis and purpose. This document is issued to announce the results of the referendum held December 11, 1956, pursuant to section 358 (b) of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended, to determine whether farmers favor or oppose marketing quotas for peanuts produced in the three calendar years beginning with 1957. The act requires the results of any peanut marketing quota referendum to be proclaimed within thirty days after the date on which it is held. Since the only purpose of this proclamation is to announce the results of the referendum, it is hereby found and determined that, with respect to this proclamation, application of the notice and public procedure provisions of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U. S. C. 1003) is impracticable and unnecessary.

§ 729.805 Proclamation of the results of the marketing quota referendum for peanuts for the crops produced in the three calendar years beginning with the calendar year 1957. In a referendum of farmers engaged in the production of the 1956 crop of peanuts held on December 11, 1956, 39,138 farmers voted. Of those voting 36,596 farmers, or 93.5 percent, favored quotas for peanuts produced in the three calendar years beginning with 1957, and 2,542 farmers, or 6.5 percent were opposed to having quotas in effect for the crops produced in the three calendar years beginning with the calendar year 1957. Since more than two-thirds of the farmers voting favored quotas, the national marketing quota proclaimed by the Secretary of Agriculture for peanuts produced in the calendar year 1957 (21 F. R. 8913) shall be in effect, and national marketing quotas hereafter proclaimed for peanuts for the calendar years 1958 and 1959 shall be effective.

Chapter VIII—Commodity Stabilization Service (Sugar), Department of Agriculture

Subchapter B—Sugar Requirements and Quotas

[Sugar Regs. 814.17, 814.18]

PART 814—ALLOTMENT OF SUGAR QUOTAS

QUOTAS AND DIRECT CONSUMPTION PORTION, PUERTO RICO, 1957

Basis and purpose. This allotment order is issued under section 205 (a) of the Sugar Act of 1948, as amended (hereinafter called the "act"), for the purpose of (A) allotting the 1957 sugar quota for Puerto Rico for consumption in the continental United States (including raw sugar transferred for further processing and shipment within the direct-consumption portion of such quota) and the 1957 sugar quota for local consumption in Puerto Rico, among persons who process Puerto Rican sugarcane into sugar (1) to be brought into the continental United States and (2) to be marketed for local consumption in Puerto Rico and (B) allotting the portion of the 1957 sugar quota for Puerto Rico which may be filled by direct-consumption sugar among persons who market such sugar for consumption in the continental United States.

The sugar quota for Puerto Rico for consumption in the continental United States is referred to herein as "mainland quota", allotments thereof are referred to as "mainland allotments" and the allotments of the direct-consumption portion thereof as "direct-consumption allotments". The sugar quota for consumption in Puerto Rico and allotments thereof are referred to as "local quota" and "local allotments", respectively.

Omission of recommended decision and effective date. The record of the hearing regarding allotment of the 1957 sugar quotas for Puerto Rico shows that inventories of sugar on January 1, 1957, will approximate 90,000 tons and production of sugar from 1956–57 crop sugarcane will be approximately the sum of the local and mainland quotas (R. 7). Some of the mainland and local allotments made by this order could be exceeded by the marketing of the 1956 carryover plus a comparatively small quantity of new-crop sugar. Also, the record of the hearing regarding allotment of direct-consumption sugar shows that the capacity of Puerto Rican refiners to produce direct-consumption sugar far exceeds the maximum quantities of Puerto Rican direct-consumption sugar that may be marketed within the 1957 mainland and local quotas (R. 66). Some of the direct-consumption allotments made by this order are small and delay in the issuance of the order might result in some persons marketing more than their fair share of the direct-consumption portion of the quota (R. 24). Since this proceeding was instituted for the purpose of issuing allotments to prevent disorderly marketing of sugar and to afford all interested persons an equitable opportunity to market, it is hereby found that due and timely execution of the functions imposed upon the Secretary under the act imperatively and unavoidably requires omission of a recommended decision in this proceeding. It is hereby further found that compliance with the 30-day effective date requirement of the Administrative Procedure Act (60 Stat. 237), is impracticable and contrary to the public interest and, consequently, this order shall be effective on January 1, 1957.

Preliminary statement. Under the provisions of section 205 (a) of the act, the Secretary is required to allot a quota or proration thereof whenever he finds that allotment is necessary (1) to assure an orderly and adequate flow of sugar or liquid sugar in the channels of interstate or foreign commerce, (2) to prevent the disorderly marketing of sugar or liquid sugar, (3) to maintain a continuous and stable supply of sugar or liquid sugar, or (4) to afford all interested persons equitable opportunities to market sugar within the quota for the area. Section 205 (a) also requires that such allotment be made after such hearing and upon such notice as the Secretary may by regulation prescribe.

Pursuant to the applicable rules of practice and procedure (21 F. R. 4251), a preliminary finding was made that allotment of the quotas is necessary and a notice was published on October 13, 1956 (21 F. R. 7832), of a public hearing to be held at Santurce, Puerto Rico, in the Conference Room, Caribbean Area Office, ASC, Segarra Building, on October 24, 1956, at 10:00 a. m., for the purpose of receiving evidence to enable the Secretary to make a fair, efficient and equitable distribution of (A) the 1957 mainland quota (including raw sugar transferred for further processing and the shipment within the direct-consumption portion of the quota) and the 1957 local quota, among persons who process Puerto Rican sugarcane into sugar (1) to be brought into the continental United States and (2) to be marketed for local consumption in Puerto Rico, and of (B) the direct-consumption portion of the 1957 sugar quota for Puerto Rico. The hearing was held at the time and place specified in the notice.

In arriving at the findings, conclusions, and regulatory provisions of this order, all proposed findings and conclusions were carefully and fully considered in conjunction with the record evidence pertaining thereto. To the extent that findings and conclusions proposed by interested persons are inconsistent with the findings and conclusions contained herein, the specific or implied requests to make such findings and reach such conclusions are denied on the basis of the facts found and stated in connection with the conclusions herein set forth.

Basis for findings and conclusions. Section 205 (a) of the act reads in pertinent part as follows:

> • • • Allotments shall be made in such manner and in such amounts as to provide a fair, efficient, and equitable distribution of such quota or proration thereof, by taking into consideration the processing of sugar or liquid sugar from sugar beets or sugarcane to which proportionate shares, determined pursuant to the provisions of subsection (b) of section 302, pertained; the past marketings or importations of each such person and the ability of such person to market or import that portion of such quota or proration thereof allotted to him • • •

A. Allotment of mainland and local quotas. The record of the hearing indicates that the prospective Puerto Rican sugar supplies for 1957 sufficiently exceed the quota for Puerto Rico that allotment of the quotas is necessary (R. 7).

All three factors specified in the provision of law quoted above have been considered and each is given a percentile weighting by the formula on which this allotment of the 1957 quotas for Puerto Rico is based. That formula follows the Government proposal made in the record as to the measures and weightings of factors to be used for determining combined mainland and local allotments (R. 7–8), with provisions for estimates to be used in making initial allotments (R. 9) and sources of data to be used in making final allotments (R. 9–11).

The formula is made applicable to combined allotments because total marketing opportunities are of greatest significance in determining an equitable distribution among the allottees and because two of the three factors specified in the act for consideration, processings from proportionate shares and ability to market, represent quantities applicable to total marketings. Direct measurement of these factors in relation to local allotments has little relevance because, for the area as a whole, local marketings amount to only about 10 percent of these factors (R. 11–13). All processings from a crop are used as a measure of the factor "processing of sugar or liquid sugar from • • • sugarcane to which proportionate shares • • • pertained," even though small quantities of processings from non-proportionate share sugar may be included, since such quantities have insignificant effect in the formula used for fixing allotments (R. 10).

Some allottees with low inventories relative to the total for the industry favored weighting the factors 70 percent to "processings," 10 percent to "past marketings" and 20 percent to "ability to market" as used in allotting the 1956 quotas, and objected to the Government weighting of factors, 20, 10 and 70 percent, respectively, on the basis that such "weighting resulted in a greater tendency to equalize inventories (R. 32, 33, 52, 58, 59). Other allottees supported the weighting of factors proposed by the Government (R. 27, 50). The finding is based on testimony that under the weighting used in 1956 some allottees would be unable to fill their 1956 allotments and that to provide allotments more in line with the ability of allottees to market sugar, greater weight should be given to the ability factor, which gives recognition to inventories, and less weight should be given to the production factor, thereby reducing the likelihood of deficits in 1957 allotments. The proposed weightings would continue to provide allotments closely paralleling processings and that tend to equalize inventories (R. 8, 9). No exceptions were taken to other aspects of the proposed method for establishing allotments.

A proposal was made in the record for dividing the combined allotment of each allottee into mainland and local allotments on the basis of the percentage that local marketings of each allottee was of its total marketings in 1956 (R. 13). Local marketings utilized in the findings and conclusions include all of the marketings to purchasers in Puerto Rico not accounted for by sugar (1) brought into the continental United States by a refiner to whom the allottee transferred sugar for that purpose, or (2) exported at so-called "world prices" (R. 10). No exceptions were taken with respect to dividing combined allotments into mainland and local allotments.

As proposed in the hearing record (R. 16) a finding is made to limit initial allotments of mainland quota to 850,000 short tons, raw value, and allotments of local quota to 85,000 short tons, raw value, because the use of estimates may result in allotments for some higher than would result from the use of final data. Findings also are made upon uncontroverted evidence in the record that revisions be made in the order, without further notice or hearing, for the purposes of substituting final data for estimates (R. 16) and for revising allotments resulting from the release of allotments by any allottee, resulting from the proration of any deficit in a quota of another area or resulting from any change in the quotas due to any change in requirements (R. 16, 17). It was proposed that whenever a change is made only in the mainland quota no change shall be made in individual allotments of local quota and that each allottee shall share in the increase or decrease in mainland quota in proportion that his total local and mainland allotments bears to the total of such allotments then in effect. Whenever a change is made in the local quota, revised allotments shall be established in the same manner as adopted for allotting 1957 combined mainland and local quotas (R. 17).

Findings are made under paragraphs 12, 13, 14, and 15, and paragraphs (b), Exchange of allotments; (c) Producers marketings under allotments; (d) Restrictions on marketings; (e) Specific charges against allotments; and (f) Transfer of allotments, are included in the order since similar provisions operated satisfactorily in 1956 and no objection was made to the proposal in the record that such provisions be included (R. 18, 20) except to request that the period in which an allottee could market within the allotment of another allottee be changed from two months to six months (R. 59, 65). Such an extension would decrease the effectiveness of allotments.

B. Allotment of the direct-consumption portion of the mainland quota. The record of the hearing shows that the potential capacity of Puerto Rican refiners to produce direct-consumption sugar sufficiently exceeds the quantity of such sugar which may be marketed within quotas that allotment of the direct-consumption portion of the quota is necessary (R. 66).

While all three factors specified in the provisions of section 205 (a) of the act quoted above have been considered, only the "past marketing" and "ability to market" factors have been given percentile weightings in the formula used on which the allotment of the direct-consumption portion of the 1957 mainland quota for Puerto Rico is based. Testimony indicates that allottees accounting for 93 percent of the marketings of direct-consumption sugar into the continental United States do not process sugar from sugarcane and that giving weight to the factor "processing from proportionate shares" would not lead to equitable allotment (R. 67).

The findings and conclusions for measuring and weighting the two factors "past marketing" and "ability to market" follow a proposal made in the record (R. 68, 69). By using marketings of direct-consumption sugar in the continental United States during the years 1952–56, inclusive, as a measure of "past marketings," a period of years has been selected that represent experience under marketing conditions similar to those which may be expected in 1957, and also provide a period of time sufficient to offset short-run factors affecting data for a single year. By using the largest marketings of direct-consumption sugar in the continental United States by each allottee in any year during the period 1935 through 1956 as a measure of "ability to market," a sufficient period of time has been provided to permit the selection of a year for each allottee which will reflect relative abilities. A comparison with present plant capacity shows no impairment in the ability of any of the allottees to produce direct-consumption sugar (R. 68).

Two hundred tons of the direct-consumption portion of the quota to be allotted has been set aside for the marketing of raw sugar for direct-consumption as proposed in the record (R. 69). It is not practicable to allot such a small quantity to numerous raw sugar mills in advance, hence allotments will be made upon application for specific sales. This procedure continues a trade practice followed in previous years, and contributes to an efficient allocation of the direct-consumption portion of the 1957 sugar quota to be allotted.

The two hundred tons set aside would permit the marketing of Puerto Rican raw sugar for direct consumption in the continental United States at a slightly higher rate than in 1956 but at a lower rate than in any other recent year (R. 70).

In accordance with the record of the hearing (R. 71) provision has been made in the findings and the order to reallocate, without further notice or hearing, any quantity of an allotment released by an allottee or any quantity of the unallotted reserve not needed for the marketing of raw sugar for direct consumption and to revise allotments to give effect to any change in the direct-consumption portion of the mainland quota. Also, as proposed in the record (R. 73), the findings and order contain provisions relating to restrictions on marketing and transfer of allotments similar to those contained in the 1956 Puerto Rican allotment order, since such provisions operated successfully in 1956 and no objection was made in the record to their inclusion in 1957. The hearing record supports the request of South Porto Rico Sugar Company for an allotment of the direct-consumption portion of the 1957 mainland quota (R. 72–76).

Findings and conclusions. On the basis of the record of the hearing, I hereby find and conclude that in regard to:

A. Allotment of mainland and local quotas. (1) For the calendar year 1957 Puerto Rican processors will have available for marketing on the mainland and in Puerto Rico an amount of sugar which exceeds the combined mainland and local quotas by approximately 90,000 short tons.

(2) The allotment of the 1957 mainland quota for Puerto Rico (including raw sugar transferred for further processing to be brought in within the direct-consumption portion of the quota) and the 1957 local quota for Puerto Rico is necessary to prevent disorderly marketing of such sugar and to afford all interested persons equitable opportunities to market such sugar in the continental United States and in Puerto Rico.

(3) To assure a fair, efficient and equitable distribution of the mainland and local quotas for Puerto Rico for 1957 the three statutory standards should be weighted as follows: "processings • • • from • • • proportionate shares", 20 percent; "past marketings", 10 percent; and "ability to market", 70 percent.

(4) The percentage which all of each allottee's processings for the 1956–57 crop is of the total of such processings for all allottees constitutes a fair and equitable measure of "processings • • • from • • • proportionate shares" and in the initial order all processings from 1955–56 crop sugarcane should be used as estimates of processings from 1956–57 crop sugarcane.

(5) A fair and equitable measure of the factor past marketings for each allottee is the percentage which its average mainland and local marketings during the years 1952 through 1956 is of the total of such average marketings for all allottees and in the initial order the combined allotments for 1956 as set forth in Exhibit 4 of the record should be used as estimates of marketings for 1956.

(6) The sum for each allottee of processings of sugar from 1956–57 crop sugar plus the inventory of sugar on January 1, 1957, as a percentage of the total of such sums for all allottees constitutes a fair and equitable measure of the ability of each allottee to market sugar during 1957. In the initial order the estimate of 1956–57 processings indicated in paragraph (4), above, should be used, and the January 1, 1956, inventories plus processings of sugar from 1955–56 crop sugarcane less 1956 combined allotments as indicated in (5), above, should be used as estimates of the January 1, 1957, inventories.

(7) The percentages that local marketings were of combined mainland and local marketings for each processor during 1956 are representative for the purpose of dividing the combined 1957 allotment for each processor into a mainland allotment and a local allotment and in the initial order the local allotments for 1956 adjusted for exchanges of local and mainland allotments between allottees effected prior to October 1, 1956, as set forth in the records (Ex. 4) should be used as estimates of local marketings for 1956.

(8) The quantities of sugar and the percentages referred to in paragraphs (4), (5), (6), and (7), above, are as set forth in the following table:

Processor	Production of sugar from 1955–56 crop sugarcane		Average Annual marketings (estimated) 1952 through 1955		Jan. 1, 1957, estimated stocks plus production from 1955–56 crop sugarcane		Estimated local marketings 1956

[1] Percent of allottee's estimated 1956 total marketings.

(9) The combined local and mainland quotas should be allotted by applying the weightings of the factors specified in paragraph (3) above to the percentage measures of those factors listed for each allottee in paragraph (8), and by multiplying the sum of such weighted percentages for each allottee by the sum of such quotas. The combined allotments so established should be divided into local and mainland allotments on the basis of the percentages local marketings are of total marketings in 1956 as listed in paragraph (8), above.

(10) In order to prevent any allottee from marketing a quantity of sugar in excess of the allotments established therefor on the basis of final data relating to 1956–57 crop processings, 1956 marketings and January 1, 1957, inventories, allotments established by this order should be limited to 850,000 short tons, raw value, of the 1957 mainland quota and to 85,000 short tons, raw value, of the 1957 local quota for Puerto Rico.

(11) The order shall be revised without further notice or hearing for the purpose of (a) substituting data on processings of the 1956–57 crop sugarcane, 1956 local and mainland marketings and January 1, 1957, inventories for estimates used in measuring the factors in (4), (5), (6) and (7); (b) allotting any quantity of an allotment which may be released by an allottee, in writing to the Director of the Sugar Division, to other allottees able to utilize additional allotment in proportion to the established allotments of such allottees; (c) allotting any area deficits to which Puerto Rico may become a beneficiary and (d) revising allotments to give effect to any change in the mainland or local quotas due to action pursuant to secs. 201, 202 (a) and 203 of the act. Whenever a change is made only in the mainland quota no change shall be made in individual allotments of the local quota and each allottee shall share in any change in mainland quota in proportion that his total local and mainland allotments bears to the total of such allotments then in effect. Whenever a change is made in the local quota, revised allotments shall be established in the same manner as adopted for allotting the 1957 mainland and local quotas.

(12) Any producer who receives sugar in payment for sugarcane (a) should be permitted to market, within the allotment of the processor who processed his sugarcane, a quantity of sugar equal to the same percentage of the producer's 1956–57 crop sugar that the sum of the processor's mainland and local allotments is of the total 1956–57 crop sugar processed from cane by such processor, and (b) such permitted quantity should be within the mainland allotment unless the producer requests local allotment. Further, a person who, as a producer, has sugar received from a processor in settlement for sugarcane of crops prior to that of 1956–57 shall be permitted to market such sugar within that processor's mainland allotment.

(13) An efficient distribution of the quotas requires exchanges between allottees of quantities of mainland allotment for like quantities of local allotment, subject to the approval of an officer of the Department designated in the order.

(14) To facilitate full and effective use of allotments, provision shall be made in the order for transfer of allotments under circumstances of a succession of interest.

(15) Provision shall be made in the order to restrict marketings or importations into the continental United States of sugar to allotments established herein.

(16) Allotments established in the foregoing manner and in the amounts set forth in the order provide a fair, efficient, and equitable distribution of the quotas, as required by section 205 (a) of the act.

B. Allotment of direct-consumption portion of the mainland quota. (1) The potential capacity of Puerto Rican refiners to produce direct-consumption sugar during the calendar year 1957 exceeds 280,000 short tons and this quantity is far greater than the total quantity of such sugar which may be marketed within the 1957 sugar quotas for Puerto Rico.

(2) The allotment of the direct-consumption portion of the 1957 sugar quota for Puerto Rico is necessary to prevent disorderly marketing of such sugar and to afford each interested person an equitable opportunity to market such sugar in the continental United States.

(3) Assignment of a percentile weight to the "proportionate shares" factor in the final allotment formula would not result in fair, efficient and equitable allotment.

(4) The best measure of the "past marketings" factor for each allottee is its percentage of the average marketings of direct-consumption sugar of all allottees in the continental United States during the years 1952 through 1956.

(5) The best measure of the "ability to market" factor for each allottee is its percentage of the sum of the largest quantities of direct-consumption sugar of all allottees marketed in the continental United States during any calendar year during the period 1935–56, inclusive, and the ability so measured is within the present plant capacity of each refiner.

(6) The allotments of the direct-consumption portion of the 1956 mainland quota for Puerto Rico as established in Sugar Regulation 814.16, Amendment 1 (21 F. R. 7207) and set forth in the record (Ex. 10) are adequate measures of 1956 marketings of direct-consumption sugar in the continental United States.

(7) The quantity of sugar marketed, referred to in paragraphs (4) and (5), above, are as follows:

[Short tons, raw value]

Allottee	Average annual marketings 1952–56	Highest annual marketings 1935–56
Central Aguirre Sugar Co., a trust	6,166	10,610
Central Roig Refining Co.	19,837	28,695
Central San Francisco	794	2,590
Porto Rican American Sugar Refinery, Inc.	79,155	116,611
South Porto Rico Sugar Co. of Puerto Rico	000	4,982
Western Sugar Refining Co.	19,845	29,988
Total	125,797	193,476

(8) A small part of the direct-consumption portion of the mainland quota is normally marketed in the continental United States as raw sugar for direct consumption. Two hundred short tons, raw value, should be reserved for this purpose in 1957.

(9) Allotments totaling the direct-consumption portion of the Puerto Rican mainland quota in excess of that reserved for entry as raw sugar should be established by giving fifty percent weight to past marketings, measured as provided in paragraph (4), above, and fifty percent weight to ability to market, measured as provided in paragraph (5), above.

(10) In addition to the allottees of the direct-consumption portion of the 1956 mainland quota, the South Porto Rico Sugar Company of Puerto Rico shall be an allottee of the direct-consumption portion of the 1957 mainland quota.

(11) Any quantity that may be released by any allottee who finds that it cannot use its full allotment and so indicates in writing to the Director of the Sugar Division, or any quantity that may not be needed to meet the demands upon the unallocated reserve for raw sugar for direct consumption, may be reallotted to allottees in proportion to their established allotments without further notice or hearing.

(12) This order shall be revised without further notice or hearing to adjust allotments to take account of any change in the direct-consumption portion of the 1957 quota for Puerto Rico due to actions pursuant to sections 201, 202 (a) and 207 of the act, on the same basis as used in establishing allotments in this order.

(13) Each allottee in 1957 should be restricted from bringing into the continental United States for consumption therein any direct-consumption sugar in excess of the smaller of its allotment established herein or the quantity transferred to such allottee and charged against an allotment of the 1957 Puerto Rican mainland quota. All other persons should be prohibited from bringing such sugar into the continental United States in 1957 for consumption therein except such sugar acquired from an allottee within its allotment established herein, or brought in as raw sugar within the quantity established therefor. All persons collectively shall be prohibited from bringing into the continental United States any direct-consumption sugar other than crystalline sugar in excess of the quantity by which the direct-consumption portion of the mainland quota exceeds 126,033 short tons, raw value.

(14) To facilitate full and effective use of allotments, provision shall be made in the order for transfer of allotments under circumstances of a succession of interest.

(15) Allotments established in the foregoing manner and in the amounts set forth in the order provide a fair, efficient, and equitable distribution of the direct-consumption portion of the mainland quota, as required by section 205 (a) of the act.

Order. Pursuant to the authority vested in the Secretary of Agriculture by section 205 (a) of the act; It is hereby ordered:

§ 814.17 Allotment of 1957 sugar quotas for Puerto Rico—(a) Allotments. The 1957 sugar quota for Puerto Rico for consumption in the continental United States (including raw sugar to be further processed and marketed within the direct-consumption portion of such quota) and the 1957 sugar quota for local consumption in Puerto Rico, are hereby allotted, to the extent shown in this section, to the following processors in amounts which appear in columns (1) and (2) opposite their respective names:

(b) Exchange of allotments. The allotments established in paragraph (a) of this section, or producers' shares thereof established under paragraph (c) of this section, shall not be exchanged without the approval of the Chief of the Quota and Allotment Branch, Sugar Division, Commodity Stabilization Service of the Department.

(c) Producers' marketings under allotments. Each processor shall reserve a share of its mainland allotment for the marketings of each producer with whom settlement for sugarcane is made in sugar equal to the same percentage of the producer's 1956–57 crop sugar that the sum of the processor's mainland and local allotments is of the processor's total production of 1956–57 crop sugar: Provided, That, upon written request to the processor within 30 days of the effective date of this order, the producer's share shall be divided between local and mainland allotments as the sum of the processor's allotments is divided between mainland and local allotments. Further, a person who, as a producer, has sugar received from a processor in settlement for sugarcane of crops prior to that of 1956–57 shall be permitted to market such sugar within that processor's mainland allotment.

(d) Restrictions on marketings. (1) During the calendar year 1957 all persons are prohibited from bringing into the continental United States or marketing to a refinery in Puerto Rico for such purposes, a quantity of sugar produced by each allottee named in paragraph (a) of this section in excess of the quantity established in paragraph (a) of this section as his mainland allotment adjusted as provided in paragraph (b) of this section; except that after November 1, 1957, or at such other time as deemed necessary by the Director of the Sugar Division to facilitate orderly marketing, a quantity of sugar produced by one allottee (hereinafter referred to as "first allottee"), may be brought into the continental United States within the allotment of another allottee (hereinafter referred to as "second allottee") and charged to the allotment of the "second allottee" at the time it is brought in provided prior thereto the following conditions have been met: (i) The "first allottee" must have acquired from and hold an equivalent quantity of sugar produced by the "second allottee" which acquired quantity of sugar thereafter shall be subject to all the other provisions of this part as if it were produced by the "first allottee"; and (ii) the allottees concerned must have notified, in writing, the Chief, Quota and Allotment Branch, Sugar Division, Commodity Stabilization Service, Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C., of the transaction proposed within the provisions of this exception and obtained his approval thereof in writing.

(2) During the calendar year 1957 each person named in paragraph (a) of this section is hereby prohibited from marketing for local consumption in Puerto Rico sugar processed from sugarcane by such person in excess of the local allotment established for such person in paragraph (a) of this section as adjusted pursuant to paragraph (b) of this section.

(3) During the calendar year 1957 all persons who acquire raw sugar for further processing and resale as direct-consumption sugar are hereby prohibited from marketing sugar for local consumption in Puerto Rico in excess of the sum of (i) the quantity of sugar acquired for such purpose under the limitations specified in § 814.15, as amended (20 F. R. 9001, 21 F. R. 105, 5819, 7207, 8794, 9398, 9760), and held in inventory on December 31, 1956, and (ii) the quantity of sugar acquired for such purpose within the limits specified in this section.

(e) Specific charges against allotments. Except as provided in paragraph (d) of this section, sugar produced in Puerto Rico which is brought into the continental United States for consumption therein or marketed for local consumption in Puerto Rico during 1957 shall be charged to the applicable allotment of the processor who processed such sugar.

(f) Transfer of allotments. The Director of the Sugar Division, Commodity Stabilization Service, of the Department, may, consistent with the provisions of the act, permit marketing of sugar for local consumption in Puerto Rico and bringing sugar into the continental United States for consumption therein by one allottee, or other person, within the allotment or portion thereof established for another allottee upon receipt of evidence satisfactory to him of a merger, consolidation, transfer of sugar-processing facilities, or other action of similar effect upon the allottees or persons involved, and upon relinquishment by one of the allottees of all or a portion of its allotment.

§ 814.18 Allotment of the direct-consumption portion of 1957 sugar quota for Puerto Rico—(a) Allotments. The direct-consumption portion of the 1957 sugar quota for Puerto Rico, amounting to 130,016 short tons, raw value, is hereby allotted as follows:

Allottee	Direct-consumption allotment short tons, raw value
Central Aguirre Sugar Co., a trust	6,751
Central Roig Refining Co	19,852
Central San Francisco	1,279
Porto Rican American Sugar Refinery, Inc	79,963
South Porto Rico Sugar Co. of Puerto Rico	1,671
Western Sugar Refining Co	20,300
All other persons (raw sugar only)	200

(b) Restrictions on marketing. (1) During the calendar year 1957, each allottee named in paragraph (a) of this section is hereby prohibited from bringing into the continental United States, for consumption therein, any direct-consumption sugar from Puerto Rico in excess of the smaller of (i) the allotment therefor established in paragraph (a) of this section, or (ii) the quantity transferred to such allottee and charged against a 1957 mainland allotment under § 814.17.

(2) During the calendar year 1957, all persons other than the allottees specified in paragraph (a) of this section are hereby prohibited from bringing into the continental United States, for consumption therein, any direct-consumption sugar from Puerto Rico except (i) that acquired from an allottee within the quantity established in this section, and (ii) that brought in within the quantity established in this section for "all other persons".

(3) During the calendar year 1957 no person shall bring into the continental United States direct-consumption sugar from Puerto Rico which is principally not of crystalline structure after 3,973 short tons, raw value, of such sugar has been brought in within the allotments established in paragraph (a) of this section.

PART 514—TECHNICAL STANDARD ORDERS FOR AIRCRAFT MATERIALS, PARTS, PROCESSES, AND APPLIANCES

SUBPART B—MINIMUM PERFORMANCE STANDARDS

TECHNICAL STANDARD ORDERS, TSO–C25a AND TSO–C39, AIRCRAFT SEATS AND BERTHS

Technical Standard Order TSO–C25, as it appears in § 514.35 (21 F. R. 6503), is amended to apply only to Type I transport seats for use in aircraft for which application for type certificate was made prior to March 5, 1952. A new regulation, § 514.36 (TSO–C39), defines the minimum performance standards for approved seats pursuant to §§ 4b.1, 4b.18, and 4b.358 of Chapter I of this title. These standards are applicable to seats for rotorcraft, and to aircraft for which an application for type certification was made on or after March 5, 1952.

Sections 514.35 and 514.36 appeared as a notice of proposed rule making in 21 F. R. 7738–7739 on October 10, 1956. All interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to submit written views, data, or argument. No comments were received.

1. Section 514.35 under Subpart B of this part is amended to read as follows:

§ 514.35 Aircraft seats and berths (Type I transport, 6g forward load)—TSO–C25a—(a) Applicability—(1) Minimum performance standards. Minimum performance standards are hereby established for aircraft seats and berths (Type I transport, 6g forward load) which are to be used in civil aircraft of the United States. These standards apply to Type I transport seats for use in transport category aircraft for which an application for type certificate was made prior to March 5, 1952.[1] New models of seats and berths (Type I transport, 6g forward load) manufactured for installation in civil aircraft on or after January 15, 1957 shall meet the standards of National Aircraft Standard Specification 806, revised January 1, 1956,[2] with the changes and exceptions listed in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph. Seats and berths approved by the Civil Aeronautics Administration prior to January 15, 1957, may continue to be manufactured under the provisions of their original approval.

(2) Exceptions. (i) The ultimate loads corresponding to the aircraft reduced weight gust load factor or the airplane designer's special requirements may exceed the ultimate down loads for Type I seats specified in subsection 4.1.2 of NAS 806. For the purpose of this section, in order to provide for such loading conditions, the ultimate down loads specified in Table I of 4.1.2 for Type I seats shall be 1,000 pounds (6g) instead of 765 pounds.

(ii) To insure that pilot and copilot seats will provide for the rearward loads resulting from the application of pilot forces to the flight controls, such seats shall withstand a rearward load of 450 pounds. The load shall be applied 8 inches above the intersection of the seat back with the seat bottom.

(iii) The weight of the seat or berth times the appropriate "g" value shall be added to the design ultimate load specified in subdivision (i) of this subparagraph and in subsection 4.1.2 of NAS 806.

(iv) For the purpose of this section, 4.3 (c) of NAS 806 should read: "that the structure is capable of supporting without failure for at least 3 seconds the ultimate loads specified in this order when applied separately."

(b) Marking. The weight required in § 514.3 need not be included.

Effective date: January 15, 1957.

2. Section 514.36 is added under Subpart B of this part, to read as follows:

§ 514.36 Aircraft seats and berths—TSO–C39—(a) Applicability—(1) Minimum performance standards. (i) Minimum performance standards are hereby established for aircraft seats and berths of the following types which are to be used in civil aircraft of the United States:

Type I—Transport (9g forward load).
Type II—Normal and utility.
Type III—Acrobatic.
Type IV—Rotorcraft.

(ii) New models of seats and berths manufactured for installation in civil aircraft on or after the effective date of this order shall meet the standards of National Aircraft Standards Specification 809, dated January 1, 1956,[2] with the exception in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph. Seats and berths approved by the Civil Aeronautics Administration prior to January 15, 1957, may continue to be manufactured under the provisions of their original approval.

(2) Exception. The sideward loads as specified in 4.1.2 Table I need not exceed the requirements of the applicable Civil Air Regulations.

(b) Marking. The weight required in § 514.3 need not be included.

Effective date: January 15, 1957.

(Sec. 205, 54 Stat. 984, as amended; 49 U. S. C. 425. Interpret or apply sec. 601, 52 Stat. 1007, as amended; 49 U. S. C. 551)

PART 514—TECHNICAL STANDARD ORDERS FOR AIRCRAFT MATERIALS, PARTS, PROCESSES, AND APPLIANCES

TECHNICAL STANDARD ORDER TSO–C35A, RADIO MARKER RECEIVING EQUIPMENT

Minimum performance standards for radio marker receiving equipment which is to be used in civil aircraft of the United States is defined in the new regulation § 514.37 (TSO–C35a).

Section 514.37 appeared as a notice of proposed rule making in 21 F. R. 7739 on October 10, 1956. All interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to submit written views, data, or argument. No comments were received.

Section 514.37 is added under Subpart B of this part to read as follows:

§ 514.37 Radio marker receiving equipment operating on 75 mc (for air carrier aircraft—TSO–C35a—(a) Applicability—(1) Minimum performance standards. (i) Minimum performance standards are hereby established for radio marker receiving equipment which is to be used in civil aircraft of the United States.

[1] Standards for Types II, III, IV, and I (for installation in aircraft for which an application for type certificate was made after March 5, 1952), are contained in § 514.36 (TSO–C39).

[2] Copies may be obtained from the National Standards Association, 616 Washington Loan and Trust Building, Washington 4, D. C.

(ii) New models of radio marker receiving equipment for use in air carrier operations, manufactured on or after January 15, 1957, shall meet the standards of Radio Technical Commission for Aeronautics' Paper entitled, "Minimum Performance Standards—Airborne Radio Marker Receiving Equipment Operating on 75 Megacycles" as amended (Paper 87–54/DO–57 dated April 13, 1954, and amendment, Paper 202–55/EC–273, dated November 14, 1955),[3] with the exception listed in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph. Radio marker receiving equipment models approved by the Civil Aeronautics Administration prior to January 15, 1957, may continue to be manufactured under the provisions of their original approval.

(2) Exception. The exception applies to section 3.0, Minimum Performance Standards Under Environmental Test Conditions. Radio Technical Commission for Aeronautics' Paper 100–54/DO–60 dated April 13, 1954,[4] which is incorporated by reference in and thus is a part of Paper 87–54/DO–57, outlines environmental test procedures for equipment designed to operate under three different temperature ranges as specified therein under Procedures A, B, and C. Only radio marker receiving equipment which meets the operating requirements in the temperature range of −55° C. to +55° C. or −40° C. to +55° C., whichever is applicable, as outlined under Procedure A or Procedure B of Paper 100–54/DO–60 is eligible under this section.

(b) Marking. In addition to the information required in § 514.3, equipment which has been designed to operate over a temperature range of −55° C. to +55° C. as outlined in Procedure A of RTCA Paper 100–54/DO–60 shall be marked as Category A equipment. Equipment which has been designed to operate over a temperature range of −40° C. to +55° C. as outlined in Procedure B of this same paper shall be marked as Category B equipment.

(c) Data requirements. Ten copies each of the operating instructions, schematic diagrams, and installation procedures for the equipment shall be furnished the Chief, Aircraft Engineering Division, Civil Aeronautics Administration, Washington 25, D. C., with the statement of conformance.

Effective date: January 15, 1957.

PART 514—TECHNICAL STANDARD ORDERS FOR AIRCRAFT MATERIALS, PARTS, PROCESSES, AND APPLIANCES

TSO–C40, VOR RADIO RECEIVING EQUIPMENT, AND TSO–C41, AIRBORNE RADIO RECEIVING AND DIRECTION FINDING EQUIPMENT

Minimum performance standards for airborne VOR radio receiving and airborne radio receiving and direction finding equipment to be used in civil aircraft of the United States engaged in air carrier operations are defined in the new regulations, §§ 514.38 and 514.39.

Sections 514.38 and 514.39 appeared as a notice of proposed rule making in 21 F. R. 7993 on October 18, 1956. All interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to submit written views, data, or argument. No comments were received.

Sections 514.38 and 514.39 are added under Subpart B of this part to read as follows:

§ 514.38 VOR radio receiving equipment operating within the radio frequency range of 108–118 megacycles (for air carrier aircraft)—TSO–C40—(a) Applicability—(1) Minimum performance standards. Minimum performance standards are hereby established for airborne VOR radio receiving equipment operating within the radio frequency range of 108–118 megacycles which is to be used in civil aircraft of the United States engaged in air carrier operations. New models of airborne VOR radio receiving equipment manufactured for use in civil aircraft on or after January 31, 1957, shall meet the minimum performance standards as set forth in Radio Technical Commission for Aeronautics' Paper entitled "Minimum Performance Standards Airborne VOR Receiving Equipment Operating Within the Radio Frequency Range of 108–118 Megacycles" (Paper 225–55/DO–69 dated December 13, 1955),[3] with the exception listed in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph. Airborne VOR radio receiving equipment approved by the Civil Aeronautics Administration prior to January 31, 1957, may continue to be manufactured under the provisions of its original approval.

(2) Exception. The exception applies to Section 3.0, Minimum Performance Standards Under Environmental Test Conditions. Radio Technical Commission for Aeronautics' Paper 100–54/DO–60 dated April 13, 1954,[4] which is incorporated by referenoe in and thus is a part of Paper 225–55/DO–69, outlines environmental test procedures for equipment designed to operate under three different temperature ranges as specified therein under Procedures A, B, and C. Only airborne VOR radio receiving equipment which meets the operating requirements in the temperature range of −55° C. to +55° C. or −40° C. to +55° C., whichever is applicable, as outlined under Procedure A or Procedure B of Paper 100–54/DO–60, is eligible under this section.

(b) Marking. In addition to the information required in § 514.3, equipment which has been designed to operate over a temperature range of −55° C. to +55° C. as outlined in Procedure A of RTCA Paper 100–54/DO–60 shall be marked as Category A equipment. Equipment which has been designed to operate over a temperature range of −40° C. to +55° C. as outlined in Procedure B of this same paper shall be marked as Category B equipment.

Effective date: January 31, 1957.

§ 514.39 Airborne radio receiving and direction finding equipment operating within the radio-frequency range of 200–415 kilocycles (for air carrier aircraft)—TSO–C41—(a) Applicability—(1) Minimum performance standards. Minimum performance standards are hereby established for airborne radio receiving and direction finding equipment operating within the radio-frequency range of 200–415 kilocycles which is to be used in civil air carrier aircraft of the United States. New models of airborne radio receiving and direction finding equipment manufactured for use in civil aircraft on or after January 31, 1957 shall meet the minimum performance standards as set forth in Radio Technical Commission for Aeronautics' Paper entitled "Minimum Performance Standards Airborne Radio Receiving and Direction Finding Equipment Operating Within the Radio-Frequency Range of 200–415 Kilocycles" (Paper 83–56/DO–70 dated April 25, 1956),[3] with the exception listed in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph. Airborne radio receiving and direction finding equipment approved by the Civil Aeronautics Administration prior to January 31, 1957, may continue to be manufactured under the provisions of its original approval.

(2) Exception. The exception applies to section 3.0, Minimum Performance Standards Under Environmental Test Conditions. Radio Technical Commission for Aeronautics' Paper 100–54/DO–60 dated April 13, 1954,[4] which is incorporated by reference in and thus is a part of Paper 83–56/DO–70, outlines environmental test procedures for equipment designed to operate under three different temperature ranges as specified therein under Procedures A, B, and C. Only airborne radio receiving and direction finding equipment which meets the operating requirements in the temperature range of −55° C. to +55° C. or −40° C. to +55° C., whichever is applicable, as outlined in Procedure A or Procedure B of Paper 100–54/DO–60, is eligible under this section.

(b) Marking. In addition to the information required in § 514.3, equipment which has been designed to operate over a temperature range of −55° C. to +55° C. as outlined in Procedure A of RTCA Paper 100–54/DO–60 shall be marked as Category A equipment. Equipment which has been designed to operate over a temperature range of −40° C. to +55° C., as outlined in Procedure B of this same paper shall be marked as Category B equipment.

PART 235—RECTIFICATION OF SPIRITS AND WINES

PART 240—WINE

RECORDS AND REPORTS

On September 20, 1956, a notice of proposed rule making with respect to amendments of 26 CFR (1954) Parts 194, 195, 216, 220, 221, 225, 230, 235, and 240 was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (21 FR 7148). The purposes of the proposed amendments as set forth in the notice are (a) to simplify recordkeeping and reporting requirements, (b) to delete detailed listing of various tax rates, and (c) to eliminate requirements for submission of reports on Form 1636 by storekeeper-gaugers.

In accordance with the notice, interested parties were afforded an opportunity to submit written data, views, or arguments pertaining thereto. No written comments were received within the 30-day period prescribed. The amendments so published are hereby adopted, subject to the following editorial modifications:

PARAGRAPH 1. Paragraph 4 (B) of the notice is amended by making the following changes in § 220.369:

(A) By striking from the first sentence the words "and records", and inserting in lieu thereof the word "daily".

(B) By striking from the second sentence the phrase "He shall furnish dated, signed quantity reports", and inserting in lieu thereof the phrase "He shall prepare dated, signed quantity reports, in duplicate, and shall furnish the original thereof".

(C) By striking the final sentence.

PAR. 2. Paragraph 4 (MM) of the notice is amended as follows:

(A) By striking from § 220.757 the final sentence.

(B) By striking from the third sentence of § 220.758, which begins "Separate records", the word "at", and inserting in lieu thereof the word "for".

PAR. 3. Paragraph 5 (GG) of the notice is amended by striking from the third sentence of § 221.773, which begins "Separate records", the word "at", and inserting in lieu thereof the word "for".

PAR. 4. Paragraph 8 (N) of the notice is amended by striking from paragraph (h) of § 235.815 the phrase "finished storage room", and inserting in lieu thereof the phrase "finished products room".

As so changed, the amendments to Parts 194, 195, 220, 221, 225, 230, 235, and 240 read as set forth below.

This Treasury decision shall be effective on the first day of the first month which begins not less than 30 days after the date of publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

(Sec. 7805, 68A Stat. 917; 26 U. S. C. 7805)

[SEAL] O. GORDON DELK,
Acting Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

Approved: December 27, 1956.

W. RANDOLPH BURGESS,
Acting Secretary of the Treasury.

In order (a) to simplify recordkeeping and reporting requirements, (b) to delete detailed listing of various tax rates, and (c) to eliminate requirements for submission of reports on Form 1686 by storekeeper-gaugers, 26 CFR Parts 194, 195, 216, 220, 221, 225, 230, 235, and 240 are amended as follows:

PARAGRAPH 1. 26 CFR Part 194, "Liquor Dealers," is amended as follows:

(A) Section 194.215, and the headnote thereto, is amended to read:

§ 194.215 Proprietors. Wholesale liquor dealer operations conducted by proprietors of industrial alcohol plants or bonded warehouses, registered distilleries, fruit distilleries, internal revenue bonded warehouses, taxpaid bottling houses, and rectifying plants shall be recorded and reported in accordance with the regulations governing the operations of each such premises.

(B) Section 194.260, and the headnote thereto, is amended to read:

§ 194.260 Requirements and procedure. Wholesale dealers in liquors may package alcohol for industrial purposes in containers in excess of 1 wine gallon and less than 5 wine gallons and shall be governed as to such operations by those provisions of Part 230 of this chapter which are applicable. Form 27 E, properly modified, must be submitted to, and be approved by, the assistant regional commissioner before any packaging operations may be conducted. The provisions of Part 230 of this chapter relating to procuring, accounting for, overprinting as to denomination, and attaching red strip stamps must be followed, except that requisitions on Form 428 for red strip stamps will be submitted to the assistant regional commissioner for approval. The wholesale dealer shall keep records, daily, showing the bulk alcohol received, dumped, packaged, and disposed of, and the name and address of each consignor and consignee. Packaging operations will be carried on without the supervision of a storekeeper-gauger, and the preparation of Forms 230 will not be required. A monthly report of strip stamp transactions on Form 2260, and of alcohol transactions on Form 52 D properly modified, shall be submitted to the assistant regional commissioner, as prescribed in Part 230 of this chapter. Records, documents, or copies of documents supporting such records, and copies of reports submitted to the assistant regional commissioner shall be filed on the wholesale dealer's premises, and shall be retained as prescribed in § 194.234.

PAR. 2. 26 CFR Part 195, "Production of Vinegar by the Vaporizing Process," is amended as follows:

(A) Section 195.152 is amended by striking the second and third sentences and inserting in lieu thereof the sentence, "The quantities of fermenting and distilling materials received and used must be determined and recorded at the time of receipt and use as provided in § 195.175.".

(B) Section 195.153, and the headnote thereto, is amended to read:

§ 195.153 Removal of fermenting material from premises. The removal of fermenting material from the premises shall be recorded in the records required by § 195.175, and reported on the monthly report, Form 1623. The reasons for such removal shall be stated in the record.

(C) Section 195.155 is amended by striking the phrase "Form 1623," and inserting in lieu thereof the phrase "the record required by § 195.175.".

(D) Section 195.159 is amended by striking from the second sentence, which begins, "The receiving tanks", the phrase "on Form 1623, as indicated by the headings of the columns and the instructions printed on the form" and inserting in lieu thereof the phrase "by the proprietor on the records required by § 195.175".

(E) Section 195.160 is amended by striking the words "manufacture of vinegar: Provided, That the quantity thus removed or used is first accurately ascertained, and recorded on Form 1623" and inserting in lieu thereof, "manufacture of vinegar. The quantity thus removed or used must be determined and recorded by the proprietor on the records required by § 195.175.".

(F) Section 195.161 is amended as follows:

(1) By striking the phrase "reported monthly" and inserting in lieu therof the phrase "reported in the proprietor's monthly report, Form 1623".

(2) By striking the second and third sentences.

(G) Subpart L is amended to read as follows:

SUBPART L—PROPRIETOR'S RECORDS AND REPORTS

§ 195.175 Daily records. The proprietor of every vinegar factory shall keep daily records of operations which shall contain all data necessary (1) to enable internal revenue officers to verify and trace each lot of low wines from receipt of material to production of finished vinegar, and to ascertain whether there has been compliance with all internal revenue laws and regulations relating thereto, and (2) to provide the proprietor with records for compiling his monthly report on Form 1623. Such records shall clearly and accurately reflect the following:

(a) The receipt and disposition of each lot of fermenting or distilling material.

(b) The kind and quantity of fermenting material used, the quantity of mash set, and the quantity of distilling material produced (serial numbers of fermenters shall be shown on such records).

(c) The quantity of distilling material used, and the quantity of low wines produced.

(d) The quantity of vinegar produced.

(e) The quantity of vinegar removed (including losses).

In addition to any other information shown therein, the records shall show the date of each transaction or operation and, where applicable, the identity of each consignor and consignee. Quantities of fermenting materials shall be given in terms of pounds of dry measure and wine gallons of liquid measure. Quantities of low wines shall be given in terms of proof gallons. Quantities of vinegar shall be given in terms of gallons of 100-grain strength. All information required to be shown in the daily records required by this section shall be assembled or entered, as the case may be, by the close of the business day next succeeding the day on which the transaction occurs. The assistant regional commissioner may require additional information which he considers necessary.

§ 195.176 Monthly report, Form 1623. At the end of each month the proprietor shall prepare a report on Form 1623, in duplicate, showing a monthly summary account of fermenting and distilling materials, low wines, and vinegar. On or before the 10th day of the succeeding month, the proprietor shall forward the original to the assistant regional commissioner and retain the duplicate.

§ 195.177 Filing and retention of records and reports. All records required to be maintained by this part, and legible copies of all reports submitted to the assistant regional commissioner, shall be filed and maintained by the proprietor for a period of not less than two years in such manner as to facilitate inspection by internal revenue officers. Records and reports shall be available during regular business hours for examination and taking of abstracts therefrom by internal revenue officers.

(H) Section 195.202 is amended by changing the first sentence to read, "The predecessor shall report on his Form 1623 all fermenting or distilling materials, materials in process, and low wines transferred to his successor, who shall in turn report such items on his Form 1623 as received from his predecessor.".

(I) Section 195.203 is amended by striking the last sentence and inserting in lieu thereof the following new sentence, "The fiduciary will make appropriate notation on Form 1623, and the records required by § 195.175, of his succession and the date thereof.".

(J) Section 195.210 is amended by striking the last sentence and inserting in lieu thereof the following new sentence, "All fermenting and distilling materials, low wines, and vinegar must be accounted for on Form 1623, the original of which must be marked 'Final report, permanent discontinuance of business,' and must be submitted to the assistant regional commissioner.".

PAR. 3. 26 CFR Part 216, "Denaturation of Rum," is amended as follows:

(A) Section 216.211 is amended by placing a period after the phrase "will not be required" and striking the remainder of the section.

(B) Section 216.214 is amended to read:

§ 216.214 Record of samples. All samples of denatured rum furnished by the proprietor shall be recorded in the records required by § 216.315.

(C) Section 216.243 is amended by striking the fifth and sixth sentences, which begin, "Upon removal" and "The foreign", respectively, and inserting in lieu thereof the following new sentence, "The proprietor shall record the removal of the denatured rum from the warehouse on the records required by § 216.315.".

(D) Section 216.285 is amended by striking all sentences except the first.

(E) Section 216.297 is revoked.

(F) Subpart X is amended to read as follows:

SUBPART X—PROPRIETOR'S RECORDS AND REPORTS

§ 216.315 Daily records. The proprietor shall keep daily records of denaturing operations which shall contain all data necessary (1) to enable internal revenue officers to identify and trace the movement of each lot of rum from receipt to disposition, and to ascertain whether there has been compliance with all internal revenue laws and regulations relating to such rum, and (2) to provide the proprietor with records for compiling his monthly report on Form 575. Such records shall clearly and accurately reflect the following:

(a) The receipt of each lot of rum.

(b) The quantities of rum and denaturant used.

(c) The quantity of denatured rum produced.

(d) The quantity of denatured rum packaged.

(e) The quantity of denatured rum removed from the premises (including samples and losses).

In addition to any other information shown thereon, the records shall show the date of the transaction or operation, the number of packages and their serial numbers (identifying pipeline receipts as such), the identity of each consignor and consignee, and, where available, the serial numbers of applications and basic permits. In the case of exportations, the number of the car and the route, or the name of the vessel by which, and the port through which, the denatured rum is to be exported, will be shown. Quantities shall be recorded in wine gallons except that the quantity of rum received shall be recorded in proof gallons, and the quantity of rum used for denaturation shall be shown in wine and proof gallons. All information required to be shown in the daily records required by this section shall be assembled or entered, as the case may be, by the close of the business day next succeeding the day on which the transaction occurs. The assistant regional commissioner may require additional information which he considers necessary.

§ 216.316 Monthly report, Form 575. At the end of each month the proprietor shall prepare a report on Form 575, in duplicate, showing a monthly summary account of all rum, denaturants, and denatured rum. Form 575 shall be prepared and executed in accordance with the instructions on the form, and as required by this part. The quantities of rum, denaturant, and denatured rum reported as on hand at the end of the month shall be determined by actual inventory: Provided, That in the absence of any evidence of casualty or theft, the transfer gauge of packages of rum, and the filling gauge of packages of denatured rum may be used as the inventory of such packages. The actual quantities of rum, denaturant, and denatured rum held in tanks must be ascertained. On or before the 10th day of the succeeding month, the proprietor shall submit both copies of the report to the storekeeper-gauger.

§ 216.317 Filing and retention of records and reports. All records required to be maintained by this part, and legible copies of all reports submitted to the assistant regional commissioner shall be filed and maintained by the proprietor for a period of not less than two years in such manner as to facilitate inspection by internal revenue officers. Records and reports shall be available during regular business hours for examination and taking of abstracts therefrom by internal revenue officers.

(G) Section 216.325 is amended to read:

§ 216.325 Entry on Form 575. Where denatured rum is for any reason returned to the denaturing bonded warehouse by a bonded dealer or manufacturer or by the carrier, as provided in Part 182 of this chapter, the proprietor will maintain a record of the return as required by § 216.315. The total quantity of such rum, identified as "Denatured rum returned," will be entered as a debit on the monthly report, Form 575. Shipments of such rum will be included in the total of removals for the month.

(H) Section 216.331 is amended to read:

§ 216.331 Records. Separate records will not be required for operations under a new individual or corporate name, or under each trade name or style, but the proprietor must note on each record, and on the monthly report, Form 575, the individual or corporate name or the trade names or styles under which operations were conducted during the month, and the dates of operation under each.

(I) Section 216.341 is amended as follows:

(1) By striking the word "enter" in two places in the first sentence and inserting in lieu thereof the word "report".

(2) By striking from the last sentence the phrase "on Form 575 of his succession" and inserting in lieu thereof the phrase "of his succession, and the date thereof, on Form 575 and the records required by § 216.315".

PAR. 4. 26 CFR Part 220, "Production of Distilled Spirits," is amended as follows:

(A) Section 220.367 is amended as follows:

(1) By striking from the first sentence the word "distilling".

(2) By inserting in the first sentence, immediately after the phrase "distillery premises", the phrase "for use in the production of distilled spirits,".

(3) By striking from the second sentence the phrase "or bills of lading" and inserting in lieu thereof the phrase ", bills of lading, or prescribed forms".

(4) By inserting a comma after the phrase "commercial invoices" in the third sentence.

(B) Section 220.369, and the headnote thereto, is amended to read:

§ 220.369 Determining quantities of materials used. The distiller shall determine daily the quantity of (a) each lot of materials used in the production of each type of spirits, and (b) each lot of materials capable of producing spirits used in preparing yeast mash. He shall prepare dated, signed quantity reports, in duplicate, and shall furnish the original thereof to the storekeeper-gauger not later than the morning of the business day next succeeding the day on which the materials were weighed or measured. The quantities determined by the distiller shall be reflected in the records of production prescribed by § 220.755. Where materials are to be used for producing spirits, the quantity reports shall show the type of mash being set ("molasses," "wheat," "corn in excess," "rye in excess," etc.) and the serial number of each fermenter being filled.

(C) Section 220.370 is revoked.

(D) Section 220.371 is revoked.

(E) Section 220.373 is revoked.

(F) Section 220.374 is amended by changing the first sentence to read, "The distiller will not be required to prepare weight or quantity slips of materials used in preparing pure yeast cultures or jug yeast which is added to the yeast mash, or to record the same on his records of production.".

(G) Section 220.379 is amended as follows:

(1) By changing the headnote to read "Measurement of fermenters".

(2) By striking the phrase "Form 1598" in the first sentence, and inserting in lieu thereof the phrase "the record of production required by § 220.755".

(3) By striking the remaining sentences of the section.

(H) Section 220.381 is revoked.

(I) Section 220.389 is amended by changing the last sentence to read, "The quantity of finished spirits produced will be determined and recorded daily on the record of production required by § 220.755.".

(J) Section 220.409 is amended as follows:

(1) By striking from the second sentence the word "immediate".

(2) By striking the last sentence.

(K) Section 220.416 is revoked.

(1) By inserting a period after the phrase "removed for denaturation or destroyed" and striking the remainder of the sentence.

(2) By adding at the end of the section the following new sentence, "The distiller shall maintain records of the removal or destruction of such distillates, as required by § 220.756.".

(M) Section 220.420 is amended as follows:

(1) By striking the second sentence, which begins, "Such gauge".

(2) By striking from the fourth sentence, which begins, "The destruction must", the word "immediate".

(3) By striking the last sentence and inserting in lieu thereof the following new sentence, "The destruction will be reported by the distiller on Form 1598.".

(N) Section 220.424 is amended by striking the last sentence and inserting in lieu thereof the following new sentence, "The distiller shall maintain a record of all removals of distilled water, showing the date of removal, the name and address of the consignee, and the quantity removed.".

(O) Section 220.433 is amended as follows:

(1) By striking the second sentence, which begins, "Such removals".

(2) By adding at the end of the section the following new sentence, "The distiller shall maintain records showing the date of removal, the name and address of the consignee, and the quantity removed.".

(P) Section 220.434 is amended as follows:

(1) By striking from the second sentence, which begins, "If the washwater", the phrase "Form 1598 or 1686" and inserting in lieu thereof the phrase "the distiller's records".

(2) By striking the last sentence and inserting in lieu thereof the following new sentence, "The distiller shall maintain records showing the date of destruction and the quantity (proof gallons) destroyed.".

(Q) Section 220.435 is amended as follows:

(1) By striking from the first sentence the phrase "thoroughly washed or scrubbed and purified" and inserting in lieu thereof the phrase "so treated as".

(2) By striking the last sentence and inserting in lieu thereof the following new sentence, "No record need be made of such disposition.".

(R) Section 220.449 is amended as follows:

(1) By striking from the first sentence the phrase "quantity of spirits received will be ascertained by appropriate gauge and immediately transferred" and inserting in lieu thereof the phrase "quantity will be determined and the spirits will be promptly transferred".

(2) By striking from the last sentence the phrase "making or verification of entries in monthly records and reports," and inserting in lieu thereof the phrase "verification of records and reports".

(S) Section 220.451 is amended by changing the third sentence, which begins, "The spirits introduced", to read, "The spirits introduced into the distilling system shall be recorded as materials used (in proof gallons and by class and type) on the proprietor's records of production required by § 220.755.".

(T) Section 220.452 is amended as follows:

(1) By changing the second sentence to read "In any case where the deficiency in redistillation of any particular lot or lots of spirits exceeds that which may be attributed to normal redistillation deficiencies, the distiller will make explanatory statements relative to such deficiencies in the production record required by § 220.755.".

(2) By inserting the following new sentence at the end of the section, "The storekeeper-gauger will make proper inquiry and appropriate investigation to determine the cause of the deficiency, and will make a full report thereof to the assistant regional commissioner.".

(U) Section 220.455 is amended to read, "Spirits removed from a registered distillery to another distillery for redistillation shall be recorded by the distiller on the record of removals required by § 220.756, and shall be reported on Form 1598.".

(V) Section 220.487 is amended to read, "Taxable samples shall be recorded by the distiller on the record of removals required by § 220.756, and shall be included in the report on Form 1598.".

(W) Section 220.541 is amended by striking the last sentence.

(X) Section 220.580 is amended as follows:

(1) By striking from the first sentence the phrase "properly filled out".

(2) By striking the second and third sentences, which begin, "The district director" and "The remaining", respectively.

(Y) Section 220.582 is amended by striking from the last sentence "1697" and inserting in lieu thereof "2260".

(Z) Section 220.585 is amended by striking from the last sentence "1697" and inserting in lieu thereof "2260".

(AA) Section 220.586, and the headnote thereto, is amended to read as follows:

§ 220.586 Monthly report of distilled spirits stamps. At the end of each month the distiller shall prepare a report on Form 2260, in duplicate, showing a summary monthly account of distilled spirits excise tax stamps. The original shall be submitted to the assistant regional commissioner on or before the 10th day of the succeeding month. The duplicate shall be retained on the premises for a period of not less than two years, and during such period shall be available during business hours for examination by internal revenue officers.

(68A Stat. 614; 26 U. S. C. 5061)

(BB) Section 220.624 is amended to read, "The distiller shall maintain records of removals of distilled spirits from the distillery in accordance with the provisions of § 220.756.".

(CC) Section 220.649 is amended to read, "The distiller shall maintain a record showing the nature and extent of any loss of distilled spirits, the date the loss was discovered, and the proof gallons lost, and shall report such losses on Form 1598.".

(DD) Section 220.662 is amended as follows:

(1) By striking from the headnote the word "returns" and inserting in lieu thereof the phrase "Form 1598".

(2) By striking from the first sentence the phrase, "Upon receipt of the distiller's monthly return, Form 1598, Part 3," and inserting in lieu thereof the phrase, "On receipt of Form 1598 from the distiller,".

(EE) Section 220.697 is amended by striking the last two sentences and inserting in lieu thereof the following new sentence, "The removal of finished spirits shall be recorded in the records of the distiller by the trade name or style under which the spirits were finished.".

(FF) Section 220.698 is amended as follows:

(1) By striking from the first sentence the phrase, "Separate record" and inserting in lieu thereof the phrase, "Separate records, and separate reports".

(2) By striking from the first sentence the phrase, "such records" and inserting in lieu thereof the phrase, "his records of operation, and his report on Form 1598,".

(3) By striking the second sentence, which begins, "The storekeeper-gauger".

(GG) Section 220.712 is amended as follows:

(1) By striking from the first sentence the phrase "will complete his record, Form 1598, and the storekeeper-gauger his record, Form 1686, as to" and inserting in lieu thereof the phrase, "shall show on the record of production required by § 220.755 and on Form 1598".

(2) By striking from the second sentence, which begins, "If the distillates", the phrase "Form 1598" and inserting in lieu thereof the phrase "the distiller's records and on Form 1598".

(3) By striking the third sentence, which begins, "The storekeeper-gauger".

(4) By striking from the fourth sentence, which begins "The distiller", the phrase ", and the storekeeper-gauger will continue to maintain a record on Form 1686".

(5) By changing the fifth sentence to read, "Where the plant is operated as a registered distillery in two or more periods during the same month by the same proprietor, the operations of such proprietor will be recorded on one record of production and reported on one Form 1598.".

(6) By adding the following new sentence at the end of the section, "Appropriate notations will be made to show the dates the distillery was operated as a fruit distillery or an industrial alcohol plant and the names under which it was so operated.".

(HH) Section 220.713 is amended as follows:

(1) By changing the first sentence to read, "The succeeding proprietor will record all materials in process received from his predecessor on the appropriate records and reports prescribed by Part 182 of this chapter if the distillery is to be operated as an industrial alcohol plant, or on the appropriate records and reports prescribed by Part 221 of this chapter if the distillery is to be operated as a fruit distillery.".

(2) By striking from the last sentence the phrase ", and the storekeeper-gauger".

(II) Section 220.723 is amended as follows:

(1) By changing the first sentence to read, "The outgoing distiller shall show on his record of production, and report on Form 1598, all materials in process and all unfinished spirits outside the cistern room which are transferred to his successor, who shall in turn show such items on his record, and report on Form 1598, as received from his predecessor.".

(2) By striking from the fourth sentence, which begins "Where the distillery", the phrase "keep a separate Form 1598" and inserting in lieu thereof the phrase "maintain separate records and submit separate monthly reports on Form 1598".

(3) By striking from the fifth sentence, which begins "When operations", the phrase "entered on the same" and inserting in lieu thereof the phrase "recorded on the same set of records, and reported on the same".

(4) By striking from the fifth sentence the phrase "on the separating lines".

(JJ) Section 220.724 is amended by changing the last sentence to read, "In the case of such change, the fiduciary shall make appropriate notation on his records, and on Form 1598, of his succession and the date thereof.".

(KK) Section 220.745 is revoked.

(LL) Section 220.746 is revoked.

(MM) Subpart FF is amended to read as follows:

SUBPART FF—DISTILLER'S RECORDS AND REPORTS

RECORDS AND REPORTS OF DISTILLERY OPERATIONS

§ 220.755 Record of production. The distiller shall maintain at his distillery daily records of production which shall include all data necessary (1) to enable internal revenue officers to identify and trace the movement of all materials and spirits through the various processes from the use of materials to the deposit of the finished spirits in receiving cisterns, and to ascertain whether there has been compliance with all internal revenue laws and regulations relating to such materials and spirits, and (2) to enable the distiller to properly mark and brand packages of distilled spirits, and to provide him with records for compiling the monthly report, Form 1598. Such records shall accurately and clearly reflect the following:

(a) The kind and quantity of materials used, in terms of pounds of dry measure and gallons of liquid measure (giving the sugar content for molasses).

(b) The type and quantity of mash set in each fermenter.

(c) The type and quantity of beer distilled.

(d) The type and quantity of spirits produced.

Where distillates from two or more types of mash are produced, the distiller shall maintain a separate record for each type of distillate, and each such record shall show, by kind, proof, and proof gallons, the deposits in unfinished spirits tanks, charges to the various stills for redistillation, redeposits in unfinished spirits tanks, and other movement of the distillate. Each such record of the movement of distillates shall also show the fermenter number and the date set, or a symbol or lot number which will enable ready identification of the mash from which the spirits were produced. In addition to any other information shown therein, the records required by this section shall show the date of the transaction or operation, and, as applicable, the serial numbers of fermenters, unfinished spirits tanks, and receiving cisterns. The date of production shall be the date of gauge and removal from the receiving cisterns, and the quantity produced shall be the quantity reported on Form 1520 covering such removal.

(68A Stat. 637; 26 U. S. C. 5197)

§ 220.756 Record of removals. The distiller shall maintain at his distillery daily records of removals which shall include all data necessary (1) to enable internal revenue officers to identify each lot of distilled spirits destroyed or removed from the premises, and to verify such destruction or removal, and to ascertain whether there has been compliance with all internal revenue laws and regulations relating to such spirits, and (2) to provide the distiller with records for compiling the monthly report, Form 1598. Such records shall accurately and clearly reflect the following:

(a) The date of the transaction.

(b) The serial number of the cistern (or unfinished spirits tank) from which the spirits are drawn for destruction or removal from the premises.

(c) The name, address, and registry number of the consignee.

(d) The kind, number, and serial numbers of containers.

(e) The kind of spirits.

(f) The tax gallons removed.

(g) The purpose of the removal, such as taxpayment, transfer to internal revenue bonded warehouse (distinguishing between transfers to warehouses on or contiguous to the distillery premises and all others), transfer to denaturing bonded warehouse or denaturing plant, redistillation, destruction, etc.

All information required to be shown in the daily records required by this section and by § 220.755 shall be assembled or entered, as the case may be, before the close of the business day next succeeding the day on which the operation or transaction occurs.

(68A Stat. 637; 26 U. S. C. 5197)

§ 220.757 Monthly report, Form 1598. At the end of each month the distiller shall prepare a monthly report on Form 1593, in duplicate, and deliver both copies to the storekeeper-gauger on or before the 5th day of the month succeeding that for which the report is rendered. Form 1598 shall be prepared and executed in accordance with the instructions on the form and as required by this part.

(68A Stat. 637; 26 U. S. C. 5197)

TAXPAID PREMISES

§ 220.758 Records at taxpaid premises. Every distiller who maintains taxpaid premises in connection with his distillery shall keep daily records of the receipt and disposition of distilled spirits at such premises. By taxpaid premises is meant the "taxpaid" or "free" warehouse or room maintained in conjunction with the distillery, or premises maintained at other locations, for the receipt, storage, and disposition of taxpaid distilled spirits. Separate records must be kept for each of such premises. The records shall contain all data necessary (1) to enable internal revenue officers to identify and trace such receipts and dispositions, and to ascertain whether there has been compliance with all internal revenue laws and regulations relating thereto, and (2) to provide the distiller with records from which the monthly report on Form 338 may be compiled. Such records, in addition to any other information shown therein, must clearly and accurately reflect the following:

(a) The date of the transaction (or date of discovery in the case of casualty or theft).

(b) The name and address of each consignor and consignee.

(c) The actual quantity of distilled spirits involved (proof gallons if in packages, wine gallons if in bottles).

(d) The serial numbers of packages or cases.

(e) The name of the producer.

(f) The country of origin, if imported.

All information required to be shown in the daily records required by this section shall be assembled or entered, as the case may be, before the close of the business day next succeeding that on which the transaction occurs.

(68A Stat. 619; 26 U. S. C. 5114)

§ 220.759 Reports from taxpaid premises. At the end of each month the distiller shall, for each taxpaid premises, prepare a report (or reports) on Form 338 showing, separately as to bulk and bottled spirits, the total quantities of taxpaid distilled spirits received and disposed of during the month and on hand at the beginning and end of the month. The report shall be prepared in duplicate. The original shall be submitted to the assistant regional commissioner not later than the 10th day of the month next succeeding that for which rendered, and the duplicate shall be retained by the distiller. Distilled spirits in bulk containers shall be reported in proof gallons, and distilled spirits in bottles shall be reported in wine gallons. When reporting bulk spirits Form 338 should be modified to show that bulk containers are involved, and that quantities are being reported in terms of proof gallons. Form 338 will be provided by users at their own expense, and, except for modification as above, must be in the form prescribed by the Director, Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Division.

FILING AND RETENTION OF RECORDS AND REPORTS

§ 220.760 Filing and retention of records and reports. All records required by this part, all auxiliary or supplemental records of individual operations and transactions from which such records are compiled, and copies of all reports submitted to the assistant regional commissioner shall be filed and maintained by the distiller for a period of not less than two years in such manner as to facilitate inspection by internal revenue officers. Records and reports of noncontiguous taxpaid premises shall be filed at such premises unless the assistant regional commissioner authorizes their filing at some other location. The files of records and reports shall be available during regular business hours for examination and taking of abstracts therefrom by internal revenue officers.

(GG) Subpart HH is amended to read as follows:

SUBPART HH—DISTILLER'S RECORDS AND REPORTS

RECORDS AND REPORTS OF DISTILLERY OPERATIONS

§ 221.770 Record of production. The distiller shall maintain at his distillery daily records of production which shall include all data necessary (1) to enable internal revenue officers to identify and trace the movement of all materials and brandy through the various processes from the use of materials to the deposit of finished brandy in receiving tanks, and to ascertain whether there has been compliance with all internal revenue laws and regulations relating to such material and brandy, and (2) to enable the distiller to properly mark and brand packages of brandy, and to provide him with records from which the monthly report, Form 15, may be compiled. Such records shall accurately and clearly reflect the following:

(a) The kind and quantity of fermenting material in each fermenter.

(b) The kind and quantity of distilling material produced.

(c) The kind and quantity of distilling material distilled.

(d) The type and quantity of brandy produced.

Where distillates from two or more types of materials are produced, the distiller shall maintain a separate record for each type of distillate, and each such record shall show, by kind, proof, and proof gallons, the deposits in unfinished brandy tanks, charges to the various stills for redistillation, redeposits in unfinished brandy tanks, and other movement of the distillate. Each such record of the movement of distillates shall also show the fermenter number and the date set, or a symbol or lot number which will enable ready identification of the material from which the brandy was produced. In addition to any other information shown therein, the records required by this section shall show the date of the transaction or operation, and, as applicable, the serial numbers of fermenters, unfinished brandy tanks, and receiving tanks. The date of production shall be the date of gauge and removal from the receiving tanks, and the quantity produced shall be the quantity reported on Form 1520 covering such removal.

(68A Stat. 637; 26 U. S. C. 5197)

§ 221.771 Record of removals. The distiller shall maintain at his distillery daily records of removals which shall include all data necessary (1) to enable internal revenue officers to identify each lot of brandy destroyed or removed from the premises, and to verify such removal or destruction, and to ascertain whether there has been compliance with all internal revenue laws and regulations relating to such brandy, and (2) to provide the distiller with records for compiling the monthly report, Form 15. Such records shall accurately and clearly reflect the following:

(a) The date of the transaction.

(b) The serial number of the receiving tank (or unfinished brandy tank) from which the brandy is drawn for removal from the premises or for destruction.

(c) The name, address, and registry number of the consignee.

(d) The kind, number, and serial numbers of containers.

(e) The kind of brandy.

(f) The tax gallons removed.

(g) The purpose of the removal, such as taxpayment, transfer to internal revenue bonded warehouse (distinguishing between transfers to warehouses on or contiguous to the distillery premises and all others), transfer to bonded wine cellar, redistillation, destruction, etc.

Removals to and from the brandy deposit room shall be recorded in such manner as to provide data necessary to complete the brandy deposit room account on the monthly report, Form 15. All information required to be shown in the daily records required by this section and by § 221.770 shall be assembled or entered, as the case may be, before the close of the business day next succeeding the day on which the operation or transaction occurs.

§ 221.772 Monthly report, Form 15. Immediately after the close of the month the distiller shall prepare a report on Form 15, in duplicate. Form 15 shall be prepared and executed in accordance with the instructions on the form and as required by this part. The original shall be submitted to the assistant regional commissioner on or before the 10th day of the succeeding month, and the copy shall be retained by the distiller.

(68A Stat. 637, 640; 26 U. S. C. 5197, 5215)

TAXPAID PREMISES

§ 221.773 Records at taxpaid premises. Every distiller who maintains taxpaid premises in connection with his fruit distillery shall keep daily records of the receipt and disposition of distilled spirits at such premises. By taxpaid premises is meant the "taxpaid" or "free" warehouse or room maintained in conjunction with the distillery, or premises maintained at other locations, for the receipt, storage, and disposition of taxpaid distilled spirits. Separate records must be kept for each of such premises. The records shall contain all data necessary (1) to enable internal revenue officers to identify and trace such receipts and dispositions, and to ascertain whether there has been compliance with all internal revenue laws and regulations relating thereto, and (2) to provide the distiller with records from which the monthly report on Form 338 may be compiled. Such records, in addition to any other information shown therein, must clearly and accurately reflect the following:

(a) The date of the transaction (or date of discovery in the case of casualty or theft).

(b) The name and address of each consignor and consignee.

(c) The actual quantity of distilled spirits involved (proof gallons if in packages, wine gallons if in bottles).

(d) The serial numbers of the cases or packages.

(e) The name of the producer.

(f) The country of origin, if imported.

All information required to be shown in the daily records required by this section shall be assembled or entered, as the case may be, before the close of the business day next succeeding that on which the transaction occurs.

(68A Stat. 619; U. S. C. 5114)

§ 221.774 Reports from taxpaid premises. At the end of each month the distiller shall, for each taxpaid premises, prepare a report (or reports) on Form 338 showing, separately as to bulk and bottled spirits, the total quantities of taxpaid distilled spirits received and disposed of during the month and on hand at the beginning and end of the month. The report shall be prepared in duplicate. The original shall be submitted to the assistant regional commissioner not later than the 10th day of the month next succeeding that for which rendered, and the duplicate retained by the distiller. Distilled spirits in bulk containers shall be reported in proof gallons, and distilled spirits in bottles shall be reported in wine gallons. When reporting bulk spirits, Form 338 should be modified to show that bulk containers are involved, and that quantities are being reported in terms of proof gallons. Form 338 will be provided by users at their own expense, and, except for modification as above, must be in the form prescribed by the Director, Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Division.

FILING AND RETENTION OF RECORDS AND REPORTS

§ 221.775 Filing and retention of records and reports. All records required by this part, all auxiliary or supplemental records of individual operations and transactions from which such records are compiled, and copies of all reports submitted to the assistant regional commissioner shall be filed and maintained by the distiller for a period of not less than two years in such manner as to facilitate inspection by internal revenue officers. Records and reports of noncontiguous taxpaid premises shall be filed at such premises unless the assistant regional commissioner authorizes their filing at some other location. The files of records and reports shall be available during regular business hours for examination and taking of abstracts therefrom by internal revenue officers.

PAR. 6. 26 CFR Part 225, "Warehousing of Distilled Spirits", is amended as follows:

(A) Section 225.244, and the headnote thereto, is amended to read as follows:

§ 225.244 Reports. Upon transfer of the business to the successor, the outgoing proprietor must file with the assistant regional commissioner a final report on Form 52 C, prepared in accordance with Subpart VV of this part, showing such transfer.

(B) Section 225.255 is amended by striking from the first sentence the phrase "Form 1606" and inserting in lieu thereof the phrase "Form 2260".

(C) Section 225.287 is amended by striking from the last sentence the phrase "Form 1606" and inserting in lieu thereof the phrase "Form 2260".

(D) Section 225.586, and the headnote thereto, is amended to read as follows:

§ 225.586 Proprietor's records and monthly report. The proprietor shall keep records and render reports of all spirits removed from the warehouse, as provided in Subpart VV of this part.

(E) Section 225.715 is amended by striking from the last sentence the phrase "Form 1697" and inserting in lieu thereof the phrase "Form 2260".

(F) Section 225.718 is amended by striking from the last sentence the phrase "Form 1697" and inserting in lieu thereof the phrase "Form 2260".

(G) Section 225.719, and the headnote thereto, is amended to read as follows:

§ 225.719 Monthly report of distilled spirits stamps. At the end of each month the proprietor shall prepare a report on Form 2260, in duplicate, showing a monthly summary account of all distilled spirits excise tax stamps. On or before the 10th day of the succeeding month the original thereof shall be submitted to the assistant regional commissioner in accordance with the instructions printed on the form. The copy shall be retained on the premises for a period of not less than two years, and during such period shall be available during business hours for examination by internal revenue officers.

(H) Section 225.1035 is amended as follows:

(1) By striking the fourth, fifth, and sixth sentences, each of which begins "The district director".

(2) By striking from the seventh sentence the beginning phrase "The proprietor", and inserting in lieu thereof the phrase "Upon receipt of the stamps from the district director, the proprietor".

(3) By striking the last sentence.

(I) Section 225.1040 is amended by striking from the last sentence the phrase "Form 1606" and inserting in lieu thereof the phrase "Form 2260".

(J) Section 225.1047, and the undesignated centerhead immediately preceding that section, is revoked.

(K) Section 225.1048, and the headnote thereto, is amended to read as follows:

§ 225.1048 Removal of strip stamps prohibited. Strip stamps which have been affixed to bottles of distilled spirits shall not be removed therefrom, except in the process of breaking when the bottles are opened. Unused strip stamps may not be requisitioned, transferred, or possessed except as provided by law or regulations, and used strip stamps may not be possessed.

(L) Subpart VV is amended to read as follows:

SUBPART VV—RECORDS AND REPORTS OF PROPRIETOR

§ 225.1120 Daily records of removal from warehouse. The proprietor shall maintain daily records of removals which shall contain all data necessary (a) to enable internal revenue officers to identify each lot of distilled spirits removed from the warehouse, to verify such removal, and to ascertain whether there has been compliance with all internal revenue laws and regulations relating thereto, and (b) to provide the proprietor with records for compiling the monthly report, Form 52 C. Such records, in addition to any other information shown therein, shall show (1) the name and address of the consignee, (2) the date of removal, (3) the kind of spirits, (4) the name and registry number of the producing distiller, (5) the number of packages and cases (identifying tank car, tank truck, or pipeline removals), (6) the tax gallons removed, and (7) the serial numbers of cases or packages and identifying numbers of tank cars and tank trucks. All information required to be shown in the records required by this section shall be assembled or entered, as the case may be, before the close of the business day next succeeding the day on which the removals are made.

(68A Stat. 619; 26 U. S. C. 5114)

§ 225.1122 Records at taxpaid premises. Every proprietor who maintains taxpaid premises shall keep daily records of the receipt and disposition of distilled spirits at such premises. By "taxpaid premises" is meant the "taxpaid" or "free" warehouse or room maintained in conjunction with the internal revenue bonded warehouse, or premises maintained at other locations, for the receipt, storage, and disposition of taxpaid distilled spirits. Separate records must be kept for each of such premises. The records shall contain all data necessary (1) to enable internal revenue officers to identify and trace the receipt and disposition of each lot of distilled spirits, and to ascertain whether there has been compliance with all internal revenue laws and regulations relating thereto, and (2) to provide the proprietor with records from which his monthly report on Form 338 may be compiled. Such records, in addition to any other information shown therein, must clearly and accurately reflect the following:

(a) The date of the transaction (or date of discovery in the case of theft or casualty).

(b) The name and address of each consignor and consignee.

(c) The actual quantity of distilled spirits involved (proof gallons if in packages, wine gallons if in bottles).

(d) The serial numbers of the packages or cases.

(e) The name of the producer.

(f) The country of origin, if imported.

All information required to be shown in the daily records required by this section shall be assembled or entered, as the case may be, before the close of the business day next succeeding the day on which the transaction occurs.

§ 225.1123 Reports from taxpaid premises. At the end of each month the proprietor shall, for each taxpaid premises, prepare a report (or reports) on Form 338 showing, separately as to bulk and bottled spirits, the total quantities of taxpaid distilled spirits received and disposed of during the month and on hand at the beginning and end of the month. The report shall be prepared in duplicate. The original shall be submitted to the assistant regional commissioner not later than the 10th day of the month next succeeding that for which rendered, and the duplicate shall be retained by the proprietor. Distilled spirits in bulk containers shall be reported in proof gallons, and distilled spirits in bottles shall be reported in wine gallons. When reporting bulk spirits, Form 338 should be modified to show that bulk containers are involved, and that quantities are being reported in terms of proof gallons. Form 338 will be provided by users at their own expense, and, except for modification as above, must be in the form prescribed by the Director, Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Division.

§ 225.1124 Records and reports of off-premises export storage. The provisions of §§ 225.1122 and 225.1123 relating to records and reports of distilled spirits at taxpaid premises are applicable to distilled spirits which have been bottled or packaged especially for export with benefit of drawback and which are held at the proprietor's contiguous off-premises export storage. The provisions of Part 194 of this chapter which relate to records and reports of distilled spirits and wines at wholesale liquor dealers' premises are applicable to distilled spirits and wines which have been bottled or packaged especially for export with benefit of drawback and which are held at the proprietor's noncontiguous off-premises export storage. The provisions of Part 194 of this chapter which relate to records of receipt of wine at wholesale liquor dealers' premises are applicable to wine which has been bottled or packaged especially for export with benefit of drawback and which is received at the proprietor's contiguous or noncontiguous off-premises export storage.

§ 225.1125 Daily memorandum report of strip stamps. The proprietor shall furnish a daily report of bottled-in-bond strip stamp usage (both domestic and export) to the storekeeper-gauger, which shall show (a) the number of cases of distilled spirits bottled, by number and size of bottles, (b) the serial numbers of such cases, and (c) separate summaries, by denomination, of the domestic and the export bottled-in-bond strip stamps received, used, mutilated in cutting or overprinting, mutilated in bottling, destroyed under supervision, unaccounted for, and on hand at the beginning and end of the day. The report shall be furnished not later than the morning of the business day next succeeding the day on which the strip stamp transactions occur. Reports will not be required for days on which no transactions occur. Reports may be in simple memorandum form, or be a copy of a record or report prepared by the proprietor for his own use. Copies of such reports shall be filed as prescribed in § 225.1127.

§ 225.1126 Monthly report of strip stamps, Form 2260. At the end of each month the proprietor shall prepare a report (or reports) on Form 2260 showing, separately, a monthly summary account of domestic and export bottled-in-bond strip stamps. Reports shall be prepared in duplicate, and all copies shall be submitted to the internal revenue officer for verification of the monthly inventories of stamps on hand. After such verification the internal revenue officer will return all copies to the proprietor, who will, on or before the 10th day of the succeeding month, forward the original to the assistant regional commissioner and retain the copy for filing in accordance with § 225.1127.

§ 225.1127 Filing and retention of records and reports. All records required by this part, all auxiliary or supplemental records of individual operations and transactions from which such records are compiled, and copies of all reports submitted to the assistant regional commissioner shall be filed and maintained by the warehouseman for a period of not less than two years in such manner as to facilitate inspection by internal revenue officers. Records and reports of noncontiguous taxpaid premises shall be filed at such premises, unless the assistant regional commissioner authorizes their filing at some other location. The files of records and reports shall be available during regular business hours for examination and taking of abstracts therefrom by internal revenue officers.

PAR. 7. 26 CFR Part 230, "Bottling of Taxpaid Spirits", is amended as follows:

(A) Section 230.197 is amended as follows:

(1) By striking the word "subchapter" from the first sentence and inserting in lieu thereof the word "chapter".

(2) By striking from the ninth sentence, which begins "The proprietor will cancel", the word "subchapter" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "chapter".

(3) By striking from the 19th sentence, which begins "The proprietor shall", the phrase "Form 1697, properly modified", and inserting in lieu thereof the phrase "Form 2260".

(B) Section 230.201 is amended as follows:

(1) By striking from the first sentence the phrase "or to the wholesale liquor dealer premises or placed" and inserting in lieu thereof the phrase "or the wholesale liquor dealer premises, or be placed".

(2) By striking the last sentence.

(C) Section 230.223 is amended to read, "Red strip stamps will be furnished without charge to proprietors of taxpaid bottling houses by the district director of the district in which such bottling houses are located. Except in cases of emergency, they will not be furnished by district directors of other districts. The proprietor, on receipt of the copy of Form 428 and the stamps from the district director, will deliver the form and the stamps to the internal revenue officer for verification of receipt.".

(D) Section 230.231 is amended as follows:

(1) By striking from the headnote the word "Non-usable" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "Mutilated".

(2) By striking the first sentence.

(3) By striking from the second sentence the phrase "supervision of the" and inserting in lieu thereof the phrase "supervision of an".

(4) By changing the last sentence to read, "The proprietor will report on Form 2260 the number of each denomination of stamps so destroyed.".

(E) Subpart V is amended to read as follows:

SUBPART V—PROPRIETOR'S RECORDS AND REPORTS

RECORDS

§ 230.280 Daily records. The proprietor shall maintain, at his taxpaid bottling house, daily records which shall include all data necessary (1) to enable internal revenue officers to identify and trace the movement of all distilled spirits and wines from receipt to disposition, and to ascertain whether there has been compliance with all internal revenue laws and regulations relating to such distilled spirits and wines, and (2) to provide the proprietor with records from which the monthly report, Form 52 D, may be compiled. Such records must accurately and clearly reflect the following:

(a) The distilled spirits and wines received on the premises (including export storage and the contiguous wholesale liquor dealer room).

(b) The dumping and packaging or original bottling of distilled spirits and wines.

(c) The bottling of spirits previously packaged on the premises.

(d) The rebottling of bottled spirits removed from the case storage room, export storage, or the contiguous wholesale liquor dealer room.

(e) The distilled spirits and wines removed from the premises (including export storage and the contiguous wholesale liquor dealer room).

In addition to any other information shown thereon, such records shall, for each transaction or operation, show the date and the kind and quantity of distilled spirits or wine involved, and, where applicable, (i) the date and serial number of each Form 230, (ii) the producer or rectifier of domestic spirits, (iii) the country of origin of imported spirits, (iv) the alcohol content of wines, (v) the serial numbers of bottling tanks used, (vi) the number of cases or packages and their serial numbers, (vii) the gains or losses during each operation, and (viii) the identity of each consignor for receipts and of each consignee for shipments. Spirits packaged or bottled especially for export with benefit of drawback must be appropriately identified at each operation or transaction. Wines will be recorded in wine gallons only. Distilled spirits must be recorded in both wine and proof gallons, except that the removal of distilled spirits bottled for domestic consumption will be recorded in wine gallons only. All information required to be shown in the daily records required by this section shall be assembled or entered, as the case may be, before the close of the business day next succeeding the day on which the operation or transaction occurs.

§ 230.281 Wholesale liquor dealer room. A contiguous wholesale liquor dealer room operated by the proprietor in connection with the taxpaid bottling house, whether or not it is used exclusively for the products of such taxpaid bottling house, will be considered a part of the bottling house premises for purposes of records and reports required by this part.

(68A Stat. 619; 26 U. S. C. 5114)

REPORTS

§ 230.282 Daily memorandum report of distilled spirits bottled and strip stamps used. The proprietor shall furnish a daily report to the storekeeper-gauger showing:

(a) The number of cases of distilled spirits bottled, by number and size of bottle.

(b) The serial numbers of such cases.

(c) A summary, by denomination, of red strip stamps received, used, mutilated, unaccounted for, destroyed, and on hand at the beginning and end of the day.

The report shall be furnished not later than the morning of the business day next succeeding that on which the strip stamps were used. The report may be in simple memorandum form, or it may be a copy of a record prepared by the proprietor for his own use. Copies of such reports shall be filed as prescribed by § 230.285.

§ 230.283 Monthly report of red strip stamps. At the end of each month the proprietor shall prepare a report on Form 2260, showing a summary of all red strip stamp transactions which occurred during the month. The report shall be prepared in duplicate, and both copies shall be delivered to the storekeeper-gauger for verification of the monthly inventories of stamps on hand. After such verification both copies shall be returned to the proprietor, who shall, on or before the 10th day of the succeeding month, forward the original to the assistant regional commissioner and retain the duplicate for his files.

(68A Stat. 602; 26 U. S. C. 5008)

§ 230.284 Monthly summary report. At the end of each month the bottler shall prepare a report on Form 52 D, in duplicate, of all operations and transactions at the taxpaid bottling house during the month. The original of the report shall be submitted to the assistant regional commissioner not later than the 10th day of the succeeding month, and the duplicate shall be retained by the proprietor.

FILING AND RETENTION OF RECORDS AND REPORTS

§ 230.285 Filing. All records required by this part, all auxiliary or supplemental records of individual operations and transactions from which such records are compiled, and copies of all reports submitted shall be filed and maintained by the bottler for a period of not less than two years in such manner as to facilitate inspection by internal revenue officers. The files of records and reports shall be available during regular business hours for examination and taking of abstracts therefrom by internal revenue officers.

PROCUREMENT OF FORMS

§ 230.286 Forms to be provided by users at own expense. Forms 52 D and 230 will be provided by users at their own expense and must be in the form prescribed by the Director, Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Division.

(F) Section 230.302 is amended as follows:

(1) By striking from the first sentence the phrase "on Form 52 D, or on a separate record with identifying data in accordance with § 230.285" and inserting in lieu thereof the phrase "in the daily records required by § 230.280".

(2) By striking the second sentence.

(G) Section 230.322 is amended to read, "Separate records will not be required for operations under a new individual or corporate name, or under each trade name or style. The proprietor shall, however, note on his daily records and on his monthly reports, Forms 52 D and 2260, the individual or corporate names or the trade names or styles under which operations were conducted during the month. In addition, the dates of operation under each such name shall be shown on Forms 52 D and 2260."

(H) Section 230.332 is amended by striking from the last sentence the phrase "part 2 of Form 182" and inserting in lieu thereof the phrase "Form 2260".

(I) Section 230.333 is amended to read, "Where there is a change in the proprietorship otherwise than by operation of law, the outgoing proprietor shall enter in his daily records of disposition and report on his Form 52 D all spirits transferred to his successor, who shall in turn enter in his daily records of receipt and report on his Form 52 D all spirits received from his predecessor. Where an administrator, executor, assignee, receiver, trustee, or other fiduciary succeeds to the business and qualifies to operate the same, his daily records and Form 52 D shall reflect such succession."

PAR. 8. 26 CFR Part 235, "Rectification of Spirits and Wines", is amended as follows:

(B) Section 235.465 is amended by striking the second sentence.

(C) Section 235.498 is amended by striking from the last sentence the phrase "also make appropriate entries on Form 45 of" and inserting in lieu thereof the phrase "report on Form 45".

(D) Section 235.544 is amended to read, "Section 5041, I. R. C., imposes a tax, at rates prescribed therein, on all wines (including imitation, substandard, or artificial wine, and compounds sold as wine, which contain 24 percent or less of alcohol by volume) in bond in, produced in, or imported into, the United States; such tax to be determined as of the time of removal for consumption or sale. All wines which contain more than 24 percent of alcohol by volume are classed as distilled spirits and taxed accordingly.".

(E) Section 235.551 is amended by changing the first sentence to read, "Section 5022, I. R. C., imposes a tax, at the rate prescribed therein, on all liqueurs, cordials, or similar compounds produced in the United States and not sold as wine, which contain more than 2½ percent by volume of wine of an alcohol content in excess of 14 percent by volume (other than bottled cocktails); such tax to be in lieu of the rectification tax imposed by Section 5021, I. R. C.".

(F) Section 235.627 is amended by striking from the last sentence the phrase "and Form 45".

(G) Section 235.720 is amended by changing the last sentence to read, "Report of such transfers of stamps must be made on Form 2260 by the proprietors of both premises.".

(H) Section 235.722 is amended by striking from the last sentence the phrase "Form 45" and inserting in lieu thereof the phrase "the Form 2260".

(I) Section 235.723 is amended as follows:

(1) By changing the headnote to read "Stamp report.".

(2) By striking from the first sentence the phrase "keep a record on Form 45" and inserting in lieu thereof the phrase "make a report on Form 2260".

(3) By striking the remainder of the section.

(J) Section 235.742 is amended by striking the last sentence.

(K) Section 235.747 is amended to read, "Red strip stamps will be furnished without charge to proprietors of rectifying plants by the district director of the district in which such plants are located. Except in cases of emergency, they will not be furnished by district directors of other districts. The proprietor, on receipt of the copy of Form 428 and the stamps from the district director, will deliver the form and the stamps to the storekeeper-gauger for verification of receipt.".

(1) By striking from the headnote the word "Non-usable" and inserting in lieu thereof the word "mutilated".

(2) By striking the first sentence.

(3) By striking from the last sentence the phrase "enter appropriate credit on Form 182 for" and inserting in lieu thereof the phrase "report on Form 2260".

(M) Section 235.807 is amended as follows:

(1) By striking from the first sentence the phrase "on Form 45 or Record 52, or on a separate record with identifying data in accordance with § 235.821" and inserting in lieu thereof the phrase "in the daily records as provided in § 235.815".

(2) By striking the second sentence, which begins "Broken cases".

(N) Subpart JJ is amended to read as follows:

SUBPART JJ—RECTIFIER'S RECORDS AND REPORTS

RECORDS

§ 235.815 Daily records. The rectifier shall maintain, at his rectifying plant, daily records which shall include all data necessary (1) to enable internal revenue officers to identify and trace the movement of all distilled spirits and wines from receipt to disposition, and to ascertain whether there has been compliance with all internal revenue laws and regulations relating to such distilled spirits and wines, and (2) to provide the rectifier with records from which the monthly report, Form 45, may be compiled. Such records must accurately and clearly reflect the following:

(a) The distilled spirits, wines, and alcoholic flavoring materials received on the premises, including export storage and the contiguous wholesale liquor dealer room.

(b) The distilled spirits, wines, and alcoholic flavoring materials dumped for rectification.

(c) The rectification of each batch of distilled spirits and wines.

(d) The packaging or original bottling of each batch of distilled spirits and wines after rectification.

(e) The transfer of rectified products by pipeline to contiguous premises.

(f) The dumping and packaging or original bottling of distilled spirits and wines without rectification.

(g) The bottling of products previously packaged on the premises.

(h) The rebottling of bottled products removed from the finished products room, contiguous wholesale liquor dealer room, or export storage.

(i) The distilled spirits and wines removed from the premises. Separate records will be made of removals from the receiving room and removals from the finished products room (including export storage and the contiguous wholesale liquor dealer room).

In addition to any other information shown therein, such records shall, for each transaction or operation, show the date and the kind and quantity of distilled spirits or wine (including alcoholic flavoring materials) involved, and, where applicable, (i) the date and serial number of each Form 122, 230, or 237, (ii) the producer or rectifier of domestic spirits, (iii) the country or origin of imported spirits, (iv) the alcohol content of wines and flavoring materials, (v) the serial numbers of bottling tanks used, (vi) the serial number of the formula, (vii) the number of cases or packages and their serial numbers (identifying tank cars, tank trucks, and pipeline removals as such), (viii) the gains and losses during each operation, and (ix) the identity of each consignor for receipts and of each consignee for shipments. Products packaged or bottled especially for export with benefit of drawback must be appropriately identified at each operation or transaction. Quantities shall be recorded in both wine and proof gallons, except that the removal of finished products bottled for domestic consumption will be recorded in wine gallons only. All information required to be shown in the daily records required by this section shall be assembled or entered, as the case may be, before the close of the business day next succeeding the day on which the operation or transaction occurs.

§ 235.816 Wholesale liquor dealer room. A contiguous wholesale liquor dealer room operated by the proprietor in connection with the rectifying plant, whether or not it is used exclusively for the products of such rectifying plant, will be considered a part of such rectifying plant for purposes of records and reports required by this part.

REPORTS

§ 235.817 Daily memorandum report of distilled spirits bottled and strip stamps used. The rectifier shall furnish a daily report to the storekeeper-gauger showing (a) the number of cases of distilled spirits bottled, by number and size of bottle, (b) the serial numbers of such cases, and (c) a summary, by denomination, of red strip stamps received, used, mutilated, unaccounted for, destroyed, and on hand at the beginning and end of the day. The report shall be furnished not later than the morning of the business day next succeeding that on which the strip stamps were used. The report may be in a simple memorandum form, or it may be a copy of a record prepared by the proprietor for his own use. Copies of such reports shall be filed as prescribed in § 235.821.

§ 235.818 Monthly report of red strip stamps. At the end of each month the proprietor shall prepare a report on Form 2260, showing a summary of all red strip stamp transactions which occurred during the month. The report shall be prepared in duplicate, and both copies shall be delivered to the storekeeper-gauger for verification of the monthly inventories of stamps on hand. After such verification, both copies shall be returned to the proprietor, who shall, on or before the 10th day of the succeeding month, forward the original to the assistant regional commissioner and retain the duplicate for his files.

§ 235.819 Report of rectified spirits stamps (for bottling tanks). At the end of each month the rectifier shall prepare a summary report on Form 2260, in duplicate, of all operations and transactions in rectified spirits stamps (for bottling tanks) which occurred during the month. He shall submit the original of the report to the assistant regional commissioner not later than the 10th day of the succeeding month, and retain the duplicate for his files.

(68A Stat. 681; 26 U. S. C. 5555)

§ 235.820 Monthly summary report. At the end of each month the rectifier shall prepare a report on Form 45, in duplicate, of all operations and transactions at the rectifying plant during the month. He shall submit the original of the report to the assistant regional commissioner not later than the 10th day of the succeeding month, and retain the duplicate for his files.

(68A Stat. 652, 681; 26 U. S. C. 5285, 5555)

FILING AND RETENTION OF RECORDS AND REPORTS

§ 235.821 Filing. All records required by this part, all auxiliary or supplemental records of individual operations and transactions from which such records are compiled, and copies of all reports submitted shall be filed and maintained by the rectifier for a period of not less than two years in such manner as to facilitate inspection by internal revenue officers. The files of records and reports shall be available during regular business hours for examination and taking of abstracts therefrom by internal revenue officers.

(68A Stat. 652, 681; 26 U. S. C. 5285, 5555)

PROCUREMENT OF FORMS

§ 235.822 Forms to be provided by users at own expense. Forms 45, 122, 230, and 237 will be provided by users at their own expense and must be in the form prescribed by the Director, Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Division.

(68A Stat. 652, 681; 26 U. S. C. 5285, 5555)

(O) Section 235.851 is amended to read, "Separate records will not be required for operations under a new individual or corporate name or under each trade name or style. The rectifier shall, however, note on his daily records, and on his monthly reports on Forms 45 and 2260 the individual or corporate name or the trade names or styles under which operations were conducted during the month. In addition, the dates of operation under each such name shall be shown on Forms 45 and 2260.".

(P) Section 235.861 is amended as follows:

(1) By striking from the second sentence, which begins "The form", the phrase "of this part".

(2) By striking from the third sentence, which begins "Upon completion", the phrase "of this part".

(3) By striking from the last sentence the phrase "entries are made in Form 45" and inserting in lieu thereof the phrase "records are prepared as prescribed in § 235.815".

(Q) Section 235.865 is amended to read, "The outgoing rectifier may not transfer any strip stamps to his successor. Where the change of proprietorship of the plant is to be of a temporary nature, any strip stamps on hand belonging to the outgoing proprietor may be retained pending the qualification and resumption of operations by such proprietor, and he will continue to submit a monthly report on Form 2260 of such stamps.".

(R) Section 235.866 is amended as follows:

(1) By striking from the second sentence, which begins "Where the change", the phrase "and proper report will be rendered on Form 45", and inserting in lieu thereof the phrase ", who will continue to submit monthly reports of such stamps as prescribed in § 235.818".

(2) By striking the last sentence.

(S) Section 235.867 is amended to read, "Where there is a change in proprietorship otherwise than by operation of law, the outgoing rectifier shall enter in his daily records of disposition and report on his Form 45, all spirits transferred to his successor, who shall in turn enter in his daily records of receipt and report on his Form 45 all spirits as received from his predecessor.".

(T) Section 235.868 is amended by striking from the last sentence the phrase "Form 182" and inserting in lieu thereof the phrase "Form 2260".

PAR. 9. 26 CFR Part 240, "Wine", is amended by changing § 240.594 to read "Section 5041, I. R. C., imposes a tax, at rates prescribed therein, on all wines (including imitation, substandard, or artificial wine, and compounds sold as wine, which contain 24 percent or less of alcohol by volume) in bond in, produced in, or imported into, the United States; such tax to be determined as of the time of removal for consumption or sale. Wine containing more than 24 percent of alcohol by volume shall be classed as distilled spirits and taxed accordingly. The tax shall be determined and paid on the quantity of wine marked on the containers as provided in §§ 240.562 and 240.567, or (in case of pipeline removals) on the quantity determined as provided in § 240.597.".

DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH, EDUCATION, AND WELFARE

Social Security Administration

[20 CFR Part 403]

[Reg. 3, further amended]

FEDERAL OLD AGE AND SURVIVORS INSURANCE; TIME WITHIN WHICH REQUESTS FOR HEARING MUST BE FILED

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE MAKING

Notice is hereby given pursuant to the Administrative Procedure Act approved June 11, 1946, that the amendment to regulation set forth in tentative form below is proposed by the Commissioner of Social Security, with the approval of the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare, as an amendment to present Social Security Administration Regulations No. 3 as amended (20 CFR 403.1 et seq.). It is proposed to amend the existing regulation by prescribing time limitations within which requests for hearing pursuant to section 205 (b) of the Social Security Act must be filed.

Prior to the final adoption of the proposed amendment, consideration will be given to any data, views, or arguments pertaining thereto which are submitted in writing in duplicate to the Commissioner of Social Security, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, at the Health, Education, and Welfare Building, Fourth Street and Independence Avenue SW., Washington 25, D. C., within a period of thirty days from the date of publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

The proposed amendment is to be issued under the authority contained in sections 205 and 1102 of the Social Security Act, 53 Stat. 1368 as amended, 49 Stat. 647 as amended, and section 5 of Reorganization Plan No. 1 of 1953, 67 Stat. 18.

[SEAL] CHARLES I. SCHOTTLAND,
Commissioner of Social Security.

Approved: December 28, 1956.

M. B. FOLSOM,
Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare.

§ 403.709 Hearing. • • •

(b) Time and place of filing request for hearing. (1) The request for hearing shall be made in writing and filed at an office of the Bureau, or with a referee, or with the Office of Appeals Council in the Social Security Administration.

(2) If no request for reconsideration has been filed, as provided in § 403.708 (a) and (b), the request for hearing must be filed within six months from the date of mailing notice of the initial determination, except where the time is extended as provided in §§ 403.701 (j) and 403.711 (a). If a request for reconsideration has been filed, the request for hearing must be filed prior to the expiration of three months after the date of mailing notice of the reconsidered determination, or within six months after the date of mailing notice of the initial determination, whichever is later, except where the time is extended as provided in §§ 403.701 (j) and 403.711 (a). In any case, other than one where hearing is authorized under section 205 (c) (7) of the act, in which the notice of initial determination was mailed prior to August 1, 1956, the request for hearing must be filed within the time specified above, or on or before February 1, 1957, whichever is later, except where the time is extended as provided in §§ 403.701 (j) and 403.711 (a).

ATOMIC ENERGY COMMISSION

[Docket No. F-36]

BABCOCK & WILCOX CO.

NOTICE OF PROPOSED ISSUANCE OF FACILITY EXPORT LICENSE

Please take notice that the Atomic Energy Commission proposes to issue on Form AEC-250, a facility export license, XR-2, described below unless within 15 days after publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER, a request for a formal hearing is filed with the Commission in the manner prescribed by § 2.102 (b) of the Commission's rules of practice (10 CFR 2.102 (b)).

1. Pursuant to section 104 (c) of the Atomic Energy Act of 1954 and 10 CFR, Chapter I, Part 50, "Licensing of Production of Utilization Facilities," and upon findings that (a) the reactor proposed to be exported is a utilization facility as defined in said act and regulations, and (b) the issuance of a license for the export thereof is within the scope of and is consistent with the terms of an agreement for cooperation with Brazil, the Atomic Energy Commission proposes to issue a license to Babcock & Wilcox Company, 161 East 42d Street, New York 17, N. Y., for the export of a 5 megawatt pool type research reactor described in the supplement to its application filed October 19, 1956, to the Conselho Nacional de Pesquisas do Brasil, a Department of the Brazilian Government, for operation by the University of Sao Paulo.

2. The license will be subject to the following conditions:

(a) Neither the license nor any right under the license shall be assigned or otherwise transferred in violation of the provisions of the Atomic Energy Act of 1954.

(b) The license will be subject to the right of recapture or control reserved by section 108 of the Atomic Energy Act of 1954, and to all other provisions of the act, now or hereafter in effect, and to all rules and regulations of the United States Atomic Energy Commission.

(c) The license will be effective as of the date of issuance thereof and shall expire on March 31, 1958, unless sooner terminated.

Dated at Washington, D. C., this 31st day of December 1956.

For the Atomic Energy Commission.

FEDERAL POWER COMMISSION

[Docket No. G-11651]

GEORGE C. MCGHEE ET AL.

ORDER SUSPENDING PROPOSED CHANGE IN RATES

George C. McGhee (Operator) et al. (McGhee), on November 30, 1956, tendered for filing a proposed change in the presently effective rate schedules for sales of natural gas subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission. The proposed change, which constitutes an increased rate, is contained in the following designated filing, which is proposed to become effective on the date shown:

Description, Purchaser, Rate Schedule Description, and Effective Date[1]

Notice of change, dated November 30, 1956; Texas Gas Transmission Corporation; Supplement No. 2 to McGhee's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 2; January 1, 1957.

In support of the increase, McGhee cites the terms of a "favored nations" provision in his 20-year gas sales contract, which McGhee states was a major inducement to him for entering such contract after arm's length bargaining. See, however, the views of the Commission expressed in Union Oil Company of California, et al., Opinion No. 300, issued December 6, 1956.

[1] The stated effective date is the first day after the expiration of the required thirty days notice, or the effective date proposed by McGhee, if later.

The increased rates and charges proposed in the aforesaid filing have not been shown to be justified, and may be unjust, unreasonable, unduly discriminatory, or preferential, or otherwise unlawful.

The Commission finds: It is necessary and proper in the public interest and to aid in the enforcement of the provisions of the Natural Gas Act that the Commission enter upon a hearing concerning the lawfulness of the said proposed change, and that the above-designated supplement be suspended and the use thereof deferred as hereinafter ordered.

The Commission orders:

(A) Pursuant to the authority contained in sections 4 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act and the Commission's general rules and regulations (18 CFR Chapter I) a public hearing be held upon a date to be fixed by notice from the Secretary concerning the lawfulness of said proposed change in rates and charges; and, pending such hearing and decision thereon, the above-designated supplement be and the same hereby is suspended and the use thereof deferred until June 1, 1957, and until such further time as it is made effective in the manner prescribed by the Natural Gas Act.

(B) Neither the supplement hereby suspended nor the rate schedule sought to be altered thereby shall be changed until this proceeding has been disposed of or until the period of suspension has expired, unless otherwise ordered by the Commission.

(C) Interested State commissions may participate as provided by §§ 1.8 and 1.37 (f) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 and 1.37 (f)).

Issued: December 27, 1956.

[Docket No. G-11652]

RUSSELL MAGUIRE ET AL.

ORDER SUSPENDING PROPOSED CHANGE IN RATES

Russell Maguire (Operator) et al. (Maguire) on November 29, 1956, tendered for filing a proposed change in the presently effective rate schedules for sales of natural gas subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission. The proposed change, which constitutes an increased rate, is contained in the following designated filing, which is proposed to become effective on the date shown:

Description; Purchaser; Rate Schedule Designation; and Effective Date[1]

Notice of change, dated November 28, 1956; Texas Eastern Transmission Corporation; Supplement No. 3 to Maguire's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 2; December 29, 1956.

[1] The stated effective date is the first day after expiration of the required thirty days notice, or the effective date proposed by Maguire, if later.

In support of the increase, Maguire states only that it derives from the terms of an arm's length contract, does not involve large dollar amounts and that Maguire's costs and expenditures will increase as the reservoirs are depleted. See, however, the views of the Commission expressed in Union Oil Company of California, et al., Opinion No. 300 issued December 6, 1956.

The increased rates and charges proposed in the aforesaid filings have not been shown to be justified, and may be unjust, unreasonable, unduly discriminatory, or preferential, or otherwise unlawful.

The Commission finds: It is necessary and proper in the public interest and to aid in the enforcement of the provisions of the Natural Gas Act that the Commission enter upon a hearing concerning the lawfulness of the said proposed change, and that the above-designated supplement be suspended and the use thereof deferred as hereinafter ordered.

The Commission orders:

(A) Pursuant to the authority contained in sections 4 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act and the Commission's general rules and regulations (18 CFR, Chapter I), a public hearing be held upon a date to be fixed by notice from the Secretary concerning the lawfulness of said proposed change in rates and charges; and, pending such hearing and decision the above-designated supplement be and the same hereby is suspended and the use thereof deferred until May 29, 1957, and until such further time as it is made effective in the manner prescribed by the Natural Gas Act.

(B) Neither the supplement hereby suspended, nor the rate schedule sought to be altered thereby shall be changed until this proceeding has been disposed of or until the period of suspension has expired, unless otherwise ordered by the Commission.

(C) Interested State commissions may participate as provided by §§ 1.8 and 1.37 (f) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 and 1.37 (f)).

CHICAGO CORP. ET AL.

ORDER SUSPENDING PROPOSED CHANGE IN RATES

The Chicago Corporation, et al. (Chicago) on November 28, 1956, tendered for filing a proposed change in the presently effective rate schedule for sales subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission. The proposed change, which constitutes an increased rate, is contained in the following designated filing, which is proposed to become effective on the date shown:

Description, Purchaser, Rate Schedule Designation, and Effective Date[1]

Notice of change undated; Texas Eastern Transmission Corporation; Supplement No. 3 to FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 24; December 28, 1956.

In support of the increase, Chicago states only the terms of its 20-year contract and the pricing arrived at therein in view of the length of time involved and Chicago's prospective costs and expenditures. See, however, the views of the Commission expressed in Union Oil Company of California, et al., Opinion No. 300, issued December 6, 1956.

The increased rates and charges proposed in the aforesaid filing have not been shown to be justified, and may be unjust, unreasonable, unduly discriminatory, or preferential, or otherwise unlawful.

The Commission finds: It is necessary and proper in the public interest and to aid in the enforcement of the provisions of the Natural Gas Act that the Commission enter upon a hearing concerning the lawfulness of the said proposed change, and that the above-designated supplement be suspended and the use thereof deferred as hereinafter ordered.

The Commission orders:

(A) Pursuant to the authority contained in sections 4 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act and the Commission's general rules and regulations (18 CFR Chapter I), a public hearing be held upon a date to be fixed by notice from the Secretary concerning the lawfulness of said proposed change in rates and charges; and, pending such hearing and decision thereon, the above-designated supplement be and the same hereby is suspended and the use thereof deferred until May 28, 1957, and until such further time as it is made effective in the manner prescribed by the Natural Gas Act.

ALABAMA-TENNESSEE NATURAL GAS CO.

ORDER SUSPENDING PROPOSED CHANGES IN RATE SCHEDULE AND SERVICE AGREEMENT

On November 30, 1956, Alabama-Tennessee Natural Gas Company (Alabama-

[2] Commissioner Digby dissenting.

[1] The stated effective date is the first day after expiration of the required thirty days notice, or the effective date proposed by Chicago, if later.

Tennessee) submitted for filing proposed changes in its rate schedule provisions and forms of service agreement with regard to sales of natural gas subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission. The presently material changes[1] are contained in Original Sheets Nos. 11–A, 11–B, 11–C, 28–A, 28–B, 28–C and 36–E of Alabama-Tennessee's FPC Gas Tariff, First Revised Volume No. 1, and are proposed to become effective (pursuant to requested waiver of notice), on December 1, 1956.

The proposal contemplates the establishment of Rate Schedule OPS–CD1 (Optional Peak Service Contract Demand) to be available through April 30, 1957 containing the same monthly rate levels as those in effect for peaking service during the winter season 1955–1956; a demand charge of $2.25 per Mcf of billing demand and a commodity charge of 75 cents per Mcf for the volumes of peaking gas delivered.[2] Under the proposal, Alabama-Tennessee's customers must, inter alia, elect a billing demand under the General Service Rate Schedule (Rate Schedule G–1) not less than 108% of the billing demand applicable to them respectively on April 30, 1956. Under the proposal, billing demand for the peaking service is importantly changed from that in effect during the winter season 1955–1956, in that such billing demand is the contracted demand for such peaking service instead of the highest peaking service demand actually established during the term of the applicable Rate Schedule.[3]

Letters protesting the change to contract demand billing have been received from five of the eight customers eligible for peaking gas service. Additionally, another customer urges return to the billing arrangement previously used.

Upon consideration of the proposed change, the reasons advanced in support thereof, and the objections advanced thereto, it appears that the proposed change in rate schedule and in the provisions of Alabama-Tennessee's service agreement related thereto have not been shown to be justified, and may be unjust, unreasonable, unduly discriminatory, or preferential, or otherwise unlawful. Accordingly, such proposed change must be suspended pending hearing thereon, and cannot be presently given the December 1, 1956 effective date requested by Alabama-Tennessee. However, the overall effect of the proposed change, despite the indicated questions as to its sufficiency in terms of reasonableness and discrimination, may be in general more advantageous to Alabama-Tennessee's customers than supply to them during the period December 1, 1956–April 30, 1957 under Alabama-Tennessee's otherwise applicable Rate Schedule G–1. Alabama-Tennessee has indicated its desire to make such advantages immediately available to its customers, which can be accomplished by its motion, at the end of the one-day suspension hereinafter ordered, to make its proposals effective pursuant to section 4 (e) of the Natural Gas Act.

In addition, the matter of the requested effective date of December 1, 1956 can be given further consideration at the conclusion of the hearings to be hereinafter provided for.

The Commission finds: It is necessary and proper in the public interest and to aid in the enforcement of the provisions of the Natural Gas Act that the Commission enter upon a hearing concerning the lawfulness of the said proposed change in rate schedule and service agreement, and that the above-designated tariff sheets be suspended and the use thereof deferred as hereinafter ordered.

The Commission orders:

(A) Pursuant to the authority contained in sections 4, 5, 15 and 16 of the Natural Gas Act and the Commission's general rules and regulations (18 CFR, Chapter I), a public hearing be held, upon a date to be fixed by notice from the Secretary, concerning the lawfulness of said proposed change in rate schedule and service agreement; and, pending such hearing and decision thereon Original Sheets Nos. 11–A, 11–B, 11–C, 28–A, 28–B, 28–C and 36–E to Alabama-Tennessee's FPC Gas Tariff, First Revised Volume No. 1 hereby are suspended and the use thereof deferred until January 1, 1957 and until such further time as they may be made effective in the manner prescribed by the Natural Gas Act.

(B) Pending such hearing and decision thereon, the proposed rate schedule, terms and conditions contained in the revised tariff sheets referred to in (A) above, hereby are suspended and their use deferred until January 1, 1957, unless otherwise ordered by the Commission, and until such further time thereafter as they may be made effective in the manner prescribed by the Natural Gas Act.

(C) Interested State commissions may participate as provided by §§ 1.8 and 1.37 (f) (18 CFR 1.8 and 1.37 (f)) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure.

Issued: December 27, 1956.

By the Commission.

[SEAL] J. H. GUTRIDE,
Acting Secretary.

[F. R. Doc. 57–49; Filed, Jan. 3, 1957; 8:46 a. m.]

[1] Other changes submitted on November 30, 1956, consisting of clarifying provisions contained in First Revised Sheets Nos. 4, 6, 7, 8, 9, 23, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, and 37, and in Second Revised Sheet No. 5, of the above designated Volume No. 1, are not involved in the present order.

[2] I. e., volumes on any day in excess of the customer-elected billing demand under Alabama-Tennessee's existing Rate Schedule G–1.

[3] Assuming the normal event, that Alabama-Tennessee's customers fix such contracted demand at the level of the greatest demand anticipated under average winter conditions, the proposal in effect would probably result in increased rates to such customers over the rates incurred last winter.

UNITED GAS PIPE LINE CO.

ORDER REOPENING PROCEEDING AND FIXING DATE OF HEARING

United Gas Pipe Line Company (Applicant), a Delaware corporation with principal place of business at Shreveport, Louisiana, filed on November 9, 1956, an application for a certificate of public convenience and necessity, pursuant to section 7 (c) of the Natural Gas Act, authorizing Applicant to render service as hereinafter described, subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission, all as more fully represented in the application which is on file with the Commission and open for public inspection.

The aforesaid application was filed by Applicant as a part of its petition to amend the findings and order of the Commission issued on May 28, 1956, in the matter of United Gas Pipe Line Company in Docket No. G–9638 wherein Applicant was authorized, inter alia, to construct and operate certain line taps and appurtenant facilities for the purpose of selling and delivering natural gas in interstate commerce to The Utilities Board of the Town of Foley, Alabama (Riviera Utilities) (1) for resale and distribution in the municipalities of Bon Secour, Foley, Loxley, Magnolia Springs and Southport, Alabama, (2) for resale to the Naval Air Station at Barin Field and (3) for resale to customers adjacent to Riviera Utilities' transmission lines. The remainder of the petition, seeks an extension of time within which to construct and place in operation the instant facilities, and will be disposed of by separate order of the Commission.

Applicant now seeks authorization to sell and deliver an additional volume of natural gas in interstate commerce to Riviera Utilities for resale and distribution by Riviera Utilities in the Town of Summerdale, Alabama.

The estimated annual gas requirements and peak day gas requirements for the Town of Summerdale in Mcf for the first 3 years of operation together with the presently authorized gas requirements and the revised gas requirements of Riviera Utilities are as follows:

Year	(Proposed) Summerdale	Present authorization	Revised requirements including Summerdale Annual:
1	3,977	178,874	182,851
2	4,751	196,373	201,124
3	5,555	215,219	220,774
Peak day:
1	38	1,570	1,608
2	41	1,672	1,713
3	47	1,772	1,819

The Commission finds:

(1) That this matter should be disposed of as promptly as possible under the applicable rules and regulations.

(2) That the public interest requires the reopening of the proceeding in the matter of United Gas Pipe Line Company in Docket No. G–9638 solely for the purpose of considering the proposed sale of natural gas by Applicant in interstate commerce to Riviera Utilities for resale and distribution in the Town of Summerdale, Alabama.

The Commission orders:

(A) That the proceeding in the matter of United Gas Pipe Line Company in Docket No. G–9638 be and the same hereby is reopened solely for the purpose of considering the proposed sale of natural gas by Applicant in interstate commerce to Riviera Utilities for resale and distribution in the Town of Summerdale, Alabama.

(B) That pursuant to the authority contained in and subject to the jurisdiction conferred upon the Federal Power Commission by sections 7 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act, and the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, a hearing will be held on Monday, January 7, 1957, at 9:30 a. m., e. s. t., in a hearing room of the Federal Power Commission, 441 G Street NW., Washington, D. C., concerning the matters involved in and the issues presented by the instant application: Provided, however, That the Commission may, after a non-contested hearing, dispose of the proceedings pursuant to the provisions of § 1.30 (c) (1) or (2) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure. Under the procedure herein provided for, unless otherwise advised, it will be unnecessary for Applicant to appear or be represented at the hearing.

(C) That protests or petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington 25, D. C., in accordance with the rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) on or before December 24, 1956. Failure of any party to appear at and participate in the hearing shall be construed as waiver of and concurrence in omission herein of the intermediate decision procedure in cases where a request therefor is made.

Issued: December 11, 1956.

By the Commission.

SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION

[File No. 70–3538]

KENTUCKY POWER CO.

ORDER PERMITTING DECLARATION TO BECOME EFFECTIVE REGARDING BANK BORROWINGS BY SUBSIDIARY OF REGISTERED HOLDING COMPANY PURSUANT TO LINE OF CREDIT

DECEMBER 28, 1956.

Kentucky Power Company ("Kentucky"), a public utility subsidiary of American Gas and Electric Company ("American Gas"), a registered holding company has filed a declaration with this Commission pursuant to section 7 of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("act") regarding the following proposed transactions:

Kentucky has heretofore established a line of credit with the Irving Trust Company and The Hanover Bank in an aggregate amount of $2,100,000 for the purpose of financing its construction program through the years 1955 and 1956, and in connection therewith filed a declaration with this Commission which was permitted to become effective by Commission Order dated March 16, 1955 (Holding Company Act Release No. 12821). Thereafter, Kentucky issued Notes evidencing borrowings aggregating $1,850,000 under this line of credit and it is expected that the full amount of the $2,100,000 line of credit will have been utilized at December 31, 1956.

Kentucky now proposes to increase this line of credit by $2,000,000 to an aggregate amount of $4,100,000 and proposes to make additional borrowings thereunder from time to time prior to December 31, 1957. The borrowings are to be evidenced by promissory notes of Kentucky due not more than 270 days from the dates of issuance, bearing interest at the prime credit rate in effect at the respective dates of issuance and prepayable without premium.

The proceeds from all of these borrowings are to be used in connection with Kentucky's program of construction which it estimates will involve expenditures totaling approximately $2,945,000 for the year 1957.

Any future plan for financing of a permanent nature will provide for the prepayment of all of the then outstanding notes and Kentucky agrees that upon completion of such financing the authorization requested herein shall terminate.

No State commission and no Federal commission other than this Commission has jurisdiction over the proposed transaction.

No legal or other fees, commissions or expenses are to be paid or incurred by Kentucky or any associate company in connection with the proposed transaction except that routine services incident to the transaction have been and will be performed, at cost, by American Gas and Electric Service Corporation, the service corporation for the American Gas and Electric System.

Due notice having been given of the filing of said declaration in the manner prescribed by Rule U–23 (Holding Company Act Release No. 13332) and no hearing having been requested of or ordered by the Commission; and the Commission finding that the applicable standards of the act and the rules promulgated thereunder are satisfied and that no adverse findings are necessary; and the Commission deeming it appropriate in the public interest and in the interest of investors and consumers that said declaration be permitted to become effective forthwith:

It is ordered, Pursuant to Rule U–23 and the applicable provisions of the act, that said declaration be, and the same hereby is, permitted to become effective forthwith, subject to the terms and conditions prescribed in Rule U–24.

By the Commission.

Secretary.

ATLAS CORP.

NOTICE OF FILING OF APPLICATION FOR ORDER EXEMPTING TRANSACTIONS BETWEEN AFFILIATES

DECEMBER 28, 1956.

Notice is hereby given that Atlas Corporation ("Atlas") a registered closed-end, non-diversified management investment company, has filed an amended application, pursuant to section 17 (b) of the Investment Company Act of 1940 ("act"), for an order exempting from the provisions of section 17 (a) of the act the transaction described below.

Atlas proposes to purchase from Stanrock Uranium Mines Limited ("Stanrock") certain securities for an aggregate consideration of $500,000.

Atlas owns 959,000 shares of Common Stock of Stancan Uranium Corporation ("Stancan") out of a total of 6,677,388 such shares outstanding. Thus Atlas owns 14.36 percent of the Common Stock of Stancan, and Stancan is therefore an affiliated person of Atlas within the meaning of section 2 (a) (3) of the act. Stancan owns 2,310,101, or 70.54 percent and Atlas owns 95,900 or 2.93 percent of the 3,275,007 shares of Common Stock of Stanrock outstanding. Stanrock is, therefore, an affiliated person of Stancan within the meaning of section 2 (a) (3) of the act.

Stanrock, a corporation organized under the laws of the Province of Ontario, Canada, owns certain mining claims located in that Province and pursuant to a contract with Eldorado Mining and Refining Limited, an agency of the Crown in Canada, proposes to sell to the latter agency uranium concentrates produced from a mill to be built by Stanrock. In order to provide the initial temporary financing for these mining operations and the proposed mill, Stanrock has arranged to sell to a small group of investors, including Atlas, $3,000,000 principal amount of 5¼ percent First Mortgage Bonds due June 1, 1957, and 450,000 shares of Common Stock for a total consideration of $3,000,000. Of this amount Atlas has agreed to purchase, subject to the order of this Commission, $500,000 principal amount of First Mortgage Bonds and 75,000 shares of Common Stock of Stanrock, for a total consideration of $500,000. Stanrock's books will reflect the sale of the Bonds at 85 percent of their principal amount, and in the case of the Common Shares, at one dollar per share.

Negotiations are now in progress for the purpose of establishing a permanent financing program which is expected to provide approximately $24,500,000. It is anticipated that this program will be completed prior to the maturity date of the Bonds and will provide proceeds out of which the Bonds will be repaid at or before maturity. Applicant represents that the terms of the proposed transaction are fair and reasonable to all persons concerned. In support thereof, it is stated that the terms of the proposed financing were negotiated at arm's length between Stanrock and informed investors participating in the purchasing group who were not at the time affiliated in any way with Stanrock or Atlas.

Applicant also represents that the terms of the proposed financing reasonably reflect existing conditions in the market for capital funds available to Stanrock and that the inclusion of Common Shares in the unit offered for purchase at a price less than the current market price thereof, constitutes an essential inducement to the sale of the Bonds. (As of December 3, 1956, Stanrock common stock was quoted at 3 bid and 3¼ asked.)

Section 17 (a) of the act prohibits an affiliated person of a registered investment company, or an affiliated person of such a person from selling to or purchasing from such registered investment company or any company controlled by such registered investment company, any security or other property, subject to certain exceptions, unless the Commission upon application pursuant to section 17 (b) grants an exemption from the provisions of section 17 (a), after finding that the terms of the proposed transaction, including the consideration to be paid, are reasonable and fair and do not involve overreaching on the part of any person concerned, that the proposed transaction is consistent with the policy of each registered investment company concerned, as recited in its registration statement and reports filed under the act, and is consistent with the general purposes of the act. Since, by definition under the act, Stanrock is an affiliated person of Stancan, and Stancan is an affiliated person of Atlas, a registered investment company, the proposed purchase of securities by Atlas from Stanrock is subject to the provisions of section 17 (a) of the act.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than January 14, 1957, at 5:30 p. m., submit to the Commission in writing any facts bearing upon the desirability of a hearing on the matter and may request that a hearing be held, such request stating the nature of his interest, the reasons for such request and the issues, if any, of fact or law proposed to be controverted, or he may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. Any such communication or request should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington 25, D. C. At any time after said date, the application may be granted as provided in Rule N-5 of the rules and regulations promulgated under the act.

By the Commission.

FOURTH SECTION APPLICATIONS FOR RELIEF

DECEMBER 31, 1956.

Protests to the granting of an application must be prepared in accordance with Rule 40 of the general rules of practice (49 CFR 1.40) and filed within 15 days from the date of publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

LONG-AND-SHORT HAUL

FSA No. 33117: Trailer-on-flat-car service, Missouri Pacific Railroad. Filed by Missouri Pacific Railroad Company, Agent, for itself. Rates on freight loaded in highway truck-trailers and transported on railroad flat cars, between St. Louis, Mo.-East St. Louis, Ill., and points taking the same rates, on the one hand, and Atchison, Leavenworth, Kans., Independence, Kansas City, and St. Joseph, Mo., and points taking the same rates, on the other.

Grounds for relief: Motor-truck competition.

Tariff: Missouri Pacific Railroad Company tariff I. C. C. 36.

FSA No. 33118: Potassium from New York points to Cincinnati, Ohio. Filed by O. E. Schultz, Agent, for interested rail carriers. Rates on potassium (Potash), caustic, tank-car loads from Syracuse, Solvay, Niagara Falls, and Suspension Bridge, N. Y., to Cincinnati, Ohio.

Grounds for relief: Market competition and circuity.

Tariffs: Supplement 8 to Agent C. W. Boin's tariff I. C. C. No. A-1116 and other issues listed in the application.

FSA No. 33119: Various commodities between points in Texas. Filed by J. F. Brown, Agent, for interested rail carriers. Rates on (A) cement mix, carloads (B) newsprint paper, carloads and (C) sugar, beet, cane, corn, or sorghum grain, carloads, (A) from Echo, Tex., to points in Texas, (B) from Herty, Tex., to points in Texas and (C) between points in Texas.

Grounds for relief: Intrastate rail carrier competition and circuity.

Tariff: Supplement 34 to Agent Brown's tariff I. C. C. No. 865.

INTEREST RATES ON LOANS MADE THROUGH ASSOCIATIONS

Approval has been given to an interest rate of 5 percent per annum on loans made by the Federal Land Bank of St. Louis on applications accepted by a national farm loan association on and after January 1, 1957. The same interest rate has also been approved for loans made by the Federal Land Bank of St. Louis on all applications accepted by an association prior to January 1, 1957, if such loans are not closed on or before March 1, 1957. In order to reflect such approval, § 10.41 of Title 6 of the Code of Federal Regulations (21 F. R. 10167) is hereby amended, effective January 1, 1957, by substituting "5" for "4½" in the line with "St. Louis" therein.

TITLE 49—TRANSPORTATION

Chapter I—Interstate Commerce Commission

[S. O. 897, Amdt. 5]

PART 97—ROUTING

CHICAGO, ST. PAUL, MINNEAPOLIS AND OMAHA RAILWAY CO.

At a session of the Interstate Commerce Commission, Division 3, held at its office in Washington, D. C., on the 31st day of December A. D. 1956.

Upon further consideration of Service Order No. 897 (19 F. R. 3762; 20 F. R. 4, 4688; 20 F. R. 9825; 21 F. R. 4967), and good cause appearing therefor:

It is ordered, That § 97.897 Service Order 897, be, and it is hereby amended by substituting the following paragraph (g) for paragraph (g) thereof:

(g) Expiration date. This order shall expire at 11:59 p. m. June 30, 1957, unless otherwise modified, changed, suspended, or annulled by order of this Commission.

Effective date. This amendment shall become effective at 11:59 p. m., December 31, 1956.

It is further ordered, That copies of this order and direction shall be served upon the Nebraska State Railway Commission and upon the Association of American Railroads, Car Service Division, as agent of the railroads subscribing to the car service and per diem agreement under the terms of that agreement; and that notice of this order shall be given to the general public by depositing a copy in the office of the Secretary of the Commission at Washington, D. C., and by filing it with the Director, Division of the Federal Register.

(Sec. 12, 24 Stat. 383, as amended; 49 U. S. C. 10. Interprets or applies secs. 1, 15, 24 Stat. 379, as amended, 384, as amended; 49 U. S. C. 1, 15)

By the Commission, Division 3.

TITLE 14—CIVIL AVIATION

Chapter I—Civil Aeronautics Board

Subchapter A—Civil Air Regulations

[Supp. 25]

PART 3—AIRPLANE AIRWORTHINESS; NORMAL, UTILITY, AND ACROBATIC CATEGORIES

MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

Section 3.337-1 is revised to clarify the policy on the use of a bungee in the trim system.

Sections 3.652-1 and 3.652-2 and 3.721-1 cover the establishment of standards for the installation of radio equipment in light aircraft certificated under Part 3 of the Civil Air Regulations.

1. Section 3.337-1 is revised to read as follows:

§ 3.337-1 Independence of bungee trim system from primary control system (CAA interpretations which apply to § 3.337). The sentence "Trimming devices shall be capable of continued normal operation notwithstanding the failure of any one connecting or transmitting element in the primary flight control system" permits a bungee system acting directly on the control surface horn in such a manner that a failure of the primary control system will not adversely affect operation of the trimming device. A bungee system which actuates a control surface through elements of the primary control system does not meet these requirements. Each trim control system will be reviewed on the basis of its individual merits.

2. New §§ 3.652-1 and 3.652-2 are added to read as follows:

§ 3.652-1 Radio equipment and installations (CAA interpretations which apply to § 3.652).[1] (a) The phrase "Each item of equipment which is essential to the safe operation of the airplane • • •" includes radio communication and navigation equipment installed on the airplane.

(b) The phrase "shall function properly when installed" is interpreted to mean that the installation shall comply with the requirements specified in § 3.721.

§ 3.652-2 Radio installation performance (CAA policies which apply to § 3.652). The prototype installation should be flight tested by the airplane manufacturer to determine that it performs the intended function.

3. A new § 3.721-2 is added to read as follows:

§ 3.721-2 Radio equipment installations (CAA policies which apply to § 3.721)—(a) Wiring. Radio installations should be wired to minimize the possibility of fire or smoke hazards or the cause of unsatisfactory operation of the radio equipment.

(1) The radio installation should be connected to the airplane electrical system at a terminal strip or by a plug and receptacle connection.

(i) If a terminal strip is used, it should be designed or mounted so that loose metallic objects cannot fall across the terminal posts. Posts should be No. 6 or larger to permit proper tightening of the nuts, thus providing maximum current-carrying capacity without a danger of shearing the studs.

(ii) If a plug and receptacle type of connection is used, the soldered connections of the wire to the plug and receptacle inserts should be individually insulated from each other and from other metallic parts of the plug and receptacle.

(2) Junction boxes should be used for enclosure of terminal strips. The boxes should be made of either fire-resistant or nonabsorbent, plastic material. They should be of sufficiently rigid construction to prevent "oil-canning" of the box sides thus avoiding the possibility of the sides causing internal shorts. They should be designed and installed to permit easy access to the enclosed terminals and to allow any loose metallic parts to fall away from the terminals. Sufficient space should be provided in the junction box so that it will not be necessary to bend the wires sharply as they leave the terminal strip. The terminal strip should be mounted within the box rather than on the inside of the box cover.

(3) Interconnecting wires and cables between various pieces of radio equipment should be supported by insulated clamps so that they do not rub against the airplane or each other under vibration conditions encountered in flight.

(b) Location of radio equipment. The equipment, controls, and indicators should be located where they can be satisfactorily operated and read respectively from the appropriate crew member station. The equipment should be so located that there is sufficient air circulation to avoid overheating of the equipment. Also, clearance should be provided between high temperature areas of the equipment and readily flammable parts of the airplane.

(c) Mounting of radio equipment. The equipment should be attached to the airplane with self-locking devices to prevent loosening in service. Mechanical remote control devices should have the control cable so routed and so supported as to prevent kinking, binding or abrasion. Items mounted on shock mounts should have sufficient clearance for normal vibration and swaying of the equipment without hitting adjacent equipment or parts of the airplane. Electrical and mechanical cables to shock mounted equipment should be routed and supported so that they will not be unduly stressed by motion of the equipment. In order that the occupants will not be endangered by moving equipment during minor crash landings, the equipment mounting and rack should be capable of withstanding ultimate accelerations of 9.0*g* in the forward direction and 1.5*g* in a sideward direction.

(d) Bonding. Radio equipment should be bonded to the airplane in order to provide a low resistance ground circuit and to minimize radio interference from static electrical charges. Nonconducting finishes, such as paint and anodizing films should be carefully removed from the attachment surface under the bonding terminal. Bonding jumpers should be as short as practicable and be installed in such manner that the resistance of each connection does not exceed 0.003 ohm. Where a jumper is for radio-noise prevention only and not for current-carrying purposes, a resistance of .01 ohm is satisfactory. Aluminum alloy or tinned or cadmium plated copper jumpers[2] should be used for bonding aluminum alloy parts and copper, brass or bronze jumpers should be used to bond steel parts.

[2] When aluminum or its alloys are in contact with most metals (exceptions are magnesium and zinc), current will flow from the aluminum to the other metals. The result will be that the aluminum will corrode. In order to minimize such corrosion, metals other than magnesium and zinc when in contact with aluminum should be cadmium plated. Where contact between dissimilar metals cannot be avoided, care should be taken to minimize corrosion by putting a protective coating on the finished connection.

(e) Available power supply. The radio equipment should operate satisfactorily throughout the voltage range of the airplane electrical system under taxi, takeoff, slow cruise, normal cruise and landing operating conditions.

(f) Antennas, general.[4] It is satisfactory to use one antenna for transmission and reception of communications provided such antenna is a satisfactory compromise for the frequencies to be used. In a single antenna installation of this type, the antenna should be connected to the receiver and be switched automatically to the transmitter when the microphone "push-to-talk" switch is actuated.

(1) Fixed and trailing wire antenna installations should be tailored to fit the particular type of aircraft. Other types of antennas are much more compact and may be installed as complete units on various types of aircraft.

(2) Masts used to support a fixed-wire antenna should be as long as practicable to separate the antenna from the fuselage and/or wings in order to provide an effective antenna. Masts should be firmly attached to the airplane structure. If an antenna is attached at the trailing edge of wings and leading edge of horizontal stabilizers, the attachment should be made to lugs firmly fixed to the structure. The lugs should be welded, riveted, clamped, or bolted, whichever method is most suitable, to the structure.

(g) Range receiver antennas (200 to 400 kc). A "T" or "V" type antenna should be used and mounted on the top or bottom of the airplane (see figure 1)

"T" OR "V" TYPE ANTENNA

with an approximate clearance of one foot from the fuselage and wings. The main leg of the "T" and each leg of the "V" antenna should be a minimum of 6 feet long.[4]

(h) Direction finding antennas (100 to 1750 kc). Manual or automatic loop type antennas should be used with direction finder receivers. The loops are designed for use with a particular receiver. Connecting wires between the loops and receivers are also designed for the specific equipment. Accordingly, only components meeting the specification characteristics of the receiver manufacturer should be used.

(1) Loops are usually enclosed in a streamlined housing for external mounting on an airplane. However, loops may be installed internally in the airplane when proper attention is given to avoiding interference from metallic structure and skin of the airplane.

(2) The outstanding characteristic of a loop antenna is its directional sensitivity which makes it useful as an accurate navigational aid. Various things can reduce this accuracy and should be avoided. Metallic base paints should not be used on the housing. Location of the manual loop near an engine which has poor ignition shielding should be avoided since this location makes it difficult to detect the "null." Loops should not be located in positions where extensive metallic airplane structure is between them and the ground facilities. After installation, a loop should be compensated [5] to correct for any azimuth error due to its location with respect to any metal structure of the airplane.

(i) HF transmitting antenna—fixed. (1) Two basic types of fixed antennas are used. One of these, the Hertz type, is tuned to its resonant frequency or a higher harmonically related frequency by being designed to a specific length. The lowest frequency at which this type antenna will be resonant is its fundamental frequency. At this frequency the antenna is approximately ½ wave length. This length may be determined by the formula:

$$\text{¼ wave length (in feet)} = \frac{300{,}000{,}000 \times 3.28}{2 \times f}$$ in which 300,000,000 is the velocity of the propagation of radio waves in meters per second; 3.28 is the conversion factor from meters to feet; f is the frequency in cycles per second.

(2) The other basic type of antenna is the Marconi. This type is readily adaptable for use on different frequencies and has one end grounded through the transmitter to the metallic aircraft structure. Thus, the aircraft acts as a part of the antenna and it is possible to use only ¼ wave length in the antenna proper. This length may be computed by the formula:

$$\text{½ wave length (in feet)} = \frac{300{,}000{,}000 \times 3.28}{4 \times f}$$

An antenna of this type shorter than ¼ wave length may be tuned to resonance with the transmitter frequency by connecting an induction coil having appropriate characteristics in series with the antenna. A continuously variable coil or a stepped variable coil may be used for transmission on several different frequencies on one antenna.

(j) VHF transmitting antenna—"whip" and streamlined blade. (See figure 2.) (1) The "whip" antenna is resonant through a narrow frequency band and may be used with equipment operating in the 118 to 136 mc band. The proper length in inches should be determined from the formula $\frac{11.218}{4 \times f\ (\text{mc})}$ (For 125 mc the length [¼ wave length] would be approximately 22.5 inches.)

(2) When it is necessary to cover a broader frequency range than can be covered by the "whip" antenna, a blade type should be used, because it is resonant over a much broader frequency range. However, a broadband antenna is not as efficient as a small diameter "whip" antenna and, accordingly, should not be used with relatively low output transmitters (under 5 watts).

(3) Antennas of both these types should be located so that there is a minimum of structure between them and the ground radio stations. Thus, the location will usually be a compromise. The antennas may be mounted on the top or bottom of the fuselage or on the cowl forward of the cockpit.

(4) On fabric covered aircraft, or aircraft with other types of nonmetallic skin, the manufacturer's recommendations should be followed in order to provide the necessary ground plane. An acceptable method of accomplishing this is by providing a number of metal foil strips in a radial position from the antenna base and secured under the fabric or wood skin of the aircraft as shown in figure 3.

(k) VHF navigation receiving antennas. Antennas for omnirange (VOR), and instrument landing system (ILS)

[5] Compensation of a loop for such error requires technical knowledge of the equipment and its operational use and should be accomplished by a qualified technician.

[4] Excessively long antennas are unsatisfactory because they are more directive in reception than relatively short ones. A trailing wire type of antenna will not prove suitable when used with a range receiver because it is highly directive; may cause a loss of distinct "cone of silence"; and changes in the airplane's direction, which may occur often in range flying, cause the antenna to "whip," resulting in breakage and loss of reception. The whipping action may also cause the course signals to shift continuously.

[3] Since all radio communication and navigation equipment necessitates the use of antennas for transmission or reception of radio frequency energy, care should be exercised in the design and installation of antennas and their coupling to the radio equipment. Consideration should be given to the fact that a transmitting antenna is a tuned circuit and that its ability to radiate radio frequency energy into space is governed primarily by the relationship between its length and the frequency of the power to be radiated. In general, the higher the frequency to be transmitted, the shorter the antenna necessary. Receiver antenna design and installation is controlled primarily by the degree of directivity necessary for the particular communication or navigation equipment.

TWO PREFERRED LOCATIONS FOR VOR ANTENNAS TO PROVIDE GOOD SIGNAL PICK-UP AND MINIMUM ENGINE IGNITION INTERFERENCE

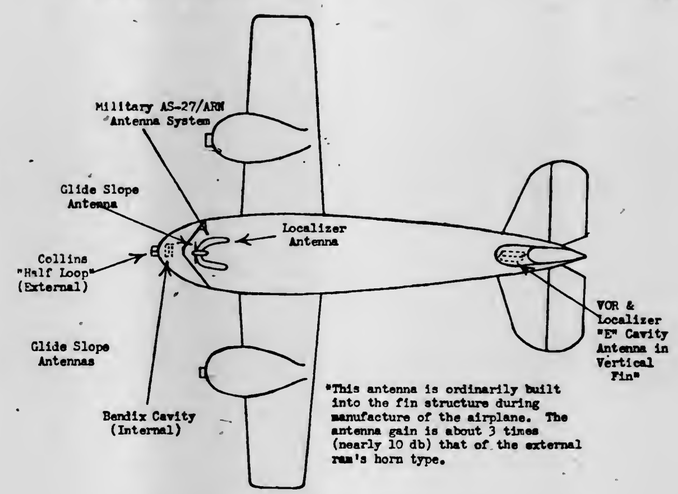
localizer receivers should be located at a position on the airplane where they will have the greatest sensitivity for the desired signals and minimum response to undesired signals such as VHF energy radiated by the engine ignition system. The best location for the VOR-localizer receiving antenna on most small airplanes is over the forward part of the cabin. (See figure 4.) The rigid "V" type antenna should be mounted so that the apex of the V points forward and the plane of the V is level in normal flight. A list of satisfactory antenna installations on some popular small airplanes, giving distance in inches aft of the windshield, follows:



Piper	7	Swift	11
Ercoupe	26	Bellanca	4
Stinson	13	Luscombe	34
Cessna	10	Beech Bonanza	35

(l) The most effective method of minimizing the engine ignition interference is to shield the ignition system. This involves enclosing in metal all parts of the circuits which might radiate noise. Ignition wires having a metallic-braid covering and special end connectors should be used between magnetos and spark plugs. Shielded type spark plugs should be used and a shielded metal cover for the magneto, if it is not of a shielded type, should be used. All connections in the shielding system should be tight metal-to-metal contact.

(2) If it is not feasible to shield the engine ignition system, the engine ignition noise should be suppressed by replacing the spark plugs with resistor spark plugs of a type approved for the engine.

(m) Marker receiving antenna. The marker receiver operates at a frequency of 75 mc. In order to keep to a minimum the number of antennas on an airplane, the marker receiver may utilize the same antenna as the range receiver. However, both receivers should include provisions to permit simultaneous operation without interference. A "whip" or other vertical type of antenna should not be used for marker reception since the ground facility transmits from a horizontally polarized antenna.

INSTRUMENT LANDING SYSTEM
GLIDE SLOPE & LOCALIZER RECEIVER ANTENNAS

FIGURE 5.

PREFERRED POSITIONS OF DISTANCE MEASURING ANTENNAS IN ORDER OF PREFERENCE

FIGURE 6.

(o) Distance measuring antennas. Antennas for Vortac distance measuring elements or civil DME should be mounted at an unobstructed location on the underside of the fuselage near the trailing edge of the wing, preferably at the lowest point on the aircraft when in level flight. (See figure 6.) During flight, the antenna should be as nearly vertical as possible. It should be mounted as far as possible from other antennas and at least 36 inches away from other obstructions. If separate antennas are used for transmission and reception, the antennas should be mounted on a line perpendicular to the longitudinal axis of the aircraft with a minimum spacing of 2 feet between antennas. Since transmission lines losses are relatively high at these frequencies, the antenna connecting cables should be kept as short as possible (10 feet maximum unless special low loss cable is used).

This supplement shall become effective January 31, 1957.

PART 609—STANDARD INSTRUMENT APPROACH PROCEDURES

PROCEDURE ALTERATIONS

The standard instrument approach procedure alterations appearing hereinafter are adopted to become effective when indicated in order to promote safety. Compliance with the notice, procedures, and effective date provisions of section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act would be impracticable and contrary to the public interest, and therefore is not required.

Part 609 is amended as follows:

NOTE: Where the general classification (LFR, VAR, ADF, ILS, RADAR, or VOR), location, and procedure number (if any) of any procedure in the amendments which follow, are identical with an existing procedure, that procedure is to be substituted for the existing one, as of the effective date given, to the extent that it differs from the existing procedure; where a procedure is cancelled, the existing procedure is revoked; new procedures are to be placed in appropriate alphabetical sequence within the section amended.

1. The low frequency range procedures prescribed in § 609.6 are amended to read in part:

LFR STANDARD INSTRUMENT APPROACH PROCEDURE

Bearings, headings, and courses are magnetic. Distances are in nautical miles unless otherwise indicated, except visibilities which are in statute miles. Elevations and altitudes are in feet, MSL. Ceilings are in feet above airport elevation.

If an LFR instrument approach is conducted at the below named airport, it shall be in accordance with the following instrument approach procedure, unless an approach is conducted in accordance with a different procedure for such airport authorized by the Administrator of Civil Aeronautics. Initial approaches shall be made over specified routes. Minimum altitude(s) shall correspond with those established for en route operation in the particular area or as set forth below.

TITLE 7—AGRICULTURE

Chapter IX—Agricultural Marketing Service (Marketing Agreements and Orders), Department of Agriculture

[Navel Orange Reg. 100]

PART 914—NAVEL ORANGES GROWN IN ARIZONA AND DESIGNATED PART OF CALIFORNIA

LIMITATION OF HANDLING

§ 914.400 Navel Orange Regulation 100—(a) Findings. (1) Pursuant to the marketing agreement, as amended, and Order No. 14, as amended (7 CFR Part 914; 21 F. R. 4707), regulating the handling of navel oranges grown in Arizona and designated part of California, effective September 22, 1953, under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.; 68 Stat. 906, 1047), and upon the basis of the recommendation and information submitted by the Navel Orange Administrative Committee, established under the said amended marketing agreement and order, and upon other available information, it is hereby found that the limitation of handling of such navel oranges, as hereinafter provided, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(2) It is hereby further found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule making procedure, and postpone the effective date of this section until 30 days after publication thereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER (60 Stat. 237; 5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.) because the time intervening between the date when information upon which this section is based became available and the time when this section must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act is insufficient, and a reasonable time is permitted, under the circumstances, for preparation for such effective time; and good cause exists for making the provisions hereof effective as hereinafter set forth. The Navel Orange Administrative Committee held an open meeting on January 3, 1957, after giving due notice thereof, to consider supply and market conditions for navel oranges and the need for regulation; interested persons were afforded an opportunity to submit information and views at this meeting; the recommendation and supporting information for regulation during the period specified herein were promptly submitted to the Department after such meeting was held; the provisions of this section, including its effective time, are identical with the aforesaid recommendation of the committee, and information concerning such provisions and effective time has been disseminated among handlers of such navel oranges; it is necessary, in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act, to make this section effective during the period hereinafter set forth so as to provide for the continued regulation of the handling of all oranges, including Temple oranges, and compliance with this section will not require any special preparation on the part of the persons subject thereto which cannot be completed by the effective time hereof.

(b) Order. (1) Terms used in the amended marketing agreement and order shall, when used herein, have the same meaning as is given to the respective term in said amended marketing agreement and order; and terms relating to grade, standard pack, and standard box, as used herein, shall have the same meaning as is given to the respective term in the United States Standards for Florida Oranges and Tangelos (§§ 51.1140-51.1186 of this title).

(2) During the period beginning at 12:01 a. m., e. s. t., January 7, 1957, and ending at 12:01 a. m., e. s. t., January 21, 1957, no handler shall ship:

(i) Any oranges, including Temple oranges, grown in the State of Florida, which do not grade at least U. S. No. 1 Bronze;

(ii) Any oranges, except Temple oranges, grown in the State of Florida, which are of a size smaller than a size that will pack 252 oranges, packed in accordance with the requirements of a standard pack, in a standard 1⅗ bushel nailed box; or

(iii) Any Temple oranges, grown in the State of Florida, which are of a size smaller than 2⁹⁄₁₆ inches in diameter, which shall be the largest measurement at a right angle to a straight line running from the stem to the blossom end of the fruit, except that a tolerance of 10 percent, by count, of Temple oranges smaller than such minimum diameter shall be permitted, which tolerance shall be applied in accordance with the provisions for the application of tolerances specified in the United States Standards for Florida Oranges and Tangelos (§§ 51.1140-51.1186 of this title).

PART 933—ORANGES, GRAPEFRUIT, AND TANGERINES GROWN IN FLORIDA

LIMITATION OF SHIPMENTS

§ 933.820 Orange Regulation 307—(a) Findings. (1) Pursuant to the marketing agreement, as amended, and Order No. 33, as amended (7 CFR Part 933), regulating the handling of oranges, grapefruit, and tangerines grown in the State of Florida, effective under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and upon the basis of the recommendations of the committees established under the aforesaid amended marketing agreement and order, and upon other available information, it is hereby found that the limitation of shipments of all Florida oranges, including Temple oranges, as hereinafter provided, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(2) It is hereby further found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule making procedure, and postpone the effective date of this section until 30 days after publication thereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER (60 Stat. 237; 5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.) because the time intervening between the date when information upon which this section is based became available and the time when this section must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act is insufficient; a reasonable time is permitted, under the circumstances, for preparation for such effective time; and good cause exists for making the provisions hereof effective as hereinafter set forth. Shipments of all oranges, including Temple oranges, grown in the State of Florida, are presently subject to regulation by grades and sizes, pursuant to the amended marketing agreement and order; the recommendation and supporting information for regulation during the period specified herein were promptly submitted to the Department after an open meeting of the Growers Administrative Committee on January 2, 1957; such meeting was held to consider recommendations for regulation, after giving due notice of such meeting, and interested persons were afforded an opportunity to submit their views at this meeting; the provisions of this section, including the effective time hereof, are identical with the aforesaid recommendation of the committee, and information concerning such provisions and effective time has been disseminated among handlers of such oranges; it is necessary, in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act, to make this section effective during the period hereinafter set forth so as to provide for the continued regulation of the handling of all oranges, including Temple oranges, and compliance with this section will not require any special preparation on the part of the persons subject thereto which cannot be completed by the effective time hereof.

(b) Order. (1) Terms used in the amended marketing agreement and order shall, when used herein, have the same meaning as is given to the respective term in said amended marketing agreement and order; and terms relating to grade, standard pack, and standard box, as used herein, shall have the same meaning as is given to the respective term in the United States Standards for Florida Oranges and Tangelos (§§ 51.1140-51.1186 of this title).

(2) During the period beginning at 12:01 a. m., e. s. t., January 7, 1957, and ending at 12:01 a. m., e. s. t., January 21, 1957, no handler shall ship:

(i) Any oranges, including Temple oranges, grown in the State of Florida, which do not grade at least U. S. No. 1 Bronze;

(ii) Any oranges, except Temple oranges, grown in the State of Florida, which are of a size smaller than a size that will pack 252 oranges, packed in accordance with the requirements of a standard pack, in a standard 1⅗ bushel nailed box; or

[Grapefruit Reg. 255]

PART 933—ORANGES, GRAPEFRUIT, AND TANGERINES GROWN IN FLORIDA

LIMITATION OF SHIPMENTS

§ 933.821 Grapefruit Regulation 255—(a) Findings. (1) Pursuant to the marketing agreement, as amended, and Order No. 33, as amended (7 CFR Part 933), regulating the handling of oranges, grapefruit, and tangerines grown in the State of Florida, effective under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and upon the basis of the recommendations of the committees established under the aforesaid amended marketing agreement and order, and upon other available information, it is hereby found that the limitation of shipments of all Florida grapefruit, as hereinafter provided, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(2) It is hereby further found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule making procedure, and postpone the effective date of this section until 30 days after publication thereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER (60 Stat. 237; 5 U. S. Shipments of all grapefruit, grown in the State of Florida, are presently subject to regulation by grades and sizes, pursuant to the amended marketing agreement and order; the recommendation and supporting information for regulation during the period specified herein were promptly submitted to the Department after an open meeting of the Growers Administrative Committee on January 2, 1957; such meeting was held to consider recommendations for regulation, after giving due notice of such meeting, and interested persons were afforded an opportunity to submit their views at this meeting; the provisions of this section, including the effective time hereof, are identical with the aforesaid recommendation of the committee, and information concerning such provisions and effective time has been disseminated among handlers of such grapefruit; it is necessary, in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act, to make this section effective during the period hereinafter set forth so as to provide for the continued regulation of the handling of all grapefruit, and compliance with this section will not require any special preparation on the part of the persons subject thereto which cannot be completed by the effective time hereof.

(b) Order. (1) Terms used in the amended marketing agreement and order shall, when used herein, have the same meaning as is given to the respective term in said amended marketing agreement and order; and terms relating to grade, standard pack, and standard box, as used herein, shall have the same meaning as is given to the respective term in the United States Standards for Florida Grapefruit (§§ 51.750-51.790 of this title); and the term "mature" shall have the same meaning as set forth in section 601.16 Florida Statutes, Chapters 26492 and 28090, known as the Florida Citrus Code of 1949, as supplemented by section 601.17 (Chapters 25149 and 28090) and also by section 601.18, as amended June 2, 1955 (Chapter 29760).

(2) During the period beginning at 12:01 a. m., e. s. t., January 7, 1957, and ending at 12:01 a. m., e. s. t., January 21, 1957, no handler shall ship:

(i) Any seeded grapefruit, grown in the State of Florida, which are not mature and do not grade at least U. S. No. 1 Bronze;

(ii) Any seeded grapefruit, grown in the State of Florida, which are of a size smaller than a size that will pack 70 grapefruit, packed in accordance with the requirements of a standard pack, in a standard nailed box;

(iii) Any seedless grapefruit, grown in Regulation Area I, which are not mature and do not grade at least U. S. No. 1 Bronze;

(iv) Any seedless grapefruit, grown in Regulation Area II which are not mature and do not grade at least U. S. No. 1 Bronze: Provided, That not to exceed 40 percent, by count, of such grapefruit may be damaged, but not seriously damaged, by scars; or

(v) Any seedless grapefruit, grown in the State of Florida, which are of a size smaller than a size that will pack 96 grapefruit, packed in accordance with the requirements of a standard pack, in a standard nailed box.

TOMATOES GROWN IN FLORIDA

NOTICE OF PROPOSED EXPENSES AND RATE OF ASSESSMENT

Notice is hereby given that the Secretary of Agriculture is considering the approval of the expenses and rate of assessment hereinafter set forth, which were recommended by the Florida Tomato Committee, established pursuant to Marketing Agreement No. 125 and Order No. 45 (7 CFR Part 945) regulating the handling of tomatoes grown in Florida, issued under the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.).

Consideration will be given to any data, views, or arguments pertaining thereto, which are filed in triplicate with the Director, Fruit and Vegetable Division, Agricultural Marketing Service, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C., not later than 10 days following publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The proposals are as follows:

§ 945.202 Expenses and rate of assessment. (a) The reasonable expenses that are likely to be incurred by the Florida Tomato Committee, established pursuant to Marketing Agreement No. 125 and Order No. 45, to enable such committee to perform its functions pursuant to the provisions of aforesaid marketing agreement and order, during the fiscal period ending July 31, 1957, will amount to $97,000.00.

(b) The rate of assessment to be paid by each handler, pursuant to Marketing Agreement No. 125 and Order No. 45, shall be one cent ($0.01) per 60-pound crate of tomatoes, or respective equivalent quantities thereof, handled by him as the first handler thereof during said fiscal period.

(c) The terms used in this section shall have the same meaning as when used in Marketing Agreement 125 and Order No. 45.

[Docket No: AO-179-A-15]

HANDLING OF MILK IN CLEVELAND, OHIO, MARKETING AREA

NOTICE OF RECOMMENDED DECISION AND OPPORTUNITY TO FILE WRITTEN EXCEPTIONS WITH RESPECT TO PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO TENTATIVE MARKETING AGREEMENT, AND TO ORDER, AS AMENDED

Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), notice is hereby given of the filing with the Hearing Clerk of this recommended decision of the Deputy Administrator, Agricultural Marketing Service, United States Department of Agriculture, with respect to proposed amendments to the tentative marketing agreement and to the order, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the Cleveland, Ohio, marketing area. Interested parties may file written exceptions to this decision with the Hearing Clerk, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C., not later than the close of business the 5th day after publication of this decision in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The exceptions should be filed in quadruplicate.

Preliminary statement. The hearing on the record of which the proposed amendments, as hereinafter set forth, to the tentative marketing agreement and to the order, as amended, were formulated, was conducted at Cleveland, Ohio, on October 10–12, 1956, pursuant to notice thereof which was issued October 3, 1956, (21 F. R. 7686).

The material issues on the record of the hearing relate to:

1. Revision of the Class I price as to:
   (a) Level.
   (b) Seasonality.
   (c) Supply demand adjustment.
2. Level of the Class III milk price.
3. Changes in the eligible milk quota plan concerning:
   (a) Quota rules.
   (b) Quotas for new producers.
   (c) Number of operating months.
4. Classification of milk moved to, or allocation of milk from plants regulated under other Federal orders.
5. Revision of location adjustments.
6. Review of other provisions affecting:
   (a) Classification of cream moved to distant plants.
   (b) Exemption of handlers doing business in the marketing area.
   (c) Allocation of shrinkage on producer milk transferred in bulk between pool plants.
   (d) Certain administrative procedures.

1. The level, seasonally and supply-demand adjustment of the price for Class I milk.

The price for Class I milk under the Cleveland order is determined by adding to a basic formula price $1.40 for the months of February through July and $1.85 for other months. The price is subject to adjustment of not more than 25 cents on the basis of supply-sales relationship in the immediately preceding two-month period. The supply-demand adjustment has been suspended for the months of October, November and December 1956, pending this hearing and action on the record thereof.

Producer groups proposed that the Class I differential be $2.25 for all months of the year and that supply-demand adjustment be based upon the ratio of combined receipts to Class I utilization for the Cleveland, Akron and Stark County markets as compared with revised standard utilization percentages. These proposals raise three separate issues which will be considered separately: the level of the Class I differential, seasonal changes in the Class I differential, and the supply-demand adjustment of the Class I price.

(a) The level of the Class I price differential. In support of the proposal to increase the Class I price differential to $2.25 producers cite increased production costs, feed shortages, premiums over minimum order prices currently being paid by Cleveland handlers, and competitive prices paid by nearby markets, regulated and otherwise, with which Cleveland competes for supplies.

It is difficult to evaluate, at this time, the effect that these factors have had on the Cleveland milk supply. As of May 1, 1955, an increase in the marketing area added substantial volumes of receipts and sales to the Cleveland pool. As of August 1955, a plant with substantial receipts and sales which, up to that time, were included in the Cleveland pool became subject to the Akron order. For the year 1954, producer receipts were 154 percent of milk and cream sales whereas for 1955 this ratio had declined to 143 percent. For the first eight months of 1956, monthly ratios of receipts to sales averaged 133 percent as compared to 152 percent for the same months of 1955. Supplies during January through April of this year were only slightly higher than a year ago, while sales were substantially higher. Supplies in May, June and July were substantially less than a year earlier with sales only slightly higher. The change in the seasonal pattern of producer deliveries noted elsewhere in this decision was most marked during this period. Adverse weather conditions also had some probable effect on milk supplies in the early summer months of 1956. It is significant, however, that for August supplies and sales were about identical with those of a year earlier, and that a ratio of receipts to sales at approximately the 1955 level has continued through October. It must be concluded that the level of milk supply in what is normally the short season of production has been maintained, and that no increase in the level of the fixed Class I price differential is required to encourage additional production.

(b) Seasonal changes in the Class I differential. Seasonal changes in the Class I differential should be retained at this time.

Producers and handlers are united in the support of a uniform Class I differential throughout the months of the year. Producers supported a uniform differential at a higher annual level than that now prevailing while handlers' support was for a uniform differential applicable in all months of the year at approximately the present annual average level.

The support for elimination of seasonality in the Class I price differential is based largely on the claim that (1) Class I sales are lost as resale prices change with seasonal changes in producer prices, and (2) the eligible milk quota plan eliminates need for seasonal pricing.

The record indicates, however, that seasonal pricing is used in the nearby unregulated Youngstown market, and in the unregulated (Federally) Pittsburgh market which competes for supplies in the Cleveland supply area. Cleveland also competes for supplies with the Detroit and Toledo markets, the orders for which include seasonal pricing. Consideration is now being given to regulation of an area between Cleveland and Toledo for which price alignment would be particularly difficult if the discrepancy in price patterns of these two markets were widened.

It is concluded that changes in the seasonal patterns of pricing in the Cleveland market should be deferred until such time as its adoption could promote greater uniformity in pricing patterns between markets rather than have the contrary effect.

(c) Supply-demand adjustment. The supply-sales relationship used as a basis for adjustment of the Class I price should be that of the combined receipts and sales of the Cleveland-Akron-Stark County markets. The standard utilization percentages, deviations from which result in price adjustment, should be revised to reflect the changed seasonal patterns of utilization to be expected in the markets and the level of reserve supply required by present marketing practices.

The Class I prices of the Akron and Stark County orders are maintained in fixed alignment with that of the Cleveland order and it is proposed that such alignment be maintained in a merged order to regulate the handling of milk in the combined Akron-Stark County marketing area. Cleveland handlers make substantial sales of milk in the Akron-Stark County area. An Akron handler operates more than 30 dairy stores in the Cleveland marketing area. The Akron-Stark County supply area lies wholly within the Cleveland milkshed. Presently supplies of milk associated with the Cleveland pool and sales by handlers regulated under the Cleveland order determine the supply-demand adjustment of the Class I price affecting the three markets. Intermarket competition for supplies or sales may readily affect the Class I price of all markets without any change in the overall supply or sales volumes merely by transfer of supply or sales from one plant to another. Since the competitive situation is such as to require fixed alignment of Class I prices, it is appropriate that the ratio of total supplies to total sales should be the basis for adjustment of Class I prices to supply-demand conditions.

A very substantial change in the seasonal pattern of production has taken place in the Cleveland market in the past two years. Seasonal variations in deliveries per producer and for the market as a whole are not nearly as great as in former years. Daily deliveries per producer in May 1956 were 123 percent of those in November 1955. May 1954 daily deliveries per producer were 160 percent of those for November 1953. Total market deliveries for May 1956 were only 117 percent of those for the preceding November. Somewhat similar changes in the seasonal pattern of deliveries appear to have taken place in the Akron-Stark County market.

The eligible milk quota plan under which payments were first made in the Cleveland market in April–June 1956 on quotas established by deliveries in the last three months of 1955 undoubtedly has had considerable effect in leveling the seasonality of deliveries the past year. Adverse weather conditions in the months of normally flush production may also have contributed.

The standard utilization percentages presently included in the order were based upon experience prior to 1955 with some adjustment for the expected effect of the eligible milk quota plan then being included in the order. It is now evident that these percentages do not reflect the seasonal pattern of utilization that can now be expected in the market. The seasonal pattern of utilization in the three markets has likewise changed and follows rather closely that now to be expected in the Cleveland market.

With lower seasonal variations in supplies more reserve supplies can be carried in the short season without burdensome spring surpluses. Producers in the Cleveland market have leveled production in part by decreasing spring production and in part by increasing fall production. Standard utilization percentages can reflect a somewhat higher short season supply without reflecting any increase in the annual average level of supply since correspondingly lower percentages will apply for the spring season.

It is concluded that the standard utilization percentages with which the combined Cleveland-Akron-Stark County ratio of receipts to sales will be compared should be as follows:

Month priced	2-month period used	Standard utilization percentage
January	November–December	128
February	December–January	126
March	January–February	129
April	February–March	132
May	March–April	135
June	April–May	144
July	May–June	149
August	June–July	144
September	July–August	131
October	August–September	125
November	September–October	123
December	October–November	122

The simple average of these percentages is about four points less than that of those presently included in the order. The higher utilization for the combined markets as compared with the Cleveland market will approximately offset the results of this change in the standard.

2. The Class III milk price should not be revised.

The Class III milk price is now determined by using the basic formula price which is the higher of a group of midwest condenseries or a butter-powder formula.

Wayne Cooperative Milk Producers proposed the Class III milk price should be the basic formula price less 20 cents. Reasons given by this cooperative for the reduction in price were as follows:

(1) The price it pays for surplus milk must be comparable to the prices paid by its competitors and from January 1956, through August 1956, the Class III price has been 17 cents per hundredweight higher than the support price for manufacturing milk as announced by the Department, (2) that there are difficulties involved in marketing manufactured dairy products made from surplus milk due to variations in volume, (3) that their costs in the manufacture of butter and powder exceed by 25 cents per hundredweight their returns for such products, (4) that the Class III price for the first 8 months of 1956 has averaged 9.6 cents above the price for milk for similar use in the Federally regulated markets of Fort Wayne, Detroit, Dayton-Springfield, Cincinnati, Chicago, Toledo and Lima, and (5) that the make allowance of 55.6 cents as provided in the butter-powder formula is 19.4 cents below their cost of operation.

Other handlers did not offer direct testimony concerning the level of the Class III price but in their briefs stated that such milk should be priced in relation to its recovery value.

In opposing, three other producer groups testified that a reduction in the Class III milk price would decrease returns to all producers for their milk deliveries. It was claimed that a Class III price too low serves to encourage plants with manufacturing facilities to carry more than an adequate reserve supply to insure Class I or fluid milk market requirements.

The amount of milk classified as Class III milk in 1954 averaged 26 percent of all producer receipts, in 1955 it averaged 25 percent, and for the first nine months of 1956, 21.1 percent. Milk utilized as nonfat dry milk represented 19.6 percent of producer receipts in 1954, 13.4 percent in 1955 and 8.2 percent for the first nine months of 1956. Amounts used to produce butter represented 1.5 percent of producer receipts in 1954, 0.8 percent in 1955 and in the first nine months of 1956 seven-tenths of one percent.

The proponent cooperative operates two pool plants under this order, one of which is located at Fort Wayne, Indiana; the other at Coldwater, Michigan. There is direct competition for supply at these two Cleveland pool plants with the Fort Wayne and Detroit market supplies. Consequently, a comparison of price for milk in these markets is more appropriate than with more distant ones. The Federal order prices in Fort Wayne and Detroit markets for milk used to produce products similar to Cleveland order Class III products are in close alignment with the Cleveland Class III price.

Present indications are that the quantities of milk which need to be utilized as Class III are being reduced. In 1954 this order was amended to include a plan to achieve more level seasonal production. This plan has tended to alleviate the problem of excessive amounts of producer milk for use as Class III both annually and seasonally.

The Federal order markets of Akron and Stark County use the basic formula to price milk of corresponding use to the Cleveland Class III milk. The fact that several handlers have plants in two or more of these markets, the ease with which they can shift manufacturing operations by transferring or diverting producers, and the close competition between them makes it highly desirable that prices for milk used to produce manufactured products in all three markets be held in close alignment.

A level of prices for Class III milk should be provided so as to encourage the transfer of milk from manufacturing to higher-valued uses. The Class III milk price as now determined in this order reflects an appropriate value for milk used to produce manufactured dairy products. The request to decrease the Class III milk price by 20 cents is denied.

3. The provisions concerning quota rules should be revised. The number of operating months should not be changed and no additional provisions should be added for establishment of quotas by new producers.

The order presently provides for transfer of a producer quota from one producer to another.

Producers proposed that transfer of quotas be limited to those cases in which (a) a member of the immediate family carries on the dairy operation on the same farm in the event of a producer's death or (b) there is a division between joint holders of a quota.

Considerable administrative detail is involed in the provisions for unlimited transfers of quotas. Since the quota plan is effective in determining producer payments in only three months of each year and since all producers must establish new quotas each year, there is little need to provide for widespread transfers of quotas involving such administrative detail. The proposed rules will provide an administratively feasible plan for the necessary transfers of quotas in cases of death in a family or where partnerships are dissolved. They should be adopted.

Certain handlers proposed that the quota operating period be extended to include February through July with provision for quotas to new producers entering the market. Handlers believe the quota plan has been highly effective during the relatively short time it has been a part of this order. It was their contention that an extension of the quota operating periods from three to six months would further the effectiveness of the quota plan in obtaining more even production. It was further contended that, (a) the even producer should receive a greater share of the Class I price for a longer period of time than now provided and (b) more encouragement to level production should be provided to those producers who have been less responsive to the plan. Handlers also contended new producers should be provided a quota so they would be encouraged to enter the market any time available and needed.

Three producer groups in opposing the extension of the quota operating period and provision for making quotas other than in the three quota forming months stated: (a) The market has adequate reserve supplies without the necessity of providing quotas for new producers and (b) the division of returns among producers is of primary concern to producers, who in this incidence, oppose any change in the order effecting their returns.

Significant changes in the pattern of production did occur during the first year the quota plan was operative in this order. During the April through June quota operating period, approximately one-third of all producers were within quota and 61 percent produced within 125 percent of quota. It is notable that 20 percent of all producers averaged over 500 pounds of milk per day. About half of this group were within quota and 85 percent were within 125 percent of quota. Of those producers averaging under 500 pounds of milk per day, 30 percent were within quota and 56 percent within 125 percent of quota.

Producers may enter the market at any time. Present order provisions provide payment to producers who have no quota at the uniform price, except April through June, when such producers would receive payment at the ineligible milk price.

In view of the above facts additional time should be provided for the operation of the present order provisions dealing with the quota operating period before any substantial change is made. The proposals to extend the quota operating period from three to six months and provision of quotas for new producers should not be adopted at this time.

4. No change in the Cleveland order should be made on the basis of this record to change the classification of milk moved to, or the allocation of milk received from plants regulated under other Federal orders.

Two separate sets of proposals affecting movements of milk between Cleveland pool plants and plants regulated by other Federal orders were presented by handlers. One such set of proposals related specifically to movements involving Akron-Stark County plants, while the other set of proposals would have more general application.

In general it was proposed to (a) permit shipments to Akron-Stark County plants to count toward qualification of a supply plant for pool plant status under the Cleveland order, (b) permit classification of milk transferred from Cleveland pool plants to plants subject to other orders to be as agreed upon by the handlers involved, as classification of milk transferred between Cleveland pool plants is now determined, and (c) to exempt receipts of milk transferred to Cleveland plants from plants subject to other orders from yielding prior claim for Class I use to receipts of Cleveland pool milk.

This record indicates that nearby markets under Federal regulation depend to some extent on the supply of Cleveland pool milk for reserve supplies in seasons of short supply. The availability of Cleveland reserve supplies relieves such markets of the necessity of carrying fully adequate reserve supplies, and provides opportunity for maintenance of high Class I utilization in such markets. The changes proposed in the Cleveland order would not serve to meet this situation. This fact was recognized by the proponents who indicated that identical amendments in other orders would be required.

The principle of assigning producer milk under each order to the highest priced available use should be waived in favor of milk from another regulated market only on the basis of specific evidence that the exporting market performs services for the receiving market which merit special consideration. Such consideration could only be given to intermarket movements in a single direction. Under such circumstances classification and allocation should be based on specific rules designed to fit the circumstances rather than upon agreement of handlers. There is nothing in this record to indicate that Cleveland depends upon other markets for services that would warrant the changes proposed in the Cleveland order.

5. Provisions for location adjustments on milk received at plants less than 60 miles from Cleveland should be revised to conform with those applicable elsewhere and the minimum distance at which adjustments apply should be increased from 30 to 40 miles.

Under the present provisions of the Cleveland order, the value of milk received from producers at a pool plant located more than 30 miles but not more than 60 miles from the Public Square in Cleveland is computed at the class prices applicable to plants located in Cleveland, and the handler operating such plant is credited with paying the f. o. b. Cleveland producer prices in determining his pool debit or credit. He is permitted, however, to deduct 13 cents per hundredweight (except with respect to ineligible milk) in making settlement to producers. At plants located more than 60 miles from Cleveland, handler location adjustments are used in computing the value of milk classified as Class I or Class II milk. Location adjustments at the same rate apply to the producer price for all except ineligible milk.

Within the 30–60 mile zone there are presently three supply plants and nine bottling plants. A group of producers delivering milk to one of the supply plants proposed that the permissive deduction of 13 cents from producer prices in this zone be deleted. This particular plant has not taken the full 13-cent deduction any of the last 20 months and in 7 of these months has paid full f. o. b. Cleveland price or more. At the other two supply plants the 13-cent deduction is taken with much greater regularity.

These supply plants are located in areas from which many farmers now deliver their milk directly to bottling plants in Cleveland. The 13-cent differential represents fairly well the average amount that producers supplying these plants save in farm to plant hauling costs as compared to delivernig their milk to Cleveland. Premium payments at these locations have resulted more from competition from other markets, principally Akron, than from competition with direct delivery to Cleveland. Cleveland handlers procuring direct shipped supplies from the competitive area have also paid premiums.

Location adjustments should be retained within the 60-mile zone but should be consistent with those prevailing at more distant plants. The handler credit should be restricted to Class I and II milk. Present provisions encourage Class III use of milk located nearest the marketing area.

The bottling plants in the present 30–60 mile zone became subject to the order May 1955 when the marketing area was expanded. Those located within 40 miles of Cleveland are in no position to take advantage of the 13-cent deduction provision. At Painesville, Ohio, one plant is 28.3 miles from Cleveland and three others are between 33 and 34 miles. Eliminating provision for location adjustments within the 30–40 mile zone will eliminate difference in treatment of nearby plants serving essentially the same segment of the marketing area.

The decision to make 40–60 mile location adjustment provisions consistent with those applicable beyond 60 miles renders unnecessary certain technical correction of the present provisions proposed at the hearing.

6. Review of other provisions.

Cream transfers to distant nonpool plants. The order presently classifies as Class I milk transfers to nonpool plants located more than 265 miles from Cleveland in forms specified as Class I milk when disposed of for fluid consumption. A handler proposed that this rule of automatic classification on the basis of mileage not apply to transfers in the form of cream. He proposed that instead the provisions applicable to movements within 265 miles, certification of use by the receiver and privilege of audit by the market administrator, apply. Determination of use of cream shipped to distant plants would involve considerable administrative expense. The record shows no lack of facilities for disposition of Class III milk within the 265 mile zone. It is concluded that no change in the transfer provisions should be made on the basis of this record.

Exemption of handlers doing little business in the marketing area. The order presently exempts from regulation plants from which routes entering the marketing area dispose of less than an average of 300 units (quarts of milk or equivalent) daily. A handler proposed deletion of this exemption. Only one handler is presently selling milk in the area under this exemption, continuing minor sales in a portion of the marketing area added by the amendment effective May 1955.

The provision provides a feasible means of avoiding full regulation of plants whose association with the marketing area is of such a minor and incidental nature that such regulation would accomplish nothing. It should be retained.

Allocation of shrinkage on producer milk transferred in bulk between pool plants. It was proposed that provisions be made for handlers to agree upon an equal division of the two percent shrinkage allowance on producer milk transferred in bulk between pool plants. The order presently reserves the entire allowance to the plant receiving the milk from producers. Optional agreement between the handlers was proposed because some supply arrangements in the Cleveland market entail considerably more opportunity for plant loss to the plant receiving milk from producers than is normally the case.

Processing plants which receive bulk shipments from supply plants encounter losses in processing and packaging such milk. The present provisions limit the application of the shrinkage allowance on milk so handled to the operations carried out by the supply plant. Within the overall two percent limit plant losses incurred in later operations should be allowed the same as if all processing were done in the plant at which milk is received from producers. The proposal represents a practical means for accomplishing this and should be adopted.

Certain administrative procedures. Certain changes of an administrative nature should be made. The present provision requiring a pool plant operator to notify the market administrator on or before January 31 of his desire for his operation to continue as a pool plant will be changed so that such plant will continue to be a pool plant, if so qualified, unless written advice to the contrary is furnished the market administrator. This change in order language should be made.

A typographical error in § 975.75 (a) should be corrected so that the order will correctly describe the procedure for calculation of the eligible milk price.

Rulings on proposed findings and conclusions. Briefs were filed on behalf of interested parties. The briefs contained suggested findings of fact, conclusions and arguments with respect to the proposals considered at the hearing. Every point covered in the briefs was carefully examined along with the evidence in the record in making the findings and reaching the conclusions hereinbefore set forth. To the extent that the suggested findings and conclusions are inconsistent with the findings and conclusions contained herein the request to make such findings or to reach such conclusions is denied.

General findings. (a) The tentative marketing agreement and the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the Act;

(b) The parity prices of milk as determined pursuant to section 2 of the Act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect market supply and demand for milk in the marketing area, and the minimum prices specified in the proposed marketing agreement and the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk, and be in the public interest; and

(c) The tentative marketing agreement and the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended, will regulate the handling of milk in the same manner as, and will be applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in, a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

Recommended marketing agreement and order amending the order, as amended. The following order amending the order, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the Cleveland, Ohio, marketing area is recommended as the detailed and appropriate means by which the foregoing conclusions may be carried out. The recommended marketing agreement is not included in this decision because the regulatory provisions thereof would be the same as those contained in the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended:

1. In § 975.30 (b) following the phrase "such plant shall" delete the words "upon written application to the market administrator on or before January 31 of any year" and substitute therefor "unless written advice to the contrary is furnished the market administrator on or before January 31".

2. Add the following as § 975.52 (c).

(c) Where producer milk is transferred in bulk from a pool plant to the pool plant of another handler, and the operators of such plants have so requested the market administrator in writing prior to the delivery period within which the transfer occurred, the maximum allowance for shrinkage pursuant to § 975.51 (c) (3) with respect to such milk shall be divided equally between the transferor and transferee plants.

3. Delete § 975.61 and substitute therefor the following:

§ 975.61 Class I milk prices. The respective minimum prices per hundredweight to be paid by each handler, f. o. b. his plant for milk received from producers or from a pool plant of a cooperative association, during the delivery period which is classified as Class I milk, shall be as follows as computed by the market administrator:

(a) Add to the basic formula price the following amount for the period indicated:

Delivery period:	Amount
February through July	$1.40
All others	1.85

(b) Add or subtract a "supply-demand adjustment" computed as follows:

(1) With respect to receipts and utilization of the Cleveland and Akron-Stark County, Ohio, marketing areas during the first and second months preceding the delivery period, combine into separate totals:

(i) The total quantity of milk received from producers defined in § 975.8 and in § 960.7 of the order regulating the handling of milk in the Akron-Stark County, Ohio, marketing area; and

(ii) The gross quantity of milk utilized as Class I at pool plants pursuant to § 975.30 and to § 960.5 of the order regulating the handling of milk in the Akron-Stark County, Ohio, marketing area, exclusive of interhandler and intermarket transfers between such plants.

(2) Divide the result obtained in subparagraph (1) (i) of this paragraph by that obtained in subparapragh (1) (ii) of this paragraph, multiply by 100, and round to the nearest whole number. This result shall be known as the "current utilization percentage."

Month for which the price is being computed:	Standard utilization percentage
January	123
February	126
March	129
April	132
May	135
June	144
July	149
August	144
September	131
October	125
November	123
December	122

(4) Determine the amount of the supply-demand adjustment from the following schedule:

Deviation percentage:	Amount of supply-demand adjustment (cents)
+13 or over	−25
+10 or +11	−19
+7 or +8	−13
+4 or +5	−7
+2 or −2	0
−4 or −5	+7
−7 or −8	+13
−10 or −11	+19
−13 or below	+25

When the deviation percentage does not fall within the tabulated brackets, the adjustment shall be determined by the adjacent bracket which is the same as or nearest to the bracket used in the previous month.

4. Delete § 975.66 and substitute therefor the following:

§ 975.66 Quota rules. (a) Except as provided in paragraph (b) of this section, an eligible milk quota shall apply to deliveries of milk by the producer for whose account that milk was delivered to a handler(s) during the quota forming period;

(b) A producer may transfer his daily quota during the period of April through June by notifying the market administrator in writing before the first day of any delivery period that such quota is to be transferred to the person named in such notice, but under the following conditions only:

(1) In the event of the death of a producer, the entire daily quota may be transferred to a member of such producer's immediate family who carries on the dairy operation on the same farm;

(2) If a quota is held jointly and such joint holding is terminated on the basis of written notice to the market administrator from the joint holders, the entire daily quota may be transferred to one of the joint holders, or divided in accordance with such notice between the former joint holders if they continue dairy farm operations.

5. Delete § 975.71 and substitute therefor the following:

§ 975.71 Location adjustment to handlers. In computing the value of such quantities of milk as are received at a pool plant located 40 miles or more, by the shortest highway distance from the Public Square in Cleveland, Ohio, as determined by the market administrator, and classified as Class I or Class II milk, there shall be deducted:

(a) 13 cents per hundredweight, if such distance is more than 40 miles but not more than 60 miles; and

(b) 20 cents per hundredweight, if such distance is more than 60 miles but not more than 74 miles, and 2 cents per hundredweight additional for each 14 miles or fraction thereof in excess of 74 miles.

(c) For the purpose of determining the respective quantities of Class I and Class II milk subject to the location adjustment, each pool handler's utilization of Class I and Class II milk during the month at pool plants as defined in § 975.30 (a) shall be allocated first to receipts of milk from producers' farms at such plants and then to the receipts of producer milk from pool plants as defined in § 975.30 (b) in the order of their nearness to the Public Square in Cleveland, Ohio, by shortest highway distance as determined by the market administrator.

6. In § 975.73 (c) delete "§ 975.81 (b)" and substitute therefor "§ 975.81".

7. In § 975.75 (a) delete "§ 975.73 (a) through (c)" and substitute therefor "§ 975.73 (a) through (e)".

8. In § 975.81 (a) delete "30 miles" and substitute therefor "40 miles".

Issued at Washington, D. C., this 2d day of January 1957.

LEATHER, LEATHER GOODS, SHOE, AND RELATED PRODUCTS INDUSTRY; TEXTILE AND TEXTILE PRODUCTS INDUSTRY; AND HOSIERY INDUSTRY

APPOINTMENTS TO INVESTIGATE CONDITIONS AND RECOMMEND MINIMUM WAGES; NOTICE OF HEARING

Pursuant to authority under the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 (52 Stat. 1060, as amended; 29 U. S. C. 201, et seq.), and Reorganization Plan No. 6 of 1950 (5 U. S. C. 611), I hereby appoint, convene, and give notice of the hearings of Industry Committee No. 28–A for the leather, leather goods, shoe, and related products industry in Puerto Rico, Industry Committee No. 28–B for the textile and textile products industry in Puerto Rico, and Industry Committee No. 28–C for the hosiery industry in Puerto Rico.

Industry Committee No. 28–A is composed of the following representatives:

For the public: Leo C. Brown, Chairman, St. Louis, Mo.; Marlin M. Volz, Kansas City, Mo.; Hiram Cancio, Rio Piedras, P. R.

For the employees: Joseph McGonigal, Mt. Vernon, Ill.; Philip G. Salem, Lawrence, Mass.; Prudencio Rivera-Martinez, San Juan, P. R.

For the employers: Oscar Castro-Rivera, San Juan, P. R.; Joseph Miller, Washington, D. C.; Luis Benitez-Carle, Manati, P. R.

For the purpose of this order the leather, leather goods, shoe, and related products industry in Puerto Rico is defined as follows:

(a) The curing, tanning, or other processing of hides, skins, leather or furs and the manufacture of products therefrom; (b) the manufacture from artificial leather, fabric, or similar materials of suitcases, brief cases, wallets, billfolds, coin purses, card cases, key cases, cigarette cases, watch straps, pouches, tie cases, toilet kits, checkbook covers, and like articles; (c) the manufacture of baseballs and softballs covered with leather, artificial leather, fabric or similar materials; (d) the manufacture or partial manufacture of footwear from any material and by any process except knitting, crocheting, vulcanizing of the entire article, or vulcanizing of the sole to the upper, including, but without limitation, shoes, slippers, sandals, moccasins, boots, boot tops, puttees (except spiral puttees), athletic shoes, burial shoes, and shoes completely rebuilt in a shoe factory; (e) the manufacture from any material (except rubber or composition of rubber, molded to shape) of cut stock and findings for footwear, including, but without limitation, heels, linings, vamps, quarters, outsoles, midsoles, insoles, taps, lifts, rands, toplifts, bases, shanks, boxtoes, counters, stays, stripping, sock linings, heel pads, pasted shoe stock, and bows, ornaments and trimmings; and (f) the manufacture of boot and shoe patterns: Provided, however, That this definition shall not include the manufacture of bows, ornaments and trimmings by a manufacturer not otherwise covered by this definition; the manufacture of woodheel blocks; and the manufacture of any products included in the Button, Buckle, and Jewelry Industry, the Fabric and Leather Glove Industry, the Men's and Boys' Clothing and Related Products Industry, and the Needlework and Fabricated Textile Products Industry, as defined in the wage orders for those industries in Puerto Rico.

Industry Committee No. 28–B is composed of the following representatives:

For the public: Leo C. Brown, Chairman, St. Louis, Mo.; Marlin M. Volz, Kansas City, Mo.; Hiram Cancio, Rio Piedras, P. R.

For the employees: Joseph McGonigal, Mt. Vernon, Ill.; Philip G. Salem, Lawrence, Mass.; Prudencio Rivera-Martinez, San Juan, P. R.

For the employers: Oscar Castro-Rivera, San Juan, P. R.; Joseph Miller, Washington, D. C.; Malcolm Gordon, Cayey, P. R.

For the purpose of this order the hosiery industry in Puerto Rico is defined as follows:

The manufacture and processing of full-fashioned and seamless hosiery, including, among other processes, the knitting, seaming, looping, dyeing, clocking, and all phases of finishing hosiery, but not including the manufacture and processing of yarn or thread.

I hereby refer to each of the above mentioned industry committees the question of the minimum wage rate or rates to be fixed under section 6 (c) of the Act for its industry. Each such industry committee shall investigate conditions in its industry, and the committee, or any authorized sub-committee thereof, shall hear such witnesses and receive such evidence as may be necessary or appropriate to enable the committee to perform its duties and functions under the Act.

Industry Committee No. 28–A shall commence its hearings on February 4, 1957, at 2:00 p. m. in the offices of the Wage and Hour Division, United States Department of Labor, New York Department Store Building, Fortaleza and San Jose Streets, San Juan, Puerto Rico. Consecutively, at the same place, after the hearings of Industry Committee No. 28–A, Industry Committees Nos. 28–B, and 28–C shall hold their hearings in that order.

Each committee will meet at the same place before its hearing to make its investigation and appropriate decisions concerning its hearing. Industry Committee No. 28–A will meet at 10:00 a. m. on February 4, 1957, and Industry Committees Nos. 28–B, and 28–C, will meet at an hour to be designated by the committee chairman.

In order to reach as rapidly as is economically feasible the objective of the minimum wage prescribed in paragraph (1) of section 6 (a) of the Act, each industry committee shall recommend to the Administrator the highest minimum wage rate or rates for the industry which it determines, having due regard to economic and competitive conditions, will not substantially curtail employment in the industry and will not give any industry in Puerto Rico a competitive advantage over any industry in the United States outside of Puerto Rico. Where an industry committee finds that a higher minimum wage may be determined for employees engaged in certain activities or in the manufacture of certain products in the industry, the industry committee shall recommend such reasonable classifications within the industry as it determines to be necessary for the purpose of fixing for each classification the highest minimum wage rate that can be determined for it under the principles set out here which will not substantially curtail employment in such classification and will not give a competitive advantage to any group in the industry. No classification shall be made, however, and no minimum wage shall be fixed solely on a regional basis or on the basis of age or sex. In determining whether there should be classifications within the industry, in making such classifications, and in determining the minimum wage rates for such classifications, the committee shall consider, among other relevant factors, the following: (1) Competitive conditions as affected by transportation, living, and production costs; (2) the wages established for work of like or comparable character by collective labor agreements negotiated between employers and employees by representatives of their own choosing; and (3) the wages paid for work of like or comparable character by employers who voluntarily maintain minimum wage standards in the industry.

The Administrator shall prepare an economic report containing such data as he is able to assemble pertinent to the matters herein referred to each committee. Copies of these reports may be obtained at the national and Puerto Rican offices of the United States Department of Labor as soon as they are completed and prior to the hearings. Each committee will take official notice of the facts stated in the economic report to the extent they are not refuted at the hearings.

The procedure of these industry committees will be governed by Title 29 of the Code of Federal Regulations, Part 511, as revised and amended on November 4, 1955 (20 F. R. 8285) and May 30, 1956 (21 F. R. 3678), and October 6, 1956 (21 F. R. 7669). As a prerequisite to participation as witnesses or parties these regulations require, among other things, that interested persons in the present matters shall file a prehearing statement containing certain specified data, not later than January 26, 1957.

Signed at Washington, D. C., this 3d day of January 1957.

JAMES MITCHELL,
Secretary of Labor.

EXTENSION OF TIME FOR COMMENT RELATING TO PUBLICATION OF PRELIMINARY LIST

JANUARY 4, 1957.

In a notice dated November 2, 1956, published in the FEDERAL REGISTER, November 9, 1956, interested parties were requested to present any relevant views as to why particular imported articles should or should not appear on the preliminary list provided for in section 6 (a) of the Customs Simplification Act of 1956.

In consideration of the difficulties being encountered by interested parties in securing required information for presentation within the 60-day period prescribed, the period for submission of views is hereby extended for an additional 60 days.

Information and any communications relative to the above should be addressed to the Bureau of Customs, Washington 25, D. C.

[SEAL] RALPH KELLY,
Commissioner of Customs.

ASSISTANT AREA DIRECTOR ET AL.

DELEGATIONS OF AUTHORITY WITH RESPECT TO CONSTRUCTION, SUPPLY AND SERVICE CONTRACTS AND NEGOTIATING CONTRACTS FOR SERVICES OF ENGINEERING AND ARCHITECTURAL FIRMS

SECTION 1. Authority. The authority delegated to the Area Director by the Commissioner of Indian Affairs in Order No. 566 (19 F. R. 3971) as amended, (20 F. R. 2092, 5703; 21 F. R. 2290) pertaining to construction, supply and service contracts and negotiating without advertising, contracts for services of engineering and architectural firms is hereby redelegated as indicated in this order.

SEC. 2. Assistant Area Director, Area Administrative Officer, and Area Property and Supply Officer. (a) The Assistant Area Director may enter into construction, supply and service contracts and negotiate, without advertising, contracts for services of engineering and architectural firms, irrespective of the amounts involved, and perform the duties of Contracting Officer in regard to such contracts.

(b) The Area Administrative Officer and the Area Property and Supply Officer may enter into supply and service contracts when the amount in individual cases does not exceed $10,000 and perform the duties of Contracting Officer in regard to such contracts.

SEC. 3. Authorized representative of Contracting Officer. With respect to contracts entered into by the Area Director, the Assistant Area Director is designated as the authorized representative of the Contracting Officer as such term is used in such contracts and may perform the duties of the Contracting Officer except as follows:

(a) Functions relating to the termination of a contract.

(b) Disputes concerning questions of fact which are not disposed of by agreement.

SEC. 4. Appeals. An appeal from a findings of fact or decision of a Contracting Officer shall be made by notice of appeal in writing addressed to the Board of Contract Appeals, Office of the Solicitor, Department of the Interior, Washington 25, D. C., and shall be mailed to or filed with the Contracting Officer, within the time allowed by the contract. The notice of appeal shall specify the portion of the findings of fact or decision from which the appeal is taken, and the reasons why the findings or decision are deemed erroneous. Immediately upon receipt of the notice of appeal, the Contracting Officer shall inform the Board by air mail that the appeal has been received. (Regulations governing appeals are published in 19 F. ATOMIC ENERGY COMMISSION

[Docket No. F-22]

WESTINGHOUSE ELECTRIC CORP.

NOTICE OF PROPOSED ISSUANCE OF CONSTRUCTION PERMIT

Please take notice that the Atomic Energy Commission proposes to issue a construction permit to Westinghouse Electric Corporation substantially in the form set forth below unless within fifteen (15) days after publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER a request for a formal hearing is filed with the Commission in the manner prescribed by § 2.102 (b) of the Commission's rules of practice (10 CFR Part 2). There is annexed a memorandum submitted by the Division of Civilian Application which summarizes the principal features of the proposed reactor and the principal factors considered in reviewing the application for a license. For further details see the application for license at the Commission's Public Document Room, 1717 H Street NW., Washington, D. C.

Construction permit. No. CPRR-4. The Westinghouse Electric Corporation, Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania (hereinafter "Westinghouse"), on March 12, 1956, filed its application for a Class 104 license, defined in § 50.21 of Part 50, "Licensing of Production and Utilization Facilities," Title 10, Chapter I, CFR, to construct and operate a nuclear reactor (hereinafter "the reactor"). On August 7 and 22, 1956, and September 17, 1956, Westinghouse filed revisions to its license application. The original application together with said revisions is hereinafter referred to as "the application."

The Atomic Energy Commission (hereinafter "the Commission") has found that:

A. The reactor will be a utilization facility as defined in the Commission's regulations contained in Title 10, Chapter I, CFR, Part 50, "Licensing of Production and Utilization Facilities."

B. Westinghouse proposes to utilize the reactor in the conduct of research and development activities of the types specified in section 31 of the Atomic Energy Act of 1954.

C. Westinghouse is financially qualified to construct and operate the reactor in accordance with the regulations contained in the Title 10, Chapter 1, CFR; to assume financial responsibility for the payment of Commission charges for special nuclear material and to undertake and carry out the proposed use of such material for a reasonable period of time.

D. Westinghouse is technically qualified to design and construct the reactor.

E. Westinghouse has submitted sufficient information to provide reasonable assurance that a reactor of the type proposed can be constructed and operated at the proposed location without undue risk to the health and safety of the public and that additional information required to complete its application will be supplied.

F. The issuance of a construction permit to Westinghouse will not be inimical to the common defense and security and to the health and safety of the public.

Pursuant to the Atomic Energy Act of 1954 (hereinafter "the act") and Title 10, CFR, Chapter I, Part 50, "Licensing of Production and Utilization Facilities," the Commission hereby issues a construction permit to Westinghouse to construct the reactor as a utilization facility. This permit shall be deemed to contain and be subject to the conditions specified in §§ 50.54 and 50.55 of said regulations; is subject to all applicable provisions of the act and rules, regulations and orders of the Commission now or hereafter in effect; and is subject to any additional conditions specified or incorporated below.

A. The earliest date for the completion of the reactor is July 1, 1957. The latest date for completion of the reactor is December 31, 1957. The term "completion date" as used herein means the date on which construction of the reactor is completed except for the introduction of the fuel material.

B. The site proposed for the location of the reactor is the location in Westmoreland County, Pennsylvania, specified in the application.

C. The type of facility authorized for construction is a light water cooled and moderated testing reactor designed to operate at a thermal power level of 20,000 kilowatts, as described in the application.

This permit is subject to submittal by Westinghouse to the Commission (by proposed amendment of the application) of additional information required to complete its Hazards Summary Report and a finding by the Commission that the final design provides reasonable assurance that the health and safety of the public will not be endangered by operation of the reactor in accordance with the specified procedures.

Upon completion (as defined in paragraph A above) of the construction of the facility in accordance with the terms and conditions of this permit, upon the filing of any additional information needed to bring the original application up to date, and upon finding that the facility authorized has been constructed in conformity with the application as amended and in conformity with the provisions of the act and of the rules and regulations of the Commission, and in the absence of any good cause being shown to the Commission why the granting of a license would not be in accordance with the provisions of the act, the Commission will issue a Class 104 license to Westinghouse pursuant to section 104c of the act, which license shall expire December 31, 1962.

Pursuant to § 50.60 of the regulations in Title 10, Chapter I, CFR, Part 50, the Commission has allocated to Westinghouse for use in the operation of the reactor, 76 kilograms of uranium 235 contained in uranium at the isotopic ratio specified in Westinghouse's application. Estimated schedules of special nuclear material transfers to Westinghouse and returns to the Commission are contained in Enclosure A to Appendix A which is set forth below. Deliveries by the Commission to Westinghouse in accordance with schedule 1 of Enclosure A to Appendix A will be conditioned upon Westinghouse's return to the Commission of special nuclear material substantially in accordance with schedule 2 of Enclosure A to Appendix A.

Dated at Washington, D. C., this 21st day of December 1956.

For the Atomic Energy Commission.

H. L. PRICE,
Director,
Division of Civilian Application.

APPENDIX A—WESTINGHOUSE ELECTRIC CORPORATION CONSTRUCTION PERMIT

SCHEDULE 1

Estimated schedule of transfers of special nuclear material from the Commission to Westinghouse:

Date of transfer:	Kilograms of contained U-235
1956	14.04
1957	21.06
1958	42.12
1959	42.12
1960	42.12
1961	42.12
1962	21.06
Total transfers	224.64

SCHEDULE 2

Estimated schedule of transfers of special nuclear material from Westinghouse to the Commission:

Date of transfer	Kilograms of contained recoverable scrap	U-235 spent fuel	Total
1957	4.10		4.10
1958	6.14	17.98	24.12
1959	6.14	26.97	33.11
1960	6.14	26.97	33.11
1961	6.14	26.97	33.11
1962	4.10	26.97	31.07
Inventory to be returned			18.74
Total transfers			177.36

(Total fabrication and burn-out losses calculated to be 47.28 kilograms.)

MEMORANDUM

PART I—DESCRIPTION OF THE PROPOSED FACILITY

The following summary of the principal features of the proposed facility is based on the application for a license which was filed with the Commission by Westinghouse Electric Corporation. The facility is a nuclear reactor designed to operate at a thermal power level of 20 megawatts with a peak thermal neutron flux of 8×10^{13} n/cm²/sec. It is intended to be used for developing power reactor fuel elements, radiation damage testing of electrical materials and components, and the limited production of radioisotopes.

The reactor is to be constructed on a 750-acre tract in Sewickley and Hempfield Townships, Westmoreland County, Pennsylvania. The site is slightly over one mile east of Yukon, Pennsylvania (population 1,100), and 29 miles southeast of Pittsburgh. The land around the site is used primarily for farming. The reactor is located approximately 1,500 feet from the site boundary. There are no dwellings within a 2,000-foot radius from the reactor and only 400 inhabitants within a one-mile radius. There are ten centers of population within a distance of from 8 to 16 miles, varying in population from 3,000 to 51,500.

The reactor core will be contained in a stainless steel pressure vessel with an inside diameter of 8 feet and an overall height of about 33 feet. The core may consist of from 51 to 122 cylindrical fuel elements 50 feet long and 2½ inches in diameter, each containing about 200 grams of uranium enriched to 90 percent in the isotope U-235. The fuel in each element will be contained in three concentric fuel bearing cylinders each of which is about 36 inches long. The fuel loading in the core may vary from 12 to 25 kilograms of U-235. The loading will be adjusted to provide an excess reactivity of 9 percent above that required for criticality without experiments loaded in the reactor. The applicant states that this excess reactivity will be required to (1) override the neutron absorption of the xenon present in the reactor under equilibrium conditions; (2) to overcome the decrease in reactivity which results from the temperature rise which takes place when the reactor is operating; and (3) to replace the reactivity lost as the U-235 burns out during the planned operating cycle of one month. Demineralized natural water will be used for the coolant, moderator and reflector.

There will be nine control rods in the reactor each having a control value of approximately 3½ percent excess reactivity. The applicant states that each rod will consist of an aluminum clad cadmium cylinder attached to the top of a standard fuel element section.

The rods will be arranged in two concentric rings—an inner ring with 3 rods and an outer ring of 6 rods. The rods will be attached to the driving mechanism by scram magnets. In the case of a scram, the rods will be driven into the core by gravity and the pressure due to the downward coolant flow. The reactor will be scrammed as a result of a decrease in the excitation current of the magnets holding the rods. An electric power failure, therefore, will shut down the reactor. The rods consist of poison and fuel sections. In the event of a scram the fuel bearing portion of the control rods drop out of the core as the poison section replaces it.

The reactor safety instrumentation will be designated to scram the reactor when any one or more of the following conditions occur:

a. The reactor power level reaches 30 megawatts (alarm is tripped at 25 megawatts).

b. The reactor period (time necessary for the reactor power to increase by a factor of 2.7) becomes as short as three seconds (alarm is tripped at a period of six seconds), and

c. The primary coolant flow is reduced to 5,000 gpm (alarm is tripped at 12,000 gpm). The applicant states that in his judgment, this scram provides protection against high fuel element temperatures which are possible even at low power when heat is being removed at a sufficiently reduced rate, as would be the case for a severe reduction in coolant flow.

A manually operated chemical poison system (a secondary safety system) will also be included in the safety system to serve as a means for a slow scram should the primary safety system fail to operate.

A primary coolant flow of 13,660 gpm of demineralized natural water will be initiated from a 60,000 gallon elevated storage tank. The coolant enters the top of the reactor tank and is split into two streams. One stream of 9,107 gpm cools the reactor core and the other stream passes through the reflector region and cools the nonpressurized experiments. The two streams join at the bottom of the reactor and the coolant flows upward through the thermal shields and out of the reactor. The effluent water from the reactor flows into a 30,000 gallon surge tank which would provide emergency cooling in the event the primary pumps fail. Water from the surge tank passes through two coolant pumps, two water-to-water heat exchangers and then to the elevated storage tank. During normal operating conditions the bulk inlet water temperature is expected by the applicant to be 115° F. and the bulk exit temperature 125° F. The corresponding average core exist temperature is 130° F. The static pressure in the core is 42 psia, and the total pressure drop across the reactor vessel is 37.5 psi. The reactor tank will be designed to be capable of withstanding a pressure of 75 psia. A primary coolant water flow of 50 gpm is continuously passed through a mixed bed ion exchanger to maintain water purity. The secondary coolant system water flow from the heat exchanger is cooled in a cooling tower which will have a capacity to cool 12,000 gpm of 100° F. water to 85° F. at a wet bulb air temperature of 75° F.

Experimental facilities to be contained in the reactor include the following:

a. One 6-inch O. D. high pressure test thimble located in the center of the reactor designed to operate at a maximum of 600° F. and 2,000 psi.

b. Six 3-inch O. D. high pressure test thimbles similar to (1) above located symmetrically in the reactor core.

c. Sixty nonpressurized thimbles around the periphery of the active portion of the core.

d. Provisions for five experimental tube facilities (called rabbit facilities) around the rim of the core.

e. An 8-inch I. D. beam hole.

To prevent the release of fission products to the environs in the event of a reactor incident, the reactor is to be housed in a cylindrical steel containment vessel approximately 70 feet in diameter and 67 feet high. The proposed design specifications for this vessel state that it will withstand a pressure of 2 psig at 125° F. with a leakage rate of 2 percent of the volume of the vapor container per day per pound of over-pressure. Personnel access to the containment vessel will be through special interlocked air locks. A truck air lock approximately 10' x 10' x 35' in size will provide access for large equipment.

PART II—HAZARDS EVALUATION

General considerations. The nuclear characteristics of the proposed Westinghouse Testing Reactor (WTR) are similar in many respects to the AEC Materials Testing Reactor (MTR) presently operating at the National Reactor Testing Station in Idaho.

The MTR has been operating for over four years without serious incident and has contributed much to the general technology of this type of reactor. The operation of other reactors in the Commission's program, representing simplified versions of the MTR, has resulted in the availability of much data useful in predicting operating characteristics of reactors of this type. This experience has provided information not only for normal operating conditions but for dynamic or transient behavior of such reactors as well. Much of this experience has involved actual reactor experiments designed to measure the inherent ability of these reactors to recover from an inadvertent temperature or power rise, i. e., the determination of their self-regulating characteristics. For example, it was shown from such experiments that if boiling should occur, the moderating effect of the water would be reduced, leading to a decrease in reactivity tending to counteract the power rise and eliminate boiling. This effect is due mainly to the increase in neutron leakage accompanying the formation of steam bubbles, i. e., a decrease in neutron economy due to the elimination of target atoms for slowing down the neutrons to a more efficient velocity range.

While it is true that the proposed WTR unit is not by any means an exact duplicate of the MTR or any of the other reactors of this type, and while such special features as the high reactivity value of the regulating rod and the possible need for a quick response secondary system must be carefully evaluated prior to the issuance of any operational approval, the stability and predictability which has been demonstrated by the extensive successful operation of the MTR and other units of the same general type, leads to the conclusion that the applicant should, by sound design and careful construction, be able to achieve a reactor which is capable of safe operation at the site proposed.

Temperature coefficient of reactivity. Of particular concern in the WTR, as in any reactor, is the effect of temperature on its operating behavior. Here there are two areas of consideration, namely, static stability and dynamic stability. A reactor possesses static stability to temperature changes if there is a decrease in reactivity with an increase in temperature (negative temperature coefficient), i. e., if for any reason there is a rise of temperature within the reactor, the effective multiplication factor, or its ability to sustain a chain reaction, will then tend to decrease. Consequently, the rate of heat production or power level will also decrease, tending to offset the rise in temperature. Conversely, if the temperature coefficient were positive, the reactor would be unstable to temperature changes.

Westinghouse has presented results of calculations which indicate that the proposed reactor will possess a relatively strong negative temperature coefficient of reactivity, insuring stability in the event of probable types of power excursions. Since the sign and magnitude of the temperature coefficient of reactivity is a function of the actual design of the reactor, and since the detail design has not yet been frozen, we have not at this time made a complete evaluation of these calculations. However, the results of the Westinghouse calculations are entirely consistent with the values measured in existing MTR type reactors and we are satisfied that a negative temperature coefficient of reactivity of the magnitude indicated can be achieved.

The extent of density changes in the coolant or moderator brought about by changes in temperature have a strong influence on whether the overall temperature coefficient is positive or negative and the magnitude of such coefficient. However, density changes do not respond to temperature variations instantaneously, and as a result oscillations may develop in the neutron flux and reactor power. If such oscillations are rapidly damped out because of the inherent features of the reactor, the reactor is said to have good dynamic stability.

The extent to which a given reactor has or does not have these functions is determined to a large degree by the actual design of that reactor. Lacking the final design, we have not yet completely analyzed this phenomenon with regard to the WTR, but, based on knowledge from existing reactors having similar nuclear characteristics, we are convinced that a reactor of this type having favorable dynamic stability can be designed.

Containment of maximum credible accident. While we are not yet ready to accept the Company's analysis of the maximum accident against which the bursting strength and leakage rate of the containment vessel must be evaluated and while we are, therefore, also not at this time ready to accept as adequate the proposed leakage rate of 2 percent per day, we are satisfied, based on knowledge of other reactors of the same general type and power level, that when the maximum credible accident has been defined and accepted, it will be feasible to design the containment structure strong enough to withstand the initial energy release of that accident and tight enough to adequately contain the fission products released by that accident.

Possibility of development of additional potential safety hazards. While the safety problems of this type of reactor seem to be generally well understood as a result of fairly extensive experience, the results of continuing experimental work and of continued operation of similar reactors, may point out potential safety hazards which are not recognized today. In this respect, quite recent experiments have indicated the possibility of unstable reactor oscillations under certain conditions. While these results may not apply to reactors of the type proposed by the applicant, their full implications are not yet known. See copy of letters to licensees and license applicants dated October 18, 1956, on file in the AEC Public Document Room.

Summary. The application has been reviewed only for the purpose of determining whether, based on information contained in the application and any amendments thereto, and taking into account the experience which has been gained from operation of the MTR, there is reasonable assurance that a facility of the general type proposed can be constructed and operated at the proposed location without undue risk to the health and safety of the public. In making this determination, it is not necessary to give detailed consideration to the adequacy or acceptability of particular design features or specification of the reactor and its associated equipment, or to the proposed operating procedures, or to the safety of the reactor for specific types of research and development programs. For this reason, no attempt has been made at this time to review and evaluate such information as has been presented on these factors.

Prior to the time when the reactor is allowed to go critical, a complete review and evaluation of (1) the hazard aspects of the reactor and containment design; (2) the operating and supervisory procedures; (3) the particular research and development programs to be carried out; and (4) the emergency plans, must demonstrate that the issuance of a license to operate the reactor will not be inimical to the common defense and security or to the health and safety of the public.

The applicant may at such times as he deems appropriate request amendment of his construction permit to include findings with regard to particular technical design features or specifications of the reactor and its associated equipment and proposed operating procedures.

PART III—TECHNICAL QUALIFICATIONS

Westinghouse designs, manufactures and produces equipment that generates, distributes, controls and uses electric power. Under contract with the Atomic Energy Commission and the U. S. Navy, Westinghouse has developed, designed, and built several full-scale nuclear power plants.

PART IV—FINANCIAL QUALIFICATIONS

The 1955 annual report by Westinghouse submitted as part of the application contains the following figures for the calendar year 1955: Products and services sold, $1,440,976,985; net income, $42,802,747; and working capital, $736,146,478.

Total assets of the company are several hundred times as large as the value of the special nuclear material which the company expects to possess at any one time. Stockholders' equity is more than two-thirds of its total assets. Its long-term debt represents one-fourth of the total assets and matures well into the future at a reasonable rate of interest. The company is in a strong current position with a current ratio of assets to liabilities of approximately six to one. Except for 1955, during which Westinghouse suffered a long strike by its employees, annual income (after taxes) for each of the past several years has been in excess of sixty-four million dollars.

PART V—CONCLUSIONS

Based upon the above considerations, it is concluded that:

a. There is reasonable assurance that a facility of the general type proposed can be constructed and operated at the proposed site without undue risk to the health and safety of the public.

b. The applicant is technically and financially qualified to engage in the proposed activities.

SOUTHERN NEVADA POWER CO.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION SEEKING ORDER AUTHORIZING ISSUANCE OF PROMISSORY NOTES

DECEMBER 31, 1956.

Take notice that on December 26, 1956, an application was filed with the Federal Power Commission, pursuant to section 204 of the Federal Power Act, by Southern Nevada Power Co. (hereinafter called "Applicant"), a corporation organized under the laws of the State of Nevada, and doing business in said State, with its principal business office at Las Vegas, Nevada, seeking an order authorizing the issuance of promissory notes in the principal amount not exceeding $6,000,000 at any one time outstanding, at the interest rate of one-half of 1 percent, plus the prime interest rate in effect at the date of loan or renewal thereof. Applicant proposes to borrow the funds from banks listed below:

California Bank, Los Angeles, Calif.	$2,050,000
First Western Bank & Trust Co., San Francisco, Calif.	1,500,000
The First National City Bank, New York, N. Y.	1,000,000
First National Bank of Nevada, Reno, Nev.	1,000,000
Bank of Nevada, Las Vegas, Nev.	450,000
Total	6,000,000

and will issue to said banks the 90-day promissory notes referred to above. All of the notes to be issued by Applicant are proposed to mature not later than September 30, 1958. Applicant proposes to use the proceeds to finance in part its construction program; all as more fully appears in the application on file with the Commission, and available for public inspection.

Any person desiring to be heard or to make any protest with reference to said application should, on or before the 14th day of January 1957, file with the Federal Power Commission, Washington 25, D. C., a petition or protest in accordance with the requirements of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10).

[File No. 70-3535]

OHIO FUEL GAS CO. ET AL.

ORDER AUTHORIZING MERGER OF ONE SUBSIDIARY INTO ANOTHER, AND CAPITAL CONTRIBUTION BY HOLDING COMPANY

DECEMBER 28, 1956.

In the matter of The Ohio Fuel Gas Company, Natural Gas Company of West Virginia, The Columbia Gas System, Inc.; File No. 70-3535.

The Columbia Gas System, Inc. ("Columbia"), a registered holding company, and its wholly owned subsidiaries The Ohio Fuel Gas Company ("Ohio Fuel") and Natural Gas Company of West Virginia ("Natural Gas") have filed a joint application-declaration and an amendment thereto pursuant to sections 6 (b), 10, 12 (b), and 12 (d) thereof and Rules U-43 and U-45 thereunder regarding the following proposed transactions:

Ohio Fuel, an Ohio corporation, and Natural Gas, a West Virginia corporation, are gas utility companies operating entirely within the State of Ohio. Pursuant to an agreement of merger, Natural Gas will be merged into Ohio Fuel, the surviving corporation. Upon the effective date of merger, Natural Gas will transfer all its assets to Ohio Fuel, and Ohio Fuel will assume all its liabilities including promissory notes in the principal amount of $4,026,000 owing to Columbia.

At August 31, 1956 Columbia carried its investment in the capital stock of Natural Gas at $6,635,963.33, represented by the aggregate par value of the common stock, $5,647,200, plus $988,763.33 of earned surplus accumulated prior to September 30, 1946. Against such carrying value Columbia has provided a reserve of $906,942.94 by charging its earned surplus accumulated since September 30, 1946. During the period from September 30, 1946, to August 31, 1956, Natural Gas incurred an earned surplus deficit of $1,731,038.83. In accordance with the agreement of merger, Columbia will increase its investment in Natural Gas by making a cash capital contribution to Natural Gas equal to the earned surplus deficit, plus $30 (in order to make the net worth of the common stock of Natural Gas divisible by $45, the par value of the Ohio Fuel common stock). By resolution of its board of directors, Natural Gas will transfer to earned surplus from the capital surplus created by Columbia's contribution, an amount equal to the deficit in the former account, following which $30 will remain in its capital surplus account. Columbia will then adjust its investment in the capital stock of Natural Gas to that company's then book net worth, which will be the par value of its common stock plus $30. As of August 31, 1956, this would require a charge of $1,812,859.22 by Columbia to its earned surplus accumulated since September 30, 1946. Upon consummation of the above described accounting adjustments, all of the common stock of Natural Gas, being 56,472 shares having an aggregate net worth (par value plus $30 of capital surplus) of $5,647,230 will be exchanged for 125,494 shares of Ohio Fuel's common stock having an identical aggregate par value.

Natural Gas has a carry-forward Federal income tax loss of approximately $2,000,000. Columbia does not propose to give effect to such loss in allocating consolidated Federal income taxes under Rule U-45 (b) (6), since such loss was not a factor in determining the terms of the merger, and since, if such allocation were made, Ohio Fuel would receive a credit for which it furnished no consideration.

The proposed merger is a further step in Columbia's overall plan of property realignment designed to consolidate the retail gas business in each state into a single gas utility company, and the wholesale gas business of the system into a single company.

The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio has approved the proposed merger, and the Federal Power Commission has granted permission for the abandonment by Natural Gas of the facilities and service under its jurisdiction and has ordered the issuance of a certificate of public convenience and necessity to Ohio Fuel to acquire and operate such facilities.

The fees and expenses to be paid by the several companies are stated as follows:

	Columbia	Natural Gas	Ohio Fuel
Legal services: Cravath, Swaine & Moore	$50	$200	$500
Services of Columbia Gas System Service Corp.		1,000	4,000
Federal original issue tax on stock			6,612
Federal transfer tax on stock		3,388
Fees and taxes on filing of agreement of merger		5	2,300
Recording fees, confirmatory deeds			200
Miscellaneous expenses		100	200
Total	50	4,693	13,812

Due notice having been given of the filing of said application-declaration, and a hearing not having been requested of or ordered by the Commission; and the Commission finding that the applicable provisions of the act and the rules promulgated thereunder are satisfied, and deeming it appropriate in the public interest and in the interest of investors and consumers that the application-declaration, as amended, be granted and permitted to become effective forthwith:

It is ordered, Pursuant to Rule U-23 and the applicable provisions of the act, that said application-declaration as amended be, and hereby is, granted and permitted to become effective forthwith, subject to the terms and conditions prescribed in Rule U-24.

By the Commission.

[SEAL] ORVAL L. DUBOIS,
Secretary.

UNITED STATES TARIFF COMMISSION

[Investigation 57]

SPRING CLOTHESPINS

INVESTIGATION INSTITUTED

Investigation instituted. Upon application of the Clothespin Manufacturers of America, Washington, D. C., received December 20, 1956, the United States Tariff Commission instituted an investigation on January 2, 1957, under the authority of section 7 of the Trade Agreements Extension Act of 1951, as amended, and section 332 of the Tariff Act of 1930, to determine whether spring clothespins provided for in paragraph 412 of the Tariff Act of 1930 are, as a result in whole or in part of the duty or other customs treatment reflecting concessions granted thereon under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, being imported into the United States in such increased quantities, either actual or relative, as to cause or threaten serious injury to the domestic industry producing like or directly competitive products.

Inspection of application. The application filed in this case is available for public inspection at the office of the Secretary, United States Tariff Commission, 8th and E Streets, N. W., Washington, D. C., and in the New York City office of the Tariff Commission, located in Room 437 of the Custom House, where it may be read and copied by persons interested.

By order of the Commission.

Issued: January 2, 1957.

Subchapter C—Determination of Proportionate Shares

[Sugar Determination 850.53, Amdt. 2]

PART 850—DOMESTIC BEET SUGAR PRODUCING AREA

1957 CROP

Pursuant to the provisions of section 302 of the Sugar Act of 1948, as amended, § 850.53, Determination of Proportionate Shares—Domestic Beet Sugar Producing Area—1957 Crop, issued September 25, 1956 (21 F. R. 7426), as amended December 7, 1956 (21 F. R. 9936), is hereby amended by revising paragraph (a) (1) and (2) of § 850.53 to read as follows:

(1) National acreage and State acreage allocations. A national acreage limitation for 1957-crop sugar beets of 932,000 acres is hereby established and allocated as follows:

State:	Acres
California	202,127
Colorado	144,259
Idaho	87,669
Illinois	2,313
Indiana	67
Iowa	1,713
Kansas	7,998
Michigan	81,761
Minnesota	73,661
Montana	56,123
Nebraska	64,410
Nevada	552
New Mexico	837
North Dakota	38,335
Ohio	22,304
Oregon	19,499
South Dakota	6,000
Texas	1,785
Utah	33,526
Washington	33,744
Wisconsin	12,767
Wyoming	38,050
Reserve	2,500
Total	932,000

(2) Acreage within the reserve of 2,500 acres may be allocated by the Director of the Sugar Division, Commodity Stabilization Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture (hereinafter referred to as "Director") to States not listed in this paragraph for the purpose of establishing proportionate shares for farms having sugar beet production records in the crop period 1950-54 or for new producers (as defined in paragraph (j) of this section) in such States; if necessary, to provide acreage for increases in proportionate shares granted by the Director in accordance with paragraph (l) of this section; and to provide acreage to State Committees for establishing farm proportionate shares for producers whose sugar beet production in a local producing area in the period 1950-56 has been seriously and generally affected by drought, storm, flood, freeze, disease, insects, or similar abnormal and uncontrollable conditions in one State and who undertake in another State to continue sugar beet production and apply to the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation State Committee of such other State on or before February 15, 1957, for a farm proportionate share. With respect to allocation of acreage from the reserve under the last condition provided above in this subparagraph, the State Committee shall compute a farm proportionate share for such producers in accordance with paragraph (i) of this section on the basis of the sugar beet production record of the land formerly operated by such producer or the personal production record of the operator or combination thereof as transmitted by the State Committee in the State where such operator formerly conducted sugar beet production operations. Each State Committee shall forward to the Director not later than March 1, 1957, a listing of the acreage of the farm shares computed as provided in this subparagraph, for approval and allocation from the reserve to the State Committee for the establishment of farm proportionate shares as approved by the Director.

Statement of bases and considerations. This amendment increases the 1957 national sugar beet limitation to 932,000 acres.

When the limitation of 885,000 acres was established on September 25, 1956, total quotas for the continental United States amounted to 8,675,000 tons and the quota for the beet area amounted to 1,884,975 tons. Since that date, total quotas for 1956 have been increased to 9,000,000 tons and the quota for the beet area has been increased to 1,955,401 tons.

The 1956 beet sugar marketing quota has, therefore, been increased 70,000 tons since the acreage limitation for the 1957 crop was first established. With average yields and a normal shrinkage between the maximum permitted acreage and the actual harvested acreage, this increase provided for herein should permit the restoration of inventories to the level that would have existed without the recent increases in 1956 marketings and make possible a moderate increase in stocks to help insure adequate supplies in late 1957 and 1958.

On November 27, a meeting was held with representatives of sugar beet growers and processors for the purpose of reviewing changes in the sugar supply and demand situation and to obtain current recommendations as to 1957 acreage limitations. The recommendations ranged from no increase to an increase of 55,000 acres over the limitation of 885,000 acres then in effect. It was pointed out by industry representatives that a survey made prior to the meeting indicated a 1956 beet sugar crop of about 1,975,000 tons. Moreover, it was pointed out that this represented an increase of 75,000 tons over the estimate at the time the original determination was issued and offset the increase in quota for this area. A 1956 crop of this size would represent the highest yield of sugar per planted acre in recent history.

Since November 27, the 1956 marketing quota for the beet sugar area has been increased by 28,068 tons, the product of approximately 13,000 planted acres at recent average yields. Therefore, the increase provided in this amendment is well within the range recommended by representatives of the industry. Although the increase in the maximum 1957 acreage permitted under this amendment may result in some increase in the effective inventory on January 1, 1958, the resultant inventory with normal yields of sugar per acre should be only slightly larger than the effective inventories in some years when the quota was fixed at 1,800,000 tons. In view of the probability that future marketing quotas will be above 1,800,000 tons, some increase in inventories will be necessary to service the market and insure the filling of beet sugar quotas and provide a normal carryover as provided for by the Sugar Act of 1948, as amended.

At the meeting with the industry referred to above, some representatives expressed the opinion that in the event permitted acreage should be increased to make more adequate supplies possible, the Government should undertake to finance such increased supplies or otherwise accept responsibility for the sugar in the event production should exceed the marketing quota at the time the sugar is produced. This position was not supported by some of the grower and processor representatives who favored a more liberal acreage program. To avoid possible misunderstanding, it is pointed out that this revision in the acreage limitation contemplates no loan, purchase or similar program. Although increased acreage will be made available by this amendment for 1957 plantings of sugar beets, the planting of such increased acreage is not required of individual producers as a condition of payment under the Sugar Act.

The increase in the allotted acreage, except for an additional 2,000 acres added to the reserve acreage, has been prorated to the sugar beet producing States on the basis of the allocations established under the original determination. This affords an equitable basis since the original allotments gave recognition to the factors specified in the act.

The increase in the acreage reserve from 500 to 2,500 acres is being made not only to provide for an increase in the set-aside for the purposes specified in paragraph (a) (2) of § 850.53 but also to provide acreage to State Committees for establishing proportionate shares for producers who, because of abnormal and uncontrollable natural conditions have been forced to transfer their sugar beet operations to another State where more favorable conditions exist. Shares for such producers will be established in accordance with the procedures approved for the allotment area in the State to which the producers move, will be based upon the individual producer's record of sugar beet production in the State where he carried on his operations, and will be consistent with the shares established for other producers in the area where he undertakes to continue sugar beet operations.

Accordingly, I hereby find and conclude that the aforestated determination will effectuate the applicable provisions of the act.

TITLE 17—COMMODITY AND SECURITIES EXCHANGES

Chapter II—Securities and Exchange Commission

PART 240—GENERAL RULES AND REGULATIONS, SECURITIES EXCHANGE ACT OF 1934

OVER-THE-COUNTER MARKETS; RATIO OF AGGREGATE INDEBTEDNESS TO NET CAPITAL

The Securities and Exchange Commission today announced that it has amended paragraph (b) (2) of its § 240.15c3-1 (formerly designated Rule X-15C3-1) under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 to grant an exemption from the requirements of the rule to members of the Pacific Coast Stock Exchange which was recently granted registration as a national securities exchange. The Pacific Coast Stock Exchange is a consolidation of the Los Angeles Stock Exchange and the San Francisco Stock Exchange and has absorbed the activities of both of such exchanges whose registration as national securities exchanges was withdrawn. Members of these two exchanges were exempt from the requirements of the rule.

Section 240.15c3-1 provides that no broker or dealer shall permit his aggregate indebtedness to all other persons to exceed 2000% of his net capital. Paragraph (c) of the rule defines the terms "aggregate indebtedness", "net capital" and certain other terms used in the rule. Paragraph (b) (2) thereof exempts from the rule the members of certain specified exchanges whose rules and settled practices were deemed by the Commission to impose requirements more comprehensive than the requirements of the rule.

The members of the Pacific Coast Stock Exchange consist of the former members of the Los Angeles Stock Exchange and the San Francisco Stock Exchange and the effect of the amendment is to maintain their exemption as members of the Pacific Coast Stock Exchange. The rules and other requirements of the Pacific Coast Stock Exchange with respect to the financial responsibility of members are as comprehensive as those of the Los Angeles Stock Exchange and the San Francisco Stock Exchange, and more comprehensive than the requirements imposed by the Commission's rule. As in previous cases, the exemption is subject to the provision that it may be suspended or withdrawn by the Commission at any time by sending at least 10 days written notice to the Exchange if it appears to the Commission necessary or appropriate in the public interest or for the protection of investors so to do.

Statutory basis. The Securities and Exchange Commission, acting pursuant to the provisions of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, particularly sections 15 (c) (3) and 23 (a) thereof, and deeming such action necessary and appropriate in the public interest and for the protection of inventors and necessary to carry out its functions under the act hereby amends paragraph (b) (2) of § 240.15c3-1 to read as stated below.

§ 240.15c3-1 Ratio of aggregate indebtedness to net capital. • • •

(b) Exemptions. The provisions of this section shall not apply to: -

• • • • • •

(2) Any member of the American Stock Exchange, Boston Stock Exchange, Midwest Stock Exchange, New York Stock Exchange, Pacific Coast Stock Exchange, Philadelphia-Baltimore Stock Exchange, Pittsburgh Stock Exchange, or Salt Lake Stock Exchange, all of whose rules and settled practices are deemed by the Commission to impose requirements more comprehensive than the requirements of this section: Provided, That the exemption as to the members of any exchange may be suspended or withdrawn by the Commission at any time, by sending at least ten (10) days written notice to such exchange, if it appears to the Commission necessary or appropriate in the public interest or for the protection of investors so to do.

The Commission for good cause finds that notice and public procedure specified in sections 4 (a) and (b) of the Administrative Procedure Act are unnecessary since the Pacific Coast Stock Exchange represents a consolidation of the activities of the Los Angeles Stock Exchange and the San Francisco Stock Exchange whose members have been exempt from the requirements of this rule, and the rules and other requirements of the Pacific Coast Stock Exchange with respect to the financial responsibility of members are as comprehensive as those of other exchanges which have previously been granted the exemption. The Commission further finds, in accordance with the provisions of section 4 (c) of the Administrative Procedure Act, that this action has the effect of granting exemption and that this amendment may be, and is hereby, declared effective January 2, 1957.

(Sec. 23, 48 Stat. 901 as amended; 15 U. S. C. 78w)

PART 683—WHOLESALING, WAREHOUSING AND OTHER DISTRIBUTION INDUSTRY IN PUERTO RICO

PART 692—RAILROAD, RAILWAY EXPRESS, AND PROPERTY MOTOR TRANSPORT INDUSTRY IN PUERTO RICO, MINIMUM WAGE ORDER

CERTAIN INDUSTRIES IN PUERTO RICO

On October 19, 1956, pursuant to section 5 of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 (52 Stat. 1060, as amended; 29 U. S. C. 201 set seq.), the Secretary of Labor by Administrative Order No. 470 (21 F. R. 8068) appointed, convened and gave notice of the hearings of Industry Committee No. 26–B for the Wholesaling, Warehousing and Other Distribution Industry in Puerto Rico, and Industry Committee No. 26–C for the Communications, Utilities, and Transportation Industry in Puerto Rico. Each Committee was directed to recommend the minimum rate or rates to be paid under section 6 (c) of the act to employees in its industry who are engaged in commerce or in the production of goods for commerce.

Subsequent to an investigation and a hearing, conducted pursuant to the notice, each Committee filed with the Administrator a report containing its findings with respect to the matters referred to it. Accordingly, as authorized and required by section 8 of the act and General Order No. 45–A of the Secretary (15 F. R. 3290), (1) the recommendations of these Committees are hereby published in the following amendments to the Code of Federal Regulations, and (2) effective January 24, 1957, Part 660 (relating to the Shipping Industry in Puerto Rico) and Part 692 (relating to the Railroad, Railway Express and Property Motor Transport Industry in Puerto Rico) of Title 29, Code of Federal Regulations, are combined with Part 671, and Parts 671 and 683 of Title 29, Code of Federal Regulations, are hereby amended to read as follows:

Sec.
671.1 Definition of the industry.
671.2 Wage rates.
671.3 Notices.

AUTHORITY: §§ 671.1 to 671.3 issued under sec. 8, 52 Stat. 1064, as amended; 29 U. S. C. 208. Interpret or apply sec. 5, 52 Stat. 1064, as amended; 29 U. S. C. 205.

§ 671.1 Definition of the industry. The communications, utilities, and transportation industry in Puerto Rico, to which this part shall apply, is defined as follows: The industry carried on by any wire or radio system of communication, or by messenger service; by any concern engaged in the production and distribution of gas, electricity, or steam, the distribution of water or the operation of sanitation facilities; and by any concern engaged in transportation for compensation by air, water, rail, motor vehicle, pipeline, or other means, or in related activities, including the operation of travel bureaus and ticket agencies, stevedoring, consolidating, forwarding, crating, and boxing: Provided, however, That the definition shall not include railroad transportation activities carried on by a producer of raw sugar, cane juice, molasses, refined sugar, and incidental by-products (or by any firm owned or controlled by or owning and controlling such producer, or by any firm owned or controlled by the parent company of such producer), where the railroad transportation activities are in whole or in part used for the production or shipment of these products, and any transportation activities by truck or other vehicle performed by a producer of these products in connection with the production or shipment of such products by such producer.

§ 671.2 Wage rates. (a) Wages at a rate of not less than 70 cents an hour shall be paid under section 6 of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 by every employer to each of his employees in the communications, utilities, and transportation industry in Puerto Rico, who is engaged in commerce or in the production of goods for commerce and who is engaged in the radio broadcasting classification, which is defined as the operations carried on by any firm engaged in radio broadcasting in Puerto Rico.

(b) Wages at a rate of not less than 90 cents an hour shall be paid under section 6 of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 by every employer to each of his employees in the communications, utilities, and transportation industry in Puerto Rico, who is engaged in commerce or in the production of goods for commerce and who is engaged in the television broadcasting classification, which is defined as the operations carried on by any firm engaged in television broadcasting in Puerto Rico.

(c) Wages at a rate of not less than 75 cents an hour shall be paid under section 6 of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 by every employer to each of his employees in the communications, utilities and transportation industry in Puerto Rico who is engaged in commerce or in the production of goods for commerce and who is engaged in the motor carrier transport and express classification, which is defined as any transportation of property by motor vehicle for compensation including pickup and delivery, and activities directly related to the transportation of property by motor vehicle for compensation and consolidation, forwarding, packing, crating, and boxing goods for shipment.

(d) Wages at a rate of not less than 33 cents an hour shall be paid under section 6 of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 by every employer to each of his employees in the communications, utilities, and transportation industry in Puerto Rico, who is engaged in commerce or in the production of goods for commerce, and who is engaged in the railroad carrier classification, which is defined as operations carried on in Puerto Rico by any railroad carrier under public franchise which holds itself out to the general public to engage in the transportation of passengers or property for compensation.

(e) Wages at a rate of not less than $1.00 an hour shall be paid under section 6 of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 by every employer to each of his employees in the communications, utilities, and transportation industry in Puerto Rico, who is engaged in commerce or in the production of goods for commerce and who is engaged in the general classification, which is defined as all activities included in the communications, utilities, and transportation industry in Puerto Rico, except activities included in the radio broadcasting classification, the television broadcasting classification, the motor carrier and express transport classification, and the railroad carrier classification; including, but without limitation, communications activities carried on by telephone, telegraph, cable and radiotelephone, messenger service; the production and distribution of gas, electricity, or steam; the distribution of water and the operation of sanitation facilities; the transportation of passengers or cargo by air, water, pipe line or other means on a "for-hire" basis; or related activities including stevedoring, and the operation of travel bureaus and ticket agencies.

§ 671.3 Notices. Every employer subject to the provisions of § 671.2 shall post in a conspicuous place in each department of his establishment where employees subject to the provisions of § 671.2 are working such notices of this part as shall be prescribed from time to time by the administrator of the Wage and Hour Division, United States Department of Labor, and shall give such other notice as the Administrator may prescribe.

683.3 Notices.

AUTHORITY: §§ 683.1 to 683.3 issued under sec. 8, 52 Stat. 1064, as amended; 29 U. S. C. 208. Interpret or apply sec. 5, 52 Stat. 1064, as amended; 29 U. S. C. 205.

§ 683.1 Definition of the industry. The wholesaling, warehousing, and other distribution industry in Puerto Rico to which this part shall apply, is defined as follows: The wholesaling, warehousing, and other distribution of commodities, including, but without limitation, the wholesaling, warehousing, and other distribution activities of jobbers, importers and exporters, manufacturers' sales branches and offices engaged in distributing products manufactured outside of Puerto Rico, industrial distributors, mail order and retail selling establishments, brokers and agents, and public warehouses: Provided, however, That the definition shall not include the activities of employees who are engaged in wholesaling, warehousing, and other distribution of products manufactured by their employer in Puerto Rico, or any activities covered by the definitions of the communications, utilities, and transportation industry in Puerto Rico, of the tobacco industry in Puerto Rico, and of the food and related products industry in Puerto Rico.

§ 683.2 Wage rates. (a) Wages at a rate of not less than $1.00 an hour shall be paid under section 6 of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 by every employer to each of his employees in the wholesaling, warehousing, and other distribution industry in Puerto Rico, who is engaged in commerce or in the production of goods for commerce and who is engaged in the agent, broker, sales branch, mail order, petroleum bulk station, drugs and chemicals, electrical goods and machinery and equipment classification, which is defined as selling and other distribution activities of sales branches and sales office of manufacturing and mining companies, of agents, merchandise brokers and commission merchants, and of mail order establishments; the storage and wholesale distribution of gasoline, oil and other petroleum products; and the selling, storage, and other distribution activities of merchant wholesalers dealing in drugs (including proprietary medicines, toiletries and druggists sundries such as medical glass, bandages, razors and razor blades, toothbrushes and other medicine cabinet and sickroom sundries usually sold in drug stores), chemicals and allied products, in electrical supplies, appliances, apparatus and equipment, machinery and equipment (other than furniture) and supplies therefor for use in offices, filling stations and garages; agriculture (including tractors), factories, power plants, mines and quarries, oil refineries, professional offices and laboratories, service establishments and transportation and in material handling equipment, pumps, pumping equipment and blowing equipment; and rope, cordage and twine.

(b) Wages at a rate of not less than 90 cents an hour shall be paid under section 6 of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 by every employer to each of his employees in the wholesaling, warehousing, and other distribution industry in Puerto Rico, who is engaged in commerce or in the production of goods for commerce and who is engaged in the warehousing, grocery wholesaling and general classification, which is defined as the selling, storage and other distribution activities of merchant wholesalers dealing in groceries, food specialties or other products the wholesaling of which is not included in any other classification of this industry, in the warehousing or storage of goods, but not including the warehousing or storage of goods by a business concern (other than a merchant wholesaler in groceries and food specialties) for resale by it to other concerns, and in any other activity not specifically included in any other classification of this industry.

§ 683.3 Notices. Every employer subject to the provisions of § 683.2 shall post in a conspicuous place in each department of his establishment where employees subject to the provisions of § 683.2 are working such notices of this part as shall be prescribed from time to time by the Administrator of the Wage and Hour Division, United States Department of Labor, and shall give such other notice as the Administrator may prescribe.

PART 673—FOOD AND RELATED PRODUCTS INDUSTRY IN PUERTO RICO

PART 706—ALCOHOLIC BEVERAGE AND INDUSTRIAL ALCOHOL INDUSTRY IN PUERTO RICO

CERTAIN INDUSTRIES IN PUERTO RICO

On September 27, 1956, pursuant to section 5 of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 (52 Stat. 1060, as amended; 29 U. S. C. 201 et seq.), the Secretary of Labor by Administrative Order No. 468 (21 F. R. 7411) appointed, convened, and gave notice of the hearings of Industry Committee No. 25–A for the Alcoholic Beverage and Industrial Alcohol Industry in Puerto Rico, and Industry Committee No. 25–B for the Food and Related Products Industry in Puerto Rico. Each committee was directed to recommend the minimum rate or rates to be paid under section 6 (c) of the act to employees in its industry who are engaged in commerce or in the production of goods for commerce.

Subsequent to an investigation and a hearing, conducted pursuant to the notice, each committee filed with the Administrator a report containing its findings with respect to the matters referred to it. Accordingly, as authorized and required by section 8 of the Act and General Order No. 45–A of the Secretary (15 F. R. 3290), (1) the recommendations of these committees are hereby published in the following amendments to the Code of Federal Regulations, and (2) effective January 24, 1957, Parts 706 and 673 of Title 29, Code of Federal Regulations, are hereby amended to read as follows:

Sec.
706.1 Definition of the industry.
706.2 Wage rates.
706.3 Notices.

AUTHORITY: §§ 706.1 to 706.3 issued under sec. 8, 52 Stat. 1064, as amended; 29 U. S. C. 208. Interpret or apply sec. 5, 52 Stat. 1064 as amended; 29 U. S. C. 205.

§ 706.1 Definition of the industry. The alcoholic beverage and industrial alcohol industry in Puerto Rico, to which this part shall apply is defined as follows: The manufacture, including, but without limitation, the distilling, rectifying, blending, or bottling of rum, gin, whisky, brandy, cordials, liqueurs, wines, ale, beer and similar malt beverages with or without alcohol, other alcoholic beverages, industrial alcohol (such as ethyl alcohol, butyl alcohol, and acetone), anti-freeze, and any related by-product resulting from the manufacture of any of the foregoing products.

§ 706.2 Wage rates. Wages at a rate of not less than $1.00 an hour shall be paid under section 6 of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 by every employer to each of his employees in the alcoholic beverage and industrial alcohol industry in Puerto Rico, as defined in § 706.1, who is engaged in commerce or in the production of goods for commerce.

§ 706.3 Notices. Every employer subject to the provisions of § 706.2 shall post in a conspicuous place in each department of his establishment where employees subject to the provisions of § 706.2 are working such notices of this part as shall be prescribed from time to time by the Administrator of the Wage and Hour Division, United States Department of Labor, and shall give such other notice as the Administrator may prescribe.

Sec.
673.1 Definitions of the industry.
673.2 Wage rates.
673.3 Notices.

AUTHORITY: §§ 673.1 to 673.3 issued under sec. 8, 52 Stat. 1064, as amended; 29 U. S. C. 208. Interpret or apply sec. 5, 52 Stat. 1064, as amended; 29 U. S. C. 205.

§ 673.1 Definition of the industry. The food and related products industry in Puerto Rico, to which this part shall apply is defined as follows: The canning, preserving (including freezing, drying, dehydrating, curing, pickling, and similar processes), or other manufacturing or processing, and the packaging in conjunction therewith, of foods, ice, and non-alcoholic beverages, including, but without limitation, meat animals and meat animal products, poultry and poultry products, milk and dairy products, fish and seafood products, fruits and vegetables and fruit or vegetable products, grains and grain products, bakery products, confectionery and related products, and miscellaneous foods and food products. The handling, grading, packing, or preparing in their raw or natural state of fresh vegetables, fresh fruits, or nuts, and the gathering of wild plant or animal life. Provided, however, That the definition shall not include any product or activity included in the sugar manufacturing industry, in the chemical, petroleum, rubber, and related products industry, or in the alcoholic beverage and industrial alcohol industry, as defined in the wage orders for these industries in Puerto Rico.

§ 673.2 Wage rates. (a) Wages at a rate of not less than 43 cents an hour shall be paid under section 6 of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 by every employer to each of his employees in the food and related products industry in Puerto Rico who is engaged in commerce or in the production of goods for commerce and who is engaged in the citron brining classification, which is defined as the brining and other processing of fruit citron.

(b) Wages at a rate of not less than 55 cents an hour shall be paid under section 6 of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938 by every employer to each of his employees in the food and related products industry in Puerto Rico who is engaged in commerce or in the production of goods for commerce and who is engaged in the general classification, which is defined to include all products and activities, as defined in § 673.1, except those included in the citron brining classification, as defined in paragraph (a) of this section.

§ 673.3 Notices. Every employer subject to the provisions of § 673.2 shall post in a conspicuous place in each department of his establishment where employees subject to the provisions of § 673.2 are working such notices of this part as shall be prescribed from time to time by the Administrator of the Wage and Hour Division, United States Department of Labor, and shall give such other notice as the Administrator may prescribe.

Signed at Washington, D. C., this 2d day of January 1957.

NEWELL BROWN,
Administrator.

Chapter XII—Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service

REVISION OF CHAPTER

On November 29, 1956, notice of proposed rule making was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (21 F. R. 9329). There was set out therein the proposed revision of Chapter XII, Title 29, of the Code of Federal Regulations relating to places at which information may be obtained, non-disclosure of information, confidential records, notices of disputes, compliance with subpoenas, and the procedures, functions and duties of the Federal mediation and Conciliation Service. Representations which were received concerning the proposed regulations have been considered. The amendatory regulations, as proposed, and as set forth below are hereby adopted and shall supersede the present regulations which are set forth in 15 F. R. 60, 19 F. R. 7179 and 20 F. R. 9341.

PART 1401—AVAILABILITY OF INFORMATION

Sec.
1401.1 Places at which information may be obtained.
1401.2 Nondisclosure of information.
1401.3 Confidential records.
1401.4 Notices of disputes nonconfidential.
1401.5 Compliance with subpoenas.

AUTHORITY: §§ 1401.1 to 1401.5 issued under sec. 202, 61 Stat. 153, as amended; 29 U. S. C. 172. Interpret or apply sec. 3, 60 Stat. 238, sec. 203, 61 Stat. 153; 5 U. S. C. 1002, 29 U. S. C. 173.

§ 1401.1 Places at which information may be obtained. Any individual, employer or union, or representative thereof, desiring information regarding the operations of the Service within a region should communicate with the regional office of the Service in the region in which the labor dispute or other matter exists with respect to which information is sought. General inquiries for information concerning the Service should be addressed to the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, Fourteenth and Constitution Avenue NW., Washington 25, D. C. Regional offices of the Service are located as follows:

Region No. and Address

1—Room 1016, Parcel Post Building, 341 Ninth Avenue, New York 1, N. Y.
2—Jefferson Building, 1015 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia 7, Pa.
3—Room 645, Peachtree at 7th Street Building, 50 Seventh Street NE., Atlanta 5, Ga.
4—Room 435, Old Federal Building, Public Square and Superior Street, Cleveland 14, Ohio.
5—Room 1515, Consumers Building, 220 South State Street, Chicago 4, Ill.
6—Room 404, Old Custom House Building, 815 Olive Street, St. Louis 1, Mo.
7—714 U. S. Court House, Seattle 4, Wash.
8—332 Appraisers Building, 630 Sansome Street, San Francisco 11, Calif.

§ 1401.2 Nondisclosure of information. Public policy and the successful effectuation of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service's mission require that commissioners and employees maintain a reputation for impartiality and integrity. Labor and management or other interested parties participating in mediation efforts must have the assurance and confidence that information disclosed to commissioners and other employees of the Service will not subsequently be divulged, voluntarily or because of compulsion.

§ 1401.3 Confidential records. All files, reports, letters, memoranda, minutes, documents or other papers (hereinafter referred to as "confidential records") in the official custody of the Service or any of its employees, relating to or acquired in its or their official activities under Title II of the Labor-Management Relations Act, 1947, as amended, are hereby declared to be confidential. No such confidential records shall be disclosed to any unauthorized person, or be taken or withdrawn, copied or removed from the custody of the Service or its employees by any person, or by any agent or representative of such person without the prior consent of the Director.

§ 1401.4 Notices of dispute nonconfidential. Written notices of disputes received pursuant to section 8 (d) (3) of the Labor-Management Relations Act, 1947, as amended, are not confidential records of the Service. Parties at interest have the right to receive certified copies of any such notice of dispute upon written request to the regional director of the region in which the notice is filed. The notice of dispute and a conformed copy should be filed in the office of the regional director of the region in which the dispute exists, or if the filing party so desires, at the office of the Director of the Service; and if the dispute is occurring in two or more regions such notice may be filed with the regional director for any of such regions, or filed at the office of the Director of the Service, at 14th and Constitution Avenue NW., Washington 25, D. C. A conformed copy of such notice of dispute should be served upon the other party to the contract.

§ 1401.5 Compliance with subpoenas. No officer, employee or other person officially connected in any capacity with the Service, shall produce or present any confidential records of the Service or testify on behalf of any party to any cause pending in any arbitration or other proceedings or court or before any board, commission, committee, tribunal, investigatory body or administrative agency of the United States or of any State, Territory, the District of Columbia or any municipality with respect to facts or other matters coming to his knowledge in his official capacity or with respect to the contents of any confidential records of the Service, whether in answer to an order, subpoena, subpoena duces tecum or otherwise, without the prior written consent of the Director. Whenever any subpoena or subpoena duces tecum calling for confidential records or testimony as described above shall have been served upon any such officer, employee or other person, he will appear in answer thereto, and unless otherwise expressly directed by the Director, respectfully decline, by reason of this section, to produce or present such confidential records or to give such testimony.

PART 1402—PROCEDURES OF THE SERVICE

§ 1402.1 Notice of dispute. The notice of dispute filed with the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service pursuant to the provisions of section 8 (d) (3) of the Labor-Management Relations Act, 1947, as amended, shall be in writing. The following Form F–7, for use by the parties in filing a notice of dispute, has been prepared by the Service:

PART 1403—FUNCTIONS AND DUTIES

Sections 202 (c) and 203, Title II, of the Labor-Management Relations Act, 1947, as amended (Pub. Law 101, 80th Congress, 61 Stat. 153, as amended), authorize mediation and conciliation services in labor-management disputes, and suitable procedures for cooperation between the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service (hereinafter called the Federal Service) and State and local mediation agencies.

Sec.
1403.1 Definitions.
1403.2 Policies of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service.
1403.3 Obtaining data on labor-management disputes.
1403.4 Assignment of mediators.
1403.5 Relations with State and local mediation agencies.

AUTHORITY: §§ 1403.1 to 1403.5 issued under sec. 202, 61 Stat. 153, as amended; 29 U. S. C. 172. Interpret or apply sec. 3, 60 Stat. 238, sec. 203, 61 Stat. 153; 5 U. S. C. 1002, 29 U. S. C. 173.

§ 1403.1 Definitions. As used in this part, unless the context clearly indicates otherwise.

(a) The term "commerce" means trade, traffic, commerce, transportation or communication among the several States, or between the District of Columbia or any Territory of the United States and any State or other Territory, or between any foreign country and any State, Territory, or the District of Columbia or any Territory, or between points in the same State but through any other State or any Territory or the District of Columbia or any foreign country.

(b) The term "affecting commerce" means in commerce, or burdening or obstructing commerce or the free flow of commerce, or having led or tending to lead to a labor-management dispute burdening or obstructing commerce or the free flow of commerce.

(c) The term "labor union" or "labor organizaton" means any organizaton of any kind, or any agency or employee representation committee or plan, in which employees participate and which exists for the purpose, in whole or in part, of dealing with employers concerning grievances, labor disputes, wages, rates of pay, hours of employment, or conditions of work.

(d) The term "State or other conciliation services" means the official and accredited mediation and conciliation establishments of State and local governments, which are wholly or partially supported by public funds.

(e) The term "proffer its services," as applied to the functions and duties of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, means to make mediation services and facilities available either on its own motion or upon the request of one or more of the parties to a dispute.

§ 1403.2 Policies of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service. It is the policy of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service:

(a) To facilitate and promote the settlement of labor-managment disputes through collective bargaining by encouraging labor and management to resolve differences through their own resources.

(b) To encourage the States to provide facilities for fostering better labor-management relations and for resolving disputes.

(c) To proffer its services in labor-management disputes in any industry affecting commerce, except as to any matter which is subject to the provisions of the Railway Labor Act, as amended, either upon its own motion or upon the request of one or more of the parties to the dispute, whenever in its judgment such dispute threatens to cause a substantial interruption to commerce.

(d) To refrain from proffering its services: (1) In labor-management disputes affecting intrastate commerce exclusively, (2) in labor-management disputes having a minor effect on interstate commerce, if State or other conciliation services are available to the parties, or (3) in a labor-management dispute when a substantial question of representation has been raised, or to continue to make its facilities available when a substantial question of representation is raised during the negotiations.

(e) To proffer its services in any labor-management dispute directly involving Government procurement contracts necessary to the national defense, or in disputes which imperil or threaten to imperil the national health or safety.

(f) To proffer its services to the parties in grievance disputes arising over the application or interpretation of an existing collective-bargaining agreement only as a last resort and in exceptional cases.

§ 1403.3 Obtaining data on labor-management disputes. When the existence of a labor-management dispute comes to the attention of the Federal Service upon a request for mediation service from one or more parties to the dispute, through notification under the provisions of section 8 (d) (3), Title I of the Labor-Management Relations Act, 1947, or otherwise, the Federal Service will examine the information to determine if the Service should proffer its services under its policies. If sufficient data on which to base a determination is not at hand, the Federal Service will inquire into the circumstances surrounding the case. Such inquiry will be conducted for fact-finding purposes only and is not to be interpreted as the Federal Service proffering its services.

§ 1403.4 Assignment of mediators. The Federal Service will assign one or more mediators to each labor-management dispute in which it has been determined that its services should be proffered.

§ 1403.5 Relations with State and local mediation agencies. (a) If under State or local law a State or local mediation agency must offer its facilities in a labor-management dispute in which the Federal Service is proffering its services, the interests of such agencies will be recognized and their cooperation will be encouraged in order that all efforts may be made to prevent or to effectively minimize industrial strife.

(b) If, in a labor-management dispute there is reasonable doubt that the dispute threatens to cause a substantial interruption to commerce or that there is more than a minor effect upon interstate commerce, and State or other conciliation services are available to the parties, the regional director of the Federal Service will endeavor to work out suitable arrangements with the State or other conciliation or mediation agency for mediation of the dispute. Decisions in such cases will take into consideration the desires of the parties, the effectiveness and availability of the respective facilities, and the public welfare, health, and safety.

(c) If requested by a State or local mediation agency or the chief executive of a State or local government, the Federal Service may make its services available in a labor-management dispute which would have only a minor effect upon interstate commerce when, in the judgment of the Federal Service, the effect of the dispute upon commerce or the public welfare, health, or safety justifies making available its mediation facilities.

PART 1404—ARBITRATION

Sec.
1404.1 Arbitration.
1404.2 Composition of roster maintained by the Service.

Sec.
1404.3 Security status.
1404.4 Procedures; how to request arbitration services.
1404.5 Arbitrability.
1404.6 Nominations of arbitrators.
1404.7 Appointment of arbitrators.
1404.8 Status of arbitrators after appointment.
1404.9 Prompt decision.
1404.10 Importance of impartiality.
1404.11 Arbitrator's award and report.
1404.12 Fees of arbitrators.
1404.13 Conduct of hearings.

AUTHORITY: §§ 1404.1 to 1404.13 issued under sec. 202, 61 Stat. 153, as amended; 29 U. S. C. 172. Interpret or apply sec. 3, 60 Stat. 238, sec. 203, 61 Stat. 153; 5 U. S. C. 1002, 29 U. S. C. 173.

§ 1404.1 The labor policy of the United States Government is designed to foster and promote free collective bargaining. Voluntary arbitration and fact-finding are tools, in appropriate cases, of free collective bargaining and may be desirable alternatives to economic strife. The parties assume broad responsibilities for the success of the private juridical system they have chosen. The Service will assist the parties in their selection of arbitrators.

§ 1404.2 Composition of roster maintained by the Service. It is the policy of the Service to maintain on its roster only those arbitrators who are experienced, qualified, and acceptable, and who adhere to ethical standards. Applicants for inclusion on its roster must not only be well-grounded in the field of labor-management relations, but, also, possess experience in the labor arbitration field or its equivalent. (Arbitrators employed full time as representatives of management or labor are not included on the Service's roster.) After a careful screening and evaluation of the applicant's experience, the Service contacts representatives of both labor and management, as qualified arbitrators must be acceptable to those who utilize its arbitration facilities. The responses to such inquiries are carefully weighed before an otherwise qualified arbitrator is included on the Service's roster.

§ 1404.3 Security status. The arbitrators on the Service's roster are not employees of the Federal Government, and, because of this status, the Service does not investigate their security status. Moreover, when an arbitrator is selected by the parties, he is retained by them and, accordingly, they must assume complete responsibility for the arbitrator's security status.

§ 1404.4 Procedures; how to request arbitration services. The Service prefers to act upon a joint request which should be addressed to the Director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, Washington 25, D. C. In the event that the request is made by only one party, the Service may act if the parties have agreed that either of them may seek a panel of arbitrators. A brief statement of the nature of the issues in dispute should accompany the request, to enable the Service to submit the names of arbitrators of specialized competence. The request should also include a copy of the collective bargaining agreement or stipulation. In the event that the entire agreement is not available, a verbatim copy of the provisions relating to arbitration should accompany the request.

§ 1404.5 Arbitrability. Where either party claims that a dispute is not subject to arbitration, the Service will not decide the merits of such claim. The submission of a panel should not be construed as anything more than compliance with a request.

§ 1404.6 Nominations of arbitrators. When the parties have been unable to agree on an arbitrator, the Service will submit to the parties the names of three, five, seven or more arbitrators, as requested, or will make a direct appointment upon being duly advised that a panel is not desired. Together with the submission of a panel of suggested arbitrators, the Service furnishes a short statement of the background, qualifications, and experience of each of the nominees. In selecting names for inclusion on a panel, the Service considers many factors, but the desires of the parties are, of course, the foremost consideration. If at any time a company or a union, or both, suggests that a name or names be omitted from a panel, such name or names will generally be omitted. The Service will not, however, place names on a panel at the request of one party unless the other party has knowledge of such request and has no objection thereto, or unless both parties join in such request. If the issue described in the request appears to require special technical experience or qualifications, arbitrators who possess such qualifications will, where possible, be included in the list submitted to the parties. Where the parties expressly request that the list be composed entirely of technicians, or that it be all-local or non-local, such request will be honored, if qualified arbitrators are available. Two of the methods of selection from a panel are (a) at a joint meeting, alternately striking names from the submitted panel until one remains, and (b) each party separately advising the Service of its order of preference by numbering each name on the panel. In almost all cases, an arbitrator is chosen from one panel of names. However, if a request for another panel is made, the Service will comply with the request, providing that additional panels are permissible under the terms of the agreement or the parties so stipulate. Subsequent adjustment of disputes is not precluded by the submission of a panel or an appointment. A substantial number of issues are being settled by the parties themselves after the initial request for a panel and after selection of the arbitrator. Notice of such settlement should be sent promptly to the arbitrator and to the Service. The arbitrator should be compensated whenever he receives insufficient notice of settlement to enable him to rearrange his schedule of arbitration hearings or working hours.

§ 1404.7 Appointment of arbitrators. After the parties notify the Service of their selection, the arbitrator is appointed by the Director. If any party fails to notify the Service within 15 days after the date of mailing the panel, all persons named therein shall be deemed acceptable to such party. The arbitrator, upon appointment notification, is requested to communicate with the parties immediately to arrange for preliminary matters such as date and place of hearing. There is an advantage to the parties of advising the Service of the arbitrator selected, as the standards and procedures established by the Service, including those governing the range of fees, apply to the appointed arbitrator. Also, the names of arbitrators who have not completed a pending arbitration are not ordinarily included on panels requested by the same parties.

§ 1404.8 Status of arbitrators after appointment. After appointment, the legal relationship of arbitrators is with the parties rather than the Service, though the Service does have a continuing interest in the proceedings. Industrial peace and good labor relations are enhanced by arbitrators who function justly, expeditiously and impartially so as to obtain and retain the respect, esteem and confidence of all participants in the arbitration proceedings. The conduct of the arbitration proceeding is under the arbitrator's jurisdiction and control, subject to such rules of procedure as the parties may jointly prescribe. He is to make his own decisions and write his own opinions based on the record in the proceedings. He may not delegate this duty and responsibility to others in whole or in part without the knowledge and prior consent of both parties. The powers of the arbitrator may be exercised by a majority unless otherwise provided by agreement or by law, and, unless prohibited by law, they may proceed in the absence of any party who, after due notice, fails to be present or to obtain a postponement. The award, however, must be supported by evidence as an award cannot be based solely upon the default of a party.

§ 1404.9 Prompt decision. Early hearing and decision of industrial disputes is desirable in the interest of good labor relations. The parties should inform the Service whenever a decision is unduly delayed. The Service expects to be notified if and when (a) an arbitrator cannot schedule, hear and determine issues promptly, and (b) he is advised that a dispute has been settled by the parties prior to arbitration. The arbitrator is also expected to keep the Service informed of changes in address, occupation or availability, and of any business connection with or of concern to labor or management. The award shall be made not later than thirty (30) days from the date of the closing of the hearing, or the receipt of a transcript and any post-hearing briefs, or if oral hearings have been waived, then from the date of receipt of the final statements and proof by the arbitrator, unless otherwise agreed upon by the parties or specified by law. However, a failure to make such an award within thirty (30) days shall not invalidate an award. The Service, however, when nominating arbitrators, takes notice of any arbitrator's failure to comply with its policies and procedures. The parties can expedite awards. They may advise the Service and the arbitrator if an early decision is desired. If such notice is given, the Service will so advise the arbitrator at the time of his appointment. The parties can also request that an opinion follow the award, or that an opinion be omitted in appropriate cases. The parties may also provide in their agreement or in their arbitration stipulation or request that an award must be rendered within a fixed time after the close of the hearing in order to be valid, unless the time is enlarged by agreement of the parties. Such a provision, however, would operate to nullify an award made after such period of time and should therefore be carefully drafted so as not to cause hasty and ill-considered decisions.

§ 1404.10 Importance of impartiality. Interviews with or communications by the arbitrator to and from one party without the knowledge and consent of the other party, are easily misunderstood and should be avoided since they can result in a loss of confidence in the integrity, fairness and judgment of the arbitrator. Likewise, the arbitrator should refrain from giving unsolicited advice in his opinion, or award or other document for the same reason. Arbitrators are called upon to decide issues which the parties have been unable to resolve and, consequently, difficult decisions are inevitable. Their acceptability can be advanced not alone by the soundness of the decisions, but also by the orderly and impartial manner in which the entire arbitration proceeding is conducted.

§ 1404.11 Arbitrator's award and report. At the conclusion of the hearing and after the award has been submitted to the parties, each arbitrator is required to file a copy with the Service. The Service then evaluates awards with a view to determining whether they meet the accepted professional standards as to form, clarity and logic. The arbitrator is further required to submit a report showing a breakdown of his fees and expense charges so that the Service may be in a position to check conformance with its fee policies. Cooperation in filing both award and report within fifteen (15) days after handing down the award is expected of all arbitrators. It is the policy of the Service not to release arbitration decisions for publication without the consent of both parties. Furthermore, the Service expects the arbitrators it has nominated or appointed not to give publicity to awards they may issue, except in a manner agreeable to both parties.

§ 1404.12 Fees of arbitrators. No administrative or filing fee is charged since the Service is required by law to provide such facilities. The current policy of the Service permits its nominees or appointees to charge a fee for their services not exceeding $150 per day. The Service expects its arbitrators in fixing the fee for a case to give due consideration to the financial condition of each party, the accepted standards for the area in which the dispute arises, the complexity of the issues involved and the length of time consumed preliminary to and in the course of the hearing; in the study of the evidence and preparation of the award. In those rare instances where arbitrators fix wages or other terms of a new contract, the responsibilities involved are so grave that the arbitrators are not subject to the above fee restriction. The parties may prefer to agree with the arbitrator upon a fixed fee in advance of the arbitration. This, however, could result in unnecessarily prolonging an arbitration hearing. The parties can reduce the cost of arbitration by the careful preparation of exhibits and evidence and by the stipulation of undisputed facts. The parties may also stipulate that the arbitrator devote not more than a specified number of days to the study and preparation of the opinion and award. There is, however, some risk in so doing since the award and opinion may not be satisfactory or sufficiently clear if such restriction is made in other than simple, routine cases. The Service is not concerned with whether the fees and expenses of the arbitrator are paid by only one of the parties or are divided between them. Nevertheless, unless the parties agree otherwise, (a) the fee and expenses of the arbitrator shall be paid equally by the parties, (b) the expenses of witnesses for either side shall be paid by the parties producing such witnesses, (c) the total cost of the stenographic record, if any is made, and all transcripts thereof, shall be prorated equally by all parties ordering copies, and (d) the expenses of any witnesses or the cost of any briefs produced at the direct request of the arbitrator, shall be borne equally by the parties unless the arbitrator in his award assesses such expenses or any part thereof against any specified party or parties.

§ 1404.13 Conduct of hearings. The Service does not prescribe detailed or specific rules of procedure for the conduct of an arbitration proceeding because it favors flexibility in labor relations. It believes that the parties and experienced arbitrators know best how arbitration proceedings should be conducted if wise decisions and industrial peace are to be achieved. Questions such as hearing rooms, submission or pre-hearing or post-hearing briefs, and recording of testimony, are left to the discretion of the individual arbitrator and the parties. The Service does, however, expect its arbitrators and the parties to conform to applicable laws, and to be guided by ethical and procedural standards as codified by appropriate professional organizations and generally accepted by the industrial community and experienced arbitrators. In cities where the Service maintains offices, the parties are welcome upon request to the Service to use its conference rooms when they are available.

[Docket No. AO-183-A5]

HANDLING OF MILK IN PADUCAH, KENTUCKY, MARKETING AREA

DECISION WITH RESPECT TO TENTATIVE MARKETING AGREEMENT AND PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO ORDER, AS AMENDED

Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing the proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was conducted at Paducah, Kentucky, on July 2, 1956, pursuant to notice thereof which was issued on June 6, 1956 (21 F. R. 3969).

Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at the hearing and the record thereof, the Deputy Administrator, Agricultural Marketing Service, on October 29, 1956, filed with the Hearing Clerk, United States Department of Agriculture, his recommended decision in this proceeding. The notice of filing such recommended decision and opportunity to file written exceptions thereto was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on November 1, 1956 (21 F. R. 8365).

The material issues considered in the record of the hearing related to the following:

1. Extension of the marketing area;
2. Diversion of milk to a nonpool plant in any month of the year;
3. Classification of transfers to a nonpool plant having Class I sales in the marketing area;
4. Time and method of payment for producer milk;
5. Location differentials to handlers and producers;
6. Changes in the definition of pool plants;
7. Provisions for a quota-excess plan of distributing payments to producers; and
8. Change in the rate of compensatory payment.

A proposal in the notice of hearing to modify the shrinkage provision of the order was not supported at the hearing and for that reason this proposal will not be given any further consideration.

Findings and conclusions. The following findings and conclusions on the material issues are based upon evidence in the record:

1. Marketing area. The Paducah marketing area should be expanded to include Ballard, Graves, Marshall, and Calloway Counties in addition to the present area of McCracken County.

These four are part of a group of eight counties collectively called the "Purchase Area". A number of handlers regulated under the Paducah order and the cooperative association of producers proposed that this entire 8-county area should be included in the marketing area of the order.

One of the largest handlers regulated under the order testified as to the quantity of Class I milk distributed by him in the eight counties during April, 1956. Fifty-six percent of this handler's total sales in this area were sold within the present marketing area; and of the 44 percent sold in the seven counties proposed to be added, 81 percent was sold in the counties of Ballard, Marshall and Graves.

The presently unregulated handlers testified that they sold little or no milk in Marshall or Ballard Counties. One of these handlers testified that he sold a very small amount of milk in Marshall County and another testified that his sales in Marshall were less than one percent of producer receipts. The other two unregulated handlers did not sell any milk in Marshall County and not one of the four unregulated handlers testified as to any sales in Ballard County. Thus, it is obvious that regulated handlers have by far the major share of fluid distribution in these two counties.

Another relatively large regulated handler, testified that he sold more fluid milk in Graves County where his processing plant is located than he did in the present marketing area which includes only McCracken County. In fact, this handler testified that his percent of sales in the present market area was at times so low as to jeopardize his being pooled under the order. In order to qualify as a pool plant, 10 percent of receipts must be sold in the area. While it was impossible to determine accurately the comparative quantities of milk sold in Graves County by regulated and unregulated handlers, it is obvious that regulated handlers sell about half of the total.

A presently unregulated milk distributor, whose plant is located in Calloway County, has a small percentage of his total fluid sales in the counties other than Calloway that were proposed to be added to the marketing area. It appears that this handler actually distributes enough milk in Marshall and Graves Counties to pool his plant at least in some months of the year. Also, his most attractive areas for additional sales are in Marshall and Graves Counties. This handler and other handlers who will be regulated as a result of this decision distribute all of the Grade A milk disposed of in Calloway County. The evidence indicates that there will be no Grade A milk distributed in the county by unregulated handlers. Because of these circumstances, Calloway County should be included in the marketing area.

The relatively large amount of milk distributed by the present Paducah order handlers in the counties of Marshall, Ballard, and Graves indicate that these counties should be included in the marketing area. Because the expansion of the area to include these three counties will regulate almost all Grade A milk distributed in Calloway County, it too should be included in the marketing area. On the other hand, unregulated handlers have the bulk of sales in the counties of Hickman, Fulton and Carlisle. Because of this, it is determined that the market area should not be expanded to include these counties.

Of the four previously unregulated handlers selling in the 5-county marketing area, two will be fully regulated. The two others apparently sell less than 10 percent of their receipts in the marketing area and, therefore, will not be fully regulated. They would have the status of handlers operating nonpool distributing plants. The application of the order to such operation is described in more detail in topic No. 6 below.

2. Diversion of milk. The present diversion provision in the order recognizes that milk in excess of Class I needs during the seven months of surplus production should be moved to its best available market without uneconomic movement and handling. It is obviously wasteful to require that this surplus milk be physically received at the plant of a regulated handler and then transferred to a manufacturing outlet. The diversion privilege allows milk to be moved directly from the farm pickup routes to a manufacturing plant.

The Paducah Graded Milk Producers Association has proposed that this diversion provision should be amended to allow this producers association to divert surplus milk during the five months of lowest production, September through January. The Association, at various times during these five shorter production months, has been called upon by its member producers to market milk which could not be utilized by the Paducah handler who ordinarily markets the concerned members' milk. One of these instances was occasioned by a labor dispute at a regulated handler's plant. Other instances have been occasioned by normal producer receipts being in excess of a particular handler's immediate need in months other than February-August. All but three of the producers supplying handlers regulated under the Paducah order are members of the Association, and the Association has a contractual obligation to market the production of its members.

While all but three of the producers supplying handlers regulated under the present Paducah order are members of the Association, two relatively large handlers who will become fully regulated as a result of this amendment action have no Association members delivering milk to their plants. Approximately 30 percent of the producers supplying the expanded marketing area will be nonmembers.

Since the Association has been forced to divert the production of its members in the past during the low production months and anticipates the need for similar diversions in the future, it is apparent that handlers receiving their Grade A supply from non-member producers may be faced with the same circumstances. Thus, proprietary handlers should also be allowed to divert producer milk to nonpool plants during the months of September through January.

However, it may be extremely difficult to determine which producers are primarily associated with the market if unlimited diversion during these short production months is allowed. Limiting the allowable diversion in each month during the period of September through January to 10 days' production of any one producer would lessen the probability of this difficulty and would allow the diversion of producer milk in those instances during these months when it is necessary because of market conditions.

It is concluded that the order should be amended to allow any qualified cooperative association or any handler to divert not more than 10 days' production of any one producer during any of the months of September through January.

3. Classification of transfers. The producers' association proposed that milk transferred to a nonpool plant having Class I sales in the marketing area be classified as Class I to the extent of such sales. However, it was testified that there are no present instances of Class I sales in the marketing area by any nonpool plant ordinarily receiving surplus milk from regulated plants. The association is concerned, however, that such a condition might exist in the future.

The compensatory payment provisions of the order insure producers of Class I value for any milk which is diverted or transferred to a nonpool plant and reenters the marketing area as Class I milk. It is concluded, therefore, that this proposal should be denied.

4. Time and method of payment. The cooperative association representing all but three of the producers supplying handlers regulated under the order has proposed that the order be amended to permit handlers to deduct from payment to producers who are members of an association only such hauling charges or other amounts as are approved by the association in writing. There was no opposing testimony to this proposal.

The order presently provides that handlers must pay the cooperative association for milk received from member producers on written request from the association. Several order handlers follow the practice of forwarding information concerning deductions to the association. The association itemizes these deductions on the statement to producers and adjusts the payment due the association from these handlers by the appropriate amount. However, other order handlers have followed the practice of making the deductions themselves and forwarding to the association the net amount due for distribution to member producers.

The inconsistency between the two methods of handling deductions has caused some misunderstanding between producers delivering to the different handlers as well as some difficulty to the association in verifying the claimed deductions of the latter handlers.

To correct this inconsistency and to remove the possibility of misunderstanding between producers, it is concluded that this proposal should be adopted.

5. Location differentials to handlers and producers. Since this decision provides that the Paducah order marketing area be extended, it is necessary that the location differential to producers and to handlers also be considered. A producer proposal for this purpose was included in the notice of hearing.

The present order allows a location adjustment to handlers on milk shipped from distant supply plants to distributing plants and used for Class I purposes. It does not provide for an adjustment on packaged milk sold directly in the area from distant distributing plants. The order also provides that all milk delivered by producers at a distant supply plant be subject to the producer location adjustment.

The market area, as provided herein, is somewhat elongated and the plants of handlers to be regulated are widely dispersed within the market area. In order to have equitable pricing throughout the area it is necessary to have some other base for determining distance than the McCracken County Court House.

The cooperative association proposed that the distance used in computing supply plant location be measured from the edge of the market area. It testified, however, that it had no objection to using two or more fixed points to facilitate administration of the provision.

In view of the elongated character of the market area, the intermingling of routes of handlers with plants located in relatively widely separated communities, and ease of administration, multiple points for fixing location adjustments should be used. These points should be the County Court Houses in McCracken and Graves Counties, whichever is closer to the regulated plant.

It is further concluded that the differentials should be reduced to 7.5 cents for plants located between 40 and 50 miles, and an additional 1.5 cents for each additional 10 miles or fraction thereof that such plants may be distant from the nearest of these base points, via shortest hard surfaced road as determined by the market administrator. The 1.5-cent differential as established by this decision is the same as that prescribed in the Ozarks milk marketing order and is related to the cost of hauling milk by an efficient means under conditions similar to those in this market. The 7.5 cents is determined by multiplying 1.5 cents by the number of zones between either basing point and the 40-50 mile zone.

It is further determined that the location differentials as recommended in this decision should apply to packaged milk shipped to the marketing area for direct distribution as well as to bulk milk shipped by a supply plant to a distributing plant within the marketing area. Should a plant located more than 40 miles from either of the basing points as established in this decision ship packaged milk into the marketing area for direct distribution it should be allowed the same differential as bulk receiving plants receive to compensate for the additional cost of moving milk to market. Such a provision would tend to equalize cost among all handlers selling milk in the marketing area.

6. Pool plant definitions. One handler who distributes milk in the area as recommended to be expanded proposed that the pool plant standards be changed or, alternatively, that the provisions relating to unpriced milk be substantially altered. This potential handler operates a distributing plant, and his proposals were confined to that type of operation; he did not propose any change in the provisions relating to supply plant operations.

Under the present order, a distributor must sell 45 percent of his total supply on routes in order to qualify as a pool plant. Furthermore, at least 10 percent of his total supply must be sold on routes in the defined marketing area. A plant from which less than 10 percent is sold in the marketing area would still be a handler, but would not qualify as a pool plant. The operator of such a plant would be assessed compensatory payments on the quantities of milk sold in the marketing area at the rate of the difference between the Class I and Class II prices during the five months of March through July, and at the lesser rate of the difference between the Class I and the blend prices during the seven months of August through February.

It appears that the proponent handler will be selling substantially less than 10 percent of his supply in the extended marketing area. He proposed that all distributing plants be qualified as pool plants. However, it is clear that a city plant having more than 90 percent of its business outside the marketing area or in other outlets should not be considered as essentially associated with the market as a distributing plant. Such a plant is selling primarily to an unregulated market. It is not considered advisable to bring such a plant under full regulation in order to control the minor share of its business which is in the marketing area. Full regulation would not be necessary to accomplish the purposes of the order and might well place such a plant at a competitive disadvantage in relation to other dealers supplying the unregulated market.

His alternative proposal related to the rate of compensatory payment. He proposed that such payments reflect the smaller of (1) the amount, if any, by which his payments to all dairy farmers supplying Grade A milk were less than the utilization value at class prices of his total use of milk, or (2) the difference between the Class I and Class II prices during the months of April through July, and the difference between the Class I and blend prices during the months of August through March and on such volume of milk as is sold within the Paducah marketing area.

This proposal should be adopted. It would apply only to plant operators who qualify as handlers under the order and who are obligated to make regular reports thereunder. Under the modified payment provisions, such handlers would be required to file complete reports on their receipts and utilization of milk in the same fashion as operators of pool plants. Their Class I and Class II utilization would be valued at class prices and a "uniform blend price" would be computed for their Grade A shippers. If the nonpool plant paid each shipper as much or more than this computed uniform price, no compensatory payment would be assessed. However, the amounts of any underpayments would be cumulated, starting with the lowest rate of payment and proceeding until the volume of milk represented was equal to the volume sold as Class I in the marketing area, to determine the amount of the compensatory payment. The operator of the nonpool plant would have the alternative, each month, of computing his compensatory payment at the difference between the Class I and Class II prices during the months of April through July, and the difference between the Class I and blend prices during the months of August through March only on the volume of milk sold as Class I within the marketing area. Under the conditions described at the hearing, it appears that the proponent handler and most of the other handlers who may be operators of nonpool distributing plants would use the first-described method of computing payments. All of them testified that they were paying their dairy farmers prices fully equivalent to those required under the order.

The producers cited findings from a previous decision of the Secretary to the effect that this type of compensatory payment would be impractical. However, these findings dealt, primarily, with unpriced milk received by regulated distributing plants from supply plant sources. Such sources would not qualify as handlers under the order, would not be making regular reports, would be widely scattered geographically, and might be comparatively numerous. Also, there were no nonpool distributing plants in prospect at the time of the previous findings. The more limited application of the technique which was explored at the hearing appears to be fully feasible and equitable.

7. Quota excess plan. One of the distributors whose plant would qualify as a pool plant in the extended marketing area proposed that, in the event of such extension, the order should include a quota-excess plan. This plan was proposed for the purpose of encouraging producers to minimize the seasonality of their milk production. It would replace the present level production plan of having substantial seasonal variation in the Class I differential.

This is primarily a problem in the distribution of returns to producers. Acceptance by producers is an essential element in any program for encouraging them to level out their production. In the circumstances, it is clear that such a substantial change should not be imposed on producers through an amendment to the order when the majority of them prefer the present system of seasonal changes in the Class I differential which has contributed greatly to more even seasonal production.

8. Compensatory payments. A handler regulated under the Paducah order testified at the hearing that at times he has had a contract to supply the fluid milk needs of an Army post located approximately 90 miles from Paducah. In March of 1956 there was insufficient producer milk to supply the requirements of the military installation. The handler bought unregulated milk at the St. Louis blend price, plus a handling charge in order to fulfill his contractual obligations. However, under the provisions of the Paducah order, he had to pay a compensatory payment on this milk which was computed as the difference between the Class I and Class II prices per hundredweight of milk. The handler testified that March should be placed in the group of months under the Paducah order when the compensatory payments are computed as the difference between the Class I and blend prices per hundredweight.

The order presently provides that the compensatory payment per hundredweight of milk is the difference between the Class I and Class II prices during the months of July through March, and the difference between the Class I and blend prices during August through February. Exhibits in the record indicate that in recent years Class I sales as a percent of producer receipts have been greater in March than in August. Since the smaller rate of compensatory payment under the order is designed to recognize that during the months when producer receipts are insufficient to meet the Class I needs of the market unregulated milk is also in short supply and therefore expensive, the order should be amended to recognize the present seasonal relationship between producer receipts and fluid sales. Therefore, March should be included in those months which require the lower compensatory payment on unregulated milk receipts.

General findings. (a) The proposed marketing agreement and the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(b) The parity prices of milk as determined pursuant to section 2 of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds and other economic conditions which affect market supply of and demand for milk in the marketing area, and the minimum prices specified in the proposed marketing agreement and the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk and be in the public interest;

(c) The proposed order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended, will regulate the handling of milk in the same manner as, and will be applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

(d) All milk and milk products handled by handlers, as defined in this order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended, are in the current of interstate commerce or directly burden, obstruct, or affect interstate commerce in milk or its products; and

(e) It is hereby found that the necessary expenses of the market administrator for the maintenance and functioning of such agency will require the payment by each handler regulated by the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended, as his pro rata share of such expense, 5 cents per hundredweight, or such amount not exceeding 5 cents per hundredweight, as the Secretary may prescribe with respect to all milk received during such delivery period from approved dairy farmers.

Rulings. Within the period reserved for filing exceptions to the recommended decision, exceptions were submitted on behalf of interested parties. These exceptions have been fully considered and to the extent to which the findings and conclusions of this decision are at variance with the exceptions, such exceptions are hereby overruled.

Determination of representative period. The month of October 1956, is hereby determined to be the representative period for the purpose of ascertaining whether the issuance of the order amending the order, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the Paducah, Kentucky, marketing area, in the manner set forth in the attached amending order, is approved or favored by producers, as defined in the order, as amended, and as proposed hereby to be further amended, who during such representative period were engaged in the production of milk for sale in the marketing area as defined in the order, as amended, and as proposed hereby to be further amended.

Marketing agreement and order. Annexed hereto and made a part hereof are two documents entitled respectively, "Marketing Agreement Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Paducah, Kentucky, Marketing Area," and "Order Amending the Order, as Amended, Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Paducah, Kentucky, Marketing Area," which have been decided upon as the detailed and appropriate means of effectuating the foregoing conclusions. These documents shall not become effective unless and until the requirements of § 900.14 of the rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and orders have been met.

It is hereby ordered, That all of this decision, except the attached marketing agreement, be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The regulatory provisions of said marketing agreement are identical with those contained in the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended by the attached order which will be published with this decision.

This decision filed at Washington, D. C., this 2d day of January 1957.

[SEAL] EARL L. BUTZ,
Assistant Secretary.

Order[1] Amending the Order, as Amended, Regulating the Handling of Milk in the Paducah, Kentucky, Marketing Area

§ 977.0 Findings and determinations. The findings and determinations hereinafter set forth are supplementary and in addition to the findings and determinations previously made in connection with the issuance of the aforesaid order; and all of said previous findings and determinations are hereby ratified and affirmed except insofar as such findings and determinations may be in conflict with the findings and determinations set forth herein.

(a) Findings upon the basis of the hearing record. Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), a public hearing was held at Paducah, Kentucky, on July 2, 1956, upon certain proposed amendments to the tentative marketing agreement and to the order, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the Paducah, Kentucky, marketing area. Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing and the record thereof, it is found that:

(1) The said order, as amended and as hereby further amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(2) The parity prices of milk as determined pursuant to section 2 of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect market supply and demand for milk in the said marketing area and the minimum prices specified in the order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk, and be in the public interest;

(3) The said order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, regulates the handling of milk in the same manner as and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held;

(4) All milk and milk products handled by handlers, as defined in this order, are in the current of interstate commerce or directly burden, obstruct, or affect interstate commerce in milk or its products; and

(5) It is hereby found that the necessary expenses of the market administrator for the maintenance and functioning of such agency will require the payment by each handler as his pro rata share of such expense, 5 cents per hundredweight, or such amount not exceeding 5 cents per hundredweight, as the Secretary may prescribe with respect to all skim milk and butterfat contained in (a) producer milk, (b) other source milk (except other source milk which was subject to the Class I pricing provisions of another order issued pursuant to the act) which is allocated to Class I, or (c) Class I milk distributed in the marketing area from a nonpool plant not partially exempt from the provisions of this order pursuant to § 977.61.

Order relative to handling. It is therefore ordered, that on and after the effective date hereof, the handling of milk in the Paducah, Kentucky, marketing area shall be in conformity to and in compliance with the terms and conditions of the aforesaid order, as amended, and as hereby further amended as set forth below:

1. Delete § 977.5 and substitute therefor the following:

§ 977.5 Paducah, Kentucky, marketing area. "Paducah, Kentucky, marketing area," hereinafter called the "marketing area" means all the territory within the boundaries of the Kentucky counties of McCracken, Ballard, Marshall, Graves, and Calloway.

2. Delete § 977.11 and substitute therefor the following:

§ 977.11 Producer. "Producer" means any person, except a producer-handler, who produces milk under a Grade A dairy farm permit or rating issued by a duly constituted health authority, which milk is delivered from the farm to a pool plant or diverted from a pool plant to a nonpool plant for the account of a handler: Provided, That for any of the delivery periods of September through January no milk so diverted shall be deemed to have been so received at a pool plant from a producer if production of more than 10 days is diverted to a nonpool plant during such delivery period.

3. Delete § 977.45 (c) and substitute therefor the following:

§ 977.46 Determination of producer milk in each class. For each class, add the pounds of skim milk and the pounds of butterfat allocated to producer milk, pursuant to § 977.45, and determine the percentage of butterfat in the producer milk allocated to each class.

4. Delete that part of § 977.53 previous to "Provided" and substitute therefor the following:

§ 977.53 Location differentials to handlers. For that milk which is received from producers at a plant located 40 miles or more from the nearest County Courthouse in either Graves or McCracken County, by shortest hard-surfaced highway distance, as determined by the market administrator, and which is classified as Class I milk, the price specified in § 977.51 (a) shall be reduced according to the rate set forth in the following schedule according to the location of the pool plant where such milk is received from producers:

Distance from nearest County Courthouse (miles):	Rate (cents)
40 but less than 50	7.5
For each additional 10 miles or fraction thereof an additional	1.5

5. Delete § 977.62 and substitute therefor the following:

§ 977.62 Handlers operating nonpool plants. Each handler who operates a nonpool plant during a month shall, in lieu of the payments required pursuant to §§ 977.80 through 977.86, pay to the market administrator, for the producer-settlement fund, on or before the 25th day after the end of such month, the amount resulting from the computation of either paragraph (a) or (b) of this section, whichever is less:

(a) The product of the quantity of milk received by such handler which was disposed of in the marketing area on routes as Class I milk during the month multiplied by the difference between the price for Class I milk pursuant to § 977.51 (a) and the price for Class II milk pursuant to § 977.51 (b) during the months of April through July, and the difference between the price for Class I milk pursuant to § 977.51 (a) and the uniform price pursuant to § 977.71 during the months of August through March.

(b) Any plus amount resulting from the following computation: Divide an amount equal to the net pool obligation which would be computed pursuant to § 977.70 for such handler for such month if such handler operated a pool plant by the hundredweight of milk received from approved dairy farmers; deduct the payments per hundredweight of milk made by such handler to approved dairy farmers for milk received during such month: Provided, That if such handler has paid dairy farmers by more than one rate, the payments to approved dairy farmers shall be computed at the lowest rates paid for a volume of milk equal to the volume disposed of in the marketing area.

6. Amend § 977.70 (b) (1) by deleting "March" and substituting therefor "April"; and § 977.70 (b) (2) by deleting "February" and substituting therefor "March".

7. In § 977.80 change the period at the close of paragraph (b) to a colon and add the following: "Provided, That the 'proper deductions' referred to in paragraphs (a) (1) and (2) (iv) of this section shall be valid in the case of cooperative members only if authorized in writing by such cooperative."

8. Delete § 977.86 and substitute therefor the following:

§ 977.86 Location differentials to producers. In making payments for milk

[1] This order shall not become effective unless and until the requirements of § 900.14 of the rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and orders have been met.

received from producers pursuant to § 977.80, the uniform price per hundredweight shall be reduced by the rate set forth in the following schedule according to the shortest hard surfaced highway distance, as determined by the market administrator, from the plant where the milk is received from producers or from which the milk is diverted, to the nearest County Courthouse in either Graves or McCracken County:

Distance from nearest County Courthouse (miles):	Rate (cents)
40 but less than 50	7.5
For each additional 10 miles or fraction thereof an additional	1.5

Order of the Secretary Directing That a Referendum Be Conducted Among the Producers Supplying Milk to the Paducah, Kentucky, Marketing Area, and Designation of an Agent To Conduct Such Referendum

Pursuant to section 8c (19) of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 608c (19)), it is hereby directed that a referendum be conducted among the producers (as defined in the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended, regulating the handling of milk in the Paducah, Kentucky, marketing area) who, during the month of October 1956, were engaged in the production of milk for sale in the marketing area specified in the aforesaid order to determine whether such producers favor the issuance of the order which is a part of the decision of the Secretary of Agriculture filed simultaneously herewith.

The month of October 1956 is hereby determined to be the representative period for the conduct of such referendum.

Fred L. Shipley is hereby designated agent of the Secretary to conduct such referendum in accordance with the procedure for the conduct of referenda to determine producer approval of milk marketing orders as published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on August 10, 1950 (15 F. R. 5177), such referendum to be completed on or before the 25th day from the date this referendum order is issued.

PROCESSINGS OF SUGAR WHICH CONSTITUTE FURTHER REFINEMENT OR IMPROVEMENT IN QUALITY, AND DISTINCTION OF SUGARS OF SPECIFIC QUALITIES AS RAW SUGAR OR DIRECT-CONSUMPTION SUGAR

NOTICE OF RECOMMENDED DECISION AND OPPORTUNITY TO FILE WRITTEN EXCEPTIONS

Pursuant to the provisions of the Sugar Act of 1948, as amended (61 Stat. 922; sec. 4, Pub. Law 545, 84th Cong.; 7 U. S. C. 1101, hereinafter referred to as the "act"), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure (21 F. R. 4251), notice is hereby given of the filing with the Hearing Clerk of the Recommended Decision of the Administrator, Commodity Stabilization Service, United States Department of Agriculture, with respect to a proposed regulation by the Secretary of Agriculture establishing the specific processes that subject sugar to further refinement or improvement in quality as defined in section 101 (n) of the act, and the specific qualities of raw sugar and direct-consumption sugar as contemplated by section 101 (n) of the act. Interested persons may file written exceptions to this recommended decision and proposed regulation together with supporting reasons therefor, with the Hearing Clerk, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C., within 10 days after the date of filing of the recommended decision with the Hearing Clerk, which date shall be the date of publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The date of filing of written exceptions with the Hearing Clerk by mail shall be the postmark date of submission of such exceptions.

Preliminary statement. Section 101 (n) of the Sugar Act of 1948, as amended, authorizes the Secretary, after such hearing and upon such notice as he may by regulation prescribe, to determine (1) whether the specific processes to which sugars are subjected meet the requirements of the definition of the phrase "to be further refined or improved in quality" as contained in such section; and (2) whether sugars of specific qualities are raw sugar or direct-consumption sugar within the meanings respectively of paragraphs (d) and (e) of section 101 of the act.

Pursuant to the applicable rules of practice and procedure (21 F. R. 4251), a notice was published on July 11, 1956 (21 F. R. 5141) of a public hearing to be held at Washington, D. C., at the United States Department of Agriculture, on July 30, 1956, at 10:00 a. m., e. d. t., for the purpose of receiving evidence to enable the Secretary to determine whether specific processes to which sugars are subjected are sufficient to fulfill the requirements of the definition of the phrase "to be further refined or improved in quality" as set forth in paragraph 101 (n) of the act, and whether sugars of specific qualities are raw sugar within the definition of the term "raw sugar" as set forth in paragraph 101 (d) of the act, or direct-consumption sugar within the definition of the term "direct-consumption sugar" as set forth in paragraph 101 (e) of the act.

The hearing was held at the place and time specified in the Notice. Subsequently, written briefs and proposed findings and conclusions were filed by interested persons within the period reserved for that purpose.

In arriving at the findings, conclusions, and recommended decision contained herein the record of the hearing and the briefs received were carefully and fully considered. To the extent that findings and conclusions proposed by interested persons differ from the findings and conclusions contained herein, the specific or implied requests to make such findings and to reach such conclusions are denied on the basis of the facts found, the conclusions reached and the reasons therefor as herein set forth.

Reasons for findings and conclusions. Section 101 (n) of the act defines the phrase "to be further refined or improved in quality" which is contained in the definition of raw sugar to mean "to be subjected substantially to the processes of (1) affination or defecation, (2) clarification, and (3) further purification by adsorption or crystallization". The definition of this phrase makes it evident that the term "raw sugar" as defined in section 101 (d) of the act should apply only when the sugar is, or is to be subjected to the processes enumerated in section 101 (n) which in fact bring about a significant or material change in the sugar.

While the general purport of the language of section 101 (n) is clear, more detailed descriptions of the processes referred to in that section are needed as a basis for (1) evaluating refining operations, (2) classifying sugar as raw sugar or direct-consumption sugar under those provisions of the act which require such classification and (3) specifying the conditions under which sugar may be brought in or imported under the classification of "raw sugar".

This regulation, in the course of making determinations authorized under section 101 (n) of the act, (1) further describes processes named in that section, (2) specifies the circumstances under which the processes will be recognized as having been applied to given importations of sugar, (3) specifies standards to distinguish raw from direct-consumption sugar, and (4) prescribes the procedures and requirements relative thereto.

The descriptions of the specific processes in the regulation were developed from evidence with respect thereto. The record also discloses generally the refining processes currently employed and that, although processes of individual refineries vary considerably in detail, certain fundamental operations are common to all. Thus, the descriptions of specific processes are based upon processing principles rather than upon the machinery and equipment or the sequence of operations, although equipment and materials are referred to in an illustrative manner.

With respect to processing requirements, considerable testimony in the record relates to the evaluation of what constitutes substantial subjection of sugars to the specified processes. Some witnesses contended that subjection of any sugars to the required processes represents a substantial degree of processing. There is other testimony that the application of the processes must be evaluated by some standard. Proposals were made that process evaluation be based on the quality of raw material input, difference in quality between raw material input and refined product output and descriptions of both the manner and purpose of the processing, such bases to be used singly or in combination.

It seems evident that consideration must be given to process evaluation in order to lend significance to the words, "subjected substantially", in section 101 (n). As the quality of sugar increases, the quantity of impurities contained decreases. Therefore, sugar of lower quality may be further refined or improved in quality to a greater degree than sugar of higher quality. When sugar of sufficiently low quality is passed through all the processes of either affination or defecation, clarification, and further purification by either adsorption or crystallization in accordance with the descriptions of such processes set forth in the regulations, it is reasonable to conclude that the sugar has been subjected substantially to such processes.

Consideration was given to the various proposals, special situations created by brown or soft sugar and other pertinent factors in arriving at those provisions of this regulation which undertake to evaluate the specified processes on the basis of the quality of the raw material processed. A degree of usefulness is broadly attributed to such a standard also as a device which would provide a clear-cut line of demarcation for resolving with finality a limited number of cases. A significant body of testimony holds a quality dividing line to be essential. Such evidence and the specific provision in section 101 (n) of the act for applying a quality standard in differentiating between raw sugar and direct-consumption sugar under the definitions thereof in paragraphs (d) and (e) of section 101 of the act as either to be further refined or improved in quality or not to be further refined or improved in quality, adequately supports inclusion of such standard in this regulation in evaluating processes and distinguishing raw sugar from direct-consumption sugar.

Testimony in the record as to the proper level for a quality standard varied from a low of 98.0 degrees to a high of 99.5 degrees. Some witnesses maintained that a dividing line was unnecessary. The various proposals with respect to a specific dividing line tended to center around either 98.5 degrees or 99.3 degrees.

Those who proposed a dividing line in the lower range (around 98.5 degrees) based such proposal primarily on an interpretation of the words "substantially subjected" and contended that only sugar which tests 98.5 degrees or less can be subjected substantially to the required processes. Additional testimony supported that dividing line on the bases that: (1) standards set at a higher level permitted encroachment by raw sugar producers into the historic functions of the refiner, (2) current raw sugar imports test on the average much less than 98.5 degrees, (3) less than 4 percent of imports in 1955 tested above 98.5 degrees, and (4) such a dividing line would still permit normal technical progress and efficiency in the production of raw sugar.

Those who proposed a dividing line in the higher range (around 99.3 degrees) contended that such sugar could be subjected "substantially" to the required processes. Additional support for such a dividing line was based on consumers' buying habits and it was pointed out that affined sugar which tests as high as 99.3 degrees is not satisfactory for direct consumption unless first subjected to the other processes. Objections to a lower dividing line included (1) establishment of a relatively low level would have the effect of making affination a necessary refining process even though not required by the act; (2) progress in the development of improved varieties of sugarcane and in more efficient raw sugar processes would be retarded; (3) raw sugar producers cannot closely control the quality of sugar produced and lower efficiency of raw sugar production might actually result from efforts to limit quality of output sufficiently below the demarcation line in order to avoid the possibility of penalties; and (5) the relatively low standard could bring about an inadvertent preemption of the direct-consumption portions of quotas by refiners.

It is evident from the record that many factors must be considered in establishing a satisfactory quality standard distinguishing raw from direct-consumption sugar. To accept the point of view of those who propose that quality distinction is unnecessary and that subjection of sugar of any quality to the enumerated processes is sufficient is to suggest that eventually the direct-consumption sugar limitations would no longer perform the function for which they were designed. On the other hand, a very low dividing line when considered in the light of its effect on technical progress in the production of raw sugar, of its potential effect on direct-consumption portions of quotas and of the penalty provisions of the act would undoubtedly have an unduly restrictive effect. Neither extreme would properly serve the purposes of the act.

The data contained in Exhibits 5, 35, 36, 37 and 38 show that in the past there has been an area which significantly separates entries of sugar on the basis of quality, as indicated by reported polarization tests. The data reported with respect to individual entries of sugar from Cuba during the period January through July 1956 show that all such entries were either below 99.200 sugar degrees or above 99.840 sugar degrees with only negligible quantities between 99.000 and 99.200 sugar degrees. Comparable data for entries from Puerto Rico show a break between 98.416 and 99.400; those for Hawaii, between 98.680 and 100.000; and those for the Republic of the Philippines between 98.200 and 100.000. Data for entries of sugar in 1955 show a similar pattern. Accordingly, the gap disclosed by the foregoing data affords a suitable area within which to distinguish raw sugar from direct-consumption sugar on a quality basis.

There is substantial evidence in the record that subjection of a raw material of not more than 99 percent sugar content to the specified processes improves the sugar sufficiently to constitute substantial subjection. Moreover, a fair inference may be drawn from the record that a quality standard set at that level would not have an unduly restrictive effect upon technical progress in the production of raw sugar, would permit normal operation of the raw sugar industry in producing and marketing raw sugar without intrusion upon the functions of refiners as recognized in the act, and that such a level should not result in inadvertent incurrence of penalties nor endanger the integrity of the direct-consumption portions of quotas.

The establishment of a quality standard requires that provision be made for the unit quantity of sugar to which such standard is to be applied and the methods for making quality determinations. With respect to the unit quantity of sugar there was divergence of views only in connection with sugar shipped in bags. Some testimony supports the view that the unit quantity of sugar shipped in bags should be the same as that shipped in bulk, namely an entire cargo, or that part of a cargo, shipped to one refinery. Consideration of other testimony including that concerned with the problems relating to marketing allotments for sugar from domestic offshore areas supports the view that the unit quantity of sugar shipped in bags should be the sugar identified by a single mark and shipped to one refinery. In the case of bagged sugar the regulation is based on the latter view.

With respect to methods for determining quality, the record shows general agreement that the quality of sugar principally of crystalline structure should be determined by the direct polariscopic method. In view of the fact that the direct polariscopic test is widely used in commerce and is simple and rapid in its application, it appears that such test is the most satisfactory of those available for measuring the quality of crystalline sugar. Consequently, the regulation provides that the quality of such sugar shall be determined by the direct polariscopic method.

For sugar principally not of crystalline structure there is no quality test exactly comparable to the direct polarization of crystalline sugar. Proposals were made that the quality determination for such sugar should be based on "calculated total sugars", ratio of total sugars to total solids, polarization of crystalline sugar from which such sugar was made and ratio of ash to total solids. Measurement of total sugar content as a percent of total soluble solids is most nearly comparable to the results obtained by the direct polarization of crystalline sugar but an ash determination, because of the precision with which it may be made, is also a desirable quality indicator. Inasmuch as measurement of total sugar content as a percentage of total soluble solids is the index most comparable to that used for crystalline sugar and is also currently in use for quota purposes and in view of the desirable characteristics of ash measurement, the use of both total sugar and ash content as quality determinants appears most advisable in this regulation. The significant levels of such tests to reflect standards equivalent to those adopted for crystalline sugar are (1) total sugar content equal to not more than 99.00 percent of total soluble solids content and (2) ash content equal to not less than 0.20 percent of total soluble solids content.

A further matter to be dealt with in connection with the use of physical and chemical methods for evaluating the quality of sugar relates to the fact that the results of such methods may be inadequate under some circumstances. For example, the direct polarization of sugar may be lowered by the addition of water or invert sugar sirup. Both direct polarization and total sugar content as a percentage of total solids content may be lowered by adding optically inactive and non-reducing solids. Ash content determinations can be affected by the addition of small quantities of mineral matter. In view of these circumstances, the regulation provides for the use of alternative evaluating procedures as a means for coping with special problems should they arise.

The record clearly establishes that any quality standard should provide an allowance for the variability resulting from sampling and analytical procedures. Variability of such results arising under conditions of current commercial practice, in the area of the demarcation line range as high as 0.20 sugar degree. Accordingly, the regulation provides that test results pertaining to a unit quantity of crystalline sugar (which test results under the regulation are essentially comparable to those prevailing in the current commercial practice) shall be interpreted in the light of such possible variability. Similarly allowances for variability with respect to sugar principally not of crystalline structure are made for interpreting the results of the determinations of ratios of total sugars and ash to the total soluble solids, which allowances are 0.20 percent and 0.020 percent, respectively.

Another issue to be dealt with is the manner in which the quality standards are to be applied in terms of weighing, sampling and testing prescribed units of sugar. It is broadly conceded that "customary commercial practice" which is generally acceptable for determining weights and quality premiums for settlement of transactions between buyers and sellers should be sufficiently precise for the purposes of this regulation and would have advantage in affording a degree of automaticity of compliance and avoiding special procedures and costs. On the other hand, it is recognized that "customary commercial practice" may be variable from port to port, time to time and even as between specific buyers and sellers. Furthermore, for some situations the procedures normally followed in transactions between buyer and seller may not be used with respect to sugar produced by refiners or an affiliate. The best solution seems to be to describe methods encompassed by the term "customary commercial practice" to the extent possible and to require such methods to be followed.

Finally, in connection with the establishment of a quality standard, attention must be directed toward a trade practice pertaining to direct-consumption sugar. Many entries of such sugar are not actually subjected to polariscopic or other tests but are declared to test 100 degrees as a matter of convenience and as a method for avoiding wastage which results from piercing bags to obtain samples for testing. Such practice appears reasonable and insistence upon application of tests for evaluating such sugar would serve no useful purpose so long as the sugar is entered as testing 100 degrees. Accordingly, the regulation provides that sugars which are not tested for evaluation shall be evaluated as direct-consumption sugar.

Proposed findings and conclusions. On the basis of the record of the hearing, I hereby find and conclude that:

(1) A regulation that sets forth specific processes which are sufficient to meet the requirements of the definition of the phrase "to be further refined or improved in quality" contained in section 101 (n) of the act, and one that distinguishes sugars of specific qualities as of the qualities of raw sugar or direct-consumption sugar is necessary for the effective administration of the Sugar Act of 1948, as amended and to facilitate compliance therewith.

(2) Specific processes for processing sugar which further refine or improve the quality of sugar and are sufficient to meet the requirements of section 101 (n) of the act, when applied to sugar of the specific quality of raw sugar are the alternative processes of affination or defecation, (a) affination consisting of the removal of molasses and other surface impurities from crystalline sugar by mingling such sugar with water, sirup or molasses, and by separating the crystalline sugar from such admixture, and (b) defecation consisting of the treatment of aqueous sugar solutions with defecating agents, and heat to coagulate and precipitate nonsugars, and (c) the process of clarification consisting of the separation of precipitated, coagulated, and suspended matter from aqueous sugar solutions to produce an effluent which is as clear and free of turbidity as may be obtained practically, and the process of further purification by the alternative processes of adsorption or crystallization, (d) adsorption consisting of the removal of nonsugars by treating aqueous sugar solutions with adsorbents and (e) crystallization consisting of the removal of nonsugars by concentrating aqueous sugar solutions to produce sugar crystals and separating such crystals from the residual liquor.

(3) Any sugar of not more than 99.00 percent sugar content and in addition in the case of sugar principally not of crystalline structure of not less than 0.20 percent ash content which is subjected to the specific processes set forth in finding (2) are sugars of the specific qualities which are raw sugar within the meaning of section 101 (d) of the act.

(4) Any sugar of more than 99.00 percent sugar content, and, in addition the case of sugar principally not of crystalline structure of less than 0.20 percent ash content; any sugar of not more than 99.00 percent sugar content and in addition in the case of sugar principally not of crystalline structure of not less than 0.20 percent ash content which is not subjected to the specific processes set forth in finding (2); or any sugar not subjected to quality evaluation as provided in this regulation are sugars of the specific qualities which are direct-consumption sugar within the meaning of section 101 (e) of the act.

(5) The direct polariscopic test is widely used for determining the quality of sugar principally of crystalline structure, gives satisfactory results, and is used for the purpose of this regulation. For sugar principally not of crystalline structure, measurement of the total sugar content as a percentage of total soluble solids content is most nearly comparable to the direct polariscopic test for sugar principally of crystalline structure, and when supplemented by an ash content measurement, affords a suitable basis for determining the quality of sugar principally not of crystalline structure. Such combined test is used for the purpose of this regulation.

(6) Measurements of specific qualities of sugar should apply to a unit comprised of a cargo or that part of a cargo delivered to a separate refining facility, or, if in bags, each part bearing a different mark or each part bearing the same mark delivered to a separate refining facility.

(7) There are several methods for making direct-polariscopic, total sugar content, ash content, and total soluble solids content tests. Methods derived from authoritative sources which are currently in general usage and provide uniform results are used in this regulation.

(8) The variations that may result from application of tests to specific lots of sugar require that such variations be taken into consideration for interpreting test results. An allowance of 0.20 sugar degree with respect to crystalline sugar and 0.20 percent of total sugar content and 0.02 percent of ash content (both as a percent of total soluble solids content) with respect to sugar principally not of crystalline structure is adequate for the purposes of this regulation.

(9) Tests provided for in this regulation may be subject to error when extraneous materials are present in the sugar tested. In the event such an error appears probable, the regulation should provide for the use of alternative testing methods to evaluate specific lots of sugar.

(10) It is practicable and desirable that so far as possible the requirements of the regulations follow current trade practice with respect to procedures for weighing, sampling and testing specific lots of sugar. The procedures for weighing, sampling and testing a unit of sugar set forth in the regulation assure uniformity of treatment within such trade practice to the extent possible. The submission to the Secretary of Agriculture of reports and information and with access to facilities and records by representatives of the Department of Agriculture as specified in the regulation are necessary for assuring that the provisions of section 101 (n) of the Sugar Act of 1948, as amended, and the regulations issued pursuant thereto are made effective.

§ 810.1 Bases, purposes and persons affected. The regulations contained in §§ 810.1 to 810.11 are issued pursuant to the Sugar Act of 1948, as amended. Section 101 (n) of the Sugar Act of 1948, as amended, defines the phrase "to be further refined or improved in quality". Other provisions of that section authorize the Secretary to determine whether specific refining processes meet the requirements of the definition of that phrase and to further distinguish raw from direct-consumption sugar on the basis of quality. The regulations in this part provide the basis for finally identifying sugar and liquid sugar brought or imported into the continental United States from domestic offshore areas and foreign countries as raw sugar or direct-consumption sugar pursuant to the definitions in the act and in terms of processes and qualities as prescribed in section 101 (n) of the act. Accordingly, all persons, as defined herein, are subject to the requirements of this section with respect to all offshore sugar brought or imported into the continental United States for consumption therein, except that liquid sugar from foreign countries and sugar to which the provisions of section 212 of the act apply are not subject to the provisions of this section.

§ 810.2 Definitions. As used in this part:

(a) The term "act" means the Sugar Act of 1948, as amended (61 Stat. 922; 65 Stat. 318; Public Law 545, 84th Congress; 7 U. S. C. 1100).

(b) The term "person" means an individual, partnership, corporation, association, estate, trust or other business enterprise, and, wherever applicable, a unit, instrumentality or agency of a Government, domestic or foreign.

(c) The term "Secretary" means the Secretary of Agriculture including any officer or employee of the Department of Agriculture to whom the Secretary has delegated authority or to whom authority may be delegated hereafter to act in his stead with respect to the act.

(d) The term "importer" means any person who brings or imports sugar into the continental United States including but not limited to the owner, consignor, consignee, transferee, purchaser, or broker acting on behalf of such person.

(e) The term "refiner" means any person who subjects raw sugar to processes as provided in this part.

(f) The terms "sugar", "raw sugar", "direct-consumption sugar", "liquid sugar" and "total sugar content" have the meanings ascribed to each in section 101 (c), (d), (e), (f) and (l) respectively, of the act, as implemented herein pursuant to section 101 (n) of the act.

§ 810.3 Specific processes. (a) The requirements of this part and of the definition of the phrase "to be further refined or improved in quality" set forth in section 101 (n) of the act, are met when one of the alternative processes described in paragraph (b) of this section, one of the alternative processes described in paragraph (d) of this section and the process described in paragraph (c) of this section are applied to sugar which is of the specific quality of raw sugar prescribed in § 810.4 (b) and (c).

(b) Of the alternative processes of affination and defecation:

(1) Affination shall consist of the removal of molasses and other surface impurities from crystalline sugar by mingling such sugar with water, sirup or molasses, and by separating the crystalline sugar from such admixture utilizing such equipment as minglers, centrifuges and the necessary auxiliaries thereto; and

(2) Defecation shall consist of the treatment of aqueous solutions with defecating agents, such as lime, phosphoric acid, diatomaceous earth, and carbon dioxide or various combinations thereof, and heat to coagulate and precipitate nonsugars, utilizing equipment for adding and mixing defecating agents with such aqueous solutions of sugar and for heating the resulting mixture.

(c) Clarification shall consist of the separation of precipitated, coagulated, and suspended matter from aqueous sugar solutions to produce an effluent which is as clear and free of turbidity as may be obtained by practical application of pressure or gravity filters, or flotation or sedimentation separators.

(d) Of the alternative processes of adsorption and crystallization:

(1) Adsorption shall consist of the removal of nonsugars by treating aqueous sugar solutions with adsorbents such as bone char, activated carbon, ion-exchange resins, or other adsorbents, utilizing the necessary char filters, pressure filters, ion-exchange or other systems; and

(2) Crystallization shall consist of the removal of nonsugars by concentrating aqueous sugar solutions to produce sugar crystals and separating such crystals from the residual liquor, utilizing such equipment as evaporators, vacuum pans and centrifuges.

§ 810.4 Applicability of term "raw sugar". Any sugar brought or imported into the continental United States is sugar of the specific quality which is raw sugar within the meaning of section 101 (d) of the act, where:

(a) The sugar is subjected to the processes as provided in § 810.3; and

(b) The sugar if principally of crystalline structure contains not more than 99.00 percent of sugar by direct polarization; or

(c) The sugar if principally not of crystalline structure has a total sugar content equal to not more than 99.00 percent of the total soluble solids content, and an ash content equal to not less than 0.20 percent of the total soluble solids content.

§ 810.5 Applicability of term "direct-consumption sugar". Any sugar brought or imported into the continental United States is sugar of the specific quality which is direct-consumption sugar within the meaning of section 101 (e) of the act, where

(a) The sugar if principally of crystalline structure contains more than 99.00 percent of sugar by direct polarization; or

(b) The sugar if principally not of crystalline structure has a total sugar content equal to more than 99.00 percent of the total soluble solids content or an ash content equal to less than 0.20 percent of the total soluble solids content; or

(c) The sugar if principally of crystalline structure contains not more than 99.00 percent of sugar by direct polarization, or if principally not of crystalline structure has a total sugar content equal to not more than 99.00 percent of the total soluble solids content and an ash content equal to not less than 0.20 percent of the total soluble solids content, and is not subjected to the processes as provided in § 810.3, or

(d) The sugar is not subjected to quality evaluation as provided in § 810.9.

§ 810.6 Weighing. For each separate unit of sugar specified in § 810.9 the weight or gallonage shall be determined on scales or gauges approved by public authority.

§ 810.7 Sampling. (a) Each unit of sugar specified in § 810.9 shall be sampled by an independent sampler or samplers in accordance with procedures for drawing samples established by the United States Bureau of Customs.

(b) Portions of each sample of approximately 2 pounds, or one pint if liquid, shall be placed in sealed, moisture-proof containers, and not less than one such portion shall be delivered to each laboratory which is to test the sample and any person having samples taken pursuant to this part shall retain identical reserve portions for the use of the Secretary. Each container shall be labeled so as to include the name of vessel, mark of identification of the unit of sugar, serial number of sample, quantity of sugar represented by sample, total quantity in unit of sugar, date and place of sampling, and names of buyer, seller and samplers.

§ 810.8 Methods for testing sugar. (a) Sugar content, total sugar content, ash content, and total soluble solids content shall be measured in accordance with the following methods:

(1) Sugar content of sugar principally of crystalline structure shall be measured by the direct polarization method described in United States Customs Laboratory Method No. 501.1 approved August 29, 1955;

(2) Total sugar content of sugar principally not of crystalline structure (sum of sucrose and reducing or invert sugars) shall be measured in accordance with the procedures described in the below designated official methods published in the Eighth Edition (1955) of Official Methods of Analysis of the Association of Official Agricultural Chemists.

(i) Reducing or invert sugar content shall be measured by the Lane-Eynon method as set forth in official methods 29.35, 29.36 and 29.37 or by the Munson-Walker method as set forth in official methods 29.38, 29.39 and 29.42;

(ii) Sucrose content shall be measured (a) by the double polarization method as set forth in official method 29.24, or (b) by the chemical method as set forth in official method 29.32 using either of the methods prescribed in subdivision (i) of this subparagraph for measuring reducing or invert sugars before and after inversion of sucrose of official method 29.25 (b).

(3) Ash content shall be determined by official method 29.14 as described in the Eighth Edition (1955) of Official Methods of Analysis of the Association of Official Agricultural Chemists;

(4) Total soluble solids content shall be determined by official method 29.8 as described in the Eighth Edition (1955) of Official Methods of Analysis of the Association of Official Agricultural Chemists.

(b) Percent of sugar content, total sugar content as a percent of total soluble solids content, and ash content as a percent of total soluble solids content shall be ascertained from the results of the testing methods prescribed in paragraph (a) of this section as follows:

(1) Percent of sugar content of sugar principally of crystalline structure shall be deemed to be the sugar degrees determined by the prescribed method;

(2) Total sugar content as a percent of total soluble solids content with respect to sugar principally not of crystalline structure shall be the ratio, expressed as a percentage, of the total sugar content to the total soluble solids content;

(3) Ash content as a percent of total soluble solids content with respect to sugar principally not of crystalline structure shall be the ratio, expressed as a percentage, of the ash content to the total soluble solids content.

(c) Whenever the Secretary believes that the methods prescribed herein may be inadequate for evaluating any unit of sugar as specified in § 810.9, he may use any official method of the Association of Official Agricultural Chemists set forth in the Eighth Edition (1955) of Official Methods of Analysis of the Association of Official Agricultural Chemists for evaluating such unit of sugar pursuant to § 810.10 (g).

§ 810.9 Evaluation of tests. (a) For the purposes of §§ 810.4, and 810.5 the entire quantity of sugar brought or imported into the continental United States under a single manifest or bill of lading shall be evaluated as a unit as provided for in paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section on the basis of weights, samples and tests specified in §§ 810.6, 810.7 and 810.8, respectively, except that separate evaluations shall be made for (1) each individual lot of sugar delivered in bags identified under a separate mark and (2) the quantity delivered to each refinery whether in bulk or in bags.

(b) The applicable test for a unit of sugar specified in paragraph (a) of this section shall be the weighted average of the tests of all the samples pertaining to such unit. The tests of each sample taken in accordance with § 810.7 shall be ascertained as follows:

(1) When settlement between a refiner and a seller is based on the average of the two nearest of the three results obtained by the refiner, seller, and an independent sugar testing laboratory selected jointly by refiner and seller, each using portions of the same sample and performing tests in accordance with the procedures prescribed in § 810.8, the test of the sample shall consist of such average;

(2) When settlement is not based on the method referred to in subparagraph (1), of this paragraph, the test of a sample shall be the result obtained by an independent sugar testing laboratory in accordance with the procedure specified in § 810.8.

(c) The applicable test for each unit of sugar, ascertained as provided for in paragraph (b) of this section, shall be evaluated as follows:

(1) The sugar, if principally of crystalline structure, is deemed to contain more than 99.00 percent of sugar when such applicable test exceeds 99.20 sugar degrees by direct polarization;

(2) The sugar, if principally not of crystalline structure, is deemed to have a total sugar content equal to more than 99.00 percent of total soluble solids or an ash content equal to less than 0.20 percent of total soluble solids when such applicable test shows a total sugar content of more than 99.20 percent of total soluble solids or an ash content of less than 0.18 percent of total soluble solids.

§ 810.10 Costs, reports, records and inspections. (a) All costs incident to the weighing, sampling and testing required to be performed hereunder by refiners, importers, or sellers shall be borne by such persons.

(b) Results of weighing, sampling and testing shall be reported to the Secretary in accordance with the provisions of Part 817 of this chapter.

(c) Any person who has applied any processes to sugar which was declared to be raw sugar on Form SU-3 within one year prior to the effective date of this regulation and who is currently processing sugar shall submit in writing to the Sugar Division, Commodity Stabilization Service, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C. within 90 days of the effective date of this regulation, the following information with respect to each sugar processing facility operated by him, and thereafter such additional information as the Secretary may request:

(1) A description of the processes to which sugar is subjected;

(2) A description of the equipment and machinery used in each process together with their capacities under normal operating conditions;

(3) A list of chemicals and other materials used in conjunction with processing and their rate of use in relation to the amount of sugar processed; and

(4) A description of the types of refined products and by-products which are normally produced together with the quantity and quality of each type produced from a given quantity and quality of raw sugar.

(d) Any person intending to subject sugar to processes in a facility not in operation on the date these regulations become effective, shall submit in writing to the Sugar Division, Commodity Stabilization Service, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C., prior to the beginning of the operation of such facility, information comparable to that required in paragraph (c) of this section. Any person who has submitted the information required under paragraph (c) of this section and who contemplates any major changes in the processes, equipment, machinery, chemicals and input and output of such processes, shall submit in writing to the Sugar Division, Commodity Stabilization Service, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C., prior to making such change, full information relating to such major change.

(e) All records pertaining to the requirements of this part, shall be retained for a period of two years and information relating thereto shall be submitted to the Secretary upon request.

(f) Upon request by the Secretary, within 30 days of the date on which the report of the applicable test of a unit of sugar is first transmitted, the person required to retain a reserve portion of each sample as specified in § 810.7 (b) shall transmit to the Secretary such reserve portion.

(g) Notwithstanding any other provision of this part, the Secretary may weigh, sample, test and evaluate any unit of sugar subject to the provisions of this part, and with respect to any such unit his findings shall be final and conclusive.

(h) Any person subject to this part shall, upon request of any employee of the Department of Agriculture, authorized in writing by the Director or Deputy Director of the Sugar Division, Commodity Stabilization Service, United States Department of Agriculture, permit such employee to enter during working hours upon the premises and any other location where business operations of such person are being conducted to inspect facilities and records, and to weigh, sample and test any unit of sugar subject to this part or to observe such operations.

§ 810.11 Delegation of authority. The Director or Deputy Director of the Sugar Division, Commodity Stabilization Service of the Department of Agriculture, is authorized to act for and on behalf of the Secretary in administering this part.

Issued this 27th day of December 1956.

[SEAL] CLARENCE L. MILLER,
Acting Administrator,
Commodity Stabilization Service.

GREAT LAKES-BORDEAUX/HAMBURG RANGE WESTBOUND CONFERENCE

NOTICE OF AGREEMENT FILED FOR APPROVAL

Notice is hereby given that the following described agreement has been filed with the Board for approval pursuant to section 15 of the Shipping Act, 1916, 39 Stat. 733, 46 U. S. C. 814.

Agreement No. 7830-3, between the member lines of the Great Lakes—Bordeaux/Hamburg Range Westbound Conference, modifies the basic conference agreement (No. 7830, as amended) to provide (1) for the elimination from the scope of the agreement of the trade from European ports in the Bordeaux/Hamburg range to ports in Canada, the St. Lawrence River, Nova Scotia, Newfoundland and New Brunswick; (2) that the conference will be known as the United States Great Lakes—Bordeaux/Hamburg Range Westbound Conference; and (3) that conference meetings may be held at such places as shall be directed by the Chairman instead of being held at Rotterdam as presently provided in the agreement. Agreement No. 7830, as amended, presently covers the trade westbound from continental ports of Europe within the Bordeaux/Hamburg Range to ports of the Great Lakes of the United States and Canada, the St. Lawrence River, Nova Scotia, Newfoundland, and New Brunswick.

Interested parties may inspect this agreement and obtain copies thereof at the Regulation Office, Federal Maritime Board, Washington, D. C., and may submit, within 20 days after publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER, written statements with reference to the agreement and their position as to approval, disapproval, or modification, together with request for hearing should such hearing be desired.

Dated: January 3, 1957.

FEDERAL POWER COMMISSION

[Docket No. G-10521]

MONTANA-DAKOTA UTILITIES CO.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION

JANUARY 2, 1957.

Take notice that Montana-Dakota Utilities Company (Applicant), a Delaware corporation with its principal place of business located at Minneapolis, Minnesota, filed an application on June 5, 1956, for a certificate of public convenience and necessity for the construction, installation and operation of certain facilities hereinafter described, subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission, and or more fully represented in the application which is now on file with the Commission and open for public inspection.

Applicant specifically requests authorization to construct, install and operate:

(1) Approximately 28.3 miles of 12¾-inch O. D. loop transmission line extending from its Cabin Creek compressor station in Fallon County Montana, northeasterly to a terminus in Dawson County, Montana. The proposed line will loop a portion of Applicant's existing 8-inch Cabin Creek-Glendive transmission line.

(2) One 660 horsepower compressor unit and related facilities in its existing Cabin Creek compressor station together with certain miscellaneous cooling facilities for said plant.

(3) Two 540 horsepower compressor units and related facilities in its existing Baker, Montana compressor station in the Baker Storage Field.

Applicant states that the proposed pipe line loop will supplement its existing facilities to allow it to take deliveries of additional quantities of natural gas purchased from the Tioga plant for use throughout its system, including injection for storage in its Baker storage area.

The proposed compressor facilities will be used to transmit the increasing quantities of Tioga gas throughout Applicant's system in addition to increasing its ability to inject and withdraw additional quantities of gas into and from its Baker storage area. In addition the Cabin Creek addition will allow Applicant to reverse the flow of gas in its Bowdoin line in case of emergency, and the proposed addition to the Baker station will increase the flow of gas along Applicant's Black Hills line into South Dakota.

Applicant estimates the total cost of the proposed facilities will be $1,054,120, with a credit of $50,739 from cooling, piping, and other miscellaneous equipment to be retired and replaced at its Cabin Creek and Baker compressor stations. The program will be financed from proceeds of short-term loans.

Protests or petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington 25, D. C. in accordance with § 1.8 or § 1.10 of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) on or before January 11, 1957.

[Docket No. G-10911]

PACIFIC NORTHWEST PIPELINE CORP.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION AND DATE OF HEARING

JANUARY 2, 1957.

Pacific Northwest Pipeline Corporation (Applicant), a Delaware corporation, with its principal place of business in Houston, Texas, filed an application on August 14, 1956, as supplemented on August 31, 1956, for a certificate of public convenience and necessity, pursuant to section 7 of the Natural Gas Act, authorizing the construction and operation of certain facilities to initiate natural gas service to Cascade Natural Gas Corporation (Cascade) for resale in the towns of Athena and Weston, Oregon, as hereinafter described, subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission, all as more fully represented in the application which is on file with the Commission and open to public inspection.

Applicant proposes to install and operate a tap, measuring and regulating station on its 6-inch Walla Walla lateral, such facilities to be located approximately 1½ miles of the city limits of Athena, Oregon. Through these facilities Applicant proposes to sell and deliver natural gas to Cascade, for resale in Athena and Weston. Cascade will construct two 3 inch lines, each approximately 1½ miles in length, to connect the proposed facilities of Applicant to Cascade's distribution facilities in each town.

Applicant estimates the natural gas requirements of Athena and Weston as follows:

Year of service	Annual Mcf		Peak day Mcf
	Athena	Weston	Athena	Weston
1	29,462	32,397	85	94
2	31,205	33,945	108	92
3	33,371	35,799	134	117

The estimated overall capital cost of Applicant's proposed facilities is $13,144, which will be financed out of current working funds.

Applicant indicates that the service proposed herein will have no adverse effect upon its existing customers, and no appreciable effect upon the life index of its total system gas reserves.

Take further notice that, pursuant to the authority contained in and subject to the jurisdiction conferred upon the Federal Power Commission by sections 7 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act, and the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, a hearing will be held on January 31, 1957, at 9:30 a. m., e. s. t., in a hearing room of the Federal Power Commission, 441 G Street NW., Washington, D. C., concerning the matters involved in and issues presented by such application: Provided, however, That the Commission may after a non-contested hearing, dispose of the proceedings pursuant to the provisions of § 1.30 (c) (1) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure. Under the procedure herein provided for, unless otherwise advised, it will be unnecessary for Applicant to appear or be represented at the hearing.

Protests or petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington 25, D. C., in accordance with the rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) on or before January 18, 1957. Failure of any party to appear at and participate in the hearing shall be construed as waiver of and concurrence in omission herein of the intermediate decision procedure in cases where a request therefor is made.

[SEAL] LEON M. FUQUAY,
Secretary.

[Docket No. G-10954]

EL PASO NATURAL GAS CO.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION AND DATE OF HEARING

JANUARY 2, 1957.

Take notice that El Paso Natural Gas Company (Applicant), a Delaware corporation with its principal place of business at El Paso, Texas, filed an application on August 21, 1956, for a certificate of public convenience and necessity pursuant to section 7 of the Natural Gas Act, authorizing the construction and operation of facilities, as hereinafter described, subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission, all as more fully represented in the application which is on file with the Commission and open to public inspection.

The facilities for which a certificate of public convenience and necessity is sought are as follows:

(1) A temporary booster compressor station at Valve No. 3 on Applicant's existing 5-inch O. D. Yuma line, said station having a total of 300 horsepower, together with standard appurtenances for operation, said station to be located in the SW/4, Section 22, Township 1 South, Range 19 West, Yuma County, Arizona.

(2) A temporary booster compressor station at Valve No. 5 on Applicant's existing 5-inch O. D. Yuma line, said station having a total of 300 horsepower, together with the necessary standard appurtenances for the operation of same, said station to be located in the unsurveyed lands, Township 4 South, Range 20 West, Yuca County, Arizona.

(3) A temporary booster compressor station at Valve No. 7 on Applicant's existing 5-inch O. D. Yuma line, said station having a total of 300 horsepower, together with the necessary standard appurtenances for the operation of same, said station to be located in the SE/4, Section 23, Township 7 South, Range 21 West, Yuma County, Arizona.

The facilities for which authorization is requested herein by Applicant are proposed to be operated in conjunction with its existing facilities for the purpose of making available additional deliveries of natural gas to Arizona Public Service Company for distribution and resale by said company to residents and other users of natural gas in and about the town of Yuma, Arizona.

Applicant states that the additional gas for Yuma is necessary in order to meet its estimated demands in the winter of 1956–1957.

The proposed facilities are estimated to cost $247,500 to be financed out of current working funds or short term bank loans.

Take further notice that, pursuant to the authority contained in and subject to the jurisdiction conferred upon the Federal Power Commission by sections 7 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act, and the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, a hearing will be held on January 31, 1957, at 9:35 a. m., e. s. t., in a hearing room of the Federal Power Commission, 441 G Street NW., Washington, D. C., concerning the matters involved in and the issues presented by such applications: Provided, however, That the Commission may, after a non-contested hearing, dispose of the proceedings pursuant to the provisions of § 1.30 (c) (1) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure. Under the procedure herein provided for, unless otherwise advised, it will be unnecessary for Applicant to appear or be represented at the hearing.

Protests or petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington 25, D. C., in accordance with the rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) on or before January 18, 1957. Failure of any party to appear at and participate in the hearing shall be construed as waiver of and concurrence in omission herein of the intermediate decision procedure in cases where a request therefor is made.

[Docket No. G-11169]

EL PASO NATURAL GAS CO.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION AND DATE OF HEARING

JANUARY 2, 1957.

Take notice that El Paso Natural Gas Company, a Delaware corporation with its principal place of business in the El Paso Natural Gas Company Building, El Paso, Texas, filed an application on October 1, 1956, for a certificate of public convenience and necessity pursuant to section 7 (c) of the Natural Gas Act authorizing the construction and operation of certain additional facilities necessary and incident to: (1) the sale of natural gas by El Paso to Lea County Gas Company for resale to the Yucca Mining Corporation at a point near Deming, New Mexico; and (2) the sale of additional volumes of natural gas by El Paso to the Kennecott Copper Corporation for use in a new sponge iron mill to be constructed by Kennecott near Hayden, Arizona.

El Paso proposes to construct and operate the following facilities:

(1) A main line tap and metering station, together with necessary appurtenant facilities, to be located at approximately Milepost 282 on El Paso's 26-inch O. D. California main line system in Section 7, Township 24 South, Range 7 West, Luna County, New Mexico, to enable El Paso to sell volumes of gas of up to 240 Mcf per day to the Lea County Gas Company for resale to the Yucca Mining Corporation at a point near Deming, New Mexico, for use in a manganese ore processing mill being constructed by Yucca.

(2) An additional meter together with necessary appurtenant facilities to be located at the site of El Paso's existing delivery point to Kennecott in Section 14, Township 5 South, Range 15 East, Pinal County, Arizona, to enable El Paso to increase by a maximum of 700 Mcf per day Kennecott's purchases of natural gas from El Paso.

The total estimated cost of the foregoing facilities is $6,676 which El Paso proposes to finance out of its current working funds without additional financing at this time.

The Commission on December 14, 1956, granted temporary authority to El Paso, pursuant to section 7 (c) of the Natural Gas Act, for construction and operation of facilities required for the delivery of up to 3,700 Mcf per day of natural gas to the Kennecott Copper Corporation at its existing and new Hayden, Arizona, plants, as described in its application for a certificate of public convenience and necessity in Docket No. G-11169, without prejudice to such final disposition of the application as the record may require.

The foregoing application is on file with the Commission and is open to public inspection.

This matter should be disposed of as promptly as possible and to that end:

Take further notice that pursuant to the authority contained in, and subject to the jurisdiction conferred upon the Federal Power Commission by sections 7 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act and the Commission's rules and regulations, a hearing will be held on Thursday, February 14, 1957, at 9:30 a. m., e. s. t., in a hearing room of the Federal Power Commission, 441 G Street NW., Washington, D. C., concerning the issues presented by said application: Provided, however, That after a non-contested hearing, the Commission may dispose of the proceedings pursuant to the provisions of § 1.30 (c) (1) or (2) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure. Under the procedure herein provided for it will be unnecessary for Applicant to appear or be repesented at the hearing unless otherwise advised.

Protests and petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington 25, D. C., in accordance with its rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8, 1.10) on or before February 4, 1957.

[File No. 812-1032]

ALLEGHANY CORP. AND MURCHISON BROTHERS

MEMORANDUM OPINION AND ORDER DISCONTINUING PROCEEDINGS

DECEMBER 31, 1956.

In the matter of Alleghany Corporation and Murchison Brothers, a partnership consisting of John D. Murchison and Clint W. Murchison, Jr., File No. 812-1032.

Alleghany Corporation ("Alleghany"), an investment company registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940, and Murchison Brothers ("Murchison"), a co-partnership consisting of John D. Murchison and Clint W. Murchison, Jr., filed a joint application on September 14, 1956, pursuant to section 17 (b) of the act, for an order exempting from section 17 (a) of the act a proposed purchase by Murchison from Alleghany of 53,000 shares of non-voting Class A common stock of Investors Diversified Services, Inc., a registered face-amount certificate investment company.

After appropriate notice on September 27, 1956, public hearings were held before a hearing examiner from October 10 to 12. A recommended decision by the examiner was waived, and it was agreed by all the participants that in lieu thereof the Division of Corporate Regulation would file proposed findings and conclusions after the submission of briefs. Subsequently the applicants advised that they did not desire to file briefs, and the Division on November 26, 1956, filed detailed proposed findings and conclusions recommending disapproval of the applications. Exceptions were filed on December 3 by the applicants and on December 5 by Randolph Phillips and Breswick & Company, Alleghany common stockholders opposing the application who were granted leave to be heard. Applicants requested that we hear oral argument on December 6 or as soon as possible thereafter and the opposing stockholders requested that the argument be held on December 11. In view of applicants' stated desire to consummate the proposed transaction, if approved, prior to December 31, 1956, we granted their request and heard oral argument on December 6.

At the oral argument, we stated that difficulties would be presented in disposing of the application in the short time that was available before the end of the year, by which time the applicants stated the proposal would have to be consummated to secure certain tax benefits. However, we advised that we would issue our decision promptly, and special efforts were made to assure a prompt decision notwithstanding a heavy workload and other pressing matters.

After the preparation of our opinion had reached an advanced stage and the issuance of a final opinion was almost at hand, and although we had been informed by counsel for Alleghany on December 14 that a further extension of the contract, which had previously been extended to December 15, could be expected, we were advised by telephone on December 19 by counsel for Murchison that that contract was no longer in effect as a result of its expiration and the refusal of the parties to extend it. Later that day counsel for Alleghany stated they had no knowledge that the contract was no longer in effect. Pursuant to our inquiry, in a telegram of December 20, counsel for Murchison advised that Murchison had refused to extend the contract beyond December 19 and on the same date counsel for Alleghany confirmed that the contract had not been extended. Pursuant to our further inquiry as to what action was expected with respect to the application, we were advised on December 27 and 28 by counsel for the respective applicants that the question before us is presently moot because the contract was not extended, and they requested that the joint application be deemed withdrawn.

The opposing stockholders have objected to the discontinuance of these proceedings, contending that termination of the contract should not act as a bar to a determination of questions they have raised respecting the asserted illegality of earlier transactions between the applicants.

In our opinion, as far as the instant proceedings are concerned it is the application which gives rise to the issues that have been presented, and under the circumstances we consider that the withdrawal of the application makes discontinuance of these proceedings appropriate.

In the light of the foregoing: It is ordered, That the said joint application be, and it hereby is, permitted to be withdrawn, and that these proceedings be, and they hereby are, discontinued.

By the Commission.

OHIO EDISON CO.

ORDER APPROVING ACQUISITION OF UTILITY ASSETS

DECEMBER 31, 1956.

Ohio Edison Company ("Company"), a registered holding company and a public utility company, has filed an application pursuant to section 10 of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("act") with respect to the following proposed transaction:

Pursuant to a Sale Agreement dated December 6, 1956, between the Company and the Village of Leroy, Ohio ("Village"), the Company proposes to acquire, for a cash consideration of $78,500, the Village electric distribution system, including approximately 5½ pole miles of overhead distribution facilities, 57 street lights, 70 line transformers of approximately 1,181 kva aggregate capacity, and a substation of 600 kva capacity situated on land owned by other than the Village.

It is stated that the Village is located in close proximity to communities and surrounding rural areas presently served by the Company at retail; that the Company presently supplies power to the Village for distribution over its system under a municipal resale power contract, which the parties will terminate upon the Company's acquisition of the property; that for the 12-month period ended October 31, 1956, the Company delivered to the Village under such contract 1,636,464 kwh of electric energy, the revenue for which was $26,109.29. Upon consummation of the transaction, the acquired property will be operated as a part of the Company's integrated system.

It is stated that no commission other than this Commission has jurisdiction over the proposed acquisition.

Due notice having been given of the filing of said application, and a hearing not having been requested of or ordered by the Commission; and the Commission finding that the applicable provisions of the act and the rules thereunder are satisfied and that no adverse findings are necessary, and deeming it appropriate in the public interest and in the interest of investors and consumers that the application be granted, effective forthwith:

It is ordered, Pursuant to Rule U-23 and the applicable provisions of the act, that said application be, and hereby is, granted, effective forthwith, subject to the terms and conditions prescribed in Rule U-24.

By the Commission.

RATES AND CHARGES ON SHOE DRESSING FROM BROOKLYN, N. Y., AND CRANFORD, N. J., TO ATLANTA, GA.

NOTICE OF INVESTIGATION AND ORDER FOR HEARING

At a session of the Interstate Commerce Commission, Division 2, acting as an appellate division, held at its office in Washington, D. C., on the 19th day of December A. D. 1956.

There being under consideration the matter of rates and charges, and the rules, regulations and practices affecting such rates and charges, applicable on interstate or foreign commerce of shoe dressing or blacking, from Brooklyn, N. Y., and Cranford, N. J., to Atlanta, Ga., as set forth in:

Motor Carrier Traffic Association, Inc., Agent: In Supplement 35 to MF-I. C. C. No. 444, on page 14 thereof, Index 6500;

Southern Motor Carriers Rate Conference, Agent: In Supplement 44 to MF-I. C. C. No. 804, on page 44 thereof, Indexes 24334 and 24335; or as the same may be amended or reissued.

It appearing that upon consideration of the tariff schedules there is reason to institute an investigation to determine whether they result in rates and charges, rules or regulations and practices that are unjust and unreasonable in violation of the Interstate Commerce Act; and good cause appearing therefor:

It is ordered, That an investigation be, and it is hereby, instituted upon the Commission's own motion, into and concerning the lawfulness of the rates, charges, rules, regulations and practices contained in said schedules, with a view to making such findings and orders in the premises as the facts and circumstances shall warrant.

It is further ordered, That the investigation in this proceeding shall not be confined to the matters and issues hereinbefore stated as the reason for instituting this investigation, but shall include all matters and issues with respect to the lawfulness of the said rates, charges, rules, regulations and practices under the Interstate Commerce Act.

It is further ordered, That a copy of this order be served on the respondents' attorneys in fact who filed the schedules containing the rates under investigation herein; and that further notice of this proceeding be given to the respondents, and that notice be given to the general public by posting a copy of this order in the office of the Secretary of the Commission at Washington, D. C., and by filing a copy with the Director, Division of the Federal Register.

And it is further ordered, That this matter be assigned for hearing at a time and place to be hereafter fixed.

By the Commission, Board of Suspension.

PART 301—DOMESTIC QUARANTINE NOTICES

SUBPART—MEDITERRANEAN FRUIT FLY

AMENDMENT OF ADMINISTRATIVE INSTRUCTIONS DESIGNATING CERTAIN LOCALITIES AS REGULATED AREA

Pursuant to § 301.78-2 of the regulations supplemental to the Mediterranean Fruit Fly Quarantine (7 CFR Supp. 301.78-2, 21 F. R. 3214) under sections 8 and 9 of the Plant Quarantine Act of 1912, as amended (7 U. S. C. 161, 162), administrative instructions issued as 7 CFR Supp. 301.78-2a (21 F. R. 3216), effective May 16, 1956, as amended effective June 1, 1956, July 7, 1956, July 13, 1956, and December 12, 1956 (21 F. R. 3722, 5032, 5208, and 9787), are hereby further amended by deleting Collier and Hendry Counties, Florida, from the list of civil divisions therein designated as Mediterranean fruit fly regulated area within the meaning of the provisions in this subpart, it having been determined by the Chief of the Plant Pest Control Branch that adequate eradication measures have been practiced in said counties for a sufficient length of time to eradicate the Mediterranean fruit fly infestations therein and that regulation of said counties is not otherwise necessary under § 301.78-2. Intensive survey and trapping activities have been carried on in the counties, but no Mediterranean fruit flies have been found there for a period of three months. Therefore, it is considered safe to release the counties from regulation.

This amendment shall be effective January 9, 1957.

The foregoing amendment relieves restrictions by removing Collier and Hendry Counties, Florida, from the list of civil divisions designated as Mediterranean fruit fly regulated area, thereby permitting interstate movement from these counties of all regulated products, including fruits and vegetables, without restriction under the quarantine. The amendment must be made effective promptly in order to permit such unrestricted movement of regulated products from the counties. Accordingly, under section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U. S. C. 1003), it is found upon good cause that notice and other public procedure with respect to the foregoing amendment are impracticable and contrary to the public interest, and good cause is found for making the effective date thereof less than 30 days after publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

TITLE 14—CIVIL AVIATION

Chapter I—Civil Aeronautics Board

[Civil Air Regs., Amdt. 43-3]

PART 43—GENERAL OPERATION RULES

AIRWORTHINESS CERTIFICATION OF FOREIGN AIRCRAFT OPERATED IN UNITED STATES

Adopted by the Civil Aeronautics Board at its office in Washington, D. C., on the 3d day of January, 1957.

Section 43.10 of Part 43 of the Civil Air Regulations permits the Administrator to exempt foreign aircraft, authorized by him to be flown in the United States, from compliance with certain requirements applicable to domestic civil aircraft. The language of this section of Part 43 was originally predicated on the provisions of section 6 (c) of the Air Commerce Act of 1926 (as amended prior to August 8, 1953) which authorized the Administrator to issue special permits for foreign aircraft to be navigated in the United States. Since the amendment of August 8, 1953, divested the Administrator of such authority and vested it in the Board under section 6 (b) of the Air Commerce Act, it is considered advisable to revise § 43.10 and delete the obsolete provisions.

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of this amendment (21 F. R. 2952),

Published daily, except Sundays, Mondays, and days following official Federal holidays, by the Federal Register Division, National Archives and Records Service, General Services Administration, pursuant to the authority contained in the Federal Register Act, approved July 26, 1935 (49 Stat. 500, as amended; 44 U. S. C., ch. 8B), under regulations prescribed by the Administrative Committee of the Federal Register, approved by the President. Distribution is made only by the Superintendent of Documents, Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D. C.

The FEDERAL REGISTER will be furnished by mail to subscribers, free of postage, for $1.50 per month or $15.00 per year, payable in advance. The charge for individual copies (minimum 15 cents) varies in proportion to the size of the issue. Remit check or money order, made payable to the Superintendent of Documents, directly to the Government Printing Office, Washington 25, D. C.

The regulatory material appearing herein is keyed to the CODE OF FEDERAL REGULATIONS, which is published, under 50 titles, pursuant to section 11 of the Federal Register Act, as amended August 5, 1953. The CODE OF FEDERAL REGULATIONS is sold by the Superintendent of Documents. Prices of books and pocket supplements vary.

There are no restrictions on the republication of material appearing in the FEDERAL REGISTER, or the CODE OF FEDERAL REGULATIONS.

PART 44—FOREIGN AIR CARRIER REGULATIONS

AIRWORTHINESS CERTIFICATION AND RESTRICTIONS ON MAXIMUM WEIGHTS FOR CATEGORIES OF USE

Adopted by the Civil Aeronautics Board at its office in Washington, D. C., on the 3d day of January 1957.

Presently effective Part 44 provides that foreign aircraft shall not be operated in the United States at weights in excess of the weights established by the country of manufacture. To preclude any uncertainty as to the eligibility of certain aircraft to qualify under the maximum weight limitations prescribed under United States airworthiness requirements, the language of this amendment relates clearly the weight limitations to categories of use. The effect of this amendment will be that airplanes which have been manufactured in the United States but have not been certificated, for example, in the transport category and, therefore, for which no maximum weight has been established in that category, may not, although presently registered and certificated in foreign countries, qualify for operation in the United States in the transport category until operating weights have been established in accordance with transport category limitations. This policy is consistent with the resolution on aircraft weights adopted at the Council of the International Civil Aviation Organization Meeting on March 8, 1949, which acknowledged the right of the country of manufacture to set the maximum weights applicable to foreign registered and certificated aircraft which may be flown over such country of manufacture.

A note is being inserted after § 44.3 calling attention to Part 190 of the Civil Air Regulations, the provisions of which govern the operation for ferrying purposes of an aircraft whose certificate of airworthiness is invalidated due to damage to the aircraft or a change in its nationality.

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of this amendment (21 F. R. 2952), and due consideration has been given to all relevant matter presented.

In consideration of the foregoing, the Civil Aeronautics Board hereby amends Part 44 of the Civil Air Regulations (14 CFR Part 44, as amended) effective February 7, 1957.

1. By amending § 44.3 to read as follows:

§ 44.3 Airworthiness and registration certificates. Foreign aircraft shall carry aboard currently effective certificates of registration and airworthiness issued or rendered valid by the country of registry and shall display the nationality and registration markings of that country. Foreign aircraft shall not be operated in the United States except in accordance with the limitations on maximum certificated weights prescribed or authorized for the particular variation of the type and for the particular category of use, by the country of manufacture of the aircraft type involved.

2. By adding a note following § 44.3 to read as follows:

NOTE: The applicable provisions of Part 190 of the Civil Air Regulations govern the operation for ferrying purposes of an aircraft whose certificate of airworthiness is invalidated due to damage to the aircraft or a change in its nationality.

(Sec. 205, 52 Stat. 984; 49 U. S. C. 425. Interpret or apply secs. 601, 610, 1102, 52 Stat. 1007, 1012, 1026, as amended; 49 U. S. C. 551, 560, 672)

[Civil Air Regs., Amdt. 190-2]

PART 190—AUTHORIZATION OF NAVIGATION OF FOREIGN CIVIL AIRCRAFT WITHIN UNITED STATES

AIRWORTHINESS CERTIFICATION AND RESTRICTIONS ON MAXIMUM WEIGHTS FOR CATEGORIES OF USE

Adopted by the Civil Aeronautics Board at its office in Washington, D. C., on the 3d day of January 1957.

Foreign civil aircraft operated in the United States in accordance with Part 190 of the Civil Air Regulations are required to carry on board currently effective certificates of airworthiness issued or rendered valid by the country of registry. If the certificate of airworthiness becomes invalid because of damage to the aircraft, or for other reasons, it may be operated within the United States only upon special authorization of the Board in accordance with § 190.70. However, normal processing of such authority may on occasion unduly delay the ferrying of a foreign civil aircraft.

The Civil Air Regulations presently provide that the Administrator may issue special flight permits for civil aircraft of the United States which do not currently meet airworthiness standards but are found to be capable of safe flight. A special flight permit is intended to authorize the flight of an aircraft to a base where repairs or alterations are to be made, or to permit the delivery or export of the aircraft. This amendment authorizes the Administrator, under the same conditions, to issue special flight permits, for ferrying purposes, for foreign civil aircraft which have been damaged or which have had their certificates of airworthiness invalidated because of a change in nationality. It will be noted that the provisions of this amendment are consistent with Annex 8 to the Convention on International Civil Aviation to the extent that the country of registry will determine whether an aircraft is damaged to such an extent as to invalidate its airworthiness certificate.

Presently effective § 190.23 of Part 190 provides that foreign aircraft shall not be operated in the United States at weights in excess of the weights established by the country of manufacture. To preclude any uncertainty as to the eligibility of certain aircraft to qualify under the maximum weight limitations prescribed under United States airworthiness requirements, the language of that section is hereby amended to relate clearly the weight limitations to categories of use. The effect of this change will be that airplanes which have been manufactured in the United States but have not been certificated, for example, in the transport category and, therefore, for which no maximum weight has been established in that category, may not, although presently registered and certificated in foreign countries, qualify for operation in the United States in the transport category until operating weights have been established in accordance with transport category limitations. This policy is consistent with the resolution on aircraft weights adopted at the Council of the International Civil Aviation Organization Meeting on March 8, 1949, which acknowledged the right of the country of manufacture to set the maximum weights applicable to foreign registered and certificated aircraft which may be flown over such country of manufacture.

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of these amendments (21 F. R. 2952), and due consideration has been given to all relevant matter presented.

In consideration of the foregoing, the Civil Aeronautics Board hereby amends Part 190 of the Civil Air Regulations (14 CFR Part 190, as amended) effective February 7, 1957.

1. By amending § 190.20 by deleting the period at the end of the section and inserting a semicolon in lieu thereof, and by adding the following:

§ 190.20 Airworthiness and registration certificates. • • • Provided, however, That in cases covered by paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section a special flight permit issued by the Administrator in accordance with §§ 1.76 and 1.77 of this subchapter may be carried onboard the aircraft in lieu of such certificate of airworthiness:

(a) It has been determined by the country of registry that the aircraft has been damaged to the extent that the airworthiness certificate is invalidated and the aircraft is to be flown to a place where repairs or alterations are to be made, or

(b) The certificate of airworthiness issued for the aircraft has been invalidated by the country of registry due to a change in nationality and such aircraft is intended to be navigated in the United States in transit to the new country of registry.

2. By amending § 190.23 to read as follows:

§ 190.23 Maximum weights and categories of use. Foreign aircraft shall not be operated in the United States except in accordance with the limitations on maximum certificated weights prescribed or authorized for the particular variation of the type and for the particular category of use, by the country of manufacture of the aircraft type involved.

(Sec. 205, 52 Stat. 984, as amended; 49 U. S. C. 425. Interpret or apply sec. 6, 44 Stat. 572, as amended; 49 U. S. C. 176)

TITLE 16—COMMERCIAL PRACTICES

Chapter I—Federal Trade Commission

[Docket 6620]

PART 13—DIGEST OF CEASE AND DESIST ORDERS

L. B. C. WATCH CASE CO.

Subpart—Misbranding or mislabeling: § 13.1185 Composition; § 13.1295 Quality or grade.

(Sec. 6, 38 Stat. 721; 15 U. S. C. 46. Interpret or apply sec. 5, 38 Stat. 719, as amended; 15 U. S. C. 45) [Cease and desist order, Michael Campaiola and Morris Lamm d. b. a. L. B. C. Watch Case Co., New York, N. Y., Docket 6620, December 20, 1956]

In the Matter of Michael Campaiola and Morris Lamm, Individually and as Copartners, Trading and Doing Business as L. B. C. Watch Case Co.

This proceeding was heard by a hearing examiner on the complaint of the Commission, charging a partnership of two individuals in New York City with misbranding watch cases of 13½ karat fineness which they manufacture, by marking them on the back with the phrase "14 K".

Following entry of a consent order, the hearing examiner made his initial decision and order to cease and desist which became, on December 20, the decision of the Commission:

The order to cease and desist is as follows:

It is ordered, That respondent Michael Campaiola and Morris Lamm, individually and as copartners, trading and doing business as L. B. C. Watch Case Co., or under any other name, and their agents, representatives and employees, directly or through any corporate or other device, in connection with the offering for sale, sale, or distribution of any articles composed in whole or in part of gold or any alloy of gold in commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the Federal Trade Commission Act, do forthwith cease and desist from: Stamping, branding, engraving, or marking any article with any phrase or mark such as 14 K, or otherwise representing, directly or by implication, that the whole or a part of any article is composed of gold or an alloy of gold of a designated fineness, unless the article or part thereof so marked or represented is composed of gold of the designated fineness within the permissible tolerances established by the National Stamping Act (15 U. S. Code, section 294, et seq.).

By "Decision of the Commission", etc., report of compliance was required as follows:

It is ordered, That the respondents herein shall, within sixty (60) days after service upon them of this order, file with the Commission a report in writing setting forth in detail the manner and form in which they have complied with the order to cease and desist.

Issued: December 20, 1956.

By the Commission.

TITLE 47—TELECOMMUNICATION

Chapter I—Federal Communications Commission

[FCC 57-24]

[Docket No. 11824; Rules Amdt. 8-21]

PART 8—STATIONS ON SHIPBOARD IN THE MARITIME SERVICES

CERTAIN RADIOTELEPHONE INSTALLATIONS

In the matter of amendment of Part 8 of the Commission's rules for the purpose of implementing Title III, Part III of the Communications Act with regard to radiotelephone installations required to be installed on board certain United States vessels carrying more than six passengers for hire.

1. Notice of Proposed Rule Making in the above-entitled matter was issued by the Commission on September 24, 1956 (21 F. R. 7456), and the final date for filing of comments has passed.

2. Comments in this proceeding were filed by three individuals who owned or operated small vessels carrying fishing parties for hire and by the following organizations:

(a) Southern California Sportfishing Association;

(b) Golden Gate Sportfishers Association;

(c) National Party Boat Owners Alliance, Inc.

(d) General Electric Company;

(e) Connecticut Boatman's Association;

(f) West Coast Marine Council;

(g) Pye Corporation of America.

3. Most of the comments were by or in behalf of owners of relatively small vessels that carry sport fishing passengers for hire, and were in opposition to the proposed requirement of § 8.545 (a) (1) (iii) that the required medium-frequency radiotelephone transmitter have a power output of at least 25 watts. Reasons given for opposing this requirement are in substance as follows:

(a) A large proportion of the vessels affected, particularly sport fishing vessels, have transmitters with less than 25 watts antenna power, and therefore the proposed rule could be complied with only by replacement of many existing transmitters which would cost in the order of $600 for each such replacement.

(b) One comment alleged that structural changes would have to be made on many vessels to accommodate the 25 watt equipment. It was also alleged that the cost of complying with these radiotelephone requirements together with complying with new Coast Guard regulations would force many boat-for-hire operators out of business.

(c) In the case of a specific vessel, 10 watts was cited as adequate to meet all requirements.

(d) Compelling vessels to install higher power will increase interference. To alleviate present congestion in the 2 Mc phone band, it was proposed that a maximum power of 25 watts be established, and a plan involving reassignment of frequencies was suggested.

(e) In connection with the Commission's proposed 25 watt output power requirement, it was suggested by the National Party Boat Owners Alliance that in the field it is more practical to ascertain the input power than the output power.

4. The following specific recommendations and suggestions for modification of the proposed rules with respect to power of medium frequency radiotelephone equipment were made in the comments:

(a) The Southern California Sportfishing Association suggested an antenna power of 10 watts as being more consistent with what is presently installed.

(b) The West Coast Marine Council suggested a minimum power of 10 watts for existing installations and 25 watts for new installations.

(c) The Golden Gate Sportfishers Association, Inc., suggested that present equipment be permitted to remain in use and that new sets being licensed be required to meet the 25 watt antenna power requirement.

(d) The National Party Boat Owners Alliance, Inc., suggested a rule specifying no minimum power but which would require that the medium frequency radiotelephone installation must be capable of communicating with the Coast Guard on 2182 kc and capable of communicating on other working frequencies assigned by the Commission including frequencie(s) necessary to communicate with public coast station(s) in the area.

5. It is apparent that the principal objection to the proposed 25-watt requirement for medium-frequency radiotelephone equipment is that it would necessitate replacement of much of the existing equipment resulting in substantial expense to the owners of small vessels. There is, however, no information furnished which would support a conclusion that the existing installations are in general adequate as to power for all safety purposes. The proposal of the National Party Boat Owners Alliance, Inc. that no minimum power be specified does not appear susceptible of equitable enforcement, due to the lack of a definite standard for the guidance of both boat owners and Commission enforcement personnel. While replacement of some existing low-powered equipment with 25-watt equipment may tend to increase interference in the 2 Mc ship bands, as suggested in the comments, it would not appear to be feasible to establish a maximum power of 25 watts for all ships nor to reassign frequencies to increase the effectiveness of the relatively low-powered transmitters now installed in some vessels subject to the new requirements. With regard to the suggestion that input power may be more readily measured in the field, it is explained that the output power was selected as a standard in the proposed rules because output power is a more reliable indication of the actual merit of a radio installation and past experience has indicated that it can be measured in the field without substantial difficulty.

6. In the light of the comments and considerations stated above the Commission believes that the proposed rules should be modified to reduce the burden on vessel owners with respect to immediate replacement of existing equipment, and at the same time provide that the proposed 25 watt requirement shall eventually be met. In finalizing the rule with respect to power of medium-frequency equipment (§ 8.545 (a) (1) (iii)) the Commission has specified that equipment installed prior to March 1, 1957 must be capable of a power output of at least 10 watts and equipment installed on or after that date must have an output power of at least 25 watts, provided, that after June 1, 1963 all equipment must be capable of at least 25 watts output power. The 1963 date specified above coincides with one of the date specified in section 8.139 of the rules with respect to type acceptance and will provide more than five years for amortization of equipment already installed. Where 10 watts is acceptable, this minimum power must be maintained at all times, even when, under § 8.545 (a) (3) (i), the operating voltage deviates within permissible limits.

7. Two comments were received with respect to the proposed 25-watt output power requirement when VHF is used (§ 8.545 (a) (2) (iii)). The General Electric Company suggested a 20-watt minimum in lieu of the proposed 25-watt minimum because of a design problem. It was explained that two output tubes of the type most suitable would be required to meet the 25-watt requirement whereas only one tube would be required to meet a 20-watt requirement. Apparently this reduction would result in more reliable equipment and a lesser cost for maintenance. The Pye Corporation of America, while making no objection as such to the proposed 25-watt VHF power requirement, invited attention to a recommendation of the VIIIth CCIR, Warsaw 1956, that in the case of VHF FM equipment operated on 156.8 Mc and neighboring frequencies, the output power of the ship's transmitter should generally not exceed 20 watts. In consideration of the comments of the General Electric Company, and because a reduction of 20 percent in antenna power of this order of magnitude should not cause any significant reduction in VHF signal strength or VHF distance range, the Commission has reduced the minimum power from 25 to 20 watts in finalizing § 8.545 (a) (2) (iii).

8. Comments dealing with other than transmitter power were as follows:

(a) The National Party Boat Owners Alliance, suggested a rule requiring that where batteries are used as a source of power for the radiotelephone installation, they shall be placed in such a position that they will not be contaminated by bilge water of the vessel, and in no case shall they be stowed below the center line of the crankshaft of the engine. In finalizing the rules a requirement substantially as proposed by this comment has been included in § 8.545 (a) (3) (i).

(b) The National Party Boat Owners Alliance, in response to the Commission's request for comments on classes of vessels which should be exempted, suggested that ferry boats and other boats operated wholly within inland waters, although adjacent or contiguous to the open sea, may be exempted; it was also suggested that when filing for exemption the application should be accompanied by a section of a map or chart of the area involved. No other comments were received upon the subject of exemptions. It is not considered that sufficient information has been obtained at this time upon which to base a class exemption. The suggestion with respect to the map or chart is being considered in connection with a modification of the exemption application form.

(c) The General Electric Company opposed the requirements of proposed § 8.545 (a) (7) that a device be provided in the transmitter for continuous visual indication that the transmitter is supplying radio frequency power to the antenna. This company recommended that the requirement be deleted because such a device would present an extra cost which would in no way enhance the quality of the communication system and because it would not contribute directly to safety. The Commission does not agree that such a device would not serve a safety need. While it is recognized that such a device does not in itself provide a complete indication as to the proper functioning of the transmitter, the indicator will provide a fairly simple and reliable means by which a non-technical operator could immediately determine whether the transmitter is radiating energy. Such a determination is important in time of distress due to collision or storm when antenna failures may occur. For the reason stated this rule is finalized as proposed.

9. In view of the foregoing, it is ordered, Pursuant to the authority contained in sections 303 (n) and (r) of Part I and Part III of Title III of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, that effective March 1, 1957, Part 8 of the Commission's rules is amended as set forth below.

(Sec. 4, 48 Stat. 1066, as amended; 47 U. S. C. 154. Interprets or applies sec. 303, 48 Stat. 1082, as amended; 47 U. S. C. 303)

Adopted: January 3, 1957.

Released: January 4, 1957.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION,
[SEAL] MARY JANE MORRIS, Secretary.

1. Section 8.46 is amended by designating the existing text thereof as paragraph (a) and adding a new paragraph (b) to read as follows:

(b) Pursuant to section 385 of the Communications Act (and in accordance with § 8.501 (b)), a ship of the United States which, by reason of the provisions of Part III of Title III of the Communications Act is required to be fitted with a radiotelephone installation for safety purposes shall, at least once in each 24-month period, be made available by the owner or operating agency of the ship for a detailed inspection of the ship's radiotelephone installation. A formal application, FCC Form 812, "Application for Periodical Inspection (Title III, Part III of the Communications Act)", for such inspection and issuance of a Communications Act Safety Radiotelephony certificate shall be filed with the Commission's Engineer in Charge of the radio district office nearest the desired port of inspection at least 3 days prior to the date on which such inspection is desired. The application shall be filed by the shipowner, the ship operating agency, the ship station licensee, or the shipmaster.

2. Section 8.49 (a) is amended to read as follows:

(a) In accordance with the provisions of section 352, subsections (b) and (c), or section 383 of the Communications Act and/or the appropriate provisions of the Safety Convention (Regulations 5 and 6 of Chapter IV of the Regulations annexed to the Safety Convention of 1948) application for exemption from the radio equipment and operator requirements of Part II or Part III of Title III of the said Communications Act and/or the said Safety Convention, or application for modification or renewal of exemption previously granted thereunder, may be made by submitting FCC Form 820, "Application for Exemption", to the Commission at Washington, D. C. In cases of emergency found by the Commission, the Commission may, at its discretion, consider an informal application which should include the full information normally furnished on FCC Form 820.

3. Section 8.152 is amended by the addition of a new paragraph (e) to read as follows:

(e) Each vessel of the United States transporting more than six passengers for hire, which is required by Part III of Title III of the Communications Act to be equipped with a radiotelephone installation and not exempted therefrom by the Commission, shall, for safety purposes, carry at least one qualified operator holding an operator's license issued by the Commission which is appropriate for the purpose under Part 13 of this chapter.

4. Section 8.202 is amended by adding a new paragraph (d) to read as follows:

(d) Each vessel of the United States transporting more than six passengers for hire which is required by Part III of Title III of the Communications Act to be equipped with a radiotelephone installation and not exempted therefrom by the Commission shall, while being navigated in waters specified by section 381 of Part III of Title III, keep a continuous and efficient listening watch on the frequency 2182 kc for the reception of class A3 emission if fitted with equipment for operation in the 2000–3500 kc band for the purpose of meeting radiotelephone requirements of law, or on the frequency 156.8 Mc for the reception of class F3 emission if fitted with equipment for operation in the 152–162 Mc band for this purpose, whenever the radiotelephone installation is not being used to transmit on the listening channel as herein designated or to transmit or receive on any other channel authorized for maritime mobile services. Such listening watch shall be performed by at least one officer or member of the crew of the vessel who, if not the master, has been designated by the master to perform this listening watch. The master or the person designated by the master may simultaneously perform other duties relating to the operation or navigation of the vessel, provided such other duties do not interfere with the effectiveness of this listening watch.

5. Section 8.501 is amended by redesignating paragraphs (b), (c), and (d) as (c), (d), and (e) and inserting a new paragraph (b) as follows:

(b) In accordance with § 8.101 (a) and pursuant to section 385 of the Communications Act, every vessel of the United States subject to Part III of Title III of said Act shall have a periodical inspection by the Commission of the equipment and apparatus prescribed therein not less than once every 24 months. If after such inspection the Commission determines that all relevant provisions of Part III of Title III of the Communications Act, the rules of the Commission made pursuant thereto, and the station license, are complied with in an efficient manner, a Communications Act Safety Radiotelephony certificate will be issued. The issuance date of Communications Act Safety Radiotelephony certificates shall be the date the installation is found by the Commission to be in compliance, or not later than one business day following such in-compliance date. Such certificates shall be issued for a period of not more than 24 months.

6. Immediately following § 8.541 insert the following subtitle and sections:

RADIOTELEPHONE INSTALLATIONS ON SHIPS SUBJECT TO PART III OF TITLE III OF THE COMMUNICATIONS ACT

§ 8.543 Radiotelephone installations. A radiotelephone installation required to be provided on a vessel of the United States by reason of the provisions of Part III of Title III of the Communications Act, shall comply in an efficient manner with §§ 8.544, 8.545, 8.546, 8.547 and 8.548 in addition to all other applicable requirements of this part.

§ 8.544 Certificates. Each vessel of the United States to which Part III of Title III of the Communications Act is applicable shall, not later than March 1, 1958, have on board and posted in a prominent and accessible place in the vessel a valid Communications Act Safety Radiotelephony certificate as prescribed by § 8.501 (b) of this part.

§ 8.545 General technical requirements. (a) The components and assembly of each radiotelephone installation required by Title III, Part III of the Communications Act, shall be such as to insure safe and effective operation of the equipment and shall be arranged to facilitate proper repair and replacement of parts. Adequate protection shall be provided against the action of saline moisture and the effects of vibration, humidity, and temperatures encountered on shipboard. In particular, the components named hereunder shall meet specific requirements as follows:

(1) Medium frequency transmitter and receiver. Except under special circumstances as set forth in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph, the radiotelephone installation shall meet the following requirements:

(i) It shall be capable of being used for the effective transmission and reception of class A3 emission on the international calling and distress frequency 2182 kc, the ship-to-ship working frequency 2638 kc, and at least one ship-shore working frequency within the band 1600–3500 kc enabling communication with a public coast station serving the region in which the ship is operated, during the entire time the vessel is navigated in waters specified by section 381 of Title III, Part III of the Communications Act.

(ii) The transmitter shall be capable of proper technical operation with peak modulation percentage between 75 and 100 percent and shall be so adjusted that the transmission of speech normally produces peak modulation within these limits.

(iii) The radiotelephone transmitter shall have a power output of not less than 10 watts if installed in the vessel prior to March 1, 1957, and a power output of not less than 25 watts if installed on or after that date. After June 1, 1963, the radiotelephone transmitter shall have a power output of not less than 25 watts regardless of installation date. The required power specified herein is measured when no modulation is present. The transmitting apparatus shall be considered to be capable of meeting this power requirement when it is properly adjusted for use with a ship station transmitting antenna meeting requirements of this section and has been demonstrated or is of a type which has been demonstrated to the satisfaction of the Commission as capable, with normal operating voltages applied, of delivering not less than the required power on each of the frequencies 2182 kc and 2638 kc into an artificial antenna consisting of a series network of 10 ohms effective resistance and 200 micromicrofarads capacitance; Provided, That if a type demonstration has been made, an individual demonstration of the power capability of the transmitting apparatus of any individual radiotelephone installation as normally installed on board ship may be required to determine whether it complies with these power requirements.

(2) Very high frequency transmitting and receiving equipment. If a vessel is within communication range of a public coast station operating in part or entirely on frequencies within the band 152–162 Mc which is in service and maintains an efficient watch for the reception of class F3 emission on the frequency 156.8 Mc at all times while the vessel is navigated in waters specified by section 381 of Part III of Title III, and the vessel while so navigated is never more than 20 nautical miles from a 156.8 Mc receiving location of such station, such vessel may alternatively employ very high frequency transmitting and receiving equipment in lieu of the medium frequency equipment specified in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph. Such alternative equipment shall meet the following requirements:

(i) The equipment shall be capable of being used for the effective transmission and reception of class F3 emission on the frequencies 156.3 Mc, 156.8 Mc, and on the working frequency 157.3 or 157.4 Mc as necessary for communication with one or more public coast stations serving the area in which the vessel is navigated.

(ii) The transmitter shall be capable of proper technical operation with peak modulation percentage between 75 and 100 percent and shall be so adjusted that the transmission of speech normally produces peak modulation within these limits. The frequency deviation with 100 percent modulation applied shall not exceed 15 kc.

(iii) The radiotelephone transmitter shall have a power output of at least 20 watts. The transmitter shall be considered to be capable of meeting this power requirement when it is properly adjusted for use with a ship station transmitting antenna meeting the requirements of these rules and has been demonstrated or is of a type that has been demonstrated to the satisfaction of the Commission as capable, with normal operating voltages applied, of delivering not less than 20 watts unmodulated radio frequency carrier power into 50 ohms effective resistance on each of the frequencies 156.8 Mc, 156.3 Mc, and either of the frequencies 157.3 Mc or 157.4 Mc: Provided, That if a type demonstration has been made, an individual demonstration of the power capability of the transmitting apparatus of any individual radiotelephone installation as normally installed on board ship may be required to determine whether it complies with these power requirements.

(3) Power supply. (i) There shall be readily available for use at all times under normal load conditions while the vessel is navigated in waters specified by section 381 of Part III of Title III and when required during inspection of the ship radiotelephone station by an authorized representative of the Commission, a main source of energy capable of supplying electrical power sufficient to energize simultaneously and efficiently the radiotelephone transmitter at its required power, and the required receiver. At all times hereinabove specified the potential of the main source of energy at the power input connections of the radiotelephone installation shall not deviate from its rated electrical potential by more than 10 percent on vessels the construction of which is completed on or after March 1, 1958, nor more than 15 percent on vessels completed before that date: Provided, That radiotelephone output power in the medium frequency band under either of these conditions shall not be less than 10 watts when such output power is applicable to a transmitter installed before March 1, 1957. In the case of a vessel of more than 100 gross tons, the keel of which was laid after March 1, 1957, an emergency source of energy independent of the vessel's normal electrical system shall be provided and shall be located in the upper part of the ship, unless the main source of energy is so located, in which case an emergency source of energy is not required. The emergency source of energy, when required, shall be located as near to the radiotelephone transmitter and receiver as is practicable. A source of energy shall be deemed to be located in the upper part of the ship when it is located on the same deck as the wheel house or at least one deck above the vessel's main deck. When batteries are used as either a main or emergency source of energy for the radiotelephone installation they shall be placed in such a position that they will not be contaminated by bilge water of the vessel, and in no case shall they be installed below the center line of the crankshaft of any inboard propulsion engine.

(ii) Each emergency source of energy and each main source of energy which is provided in order to comply with the power supply requirements of this section and which consists of or includes batteries shall, with respect to such batteries, have sufficient reserve capacity available at all times while the ship is navigated in waters specified by section 381 of Part III of Title III and during Commission inspections to permit operation of the radiotelephone installation for at least 3 hours continuously under normal working conditions. If directed by the Commission or its authorized representative, the ship owner, operating company, or station licensee shall prove this capacity by means of a discharge test over the 3-hour period of time when supplying power at the voltage required for normal and effective operation, to an electrical load as prescribed by subdivision (iv) of this subparagraph, or by such other means as may be deemed necessary.

(iii) Each emergency source of energy which is provided in order to comply with the power supply requirements of this section and which consists of or includes an engine-driven generator shall, with respect to such engine-driven generator, have sufficient reserve fuel available at all times while the ship is navigated in waters specified by section 381 of Part III of Title III and during Commission inspections to permit operation of the radiotelephone installation for at least 3 hours continuously under normal working conditions. If directed by the Commission or its authorized representative, the ship owner, operating company, or station licensee shall prove the adequacy of the fuel supply by demonstration or by such other means as may be deemed necessary. Proof of the adequacy of the engine fuel supply to operate the unit continuously and effectively over the 3-hour period of time may be established by using as a basis the fuel consumption during a continuous period of 1 hour when supplying power at the voltage required for normal and effective operation, to an electrical load as prescribed by subdivision (iv) of this subparagraph.

(iv) The electrical load to be supplied by a main or an emergency source of energy under the provisions of subdivision (ii) or (iii) of this subparagraph shall be computed as the sum of all loads to which it may supply energy in times of emergency or distress. The radiotelephone transmitting apparatus shall be regarded as having an intermittent power demand amounting in the aggregate to 1½ hours.

(v) At the conclusion of the test specified in subdivisions (ii) and (iii) of this paragraph, no part of the main or emergency sources of energy shall have an excessive temperature rise, nor shall the specific gravity or voltage of any storage battery be below the 90 percent discharge point as determined from information (such as voltage curves or specific gravity tables) supplied by the manufacturer of the type of battery involved.

(vi) Means shall be provided on board the vessel for adequately charging any storage batteries used as a main or emergency source of energy or any part thereof, for the required radiotelephone installation. There shall be provided a device which, during charging of the batteries, will give a continuous indication of the rate and polarity of such charging.

(vii) The cooling system of each internal combustion engine used as a part of any required emergency source of energy for the radiotelephone installation shall be adequately protected or treated to prevent freezing or overheating consistent with the season and route to be traveled by the particular vessel involved.

(viii) All required power-supply circuits shall be appropriately protected by means of suitable devices such as fuses or circuit-breakers from overloads or short circuits which could damage any component thereof.

(ix) Use of the emergency source of energy, when such emergency source is required by subdivision (i) of this subparagraph, shall be available within one minute after any need arises for its use.

(4) Radiating system. In each radiotelephone installation an antenna shall be provided in accordance with the applicable requirements of § 8.107 which is as nondirectional and as efficient as is practicable for the transmission and reception of radio ground waves over seawater. The installation and construction of this antenna shall be such as to insure, insofar as is practicable, proper operation in time of an emergency.

(5) Electric light. Unless the vessel is navigated during daylight hours only, a reliable electric light shall be provided and permanently arranged so as to illuminate satisfactorily the operating controls at the principal operating location. When the principal operating location is in the room from which the vessel is steered, the light shall be so arranged that its illumination is confined substantially to the vicinity of the operating controls so that it may be used at night without interfering with navigation of the vessel. The light shall be energized from the main source of energy, and, if an emergency source of energy for the radiotelephone installation is required, means shall be provided for energizing the light from such source of energy also.

(6) Loudspeaker. One or more loudspeakers capable of effective operation at all speech frequencies from 300 to 2500 cycles per second shall be provided so as to permit telephone reception at the principal operating location and at any other location where listening required by § 8.202 (d) is performed.

(7) Antenna radio frequency indicator. Transmitters installed after June 1, 1958, and all transmitters after June 1, 1960, regardless of installation date, shall be equipped with a device which will provide continuous visual indication that the transmitter is supplying radio frequency power to the antenna, either directly or through the medium of a transmission line.

(8) Protective devices. The radiotelephone installation shall be adequately protected by suitable devices, such as fuses or circuit breakers, from excessive currents and voltages which could cause damage to the components thereof.

(9) Nameplate. A durable nameplate shall be mounted on the radiotelephone transmitting and receiving equipment or shall be made an integral part thereof. When the transmitter and receiver comprise a single unit, one nameplate shall be sufficient. The nameplate shall show at least the following:

(i) The name of the manufacturer;

(ii) The type or model number.

§ 8.546 Sensitivity of receiving equipment. Any receiving equipment provided as part of the required radiotelephone installation shall be capable of a sensitivity on any required reception frequency of at least 50 microvolts in the case of medium frequency equipment and 1 microvolt in the case of very-high-frequency equipment. Sensitivity of the receiver is expressed as the radio frequency signal in microvolts modulated 30 percent at 400 cycles per second which must be delivered to the antenna terminals of the receiving apparatus through a suitable artificial antenna in order to produce an audio output of 50 milliwatts of power to the loudspeaker with a signal-to-noise ratio of at least 6 decibels. Evidence of a manufacturer's rating or a demonstration of the sensitivity of a required receiver computed upon this basis shall be furnished upon request of a Commission representative.

§ 8.547 Location of radiotelephone installation. (a) The requirements set out in this section apply only to vessels of more than 100 gross tons.

(b) The radiotelephone transmitter, receiver, and all controls necessary for their proper use and operation, shall be located in the upper part of the ship. For this purpose, the upper part of the ship shall be considered to include locations at wheel house level or those which are at least one deck above the vessel's main deck. If the principal operating location is not in the room from which the vessel is normally steered or not in a room adjacent to and opening directly into such room, an interior two-way voice communication system including an attention signalling system shall be provided between such room and the principal operating location. In the case of radiotelephone installations fitted on board a vessel after March 1, 1957, the principal operating location shall be in the room from which the vessel is normally steered.

§ 8.548 Control of radiotelephone installations. (a) The provisions of paragraph (b) of this section apply only to vessels of more than 100 gross tons. The provisions of paragraph (c) of this section apply to all vessels subject to Title III, Part III of the Communications Act, regardless of tonnage.

(b) If the radiotelephone installation is operated from any other position than the principal operating location, it shall always be possible to take control of the operation of the radiotelephone installation at the principal operating location as follows:

(1) Except as provided in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph, a method shall be provided for taking control at the principal operating location as herein prescribed which is direct, positive, and independent of action by any person who is not at the principal operating location.

(2) The use of an interior shipboard communication system between the principal operating location and all other locations at which there is a radiotelephone operating position shall be acceptable as a method for taking control at the principal operating location as herein prescribed on condition that the communication thereby is reliable, effective, immediately available at all times, and is usable independently of any other interior communication circuit: Provided, That in the case of radiotelephone installations first placed in service on or after March 1, 1957, the use of such a method for taking control at the principal operating location shall be acceptable only in the case of those radiotelephone operating positions located in the chart room or master's quarters.

(c) The radiotelephone installation shall be so designed that, when a qualified operator is present at the principal operating location, switching between required frequencies from such location may be performed within a period of five seconds and changeover from transmission to reception and vice versa may be accomplished within a total period of two seconds under circumstances which do not require a change in operating radio channel at the same time. The receiver shall be capable of accurate and convenient selection of the required frequencies without manual tuning, i. e., it shall be pre-set for reception on each of the required frequencies. This shall not preclude the use of a separate manually tunable receiver if provided for maintaining the required watch as a part of the required radiotelephone installation.

§ 8.549 Test of the radiotelephone installation. Unless the normal use of the radiotelephone installation required by Title III, Part III of the Communications Act demonstrates that the equipment is in proper operating condition for an emergency, a test communication for the purpose shall be made by a qualified operator each day the vessel is navigated. When this test is performed by some person other than the master and the equipment is found not to be in proper operating condition for an emergency, the master shall be notified promptly thereof.

PROPOSED RULE MAKING

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION

[47 CFR Part 3]

[Docket No. 11877; FCC 57-12]

TELEVISION BROADCAST STATION; VANCOUVER, WASH.

TABLE OF ASSIGNMENTS

In the matter of amendment of § 3.606 Table of assignments, Television Broadcast Station (Vancouver, Washington); Docket No. 11877.

1. Notice is hereby given that the Commission has received a conflicting petition in the above-entitled matter.

2. The Commission has before it for consideration the petition of Altru Broadcasting Company, Longview, Washington, filed December 5, 1956, requesting the institution of rule making so as to amend § 3.606 of the Commission's rules and regulations to assign Channel 2 to Longview, Washington, in lieu of Channel 33.

3. On November 29, 1956, the Commission issued a Notice of Proposed Rule Making (FCC 56-1184) proposing to assign Channel 2 to Vancouver, Washington, in response to a petition filed by KVAN, Inc. Since Vancouver and Longview are only 35 miles apart, the two proposals are conflicting and we believe we should consider them at the same time. Since the time for filing comments in the outstanding proceeding has run, it is believed that a Notice of Further Proposed Rule Making would be appropriate.

4. Any interested party who is of the view that the proposal by petitioner should not be adopted, or should not be adopted in the form set forth herein, may file with the Commission on or before February 1, 1957, a written statement setting forth his comments. Comments supporting the proposed amendments may also be filed on or before the same date. Comments in reply to original comments may be filed within 10 days from the last date for filing said original comments. No additional comments may be filed unless (1) specifically requested by the Commission or (2) good cause for the filing of such additional comments is established.

5. In accordance with the provisions of § 1.764 of the rules, an original and 14 copies of all written comments should be furnished the Commission.

Adopted: January 3, 1957.

Released: January 4, 1957.

[Docket No. 11896; FCC 57-11]

RADIO BROADCAST SERVICES

PROTECTION BEYOND NORMALLY PROTECTED CONTOURS OF STANDARD BROADCAST STATIONS

In the matter of amendment of § 3.182 (c) and (v), protection beyond normally protected contours of Standard Broadcast Stations; Docket No. 11896.

1. Notice is hereby given of rule making in the above-entitled matter.

2. Section 3.182 of the Commission's rules governing standard broadcast stations provides, in pertinent part, that when it is shown that primary service is rendered by any station beyond its normally protected contour, and primary service to approximately 90 percent of the population served with an adequate signal in the area between the normally protected contour and the contour to which the station actually serves is not supplied by any other station or stations carrying the same general program service, the contour to which protection may be afforded will be determined from the individual merits of the particular case under consideration. The Commission has reviewed the above rules which afford greater protection from interference to stations providing "unique program service" and has concluded that they serve no useful purpose. These provisions are too vague and indefinite to be of any assistance in the filing and processing of applications for broadcast facilities and give rise to much uncertainty as to the protection to be afforded to and by broadcast stations. They provide no criteria for judging what constitutes the "same general program service" under the rule. Under these circumstances the Commission believes the public interest would be served by their deletion.

3. In light of the above it is proposed to delete the present text of § 3.182 (c) and to substitute the word "Reserved" and to delete the first sentence of Footnote 1 to the Table contained in § 3.182 (v).

4. Any interested party who is of the view that the proposed amendments should not be adopted, or should not be adopted in the form set forth herein, may file with the Commission on or before February 1, 1957, a written statement setting forth his comments. Comments supporting the proposed amendment may also be filed on or before the same date. Comments in reply to original comments may be filed within 10 days from the last date for filing said original comments. No additional comments may be filed unless (1) specifically requested by the Commission or (2) good cause for filing of such additional comments is established.

5. Authority for the adoption of the proposed amendments is contained in sections 4 (i), 303 (b), (c), (d), (f), (g), (h) and (r), and 307 (b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

6. In accordance with the provisions of § 1.764 of the rules an original and 14 copies of all comments shall be furnished to the Commission.

Adopted: January 3, 1957.

Released: January 4, 1957.

[SEAL] MARY JANE MORRIS,
Secretary.

[Docket No. 11897; FCC 57-13]

TELEVISION BROADCAST STATIONS; CHATTANOOGA, TENN.-ROME, GA.

TABLE OF ASSIGNMENTS

In the matter of amendment of § 3.606 Table of assignments, Television Broadcast Stations (Chattanooga, Tenn.-Rome, Ga.); Docket No. 11897.

1. Notice is hereby given of rule making in the above-entitled matter.

2. The Commission has under consideration the amendment of the television Table of Assignments, contained in § 3.606 of the Commission's rules and regulations, to shift Channel 9 from Rome, Georgia, to Chattanooga, Tennessee, as follows:

City	Channel No.
	Present	Proposed
Chattanooga, Tenn....	3+, 12—, 43+, 49+, *55, 9, 59	3+, 9, 12—, 43, 49+, *55, 59
Rome, Ga.....

3. We are of the view that the proposed amendment would serve the public interest by making more effective use of the spectrum; that it would permit the extension of additional television service to a more extensive area and population, and that the proposed channel change would conform to the Commission's rules. The utilization of Channel 9 at Chattanooga will not deprive Rome of television service since that area receives a multiplicity of services from stations in Atlanta, Chattanooga and Birmingham, and it would insure the continuation of Channel 9 service in the Rome area and provide a greatly needed third local service in the larger community of Chattanooga.

4. Any interested party who is of the view that the proposed amendment should not be adopted, or should not be adopted in the form set forth herein, may file with the Commission on or before February 1, 1957, a written statement setting forth his comments. Comments supporting the proposed amendment may also be filed on or before the same date. Comments in reply to original comments may be filed within 10 days from the last date for reply to original comments. No additional comments may be filed unless (1) specifically requested by the Commission or (2) good cause for the filing of such additional comments is established.

5. Authority for the adoption of the amendment proposed herein is contained in sections 4 (i), 301, 303 (c), (d), (f), (r), 307 (b) and 316 (a) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

6. WROM-TV, Incorporated, is presently authorized to operate on Channel 9 at Rome, and the rule making proposed herein would shift this frequency to Chattanooga. In the event the Commission decides to amend the rules as proposed, the Commission will determine what further steps should be taken in light of this outstanding authorization.

7. In accordance with the provisions of § 1.764 of the rules, an original and 14 copies of all written comments and statements shall be furnished the Commission.

Adopted: January 3, 1957.

Released: January 4, 1957.

[Docket No. 11898; FCC 57-22]

PUBLIC SAFETY RADIO SERVICES

LICENSING OF MEDICAL SCHOOLS IN SPECIAL EMERGENCY RADIO SERVICE UNDER CERTAIN CONDITIONS

In the matter of amendment of Part 10, § 10.453, of the Commission's rules governing the Public Safety Radio Services so as to allow medical schools to be licensed in the Special Emergency Radio Service under certain conditions; Docket No. 11898.

1. Notice is hereby given of Proposed Rule Making in the above-entitled matter.

2. The present wording of § 10.453 of the Commission's rules restricts the licensing of physicians and veterinarians in the Special Emergency Radio Service to individual physicians and veterinarians and makes no provision for the licensing of schools of medicine, including schools of veterinary medicine.

3. The Commission has received several applications for licenses in the Special Emergency Radio Service from schools of veterinary medicine which have regular practices in rural areas. These schools allege that they carry on their rural practices for teaching purposes utilizing licensed veterinarians who are employees of the school. These applicants have pointed out that the Commission's present rules are such as to allow licensed veterinarians in the employ of the schools to obtain licenses in the Special Emergency Radio Service when assigned to conduct such rural practices. It has been further pointed out that this procedure, while allowing the schools to obtain the desired radio communications, is frequently unsatisfactory since there may be changes in personnel assigned to the rural practices. In such event, licenses must be obtained by the newly assigned veterinarians.

4. Therefore, the Commission proposes to amend § 10.453 of its rules governing the Public Safety Radio Services so as to provide that the term "physician or veterinarian", as used therein, encompasses schools of medicine, including schools of veterinary medicine.

5. The proposed amendment, authority for which is contained in sections 4 (i) and 303 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, is set forth below.

6. Any interested party who is of the opinion that the proposed amendment should not be adopted, or should not be adopted in the form set forth herein, may file with the Commission on or before February 4, 1957, a written statement or brief setting forth his comments. Comments in support of the proposed amendment may also be filed on or before the same date. Comments or briefs in reply to original comments may be filed within ten days from the last day for filing original comments or briefs. No additional comments may be filed unless (1) specifically requested by the Commission, or (2) good cause for the filing of such additional comments is established. The Commission will consider all such comments that are submitted before taking action in these matters and, if any comments appear to warrant the holding of a hearing or oral argument, a notice of the time and place of such hearing or oral argument will be given.

7. In accordance with the provisions of § 1.764 of the Commission's rules and regulations, an original and fourteen copies of all statements, briefs, or comments shall be furnished the Commission.

Adopted: January 3, 1957.

Released: January 4, 1957.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION,
[SEAL] MARY JANE MORRIS,
Secretary.

Section 10.453 (a) is proposed to be amended by adding a new subparagraph to read as follows:

(3) As used in this part, the term "physician or veterinarian" shall be construed to mean individual physicians or veterinarians and schools of medicine, including schools of veterinary medicine.

ALASKA

NOTICE OF PROPOSED WITHDRAWAL AND RESERVATION OF LANDS

JANUARY 2, 1957.

The Department of Air Force has filed an application, Serial No. Fairbanks 013666, for the withdrawal of the lands described below, from all forms of appropriation under the public land laws including the mining and mineral leasing laws. The applicant desires the land for "Nike" air defense site.

For a period of 60 days from the date of publication of this notice, persons having cause may present their objections in writing to the undersigned official of the Bureau of Land Management, Department of the Interior, Box 480, Anchorage, Alaska.

If circumstances warrant it, a public hearing will be held at a convenient time and place, which will be announced.

The determination of the Secretary on the application will be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER. A separate notice will be sent to each interested party of record.

The lands involved in the application are:

FAIRBANKS MERIDIAN

T. 1 S., R. 1 E.,
Sec. 34, W½W½NW¼;
Sec. 33, N½.
Containing 360 acres.

Office of the Secretary

OKLAHOMA

DESIGNATION OF AREA FOR PRODUCTION EMERGENCY LOANS

For the purpose of making production emergency loans pursuant to section 2 (a) of Public Law 38, 81st Congress (12 U. S. C. 1148a-2 (a)), as amended, it has been determined that in all counties in Oklahoma except those 14 counties in which the special credit program for the Great Plains area was authorized on September 15, 1955, a production disaster has caused a need for agricultural credit not readily available from commercial banks, cooperative lending agencies, or other responsible sources.

Pursuant to the authority set forth above, production emergency loans will not be made in the counties referred to above after December 31, 1957, except to applicants who previously received such assistance and who can qualify under established policies and procedures.

Done at Washington, D. C., this 4th day of January 1957.

OCEANIC STEAMSHIP CO.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION

Notice is hereby given of the application of The Oceanic Steamship Company for written permission of the Maritime Administration under section 805 (a) of the Merchant Marine Act, 1936, as amended, 46 U. S. C. 1223, to permit its parent organization, the Matson Navigation Company, to operate the "SS Lurline" on one round voyage carrying passengers and their automobiles from San Francisco and Los Angeles to Acapulco, said voyage to commence on or about December 22, 1957. Passengers will be given the option of disembarking with their automobiles at a California port other than that port at which they embarked for this voyage.

Any person, firm or corporation having any interest in such application and desiring a hearing on issues pertinent to section 805 (a) should, within fifteen (15) days from the date of publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER, notify the Secretary, Maritime Administration, and file petition for leave to intervene in accordance with the rules of practice and procedure.

If no request for hearing and petition for leave to intervene is received within the specified time, the application will be processed without a hearing.

Dated: January 3, 1957.

NOTICE OF HEARING

In the matter of the investigation of requests of the Railway Express Agency, Inc., to act as an international air freight forwarder and to handle air freight as an agent of certain direct air carriers.

Notice is hereby given, pursuant to the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended, that public hearing in the above-entitled proceeding is assigned to be held on January 29, 1957, at 10:00 a. m., e. s. t., in room E-224, Temporary Building No. 5, 16th Street and Constitution Avenue, NW., Washington, D. C., before Examiner Edward T. Stodola.

The above-entitled matter has been ordered for public hearing by Civil Aeronautics Board Order No. E-10401, adopted on June 22, 1956. For further information regarding the scope of this proceeding, interested parties are referred to said Order No. E-10401 and to the report of prehearing conference in this matter, served on November 2, 1956, each of which documents is on file with the Docket Section, Civil Aeronautics Board, Washington, D. C.

Notice is further given that any person not a party of record desiring to be heard in this proceeding must file with the Board, on or before January 29, 1957, a statement setting forth the matters of fact or law that he desires to advance.

Dated at Washington, D. C., January 3, 1957.

[SEAL] FRANCIS W. BROWN, Hearing Examiner.

[Docket No. 50-45]

DAYSTROM NUCLEAR DIVISION OF DAYSTROM, INC.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR UTILIZATION FACILITY LICENSE

Please take notice that on December 11, 1956, Daystrom Nuclear Division of Daystrom, Inc., Elizabeth, New Jersey, filed an application under section 104 of the Atomic Energy Act of 1954 for a license to construct and operate a nuclear reactor in the vicinity of Princeton, New Jersey. The application states that the facility for which a license is requested is described in Report ANL-5552, Argonne National Laboratory, entitled "A Generalized Reactor Facility for Nuclear Technology Training and Research By D. H. Lennox and B. I. Spinard, March, 1956".

A copy of the application is available for public inspection in the AEC Public Document Room located at 1717 H Street NW., Washington, D. C.

Dated at Washington, D. C. this 20th day of December 1956.

For the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission.

[Docket No. F-1]

ARMOUR RESEARCH FOUNDATION OF ILLINOIS INSTITUTE OF TECHNOLOGY

NOTICE OF ISSUANCE OF AMENDMENT NO. 1 TO LICENSE R-3 TO OPERATE UTILIZATION FACILITY

On November 15, 1956, Armour Research Foundation of Illinois Institute of Technology, Chicago, Illinois, filed application for amendment to its License R-3 dated June 12, 1956, to operate its research reactor, (1) to increase the amount of special nuclear material Armour is authorized to receive under the license and (2) to alter the gas flow system to eliminate the stoichiometric volume of hydrogen and oxygen in the entrainment eliminator.

The increase in fuel is required because criticality tests have indicated that a larger critical mass was required for operation at 10 kilowatts than originally estimated. The alterations to the gas flow system consist of:

1. Moving the gas inlet line from the top of the overflow chamber to the bottom of this chamber, and

2. Installing a cooling manifold around the overflow chamber and cooling coils just above the entrainment eliminator and around the inner sleeve.

For further details see the application for license amendment at the Commission's Public Document Room, 1717 "H" Street, NW., Washington, D. C.

It has been determined that the alterations described do not constitute a material alteration to the facility and a construction permit will not be required under § 50.91 of 10 CFR 50. It has further been determined that the changes will contribute to greater safety of operation and no changes in operating restrictions are necessary.

Therefore, on December 7, 1956, amendment No. 1 to License R-3 was issued as follows:

1. Paragraph 1.b (1) as it now appears is amended to read:

(1) 1500 grams of contained uranium 235 in uranyl sulfate solution as fuel for operation of the facility.

2. Paragraph 2 as it now appears is amended to read:

2. This license applies to the nuclear reactor which is owned by the Foundation and located at Chicago, Illinois, and described in the Foundation's application dated January 7, 1955, as amended November 12, 1956.

The AEC will direct the holding of a formal hearing if a request therefor is filed within thirty days in accordance with § 2.102 (a) of the Commission's rules of practice (10 CFR 2).

Dated at Washington, D. C. this 17th day of December, 1956.

Date of issuance: December 7, 1956.

For the Atomic Energy Commission.

Director,
Division of Civilian Application.

POLK RADIO, INC., ET AL.

MEMORANDUM OPINION AND ORDER AMENDING ISSUES

In re application of Polk Radio, Incorporated, Lakeland, Florida, Docket No. 11685, File No. BP-10136; Duane F. McConnell, Winter Haven, Florida, Docket No. 11686, File No. BP-10400; E. D. Covington, Jr., Winter Garden, Florida, Docket No. 11813, File No. BP-10571; for construction permits.

1. The Commission has under consideration: (1) a petition to enlarge the issues in the above-entitled proceeding, filed by Polk Radio, Incorporated (Polk), on September 25, 1956; (2) an opposition thereto filed jointly by Duane F. McConnell (McConnell) and E. D. Covington, Jr. (Covington), on October 4, 1956; (3) an opposition filed by the Commission's Broadcast Bureau on October 10, 1956; and (4) a reply to oppositions filed by Polk on October 15, 1956.

2. This proceeding involves (a) the application of Polk Radio, Incorporated, Lakeland, Florida, requesting a construction permit to operate on 1330 kilocycles with a power of 1 kilowatt, daytime only; (b) the application of Duane F. McConnell, Winter Haven, Florida, requesting a construction permit to operate on 1320 kilocycles with a power of 500 watts, daytime only; and (c) the application of E. D. Covington, Jr., Winter Garden, Florida, requesting a construction permit to operate on 1330 kilocycles with a power of 500 watts, daytime only. McConnell and Covington are individual applicants herein and, together with Robert S. Taylor, are equal partners in the Coastal Broadcasting Company (Coastal), licensee of Station WONN, Lakeland, Florida (1230 kilocycles, 250 watts, unlimited time).

3. On October 4, 1955, Coastal filed an application for standard broadcast facilities at Winter Haven, Florida, requesting a construction permit to operate on 1320 kilocycles, 500 watts, daytime only. The petitioner, Polk, filed its application for facilities at Lakeland, Florida, on October 5, 1955. Thereafter, on February 24, 1956, Coastal requested dismissal of its application without prejudice. This was granted on February 28, 1956. Also on February 24, 1956, McConnell filed his application for a construction permit to establish a standard broadcast station in Winter Haven, Florida. This application requested the same frequency, power, and hours of operation as that formerly sought by Coastal. On May 11, 1956, Covington filed an application for a construction permit to establish a standard broadcast station in Winter Garden, Florida.

4. The operations which McConnell and Covington propose would not cause interference to each other, but they are mutually exclusive with the operation proposed by Polk. Because of this problem of interference, the McConnell, Polk, and Covington applications have been designated for a consolidated hearing.

5. In the pleading here considered, Polk alleges that the McConnell and Covington applications were filed for the purpose of blocking, or impeding, a grant of the Polk application; thereby seeking to prevent additional competition to Station WONN. Polk's petition is supported by an affidavit wherein Mr. W. H. Martin (Martin), President of Polk Radio, Incorporated, alleges, among other things, that about September 22, 1955, McConnell told him that WONN was interested in keeping further competition out of Lakeland; that McConnell had attempted to have Martin file an application which would block the application which a Mr. Brannen had filed for facilities at Lakeland; that, in this connection, McConnell offered to "engineer" Martin's application without cost to Martin; and that McConnell and Martin did do some work on such an application but that Martin finally abandoned this effort, and did not file such an application.

6. In light of the allegations made, the Commission is of the opinion that, in this instance, the petitioner has made a reasonable showing which justifies enlargement of the issues as requested, and that, in order to obtain all pertinent evidence, the added issue should pertain to the filing of both the McConnell and Covington applications.

Accordingly, it is ordered, That the above-entitled petition of Polk Radio, Incorporated, to enlarge the issues is granted with respect to the filing of the application herein of E. D. Covington, Jr., and that the Commission, on its own motion, similarly enlarges the issues herein with respect to the filing of the application of Duane F. McConnell; and

It is further ordered, That, in view of the above action and the action taken by the Commission on this date upon another petition enlarging issues in this proceeding, the issues in the above-entitled proceeding are amended to read as follows:

1. To determine the areas and populations which would receive primary service from each of the proposed operations, and the availability of other primary service to such areas and populations.

2. To determine whether a grant of the applications of Duane F. McConnell and/or of E. D. Covington, Jr., might result in undue concentration of control of broadcast facilities in contravention of the provisions of § 3.35 of the Commission's rules in view of the offices which each holds, and the ownership interest which each has in Coastal Broadcasting Company, licensee of Radio Station WONN in Lakeland, Florida.

3. To determine whether the respective applications of Duane F. McConnell and E. D. Covington, Jr., were filed in good faith or whether they were filed for the purpose of impeding, obstructing or delaying a grant of the application of Polk Radio, Incorporated.

4. To determine in the light of Section 307 (b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, which of the operations proposed in the above-mentioned applications would best provide a fair, efficient and equitable distribution of radio service.

5. To determine, in the light of the evidence adduced pursuant to the foregoing issues, which, if any, of the applications should be granted.

Adopted: January 2, 1957.

Released: January 4, 1957.

[Docket No. 11685 etc., FCC 57-3]

POLK RADIO, INC., ET AL.

1. The Commission has before it for consideration a petition to enlarge issues filed May 18, 1956, by Polk Radio, Inc., Lakeland, Florida, opposition to subject petition filed May 28, 1956, by Duane F. McConnell, Winter Haven, Florida; and a reply to the opposition thereto filed June 5, 1956, by Polk Radio, Inc.

2. Polk Radio, Inc., requests the Commission to enlarge the issues to include the following:

4. To determine whether the respective 2 mv/m contours of the proposed operation of Duane F. McConnell at Winter Haven, Florida, and of Radio Station WONN in Lakeland, Florida, in which Duane F. McConnell holds a one-third interest and the office of Secretary-Treasurer, will overlap.

5. To determine whether a grant to Duane F. McConnell, one-third owner and Secretary-Treasurer of Coastal Broadcasting Company, licensee of Radio Station WONN in Lakeland, Florida, as well as its Business Manager and Chief Engineer, might result in undue concentration of control of broadcast facilities or violate the multiple ownership rule.

3. In support of its petition, Polk Radio alleges that Duane F. McConnell is a one-third owner as well as the Secretary-Treasurer, Business Manager, and Chief Engineer of Station WONN, Lakeland, Florida; that there would be an overlap of the 0.5 mv/m contours of Station WONN and the proposed Winter Haven station; that the overlap would constitute an area of 170 square miles; that 7795 persons, or approximately 17 percent of the population within the Winter Haven's proposed 0.5 mv/m contour, would receive duplicate coverage from these two stations; and that approximately one-third of the area lying within Winter Haven's proposed 0.5 mv/m contour already receives service from Station WONN at Lakeland. It further contends that, although it is not shown that there would be an overlap of the 2 mv/m contour of Station WONN with that contour of the proposed Winter Haven station, measurements, which Station WONN had previously taken in connection with its application to improve its broadcast facility, show that the conductivity in the northerly direction from Lakeland to be higher than that indicated on the Commission's ground conductivity map, i. e., 3 to 4 instead of 2 mmhos/meters; and that, from these facts, it is reasonable to assume that the 2 mv/m contours of Stations WONN at Lakeland, and Duane F. McConnell's proposed station at Winter Haven may, in fact, overlap if correct measurements were taken.

4. Duane F. McConnell opposes the petition on the grounds that the petition is not supported by an engineering affidavit; that a showing has not been made that probative evidence can be adduced on the matters alleged; that the request for the technical issue concerning the possible overlap of the 2 mv/m contours of Station WONN and McConnell's proposed station is not supported in any way by the petition; and that, based upon conductivity values shown on the Commission conductivity map, there would be no overlap of the 2 mv/m contours.

5. With respect to requested Issue 5 above relating to a question of concentration of control of broadcast facilities and violation of the multiple ownership rule, Duane McConnell contends that this issue is necessarily based upon the question of an overlap of the 2 mv/m contours of the proposed station and Station WONN; that the Commission has held in a long line of cases that overlap of the 0.5 mv/m contours is not disabling especially where, as here, there is no overlap of the 2 mv/m contours; and that, since it is clear that there is no overlap of the 2 mv/m contours and that, in consequence thereof, neither Station WONN nor the proposed station at Winter Haven will serve the other's community, the question of multiple ownership or the concentration of control of broadcast facilities becomes meaningless. McConnell also contends that, although he has a one-third ownership of Station WONN, the Winter Haven operation will be separate and distinct from Station WONN, with no program duplication; and that a study of the proposed programming schedule reveals that there is no similarity whatsoever between that of the proposed stations and that of Station WONN.

6. In reply, Polk Radio contends that it is the Commission's policy to use actual data as revealed by field intensity measurements wherever possible in preference to the figures set out on the ground conductivity map; that a study of such measurements on file with the Commission and actually taken by the licensee of Station WONN in connection with another application reveals a different and higher conductivity than that set out on the Commission's ground conductivity map; and that it is therefore probable that, if measurements were taken from Lakeland in the direction of the proposed Winter Haven site and from Winter Haven toward the WONN site at Lakeland, such measurements would likewise reveal a higher conductivity and show that there would be an overlap of the 2 mv/m contours of WONN and the proposed operation. Polk asserts that, where a question of possible overlap arises, it is the policy of the Commission to place this issue in question and to impose the burden of taking measurements upon the applicants.

7. Since McConnell is a one-third partner and an officer of Station WONN the Commission is requested by Polk Radio to enlarge the issues which would permit an inquiry into the possible overlap of the 2 mv/m contours of McConnell's proposed station and Station WONN and as to whether a grant of McConnell's application might result in undue concentration of control of broadcast facilities. In addition, it is to be noted that the third applicant in this proceeding, E. D. Covington, Jr., is also a one-third owner and an officer of Station WONN and an applicant for a standard broadcast station in Winter Garden, Florida, 40 miles northeast of Lakeland; and that the Winter Garden proposal is mutually exclusive, because of co-channel interference, with Polk Radio's proposal in Lakeland but not with McConnell's at Winter Haven (39 miles south of Winter Garden) which is an adjacent channel proposal. Thus in view of the joint ownership interest of E. D. Covington, Jr. and Duane F. McConnell in Station WONN, the overlap of the 0.5 mv/m contours of Station WONN and McConnell's proposed station, and the relative locations of McConnell's and Covington's proposed operations to Lakeland, the Commission is of the opinion that Polk Radio's petition requesting enlargement of issues should be granted insofar as it requests an issue to inquire into the question of concentration of control of broadcast facilities by Duane F. McConnell, in contravention of Section 3.35 of the Rules. The Commission is also of the opinion that on its own motion the issues should be enlarged to permit an inquiry into the same question with respect to the application of E. D. Covington, Jr.

8. The Commission is urged by Polk Radio that the locations of the 2 mv/m contours of WONN and the proposed operation of McConnell should be established by measurements and that the burden of taking the measurements should be placed upon McConnell. In this connection, it may be pointed out that an overlap of the 2 mv/m contours would not, per se, preclude a grant of McConnell's application as implied by Polk Radio and would not necessarily constitute a contravention of § 3.35 [1] of the Commission's rules. The Commission is of the opinion that no sufficient or valid reasons have been advanced by Polk Radio which would justify the Commission requiring McConnell to make and submit measurements to show the extent, if any, of the overlap of the 2 mv/m contours. Under the circumstances such as here, the Commission has not heretofore required such measurements. However, under the issues as herein enlarged, a showing with respect to all pertinent contours may be made, and should Polk Radio desire to make and submit its own measurements to show something different than McConnell's, it will not be precluded from doing so.

In view of the foregoing: It is ordered, That the issues in this proceeding are enlarged to include the following:

To determine whether a grant of the applications of Duane F. McConnell and/or of E. D. Covington, Jr. might result in undue concentration of control of broadcast facilities in contravention of the provisions of § 3.35 of the Commission's rules in view of the offices which each holds, and the ownership interest which each has in Coastal Broadcasting Company, licensee of Radio Station WONN in Lakeland, Florida.[2]

[F. R. Doc. 57-151; Filed, Jan. 8, 1957; 8:51 a. m.]

[1] Section 3.35 reads as follows:

Multiple ownership. No license for a standard broadcast station shall be granted to any party (including all parties under common control) if: (a) Such party directly or indirectly owns, operates or controls another standard broadcast station, a substantial portion of whose primary service area would receive primary service from the station in question, except upon a showing that public interest, convenience and necessity will be served through such multiple ownership situation; or (b) such party, or any stockholder, officer or director of such party, directly or indirectly owns, operates, controls or has any interest in, or is an officer or director of any other standard broadcast station if the grant of such license would result in a concentration of control of standard broadcasting in a manner inconsistent with public interest, convenience, or necessity. In determining whether there is such a concentration of control, consideration will be given to the facts of each case with particular reference to such factors as the size, extent and location of areas served, the number of people served, classes of stations involved and the extent of other competitive service to the areas in question. The Commission, however, will in any event consider that there would be such a concentration of control contrary to the public interest, convenience or necessity for any party or any of its stockholders, officers or directors to have a direct or indirect interest in, or be stockholders, officers, or directors of, more than seven standard broadcast stations.

FEDERAL POWER COMMISSION

[Docket No. G–9196]

NORTHERN NATURAL GAS CO.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION AND DATE OF HEARING

JANUARY 3, 1957.

Take notice that Northern Natural Gas Company (Applicant), a Delaware corporation having its principal place of business at 2223 Dodge Street, Omaha, Nebraska, filed on August 4, 1955 an application for a certificate of public convenience and necessity pursuant to section 7 of the Natural Gas Act authorizing Applicant to construct and operate certain measuring and regulating facilities, as hereinafter described, subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission, in order to provide interruptible service to the Great Lakes Pipeline Company near Fairbault, Minnesota, all as more fully represented in the application, which is on file with the Commission and open for public inspection.

Applicant proposes to construct and operate measuring and regulating facilities at a point on its 26-inch main transmission Line B near Fairbault, Minnesota. These facilities are proposed to be used to deliver natural gas on an interruptible basis to the Great Lakes Pipeline Company (Great Lakes) for use as engine fuel at its pumping station.

The proposed facilities are estimated to cost $8,900, to be financed out of funds on hand.

The maximum daily demand of the pumping station is 350 Mcf and the estimated annual requirements are approximately 80,000 Mcf.

Take further notice that, pursuant to the authority contained in and subject to the jurisdiction conferred upon the Federal Power Commission by sections 7 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act, and the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, a hearing will be held on Monday, February 4, 1957 at 9:30 a. m., e. s. t., in a Hearing Room of the Federal Power Commission, 441 G Street NW., Washington, D. C., concerning the matters involved in and the issues presented by such application: Provided, however, That the Commission may, after a non-contested hearing, dispose of the proceedings pursuant to the provisions of § 1.30 (c) (1) or (2) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure. Under the procedure herein provided for, unless otherwise advised, it will be unnecessary for Applicant to appear or be represented at the hearing.

Protests or petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington 25, D. C., in accordance with the rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) on or before January 22, 1957. Failure of any party to appear at and participate in the hearing shall be construed as waiver of and concurrence in omission herein of the intermediate decision procedure in cases where a request therefor is made.

SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION

[File No. 70–3548]

OHIO EDISON CO.

NOTICE OF PROPOSED ISSUANCE AND SALE OF COMMON STOCK, PURSUANT TO RIGHTS OFFERING

JANUARY 3, 1957.

Notice is hereby given that Ohio Edison Company ("Company"), a registered holding company and a public utility company, has filed with this Commission a declaration pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("act"), designating sections 6 (a), 7, 12 (c) and 12 (d) thereof and Rules U–42 and U–50 thereunder as applicable to the proposed transaction, which is summarized as follows:

The Company proposes to issue and sell 580,613 shares of its authorized but unissued common stock and to offer such shares to its common stockholders of record at the close of business on January 31, 1957, such offer to give to each common stockholder of record, until February 15, 1957, the right to subscribe for shares of the additional common stock on the basis of one share for each ten shares of common stock held ("Right") and the privilege to subscribe, subject to allotment, at the same subscription price for shares of the additional common stock not subscribed for pursuant to the Rights referred to above ("Additional Subscription Privilege"). Rights and Additional Subscription Privileges will be evidenced by a single form of transferable registered Warrant. No fractional shares will be issued. Through its subscription agents the Company will provide facilities for the purchase of such Rights (not exceeding 9 in any one case) as may be necessary for a subscription to one full share of common stock, or the sale of Rights (not exceeding 9 in any one case) in excess of those necessary for the purchase of full shares.

The Company proposes on or about January 24, 1957 publicly to invite bids from prospective underwriters for the underwriting of said offering, such underwriters to name the amount of compensation, if any, to be paid by the Company to them for their services and agreement to purchase, at the subscription price, any shares not subscribed for as a result of the offering to the stockholders and also the shares, if any, purchased by the Company in connection with its stabilizing activities referred to below. It is proposed that the bids will be submitted on or about January 30, 1957.

The price per share at which the Company proposes to offer the additional common stock to its common stockholders and the unsubscribed stock to the underwriters will be determined by the Company. Prospective underwriters will be notified of the price per share as so determined by the Company at least 42 hours prior to the time for the submission of bids. Such price will be not more than the last reported sale price on the New York Stock Exchange and not less than such last reported sale price less 15 percent.

The Company proposes, if it considers the same necessary or desirable, to effect transactions to stabilize or maintain the price of its common stock for the purpose of facilitating the offering and distribution of the additional common stock. In connection therewith the Company may, during the period commencing with the second full business day prior to the time for submission of bids and continuing until the acceptance of a bid, purchase not in excess of 58,061 shares of its common stock through regular brokerage channels.

The Company will use the net proceeds from its proposed sale of common stock, together with cash on hand and to be derived from operations, for its 1957 construction program (estimated at $54,944,000) and for an additional investment of $2,100,000 in the common stock of its subsidiary, Pennsylvania Power Company.

It is stated that The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio has jurisdiction over the proposed transaction, and that a copy of the order of that commission will be filed by amendment.

A statement of the fees and expenses to be incurred herein will also be filed by amendment.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than January 18, 1957, at 5:30 p. m., request the Commission in writing that a hearing be held on such matter, stating the nature of his interest, the reasons for such request, and the issues of fact or law, if any, raised by said declaration which he desires to controvert; or he may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. Any such request should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington 25, D. C. At any time after said date, said declaration, as filed or as amended, may be permitted to become effective as provided by Rule U–23 of the rules and regulations promulgated under the Act, or the Commission may grant exemption from its rules as provided in Rules U–20 (a) and U–100, or take such other action as it may deem appropriate.

By the Commission.

GREAT SWEET GRASS OILS, LTD.

ORDER SUMMARILY SUSPENDING TRADING

JANUARY 3, 1957.

In the matter of trading on the American Stock Exchange in the $1.00 par value Capital Stock of Great Sweet Grass Oils Limited, File No. 1–3827.

I. The $1.00 par value Capital Stock of Great Sweet Grass Oils Limited (hereinafter called "registrant") is listed and registered on the American Stock Exchange, a national securities exchange (hereinafter called "the exchange").

II. The Commission on October 19, 1956, issued its order and notice of hearing under section 19 (a) (2) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (hereinafter called "the act"), and on October 24, 1956, issued its amended order and notice of hearing under the act to determine at a hearing to be held November 13, 1956, whether it is necessary or appropriate for the protection of investors to suspend for a period not exceeding twelve months, or to withdraw, the registration of the Capital Stock of registrant on the exchange for failure to comply with section 13 of the act and the rules and regulations thereunder, in that the Commission had reason to believe that the reports filed by registrant on Form 8–K and Form 10–K were false and misleading in certain respects set forth in said orders. On October 31, 1956, the Commission issued its second amended order and notice of hearing under section 19 (a) (2) of the act restating the allegations in the original and amended orders and including allegations that the Commission had reason to believe that the registrant's current report on Form 8–K for the month of December 1955, and amendments thereto, and that registrant's annual report on Form 10–K for its fiscal year ended December 31, 1955, and amendments thereto, were false and misleading in additional respects set forth in said order. On November 16, 1956, the Commission issued its third amended order and notice of hearing under section 19 (a) (2) of the act restating the allegations in the original and amended orders and including allegations that the Commission had reason to believe that the registrant's current report on Form 8–K for the month of August 1955, was false and misleading in certain respects set forth in said order, and that the Form 8–K report for the month of December 1955, and the Form 10–K report for the fisal year ended December 31, 1955, were false and misleading in additional respects set forth in said order. On December 21, 1956, the Commission issued its order summarily suspending trading pursuant to section 19 (a) (4) of the act in said securities on the exchange for the reasons set forth in said order to prevent fraudulent, deceptive and manipulative acts or practices from December 25, 1956 to January 3, 1957, inclusive.

III. On November 7, 1956, counsel representing registrant requested a postponement of the hearing under section 19 (a) (2) of the act in order to enable him to prepare for the hearing. Pursuant to this request, the Commission on November 7, 1956, issued its order postponing the date of said hearing to November 26, 1956. Said hearing has commenced but has not yet been concluded by Commission order or decision.

IV. The Commission has reason to believe that the false reports filed by registrant as alleged in the orders and notices of hearing referred to in paragraph II and the relationship between registrant and Kroy Oils Limited, also subject to an order issued concurrently herewith under section 19 (a) (4) of the act, and also subject to an order and notice of hearing under section 19 (a) (2) of the act, which hearing has been consolidated with the hearing referred to in paragraph III, are such as to cause widespread confusion and uncertainty in the market for registrant's shares. Under the circumstances recited in this order, the Commission is of the opinion that it would be impossible for the investing public to reach an informed judgment at this time as to the value of registrant's securities or for trading in such securities to be conducted in an orderly and equitable manner.

V. The Commission being of the opinion that the public interest requires the summary suspension of trading in such security on the exchange and that such action is necessary and appropriate for the protection of investors; and

The Commission being of the opinion that such suspension is necessary in order to prevent fraudulent, deceptive, or manipulative acts or practices, with the result that it will be unlawful under section 15 (c) (2) of the act and the Commission's Rule X-15C2–2 thereunder for any broker or dealer to make use of the mails or of any means or instrumentality of interstate commerce to effect any transaction in, or to induce or attempt to induce the purchase or sale of, such security otherwise than on a national securities exchange.

It is ordered, Pursuant to section 19 (a) (4) of the act that trading in said securities on the American Stock Exchange be summarily suspended in order to prevent fraudulent, deceptive, or manipulative acts or practices for a period of ten days from January 4, 1957, to January 13, 1957, inclusive.

By the Commission.

KROY OILS, LTD.

ORDER SUMMARILY SUSPENDING TRADING

JANUARY 3, 1957.

In the matter of trading on the American Stock Exchange in the 20 cents par value Capital Stock of Kroy Oils Limited, File No. 1–3679.

I. The 20¢ par value Capital Stock of Kroy Oils Limited, an Alberta corporation (hereinafter called "registrant"), is listed and registered on the American Stock Exchange, a national securities exchange (hereinafter called "the exchange").

II. The Commission on November 2, 1956, issued its order and notice of hearing under section 19 (a) (2) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (hereinafter called "the act") to determine at a hearing to be held on November 20, 1956, whether it is necessary or appropriate for the protection of investors to suspend for a period not exceeding twelve months, or to withdraw, the registration of the Capital Stock of registrant on the exchange for failure to comply with section 13 of the act and the rules and regulations adopted thereunder, in that the Commission has reason to believe that a current report for the month of May 1956, on Form 8–K, filed by registrant with the Commission was false and misleading in certain respects set forth in said order. On December 21, 1956, the Commission issued its order summarily suspending trading of said securities on the exchange pursuant to section 19 (a) (4) of the act for the reasons set forth in said order to prevent fraudulent, deceptive or manipulative acts or practices for a period of ten days from December 25, 1956, to January 3, 1957, inclusive.

III. On November 7, 1956, counsel representing registrant requested a postponement of the hearing under section 19 (a) (2) of the act in order to enable him to prepare for the hearing. Pursuant to this request, the Commission on November 7, 1956, issued its order postponing the date of said hearing to November 26, 1956. Said hearing has commenced but has not yet been concluded by Commission order or decision.

IV. The Commission has reason to believe that the false report filed by registrant as alleged in the order and notice of hearing referred to in paragraph II and the relationship between registrant and Great Sweet Grass Oils Limited, also subject to an order issued concurrently herewith under section 19 (a) (4) of the act, and also subject to an order and notice of hearing under section 19 (a) (2) of the act, which hearing has been consolidated with the hearing referred to in paragraph III, are such as to cause widespread confusion and uncertainty in the market for registrant's shares. Under the circumstances recited in this order, the Commission is of the opinion that it would be impossible for the investing public to reach an informed judgment at this time as to the value of registrant's securities or for trading in such securities to be conducted in an orderly and equitable manner.

V. The Commission being of the opinion that the public interest requires the summary suspension of trading in such security on the exchange and that such action is necessary and appropriate for the protection of investors; and

The Commission being of the opinion that such suspension is necessary in order to prevent fraudulent, deceptive, or manipulative acts or practices, with the result that it will be unlawful under section 15 (c) (2) of the act and the Commission's Rule X-15C2–2 thereunder for any broker or dealer to make use of the mails or of any means or instrumentality of interstate commerce to effect any transaction in, or to induce or attempt to induce the purchase or sale of, such security otherwise than on a national securities exchange.

It is ordered, Pursuant to section 19 (a) (4) of the act that trading in said securities on the American Stock Exchange be summarily suspended in order to prevent fraudulent, deceptive, or manipulative acts or practices for a period of ten days from January 4, 1957, to January 13, 1957, inclusive.

SMALL BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

[Declaration of Disaster Area 119]

CALIFORNIA

DECLARATION OF DISASTER AREA

Whereas, it has been reported that on or about December 26, 1956, because of the disastrous effects of a forest fire, damage resulted to residences and business property located in certain areas in the State of California;

Whereas, the Small Business Administration has investigated and has received other reports of investigations of conditions in the areas affected; and

Whereas, after reading and evaluating reports of such conditions, I find that the conditions in such areas constitute a catastrophe within the purview of the Small Business Act of 1953, as amended:

Now, therefore, as Administrator of the Small Business Administration, I hereby determine that:

1. Applications for disaster loans under the provisions of section 207 (b) (1) of the Small Business Act of 1953, as amended, may be received and considered by the Office below indicated from persons or firms whose property situated in the County of Los Angeles suffered damage or other destruction as a result of the catastrophe above referred to:

Small Business Administration Regional Office
Western Pacific Building, Room 412
1031 South Broadway
Los Angeles 15, California.

2. No special field office will be established at this time.

3. Applications for disaster loans under the authority of this Declaration will not be accepted subsequent to June 30, 1957.

INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION

[Rev. S. O. 562, Taylor's I. C. C. Order 76]

CANADIAN PACIFIC RAILWAY CO.

DIVERSION OR REROUTING OF TRAFFIC

In the opinion of Charles W. Taylor, Agent, the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, because of threatened work stoppage, is unable to transport traffic routed over and to points on its lines.

It is ordered, That:

(a) Rerouting traffic. The Canadian Pacific Railway Company, and its connections, is hereby authorized to divert or reroute such traffic over any available route to expedite the movement, regardless of routing shown on the waybill. The billing covering all such cars rerouted shall carry a reference to this order as authority for the rerouting.

(b) Concurrence of receiving roads to be obtained. The railroads desiring to divert or reroute traffic under this order shall confer with the proper transportation officer of the railroad or railroads to which such traffic is to be diverted or rerouted, and shall receive the concurrence of such other railroads before the rerouting or diversion is ordered.

(c) Notification to shippers. The carriers rerouting cars in accordance with this order shall notify each shipper at the time each car is rerouted or diverted and shall furnish to such shipper the new routing provided under this order.

(d) Inasmuch as the diversion or rerouting of traffic by said Agent is deemed to be due to carrier's disability, the rates applicable to traffic diverted or rerouted by said Agent shall be the rates which were applicable at the time of shipment on the shipments as originally routed.

(e) In executing the directions of the Commission and of such Agent provided for in this order, the common carriers involved shall proceed even though no contracts, agreements, or arrangements now exist between them with reference to the divisions of the rates of transportation applicable to said traffic; divisions shall be, during the time this order remains in force, those voluntarily agreed upon by and between said carriers; or upon failure of the carriers to so agree, said divisions shall be those hereafter fixed by the Commission in accordance with pertinent authority conferred upon it by the Interstate Commerce Act.

(f) Effective date. This order shall become effective at 9:00 a. m., January 2, 1957.

(g) Expiration date. This order shall expire at 11:59 p. m., January 15, 1957, unless otherwise modified, changed, suspended or annulled.

It is further ordered, That this order shall be served upon the Association of American Railroads, Car Service Division, as agent of all railroads subscribing to the car service and per diem agreement under the terms of that agreement and by filing it with the Director, Division of the Federal Register.

Issued at Washington, D. C., January 2, 1957.

[No. 32097]

CERTAIN EASTERN RAILROADS

INCREASED FARES, 1957

At a General Session of the Interstate Commerce Commission, held at its office in Washington, D. C., on the 4th day of January A. D. 1957.

It appearing, that on December 31, 1956, the Commission entered a report and order in Docket No. 32032, Increased Fares, Official Territory, 1956, authorizing certain railroads in eastern territory to increase their passenger fares and charges by approximately 5 percent on not less than 5 days' notice; and a similar increase was granted railroads in western territories under Docket Ex Parte No. 207.

It further appearing, that on January 2, 1957, the railroads listed in the appendix hereto, not parties to the proceeding in Docket No. 32032, filed a petition requesting authority similarly to increase their passenger fares and charges by 5 percent to become effective January 9, 1957. Petitioners also request authority under section 6 of the Interstate Commerce Act to depart from the Commission's tariff publishing rules to the extent necessary to enable them to publish such increased fares, appropriate relief under section 4 of the act, and for modification of outstanding orders in Docket No. 26550, Passenger Fares and Surcharges, 214 I. C. C. 174, and Docket No. 11762, Michigan Passenger Fares, 60 I. C. C. 245, as amended in subsequent proceedings.

And it further appearing, that the petitioners included in their motion a statement in justification of the said increased fares and that a copy of said petition will be furnished to any interested party upon request addressed to Mr. A. P. Donadio, Baltimore & Ohio Building, Baltimore and Charles Streets, Baltimore 1, Maryland.

Upon consideration of the above petition, and good cause appearing therefor:

It is ordered, That objections to authorizing the petitioning railroads to increase their passenger fares by 5 percent as set forth in the petition, on one day's notice, and for modification of outstanding orders in Docket Nos. 26550 and 11762, as amended, may be filed on or before January 23, 1957. A copy of such protest, together with reasons therefor, shall be furnished to Mr. A. P. Donadio, Baltimore & Ohio Building, Baltimore and Charles Streets, Baltimore, Maryland.

It is further ordered, That a copy of this order be served upon the petitioning railroads, upon the parties in Ex Parte No. 202, and upon the Governor of the State of Michigan; and that notice of this proceeding be given to the public by posting a copy of this order in the Office of the Secretary of the Commission at Washington, D. C., and by filing a copy with the Director, Division of the Federal Register, for publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

By the Commission.

HEARING: February 25, 1957, at the New Jersey Board of Public Utility Commissioners, State Office Bldg., Raymond Blvd., Newark, N. J., before Joint Board No. 3.

No. MC 110369 (Sub No. 1), filed December 13, 1956, CORTLAND COUNTY BUS LINES, INC., 194 Homer Avenue, Cortland, N. Y. Applicant's representative: Raymond A. Richards, 13 Lapham Park, Webster, N. Y. For authority to operate as a common carrier, over a regular route, transporting: Passengers and their baggage, in the same vehicle, between Homer, N. Y. and McGraw, N. Y., from Homer, over U. S. Highway 11 to Cortland, thence over U. S. Highway 11 to the junction of New York Highway 41, thence over U. S. Highway 41 to McGraw, and return over the same route, serving the intermediate point of Cortland. Applicant is authorized to conduct charter operations in New York, Pennsylvania and Massachusetts.

HEARING: February 25, 1957, at U. S. Court Rooms, Binghamton, N. Y., before Examiner William E. Messer.

No. MC 110441 (Sub No. 3), filed November 21, 1956, DAKOTA BUS LINES, INC., 1237 North 8th Street, Fargo, N. Dak. Applicant's representative: Alan Foss, First National Bank Bldg., Fargo, N. Dak. For authority to operate as a common carrier, over regular routes, transporting: Passengers and their baggage, and express and newspapers, in the same vehicle with passengers, (1) between Fargo, N. Dak., and Oakes, N. Dak., from Fargo over U. S. Highway 81 to junction North Dakota Highway 46, thence over North Dakota Highway 46 to junction North Dakota Highway 32 west of Enderlin N. Dak., thence over North Dakota Highway 32 to junction North Dakota Highway 27 at Lisbon, N. Dak., thence over North Dakota Highway 27 to junction North Dakota Highway 1, thence over North Dakota Highway 1 to Oakes, and return over the same route, serving all intermediate points; and (2) between Verona, N. Dak., and La Moure, N. Dak., from Verona over North Dakota Highway 13 to La Moure, and return over the same route, serving all intermediate points. Applicant states it desires the regular route authority between Fargo, N. Dak., and Edgeley, N. Dak., in its Certificate in No. MC 110441 (Sub No. 1) changed to read as above set forth. Thus, applicant states, it is seeking to extend its authority in some instances and revoke a portion of its present authority in other. The first regular route in the Certificate in No. MC 110441 (Sub No. 1) authorizes as follows: Between Fargo, N. Dak., and Edgeley, N. Dak., serving all intermediate points: From Fargo over U. S. Highway 10 to junction unnumbered highway (near Mapleton, N. Dak.), thence over unnumbered highway to junction North Dakota Highway 46, thence over North Dakota Highway 46 to junction North Dakota Highway 32, thence over North Dakota Highway 32 to Lisbon, N. HEARING: February 21, 1957, at the U. S. Court Rooms, Fargo, N. Dak., before Joint Board No. 300.

No. MC 116332, filed December 3, 1956, PAUL BRENN, doing business as HEIGH-HO-LODGE, R. F. D. #1, Box 298, Cresco, Pa. For authority to operate as a common carrier, over irregular routes, transporting: Passengers and their baggage, in special seasonal operations, between November 1 and April 1, inclusive of each year, limited to the transportation of not more than eight (8) passengers, between points in Paradise Township, Pa., and points in Florida.

NOTE: Applicant states that the trips are designed to accommodate sick people who must maintain special salt-sugar-fat-free, diabetic or ulcer diets; also people with heart and kidney ailments where frequent comfort stops are needed. Stops will be made enroute to allow for eating, sleeping and any other details to maintain comfort for the passengers, who at all times must keep on a special diet and have proper rest. Stops are anticipated at points of interest wherever possible and needed to break up the monotony of the trips, which will be slower than ordinary.

HEARING: February 26, 1957, at the Penn Sherwood Hotel, 3900 Chestnut St., Philadelphia, Pa., before Examiner William E. Messer.

No. MC 116333 (Sub No. 1), filed December 19, 1956, CHARLES H. MORSE, doing business as MORSE'S BUS SERVICE, 52 Merrill Street, Plymouth, N. H. Applicant's representative: William F. Batchelder, Sixty-six Main St., Plymouth, N. H. DEPARTMENT OF LABOR

Office of the Secretary

[General Order 28 (Revised)]

ADMINISTRATION OF VETERANS' REEMPLOYMENT RIGHTS

MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

By virtue of and pursuant to the authority vested in me by the act of March 4, 1913 (5 U. S. C. 611), R. S. 161 (5 U. S. C. 22) and Reorganization Plan No. 6 of 1950 (15 F. R. 3174, 64 Stat. 1263), and in order to discharge the functions and responsibilities prescribed by section 9 (h) of the Universal Military Training and Service Act of 1951, as amended, section 8 (g) of the Selective Training and Service Act of 1940, as amended, section 5 (a) of the act of March 31, 1947 (Pub. Law 26, 80th Congress), and section 262 (f) of the Armed Forces Reserve Act of 1952, as amended; It is hereby ordered:

1. The Bureau of Veterans' Reemployment Rights shall be administered by a Director appointed by the Secretary of Labor. Pursuant to General Order No. 78, he will be responsible to the Under Secretary through the Assistant Secretary of Labor for Employment and Manpower and will have responsibility for the operation of the programs assigned to the Bureau.

(a) The Director shall, through the office of the Bureau in Washington, D. C. and its regional and area offices, provide services to ex-servicemen, persons performing training duty, persons rejected by the Armed Forces, employers, labor organizations, and others affected by the reemployment statutes. To provide coverage in areas where there are no offices of the Bureau, and to promote voluntary compliance with the statutes, he shall utilize to the greatest extent possible the services of volunteer reemployment rights committees at State levels, volunteer reemployment rights advisers at local levels, the facilities of cooperating State agencies, and the facilities of cooperating employer, labor and veterans' organizations.

(b) The Director shall maintain liaison with appropriate offices of the Selective Service System, the Veterans' Administration, State Employment Security Agencies, and the Department of Defense for the dissemination of information and referral of ex-servicemen and others seeking information on reemployment rights or assistance through the facilities of those agencies. The Director shall also arrange with appropriate offices in the Department of Defense for contact with and orientation of persons separated from military service and persons transferred to the Ready Reserve at separation and transfer points.

(c) The Director shall be responsible for developing and administering a reemployment rights program for disaster and defense workers in accordance with appropriate delegations to the Department of Labor from the Office of Defense Mobilization and the Federal Civil Defense Administration and pursuant to General Order No. 40.

2. The Director of the Bureau of Employment Security shall promote and encourage the cooperation of State Employment Security Agencies in the utilization of local employment offices as points of contact for general information and referral of ex-servicemen and others in connection with reemployment rights.

3. The Solicitor of Labor shall be responsible for furnishing the Bureau of Veterans' Reemployment Rights with legal interpretations concerning reemployment rights and for providing legal advice and services required by the Bureau.

4. The Administrative Assistant Secretary, the Director of the Office of Personnel Administration, and the Director of the Office of Information shall be responsible for furnishing budget, personnel, and information services as appropriate.

5. This order supersedes all prior orders or regulations inconsistent herewith.

JAMES P. MITCHELL, Secretary of Labor.

Chapter IX—Agricultural Marketing Service (Marketing Agreements and Orders), Department of Agriculture

PART 953—LEMONS GROWN IN CALIFORNIA AND ARIZONA

MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

Notice was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER issue of December 15, 1956 (21 F. R. 9996), that the Department was giving consideration to proposed amendment of the rules and regulations (Subpart—Rules and Regulations; 7 C F R 953.100 et seq.), that are currently in effect pursuant to applicable provisions of the marketing agreement, as amended, and Order No. 53, as amended (7 CFR Part 953; 21 F. R. 4393), regulating the handling of lemons grown in California and Arizona, effective under the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.; 68 Stat. 906, 1047).

After consideration of all relevant matters presented, including the proposals set forth in the aforesaid notice, it is hereby found that the amendment, as hereinafter set forth, of the said rules and regulations is in accordance with the provisions of the said marketing agreement and order and will tend to effectuate the declared purposes of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended. Such amendment is hereby approved; and the said rules and regulations are hereby amended as follows:

1. Delete the provisions of § 953.116 and substitute in lieu thereof the following:

§ 953.116 Manner of nomination. The manner of nominating members and alternate members of said committee shall be as follows:

(a) Sunkist Growers, Inc., a California non-profit cooperative marketing association with its principal place of business at Los Angeles, California, so long as it continues to market more than 60 percent of the total volume of lemons marketed in fresh form, as provided in the marketing agreement and order, shall by resolution adopted by its board of directors, nominate three growers for three members and three growers for three alternate members of the committee.

(b) The cooperative marketing organization or the growers affiliated therewith, other than the cooperative marketing organization described in paragraph (a) of this section, which marketed the largest portion of the total volume of lemons marketed in fresh form during the fiscal year preceding the date on which nominations for members and alternate members of the committee are to be submitted shall, by resolution duly adopted, nominate one grower for a member and one grower for an alternate member of the committee.

(c) A meeting shall be held, at such time and place as may be designated by the agent of the Secretary, at which all cooperative marketing organizations, other than those described in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section, shall nominate one grower for a member, and one grower for an alternate member of the committee. The vote of each such organization shall be weighted by the quantity of lemons which each such organization marketed in fresh form during the fiscal year preceding the date on which nominations for members and alternate members of the committee are to be submitted. Any person who votes at any such meeting shall submit to the agent of the Secretary written evidence of his authority to vote for such organization.

(d) Not less than 5 and not more than 10 meetings shall be held, at such times and places, throughout the lemon producing areas in California and Arizona, as may be designated by the agent of the Secretary, at which growers who are not members of, or affiliated with, the organizations included in paragraphs (a), (b), and (c) of this section may vote. At each such meeting, the growers present shall nominate one grower member and one grower alternate member. The number of ballots to be cast in selecting the nominees shall be determined at the respective meetings. All growers voting at any such meeting shall submit their names and addresses to the agent of the Secretary. The name of the grower receiving the highest total number of votes for grower member, at all of the meetings held, shall be submitted to the Secretary as the grower member nominee, and the name of the grower receiving the highest total number of votes for grower alternate member shall be submitted as the nominee for grower alternate member of the committee representing the growers described in this paragraph.

(e) The agent of the Secretary shall give adequate notice of each meeting to be held pursuant to this section.

2. Revise paragraph (a) of § 953.121 Advance credit count to read as follows:

(a) Except on shipments to Mexico, advance credit count on export shipments may be computed, but shall not be credited to the handler until after each container of lemons is packed and marked for export.

3. Delete § 953.124.

4. Amend § 953.130 Reports as follows:

a. Delete therefrom the terms "packed 'boxes,'" "packed boxes," and "packed box" wherever they appear and substitute in lieu thereof the term "cartons" or "carton" as appropriate.

b. Delete the figure "79" from the third sentence of the section and substitute in lieu thereof the figure "39½."

c. Revise the proviso in the third sentence of the section to read as follows: "Provided, That the following conversion factors may be used:

"One box of fresh loose lemons (market pack) equals 1.6 cartons of lemons.

"One storage box of byproducts lemons equals 1.266 cartons of lemons."

d. Delete the next to the last sentence in paragraph (b) and substitute in lieu thereof, the following: "Each such certificate shall be signed by the handler or his authorized agent, and shall contain in addition to the address of the handler issuing it a certification to the United States Department of Agriculture and the Lemon Administrative Committee that the lemons shown on such certificate are covered by an allotment issued during the current regulation period under the provisions of the marketing agreement and this part."

e. Delete from subparagraph (1) of paragraph (c) the word "canners" and substitute in lieu thereof the word "processors."

f. Add to the last sentence of subparagraph (2) of paragraph (c) the following: "and shall be certified to the United States Department of Agriculture and the Lemon Administrative Committee as to the truthfulness of the information shown thereon."

g. Add a new paragraph therein providing as follows:

(d) Maintenance of records for verification of reports. Records required to be kept by central marketing organizations pursuant to § 953.62, with respect to any allotment transaction arranged by any such organization, shall be retained for at least two years after the end of the fiscal year in which the applicable transaction was completed.

PART 959—IRISH POTATOES GROWN IN MODOC AND SISKIYOU COUNTIES IN CALIFORNIA AND IN ALL COUNTIES IN OREGON EXCEPT MALHEUR COUNTY

APPROVAL OF EXPENSES AND RATE OF ASSESSMENT

Notice of rule making regarding proposed expenses and rate of assessment, to be made effective under Marketing Agreement No. 114, as amended, and Order No. 59, as amended, (7 CFR Part 959), regulating the handling of Irish potatoes grown in Modoc and Siskiyou Counties in California and in all counties in Oregon except Malheur County, was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER, December 6, 1956 (21 F. R. 9662). This regulatory program is effective under the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.). After consideration of all relevant matters presented, including the proposals set forth in the aforesaid notice, which proposals were adopted and submitted for approval by the Oregon-California Potato Committee, established pursuant to said amended marketing agreement and order, it is hereby found and determined that:

§ 959.209 Expenses and rate of assessment. (a) The reasonable expenses that are likely to be incurred by the Oregon-California Potato Committee, established pursuant to Marketing Agreement No. 114, as amended, and Order No. 59, as amended (§§ 959.1 to 959.88), to enable such committee to perform its functions pursuant to the provisions of aforesaid amended marketing agreement and order, during the fiscal period ending June 30, 1957, will amount to $19,150.00.

(b) The rate of assessment to be paid by each handler, pursuant to Marketing Agreement No. 114, as amended, and Order No. 59, as amended (§§ 959.1 to 959.88), shall be three-eighths cent ($0.00375) per hundredweight of potatoes handled by him as the first handler thereof during said fiscal period.

(c) The terms used in this section shall have the same meaning as when used in Marketing Agreement No. 114, as amended, and Order No. 59, as amended (§§ 959.1 to 959.88).

PART 969—AVOCADOS GROWN IN SOUTH FLORIDA

DETERMINATION RELATIVE TO EXPENSES AND FIXING OF RATE OF ASSESSMENT FOR 1956–57 FISCAL YEAR

Pursuant to the marketing agreement, as amended, and Order No. 69, as amended (7 CFR Part 969), regulating the handling of avocados grown in South Florida, effective under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.; 68 Stat. 906, 1047), and upon the basis of the proposals submitted by the Avocado Administrative Committee (established pursuant to said amended marketing agreement and order), it is hereby found and determined that:

§ 969.203 Expenses and rate of assessment for the 1956–57 fiscal year—(a) Expenses. Expenses that are reasonable and likely to be incurred by the Avocado Administrative Committee, established pursuant to the provisions of the aforesaid amended marketing agreement and order (§§ 969.1 to 969.71), for the maintenance and functioning of such committee, in accordance with the provisions thereof, during the fiscal year beginning April 1, 1956, and ending March 31, 1957, will amount to $12,237.

(b) Rate of assessment. The rate of assessment which each handler who first handles avocados shall pay as his pro rata share of the aforesaid expenses in accordance with the applicable provisions of said amended marketing agreement and order is hereby fixed at four cents ($0.04) per bushel, or equivalent quantity of avocados handled by such handler during the 1956–57 fiscal year.

It is hereby further found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule-making procedure, and postpone the effective time hereof until 30 days after publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER (60 Stat. 237; 5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.), in that (1) the rate of assessment in accordance with the provisions of the amended marketing agreement and order is applicable to all avocados handled during the aforesaid fiscal year; (2) such handling is now in progress and is subject to the regulatory provisions of the said amended marketing agreement and order; (3) it is essential that the specification of the assessment rate be issued immediately so that the aforesaid assessments may be collected and thereby enable said Administrative Committee to perform its duties and functions in accordance with said amended marketing agreement and order; and (4) no advance preparation by handlers will be needed.

Terms used in the amended marketing agreement and order shall, when used herein, have the same meaning as is given to the respective term in said amended marketing agreement and order.

(Sec. 5, 49 Stat. 753, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 608c)

PART 609—STANDARD INSTRUMENT APPROACH PROCEDURES

PROCEDURE ALTERATIONS

The standard instrument approach procedure alterations appearing hereinafter are adopted to become effective when indicated in order to promote safety. Compliance with the notice, procedures, and effective date provisions of section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act would be impracticable and contrary to the public interest, and therefore is not required.

Part 609 is amended as follows:

NOTE: Where the general classification (LFR, VAR, ADF, ILS, RADAR, or VOR), location, and procedure number (if any) of any procedure in the amendments which follow, are identical with an existing procedure, that procedure is to be substituted for the existing one, as of the effective date given, to the extent that it differs from the existing procedure; where a procedure is cancelled, the existing procedure is revoked; new procedures are to be placed in appropriate alphabetical sequence within the section amended.

1. The low frequency range procedures prescribed in § 609.6 are amended to read in part:

ILS STANDARD INSTRUMENT APPROACH PROCEDURES

Bearings, headings, and courses are magnetic. Distances are in nautical miles unless otherwise indicated, except visibilities which are in statute miles. Elevations and altitudes are in feet, MSL. Ceilings are in feet above airport elevation. When ILS instrument approach is conducted at the below named airport, it shall be in accordance with the following instrument approach procedure, unless an approach is conducted in accordance with a different procedure for such airport authorized by the Administrator of Civil Aeronautics. Initial approaches shall be made over specified routes. Minimum altitude(s) shall correspond with those established for en route operation in the particular area or as set forth below:

TITLE 26—INTERNAL REVENUE, 1954

Chapter I—Internal Revenue Service, Department of the Treasury

PART 1—INCOME TAX; TAXABLE YEARS BEGINNING AFTER DECEMBER 31, 1953

INVOLUNTARY CONVERSIONS

On June 8, 1956, notice of proposed rule making regarding the regulations for taxable years beginning after December 31, 1953, and ending after August 16, 1954, under section 1033 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (21 F. R. 3931). After consideration of all such relevant matter as was presented by interested parties regarding the rules proposed, the regulations as so published are hereby adopted, subject to the changes as set forth below. The regulations so adopted do not give effect to the amendment to section 1033, relating to livestock sold on account of drought, which was made by section 5 of Public Law 629, 84th Congress, approved June 29, 1956. Notice of rule making with respect to regulations under such amendment will be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER at a later date.

PARAGRAPH 1. Paragraph (c) of § 1.1033 (a)-2 is revised as follows:

(A) By inserting after the last sentence of subparagraph (1) the following new sentence: "For the purposes of section 1033 the term 'control' means the ownership of stock possessing at least 80 percent of the total combined voting power of all classes of stock entitled to vote and at least 80 percent of the total number of shares of all other classes of stock of the corporation."

(B) By inserting after the last sentence of subparagraph (11) the following new sentence: "Thus, if a taxpayer has acquired property worth $100,000 subject to a $50,000 mortgage (regardless of whether or not he was personally liable for the mortgage debt) and, in a condemnation proceeding, the Government awards the taxpayer $60,000 and awards the mortgagee $50,000 in satisfaction of the mortgage, the entire $110,000 is considered to be the 'amount realized' by the taxpayer."

PAR. 2. Sections 1.1033 (a)-3 (d) and 1.1033 (d)-1 (b) are revised to read as set forth below.

PAR. 3. Section 1.1033 (e)-1 is revised as follows:

(A) By deleting the provisions of paragraph (b).

(B) By redesignating paragraph (c) as paragraph (b).

(C) By redesignating paragraph (d) as paragraph (c).

[SEAL] O. GORDON DELK,
Acting Commissioner.

Approved: January 4, 1957.

W. RANDOLPH BURGESS,
Acting Secretary of the Treasury.

AUTHORITY: §§ 1.1033 (a) to 1.1033 (f)-1 issued under sec. 7805, 68A Stat. 917; 26 U. S. C. 7805.

§ 1.1033 (a) Statutory provisions; common nontaxable exchanges; involuntary conversions; general rule.

SEC. 1033. Involuntary conversions—(a) General rule. If property (as a result of its destruction in whole or in part, theft, seizure, or requisition or condemnation or threat or imminence thereof) is compulsorily or involuntarily converted—

(1) Conversion into similar property. Into property similar or related in service or use to the property so converted, no gain shall be recognized.

(2) Conversion into money where disposition occurred prior to 1951. Into money, and the disposition of the converted property occurred before January 1, 1951, no gain shall be recognized if such money is forthwith in good faith, under regulations prescribed by the Secretary or his delegate, expended in the acquisition of other property similar or related in service or use to the property so converted, or in the acquisition of control of a corporation owning such other property, or in the establishment of a replacement fund. If any part of the money is not so expended, the gain shall be recognized to the extent of the money which is not so expended (regardless of whether such money is received in one or more taxable years and regardless of whether or not the money which is not so expended constitutes gain). For purposes of this paragraph and paragraph (3), the term "disposition of the converted property" means the destruction, theft, seizure, requisition, or condemnation of the converted property, or the sale or exchange of such property under threat or imminence of requisition or condemnation.

(3) Conversion into money where disposition occurred after 1950. Into money or into property not similar or related in service or use to the converted property, and the disposition of the converted property (as defined in paragraph (2)) occurred after December 31, 1950, the gain (if any) shall be recognized except to the extent hereinafter provided in this paragraph:

(A) Nonrecognition of gain. If the taxpayer during the period specified in subparagraph (B), for the purpose of replacing the property so converted, purchases other property similar or related in service or use to the property so converted, or purchases stock in the acquisition of control of a corporation owning such other property, at the election of the taxpayer the gain shall be recognized only to the extent that the amount realized upon such conversion (regardless of whether such amount is received in one or more taxable years) exceeds the cost of such other property or such stock. Such election shall be made at such time and in such manner as the Secretary or his delegate may by regulations prescribe. For purposes of this paragraph—

(i) No property or stock acquired before the disposition of the converted property shall be considered to have been acquired for the purpose of replacing such converted property unless held by the taxpayer on the date of such disposition; and

(ii) The taxpayer shall be considered to have purchased property or stock only if, but for the provisions of subsection (c) of this section, the unadjusted basis of such property or stock would be its cost within the meaning of section 1012.

(B) Period within which property must be replaced. The period referred to in subparagraph (A) shall be the period beginning with the date of the disposition of the converted property, or the earliest date of the threat or imminence of requisition or condemnation of the converted property, whichever is the earlier, and ending—

(i) One year after the close of the first taxable year in which any part of the gain upon the conversion is realized, or

(ii) Subject to such terms and conditions as may be specified by the Secretary or his delegate, at the close of such later date as the Secretary or his delegate may designate on application by the taxpayer. Such application shall be made at such time and in such manner as the Secretary or his delegate may by regulations prescribe.

(C) Time for assessment of deficiency attributable to gain upon conversion. If a taxpayer has made the election provided in subparagraph (A), then—

(i) The statutory period for the assessment of any deficiency, for any taxable year in which any part of the gain on such conversion is realized, attributable to such gain shall not expire prior to the expiration of 3 years from the date the Secretary or his delegate is notified by the taxpayer (in such manner as the Secretary or his delegate may by regulations prescribe) of the replacement of the converted property or of an intention not to replace, and

(ii) Such deficiency may be assessed before the expiration of such 3-year period notwithstanding the provisions of section 6212

(c) or the provisions of any other law or rule of law which would otherwise prevent such assessment.

(D) Time for assessment of other deficiencies attributable to election. If the election provided in subparagraph (A) is made by the taxpayer and such other property or such stock was purchased before the beginning of the last taxable year in which any part of the gain upon such conversion is realized, any deficiency, to the extent resulting from such election, for any taxable year ending before such last taxable year may be assessed (notwithstanding the provisions of section 6212 (c) or 6501 or the provisions of any other law or rule of law which would otherwise prevent such assessment) at any time before the expiration of the period within which a deficiency for such last taxable year may be assessed.

§ 1.1033 (a)–1 Involuntary conversions; nonrecognition of gain—(a) In general. Section 1033 applies to cases where property is compulsorily or involuntarily converted. An "involuntary conversion" may be the result of the destruction of property in whole or in part, the theft of property, the seizure of property, the requisition or condemnation of property, or the threat or imminence of requisition or condemnation of property. An "involuntary conversion" may be a conversion into similar property or into money or into dissimilar property. Section 1033 provides that, under certain specified circumstances, any gain which is realized from an involuntary conversion shall not be recognized. In cases where property is converted into other property similar or related in service or use to the converted property, no gain shall be recognized regardless of when the disposition of the converted property occurred and regardless of whether or not the taxpayer elects to have the gain not recognized. In other types of involuntary conversion cases, however, the proceeds arising from the disposition of the converted property must (within the time limits specified) be reinvested in similar property in order to avoid recognition of any gain realized. Different rules for reinvestment apply, depending upon whether the disposition of the converted property occurred after 1950 or before 1951 (see §§ 1.1033 (a)–2, 1.1033 (a)–3, and 1.1033 (a)–4). Section 1033 applies only with respect to gains; losses from involuntary conversions are recognized or not recognized without regard to this section.

(b) Special rules. For rules relating to basis of property acquired through involuntary conversion, see § 1.1033 (c)–1. Special rules apply to involuntary conversions of residence property, property sold pursuant to reclamation laws, and livestock destroyed by disease (see §§ 1.1033 (b)–1, 1.1033 (d)–1, and 1.1033 (e)–1, respectively). For determination of the period for which the taxpayer has held property acquired as a result of certain involuntary conversions, see section 1223 and regulations issued thereunder. For treatment of gains from involuntary conversions as capital gains in certain cases, see section 1231 (a) and regulations issued thereunder. For portion of war loss recoveries treated as gain on involuntary conversion, see section 1332 (b) (3) and regulations issued thereunder.

§ 1.1033 (a)–2 Involuntary conversion where disposition of the converted property occurred after December 31, 1950—(a) In general. This section applies only with respect to involuntary conversions where the disposition of the converted property occurred after December 31, 1950, and where the proceeds are received in a taxable year to which the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 applies. The term "disposition of the converted property" means the destruction, theft, seizure, requisition, or condemnation of the converted property, or the sale or exchange of such property under threat or imminence of requisition or condemnation.

(b) Conversion into similar property. If property (as a result of its destruction in whole or in part, theft, seizure, or requisition or condemnation or threat or imminence thereof) is compulsorily or involuntarily converted only into property similar or related in service or use to the property so converted, no gain shall be recognized. Such nonrecognition of gain is mandatory.

(c) Conversion into money or into dissimilar property. (1) If property (as a result of its destruction in whole or in part, theft, seizure, or requisition or condemnation or threat or imminence thereof) is compulsorily or involuntarily converted into money or into property not similar or related in service or use to the converted property, the gain, if any, shall be recognized, at the election of the taxpayer, only to the extent that the amount realized upon such conversion exceeds the cost of other property purchased by the taxpayer which is similar or related in service or use to the property so converted, or the cost of stock of a corporation owning such other property which is purchased by the taxpayer in the acquisition of control of such corporation, if the taxpayer purchased such other property, or such stock, for the purpose of replacing the property so converted and during the period specified in subparagraph (3) of this paragraph. For the purposes of section 1033 the term "control" means the ownership of stock possessing at least 80 percent of the total combined voting power of all classes of stock entitled to vote and at least 80 percent of the total number of shares of all other classes of stock of the corporation.

(2) All of the details in connection with an involuntary conversion of property at a gain (including those relating to the replacement of the converted property, or a decision not to replace, or the expiration of the period for replacement) shall be reported in the return for the taxable year or years in which any of such gain is realized. An election to have such gain recognized only to the extent provided in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph shall be made by including such gain in gross income for such year or years only to such extent. If, at the time of filing such a return, the period within which the converted property must be replaced has expired, or if such an election is not desired, the gain should be included in gross income for such year or years in the regular manner. A failure to so include such gain in gross income in the regular manner shall be deemed to be an election by the taxpayer to have such gain recognized only to the extent provided in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph even though the details in connection with the conversion are not reported in such return. If, after having made an election under section 1033 (a) (3), the converted property is not replaced within the required period of time, or replacement is made at a cost lower than was anticipated at the time of the election, or a decision is made not to replace, the tax liability for the year or years for which the election was made shall be recomputed. Such recomputation should be in the form of an "amended return". If a decision is made to make an election under section 1033 (a) (3) after the filing of the return and the payment of the tax for the year or years in which any of the gain on an involuntary conversion is realized and before the expiration of the period within which the converted property must be replaced, a claim for credit or refund for such year or years should be filed. If the replacement of the converted property occurs in a year or years in which none of the gain on the conversion is realized, all of the details in connection with such replacement shall be reported in the return for such year or years.

(3) The period referred to in subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph is the period of time commencing with the date of the disposition of the converted property, or the date of the beginning of the threat or imminence of requisition or condemnation of the converted property, whichever is earlier, and ending one year after the close of the first taxable year in which any part of the gain upon the conversion is realized, or at the close of such later date as may be designated pursuant to an application of the taxpayer. Such application shall be made prior to the expiration of the one year after the close of the first taxable year in which any part of the gain from the conversion is realized, and shall contain all of the details in connection with the involuntary conversion. Such application shall be made to the district director for the internal revenue district in which the return is filed for the first taxable year in which any of the gain from the involuntary conversion is realized. No extension of time shall be granted pursuant to such application unless the taxpayer can show reasonable cause for not being able to replace the converted property within the required period of time.

(4) Property or stock purchased before the disposition of the converted property shall be considered to have been purchased for the purpose of replacing the converted property only if such property or stock is held by the taxpayer on the date of the disposition of the converted property. Property or stock shall be considered to have been purchased only if, but for the provisions of section 1033 (c), the unadjusted basis of such property or stock would be its cost to the taxpayer within the meaning of section 1012. If the taxpayer's unadjusted basis of the replacement property would be determined, in the absence of section 1033 (c), under any of the exceptions referred to in section 1012, the unadjusted basis of the property would not be its cost within the meaning of section 1012. For example, if property similar or related in service or use to the converted property is acquired by gift and its basis is determined under section 1015, such property will not qualify as a replacement for the converted property.

(5) If a taxpayer makes an election under section 1033 (a) (3), any deficiency, for any taxable year in which any part of the gain upon the conversion is realized, which it attributable to such gain may be assessed at any time before the expiration of three years from the date the district director with whom the return for such year has been filed is notified by the taxpayer of the replacement of the converted property or of an intention not to replace, or of a failure to replace, within the required period, notwithstanding the provisions of section 6212 (c) or the provisions of any other law or rule of law which would otherwise prevent such assessment. If replacement has been made, such notification shall contain all of the details in connection with such replacement. Such notification should be made in the return for the taxable year or years in which the replacement occurs, or the intention not to replace is formed, or the period for replacement expires, if this return is filed with such district director. If this return is not filed with such district director, then such notification shall be made to such district director at the time of filing this return. If the taxpayer so desires, he may, in either event, also notify such district director before the filing of such return.

(6) If a taxpayer makes an election under section 1033 (a) (3) and the replacement property or stock was purchased before the beginning of the last taxable year in which any part of the gain upon the conversion is realized, any deficiency, for any taxable year ending before such last taxable year, which is attributable to such election may be assessed at any time before the expiration of the period within which a deficiency for such last taxable year may be assessed, notwithstanding the provisions of section 6212 (c) or 6501 or the provisions of any law or rule of law which would otherwise prevent such assessment.

(7) If the taxpayer makes an election under section 1033 (a) (3), the gain upon the conversion shall be recognized to the extent that the amount realized upon such conversion exceeds the cost of the replacement property or stock, regardless of whether such amount is realized in one or more taxable years.

(8) The proceeds of a use and occupancy insurance contract, which by its terms insured against actual loss sustained of net profits in the business, are not proceeds of an involuntary conversion but are income in the same manner that the profits for which they are substituted would have been.

(9) There is no investment in property similar in character and devoted to a similar use if—

(i) The proceeds of unimproved real estate, taken upon condemnation proceedings, are invested in improved real estate.

(ii) The proceeds of conversion of real property are applied in reduction of indebtedness previously incurred in the purchase of a leasehold.

(iii) The owner of a requisitioned tug uses the proceeds to buy barges.

(10) If, in a condemnation proceeding, the Government retains out of the award sufficient funds to satisfy special assessments levied against the remaining portion of the plot or parcel of real estate affected for benefits accruing in connection with the condemnation, the amount so retained shall be deducted from the gross award in determining the amount of the net award.

(11) If, in a condemnation proceeding, the Government retains out of the award sufficient funds to satisfy liens (other than liens due to special assessments levied against the remaining portion of the plot or parcel of real estate affected for benefits accruing in connection with the condemnation) and mortgages against the property, and itself pays the same, the amount so retained shall not be deducted from the gross award in determining the amount of the net award. If, in a condemnation proceeding, the Government makes an award to a mortgagee to satisfy a mortgage on the condemned property, the amount of such award shall be considered as a part of the "amount realized" upon the conversion regardless of whether or not the taxpayer was personally liable for the mortgage debt. Thus, if a taxpayer has acquired property worth $100,000 subject to a $50,000 mortgage (regardless of whether or not he was personally liable for the mortgage debt) and, in a condemnation proceeding, the Government awards the taxpayer $60,000 and awards the mortgagee $50,000 in satisfaction of the mortgage, the entire $110,000 is considered to be the "amount realized" by the taxpayer.

(12) An amount expended for replacement of an asset, in excess of the recovery for loss, represents a capital expenditure and is not a deductible loss for income tax purposes.

§ 1.1033 (a)–3 Involuntary conversion where disposition of the converted property occurred before January 1, 1951. (a) This section applies only with respect to involuntary conversions where the disposition of the converted property occurred before January 1, 1951, and where the proceeds are received in a taxable year to which the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 applies. The term "disposition of the converted property" means the destruction, theft, seizure, requisition, or condemnation of the converted property, or the sale or exchange of such property under threat or imminence of requisition or condemnation.

(b) (1) Upon the involuntary conversion of property described in section 1033, no gain is recognized if the provisions of that section are complied with. If any part of the money received as a result of such an involuntary conversion is not expended in the manner provided in section 1033 (a) (2), the gain, if any, is recognized to the extent of the money which is not so expended. For example, a vessel purchased by A in 1949 for $100,000 is destroyed by a typhoon in 1950, and A receives in 1954 insurance in the amount of $100,000. This money is not expended in the manner provided in section 1033 (a) (2), but there is no gain since the insurance does not exceed the basis (disregarding, for the purposes of this example, the adjustment for depreciation). In 1955, A receives insurance from a second policy of $200,000 on account of the destruction of the vessel. He expends this amount in the manner provided in section 1033 (a) (2). The gain in 1955 upon the receipt of the $200,000 is recognized to the extent of $100,000, the amount of the money received in 1954 which was not expended in the manner provided in section 1033 (a) (2).

(2) Losses from involuntary conversions are recognized or not recognized without regard to section 1033. The expenditure in the manner provided in section 1033 (a) (2) of money received upon an involuntary conversion is not necessary for the transaction to be considered completed for the purpose of determining such loss.

(c) In order to avail himself of the benefits of section 1033 (a) (2) it is not sufficient for the taxpayer to show that subsequent to the receipt of money from a condemnation award he purchased other property similar or related in use. The taxpayer must trace the proceeds of the award into the payments for the property so purchased. It is not necessary that the proceeds be earmarked, but the taxpayer must be able to prove that the same were actually reinvested in such other property similar or related in use to the property converted. The benefits of section 1033 (a) (2) cannot be extended to a taxpayer who does not purchase other property similar or related in service or use, notwithstanding the fact that there was no other such property available for purchase.

(d) If, in a condemnation proceeding, the Government retains out of the award sufficient funds to satisfy liens (other than liens due to special assessments levied against the remaining portion of the plot or parcel of real estate affected for benefits accruing in connection with the condemnation) and mortgages against the property and itself pays the same, the amount so retained shall not be deducted from the gross award in determining the amount of the net award. If, in a condemnation proceeding, the Government makes an award to a mortgagee to satisfy a mortgage on the condemned property, the amount of such award shall be considered as part of the "money" into which the property is converted, regardless of whether or not the taxpayer was personally liable for the mortgage debt. Thus, if a taxpayer has acquired property worth $100,000 subject to a $50,000 mortgage (regardless of whether or not he was personally liable for the mortgage debt) and, in a condemnation proceeding, the Government awards the taxpayer $60,000 and awards the mortgagee

$50,000 in satisfaction of the mortgage, the entire $110,000 is considered to be the "money" into which the property was converted. An amount expended for replacement of an asset, in excess of the recovery for loss, represents a capital expenditure and is not a deductible loss for income tax purposes.

(e) The provisions of section 1033 (a) (2) are applicable to property used for residential or farming purposes.

(f) The proceeds of a use and occupancy insurance contract, which by its terms insured against actual loss sustained of net profits in the business, are not proceeds of an involuntary conversion but are income in the same manner that the profits for which they are substituted would have been.

(g) There is no investment in property similar in character and devoted to a similar use if—

(1) The proceeds of unimproved real estate, taken upon condemnation proceedings, are invested in improved real estate.

(2) The proceeds of conversion of real property are applied in reduction of indebtedness previously incurred in the purchase of a leasehold.

(3) The owner of a requisitioned tug uses the proceeds to buy barges.

(h) It is incumbent upon a taxpayer "forthwith" to apply for and receive permission to establish a replacement fund in every case where it is not possible to replace immediately. If an expenditure in actual replacement would be too late, a request for the establishment of a replacement fund would likewise be too late.

NOTE: This section is substantially the same as § 29.112 (f)-1 (Regulations 111).

§ 1.1033 (a)-4 Replacement funds where disposition of the converted property occurred before January 1, 1951. (a) This section applies only with respect to involuntary conversions where the disposition of the converted property (as defined in § 1.1033 (a)-3) occurred before January 1, 1951, and where the proceeds are received in a taxable year to which the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 applies.

(b) In any case where the taxpayer elects to replace or restore the converted property but it is not practicable to do so immediately (for example, because of a shortage of materials or an industry-wide strike), he may obtain permission to establish a replacement fund in his accounts in which part or all of the compensation so received shall be held, without deduction for the payment of any mortgage. In such a case the taxpayer should make application on Form 1114 to the district director for the district in which his return is required to be filed for permission to establish such a replacement fund, and in his application should recite all the facts relating to the transaction and declare that he will proceed as expeditiously as possible to replace or restore such property. The taxpayer will be required to furnish a bond with such surety as the district director may require in an amount not in excess of double the estimated additional income taxes which would be payable if no replacement fund were established. See 6 U. S. C. 15 (Appendix to the Income Tax Regulations), providing that where a bond is required by law or regulations, in lieu of surety or sureties there may be deposited bonds or notes of the United States. The estimated additional taxes, for the amount of which the applicant is required to furnish security, should be computed at the rates at which the applicant would have been obliged to pay, taking into consideration the remainder of his taxable (or net) income and resolving against him all matters in dispute affecting the amount of the tax. Only surety companies holding certificates of authority from the Secretary of the Treasury as acceptable sureties on Federal bonds will be approved as sureties. The application should be executed in triplicate, so that the district director, the applicant, and the surety or depositary may each have a copy.

NOTE: This section is substantially the same as § 29.112 (f)-2 (Regulations 111).

SEC. 1033. Involuntary conversions. • • •

(b) Residence of taxpayer. Subsection (a) shall not apply, in the case of property used by the taxpayer as his principal residence, if the destruction, theft, seizure, requisition, or condemnation of the residence, or the sale or exchange of such residence under threat or imminence thereof, occurred after December 31, 1950, and before January 1, 1954.

§ 1.1033 (b)-1 Involuntary conversion of principal residence. Section 1033 shall apply in the case of property used by the taxpayer as his principal residence if the destruction, theft, seizure, requisition, or condemnation of such residence, or the sale or exchange of such residence under threat or imminence thereof, occurs before January 1, 1951, or after December 31, 1953. Section 1033 shall not apply in the case of an involuntary conversion of property used by the taxpayer as his principal residence if the destruction, theft, seizure, requisition or condemnation of such residence, or the sale or exchange of such residence under threat or imminence thereof, occurred after December 31, 1950, and before January 1, 1954. In the case of property disposed of after December 31, 1950, and before January 1, 1954, which is used by the taxpayer partially as a principal residence and partially for other purposes, proper allocation shall be made and § 1.1033 (a)-2 and § 1.1033 (c)-1 shall apply only with respect to the involuntary conversion of the portion used for such other purposes.

§ 1.1033 (c) Statutory provisions; involuntary conversions; basis of property acquired through involuntary conversion.

SEC. 1033. Involuntary conversions. • • •

(c) Basis of property acquired through involuntary conversion. If the property was acquired, after February 28, 1913, as the result of a compulsory or involuntary conversion described in subsection (a) (1) or (2), the basis shall be the same as in the case of the property so converted, decreased in the amount of any money received by the taxpayer which was not expended in accordance with the provisions of law (applicable to the year in which such conversion was made) determining the taxable status of the gain or loss upon such conversion, and increased in the amount of gain or decreased in the amount of loss to the taxpayer recognized upon such conversion under the law applicable to the year in which such conversion was made. This subsection shall not apply in respect of property acquired as a result of a compulsory or involuntary conversion of property used by the taxpayer as his principal residence if the destruction, theft, seizure, requisition, or condemnation of such residence, or the sale or exchange of such residence under threat or imminence thereof, occurred after December 31, 1950, and before January 1, 1954. In the case of property purchased by the taxpayer in a transaction described in subsection (a) (3) which resulted in the nonrecognition of any part of the gain realized as the result of a compulsory or involuntary conversion, the basis shall be the cost of such property decreased in the amount of the gain not so recognized; and if the property purchased consists of more than one piece of property, the basis determined under this sentence shall be allocated to the purchased properties in proportion to their respective costs.

§ 1.1033 (c)-1 Basis of property acquired as a result of an involuntary conversion. (a) The provisions of the first sentence of section 1033 (c) may be illustrated by the following example:

Example. A's vessel which has an adjusted basis of $100,000 is destroyed in 1950 and A receives in 1951 insurance in the amount of $200,000. If A invests $150,000 in a new vessel, taxable gain to the extent of $50,000 would be recognized. The basis of the new vessel is $100,000; that is, the adjusted basis of the old vessel ($100,000) minus the money received by the taxpayer which was not expended in the acquisition of the new vessel ($50,000) plus the amount of gain recognized upon the conversion ($50,000). If any amount in excess of the proceeds of the conversion is expended in the acquisition of the new property, such amount may be added to the basis otherwise determined.

(b) The provisions of the last sentence of section 1033 (c) may be illustrated by the following example:

Example. A taxpayer realizes $22,000 from the involuntary conversion of his barn in 1955; the adjusted basis of the barn to him was $10,000, and he spent in the same year $20,000 for a new barn which resulted in the nonrecognition of $10,000 of the $12,000 gain on the conversion. The basis of the new barn to the taxpayer would be $10,000—the cost of the new barn ($20,000) less the amount of the gain not recognized on the conversion ($10,000). The basis of the new barn would not be a substituted basis in the hands of the taxpayer within the meaning of section 1016 (b) (2). If the replacement of the converted barn had been made by the purchase of two smaller barns which, together, were similar or related in service or use to the converted barn and which cost $8,000 and $12,000, respectively, then the basis of the two barns would be $4,000 and $6,000, respectively, the total basis of the purchased property ($10,000) allocated in proportion to their respective costs ($8,000/20,000 of $10,000 or $4,000; and 12,000/20,000 of $10,000, or $6,000).

SEC. 1033. Involuntary conversions. • • •

(d) Property sold pursuant to reclamation laws. For purposes of this subtitle, if property lying within an irrigation project is sold or otherwise disposed of in order to conform to the acreage limitation provisions of Federal reclamation laws, such sale or disposition shall be treated as an involuntary conversion to which this section applies.

§ 1.1033 (d)-1 Disposition of excess property within irrigation project deemed to be involuntary conversion. (a) The sale, exchange, or other disposition occurring in a taxable year to which the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 applies, of excess lands lying within an irrigation project or division in order to conform to acreage limitations of the Federal reclamation laws effective with respect to such project or division shall be treated as an involuntary conversion to which the provisions of section 1033 and the regulations thereunder shall be applicable. The term "excess lands" means irrigable lands within an irrigation project or division held by one owner in excess of the amount of irrigable land held by such owner entitled to receive water under the Federal reclamation laws applicable to such owner in such project or division. Such excess lands may be either (1) lands receiving no water from the project or division, or (2) lands receiving water only because the owner thereof has executed a valid recordable contract agreeing to sell such lands under terms and conditions satisfactory to the Secretary of the Interior.

(b) If a disposition in order to conform to the acreage limitation provisions of Federal reclamation laws includes property other than excess lands (as, for example, where the excess lands alone do not constitute a marketable parcel) the provisions of section 1033 (d) shall apply only to the part of the disposition that relates to excess lands.

(c) The provisions of § 1.1033 (a)-2 shall be applicable in the case of dispositions treated as involuntary conversions under this section. The details in connection with such a disposition required to be reported under § 1.1033 (a)-2 (c) (2) shall include the authority whereby the lands disposed of are considered "excess lands", as defined in this section, and a statement that such disposition is not part of a plan contemplating the disposition of all or any nonexcess land within the irrigation project or division.

(d) The term "involuntary conversion", where it appears in subtitle A or the regulations thereunder, includes dispositions of excess property within irrigation projects described in this section. (See, e. g., section 1231 and the regulations thereunder.)

§ 1.1033 (e) Statutory provisions; involuntary conversions; livestock destroyed by disease.

SEC. 1033. Involuntary conversions. • • •

(e) Livestock destroyed by disease. For purposes of this subtitle, if livestock are destroyed by or on account of disease, or are sold or exchanged because of disease, such destruction or such sale or exchange shall be treated as an involuntary conversion to which this section applies.

§ 1.1033 (e)-1 Destruction or disposition of livestock because of disease. (a) The destruction occurring in a taxable year to which the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 applies, of livestock by, or on account of, disease, or the sale or exchange, in such a year, of livestock because of disease, shall be treated as an involuntary conversion to which the provisions of section 1033 and the regulations thereunder shall be applicable. Livestock which are killed either because they are diseased or because of exposure to disease shall be considered destroyed on account of disease. Livestock which are sold or exchanged because they are diseased or have been exposed to disease, and would not otherwise have been sold or exchanged at that particular time shall be considered sold or exchanged because of disease.

(b) The provisions of § 1.1033 (a)-2 shall be applicable in the case of a disposition treated as an involuntary conversion under this section. The details in connection with such a disposition required to be reported under § 1.1033 (a)-2 (c) (2) shall include a recital of the evidence that the livestock were destroyed by or on account of disease, or sold or exchanged because of disease.

(c) The term "involuntary conversion," where it appears in subtitle A or the regulations thereunder, includes disposition of livestock described in this section. (See, e. g., section 1231 and the regulations thereunder.)

§ 1.1033 (f) Statutory provisions; involuntary convertions; cross references.

SEC. 1033. Involuntary conversions. • • •

(f) Cross references. (1) For determination of the period for which the taxpayer has held property involuntarily converted, see section 1223.

(2) For treatment of gains from involuntary conversions as capital gains in certain cases, see section 1231 (a).

§ 1.1033 (f)-1 Effective date. The provisions of section 1033 and the regulations thereunder are effective for taxable years beginning after December 31, 1953, and ending after August 16, 1954, the date of enactment of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954. See section 7851 (a) (1) (A).

TITLE 31—MONEY AND FINANCE: TREASURY

Chapter II—Fiscal Service, Department of the Treasury

Subchapter B—Bureau of the Public Debt

[1957 Dept. Circ. 750, Rev., Amdt. 3]

PART 321—PAYMENTS BY BANKS AND OTHER FINANCIAL INSTITUTIONS IN CONNECTION WITH THE REDEMPTION OF UNITED STATES SAVINGS BONDS

REIMBURSEMENT OF AGENTS' COSTS

JANUARY 4, 1957.

Section 321.5 of Treasury Department Circular No. 750, Revised, dated June 30, 1945, as amended (31 CFR Part 321), is hereby further amended to read as follows:

§ 321.5 Reimbursement of agents' costs. (a) Each paying agent shall be entitled to receive reimbursement for its service for all bonds paid hereunder and accounted for by it in each calendar quarter, according to the following scale:

15 cents for the first 1,000 bonds.
10 cents each for all over 1,000 bonds.

Each Federal Reserve Bank is authorized to establish a definite and regular closing time for determining those paid bonds to be considered as accounted for in a calendar quarter. Such closing time may be based upon a time that the paid bonds are forwarded to, or received by, the Federal Reserve Bank and shall be uniformly applied throughout the District of such Bank. The scale of rates shall be applicable separately to the agent and to each of its branches utilized in making payments under this circular, if the bonds paid by each are separately scheduled and accounted for. The payment of such amount as the agent is entitled to receive will be made by the Treasury Department.

(b) Paying agents shall not make any charge whatever to owners of savings bonds in connection with payments hereunder.

(Sec. 22, 49 Stat. 41, as amended; 31 U. S. C. 757c)

Compliance with the notice, public procedure, and effective date requirements of the Administrative Procedure Act (Pub. Law 404, 79th Cong.; 60 Stat. 237) is found to be unnecessary with respect to this amendment which does not affect existing rights and comes within section 4 (2) of the Administrative Procedure Act, 60 Stat. 238; 5 U. S. C. 1003 (2).

TITLE 32—NATIONAL DEFENSE

Chapter V—Department of the Army

Subchapter B—Claims and Accounts

PART 533—GRATUITY UPON DEATH

Sections 533.1 through 533.12, including Figure 1, are revoked and the following substituted therefor:

§ 533.1 Scope. Sections 533.1 to 533.14 set forth the authority and prescribe the procedures for making payment of the six months' death gratuity to beneficiaries of deceased military personnel as described herein.

§ 533.2 Statutory authority. The statutes upon which §§ 533.1 to 533.14 are based are:

(a) Servicemen's and Veterans' Survivor Benefits Act (Pub. Law 881, 84th Cong.)

(b) 10 U. S. C. 4338.

(c) Sec. 4 (b), act of August 9, 1946 (60 Stat. 964), as amended.

§ 533.3 Definitions. For the purpose of §§ 533.1 to 533.14, the following definitions apply:

(a) Member means a person appointed, enlisted, or inducted in a component of the Army (including a reserve component), or in the Army of the United States without specification of component and any person serving in the Army under call or conscription. The term included:

(1) A retired member of the Army.

(2) A cadet at the United States Military Academy.

(3) A member of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps, when ordered to annual training duty for 14 days or more, and while performing authorized travel to and from that duty; and

(4) Any person while en route to or from, or at, a place for final acceptance or for entry upon active duty in the military service, who has been provisionally accepted for such duty; or who, under the Universal Military Training and Service Act, has been selected for active military service; and has been ordered or directed to proceed to such place. If that person suffers an injury or disease resulting in disability or death he will be deemed to be on active duty when such incident occurs, and to be entitled to the basic pay of the pay grade which he would receive upon final acceptance or entry upon active duty.

(b) Reserve component means:

(1) The Army Reserve, and

(2) The National Guard of the United States. (A member of the National Guard of the several States, Territories, or the District of Columbia when performing training or duty under 32 U. S. C. 316, 502, 503, 504, or 505, will, for the purpose of §§ 533.1 to 533.14, be considered a member of a reserve component, and training or duty performed by such member under those sections will be considered active duty for training or inactive duty training as appropriate).

(c) Active duty means:

(1) Full-time duty performed by a member, other than active duty for training,

(2) Service as a cadet at the United States Military Academy, and

(3) Authorized travel to or from such duty or service.

(d) Active duty for training means:

(1) Full-time duty performed by a member of a reserve component in the active military service for training purposes,

(2) Annual training duty performed for a period of 14 days or more by a member of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps, and

(3) Authorized travel to or from such duty.

(e) Inactive duty training means any of the training, instruction, duty, appropriate duties, or equivalent training, instruction, duty, appropriate duties, or hazardous duty, performed with or without compensation by a member of a reserve component, prescribed by the Secretary of the Army pursuant to section 501 of the Career Compensation Act of 1949. The term does not include work or study performed by a member of a reserve component in connection with service correspondence courses, or attendance, under the sponsorship of the Army, at an educational institution in an inactive status.

(f) The term spouse means any man or woman who is legally married to a member at the time of the member's death.

(g) The term child means the legitimate child of a member; a child legally adopted; and illegitimate child but as to the father only if acknowledged in writing, signed by him, or if he has been judicially ordered or decreed to contribute to the child's support or has been, prior to his death, judicially decreed to be the putative father of such child, or if he is otherwise shown by satisfactory evidence to be the putative father of such child; and a stepchild, if that child is a member of the serviceman's household. Where the relationship between a member and a stepchild was created by marriage which was terminated by death, the relationship in the absence of any evidence to the contrary, may be considered as continuing so far as payment of the gratuity is concerned. See 24 Comp. Gen. 320.

(h) The term parent means the natural father or mother, and father or mother through adoption. This term includes persons who for a period of not less than 1 year have stood in loco parentis to a member at any time prior to entry into active service, provided that not more than one father and one mother shall be recognized in any case, and preference shall be given to the father or mother who actually exercised parental relationship at the time of or most nearly prior to the date of entry into active service by the person who served.

§ 533.4 Entitlement. (a) The Secretary of the Army will have a death gratuity paid immediately upon official notification of the death of a member under his jurisdiction who dies while on active duty (to include authorized travel to or from such duty), active duty for training (to include authorized travel to or from such duty), or inactive duty training, except as provided in paragraph (b) of this section. The death gratuity will be paid regardless of whether death occurred not in line of duty or as a result of the member's misconduct, if otherwise proper. The death gratuity will equal six months' basic pay (plus special and incentive pays) at the rate to which the deceased member was entitled on the date of his death, but will not be less than $800 nor more than $3,000.

(b) No payment will be made if the deceased member suffered death as a result of lawful punishment for crime or for a military offense, except when death was so inflicted by any hostile force with which the Armed Forces of the United States have engaged in armed conflict.

§ 533.5 Beneficiaries. (a) Except as provided in § 533.10, the death gratuity will be paid to or for the living survivor or survivors of the deceased member first listed below:

(1) His spouse.

(2) His children (without regard to their age or marital status) in equal shares.

(3) His parents or his brothers or sisters (including those of the half blood and those through adoption) when designated by him (see paragraph (b) of this section,

(4) His parents in equal shares.

(5) His brothers and sisters (including those of the half blood and those through adoption) in equal shares.

If a survivor dies before he receives the amount to which he is entitled, such amount will be paid to the then living survivor or survivors first listed above.

(b) A member has the right to designate certain alternative beneficiaries who will receive the gratuity if he dies without a surviving spouse or children. He may designate one or more of his parents, brothers and sisters (or any combination thereof) as alternative beneficiaries and may prescribe the amount that each will receive. He may state the percentage to be given each alternative beneficiary but the total shall not be more than 100 percent of the total amount of the gratuity.

§ 533.6 Death gratuity coverage of reservists while traveling to or from place of duty. Any member of a reserve component:

(a) Who, when authorized or required by competent authority, assumes an obligation to perform active duty for training or inactive duty training; and

(b) Who dies from an injury incurred on or after January 1, 1957, while entitled to basic pay and while proceeding directly to or returning directly from such active duty for training or inactive duty training, as the case may be, will be deemed to have been on active duty for training or inactive duty training, as the case may be, at the time such injury was incurred. The Adjutant General, Department of the Army, will, on behalf of the Secretary of the Army, determine whether such member of a reserve component was so authorized or required to perform such duty, and whether he died from injury so incurred. In making such determinations, The Adjutant General will take into consideration the hour on which the member began to so proceed or so return; the hour on which he was scheduled to arrive for, or on which he ceased to perform, such duty; the method of travel employed; his itinerary; the manner in which the travel was performed; and the immediate cause of death. Whenever any claim is filed alleging that the claimant is entitled to benefits by reason of this section, the burden of proof will be upon the claimant.

§ 533.7 Gratuity coverage for death within 120 days after discharge or release from active service. (a) Payment of the six months' death gratuity will be made when a member or former member dies on or after January 1, 1957, during the 120-day period which begins on the day following the date of his discharge or release from active duty, active duty for training, or inactive duty training, if the Administrator of Veterans' Affairs determines that the death resulted from:

(1) Disease or injury incurred or aggravated while on such active duty or active duty for training; or

(2) Injury incurred or aggravated while on such inactive duty training.

(b) Determinations by the Administrator of Veterans' Affairs that death occurred under the circumstances referred to in paragraph (a) of this section, when made on the basis of claims for dependency and indemnity compensation, are certified to the Secretary of the Army; in all other cases, the Administrator makes the determinations referred to in paragraph (a) of this section at the request of the Secretary of the Army.

(c) The standards, criteria, and procedures for determining incurrence or aggravation of a disease or injury under this section are (except for line of duty) those applicable under disability compensation laws administered by the Veterans' Administration.

(d) For purposes of computing the amount of the death gratuity to be paid by reason of this section, the deceased member or former member is deemed to be entitled on the date of his death to basic pay (plus special and incentive pay) at the rate to which he was entitled on the last day he performed such active duty, active duty for training, or inactive duty training.

(e) Death gratuity is not payable under the provisions of this section unless the Administrator of Veterans' Affairs determines that the deceased member or former member was discharged or released under conditions other than dishonorable from such period of active duty, active duty for training, or inactive duty training.

§ 533.8 Active duty without pay. A member of a reserve component who performs active duty, active duty for training, or inactive duty training, without pay, is considered as having been entitled to basic pay while performing such duties.

§ 533.9 Hospitalization of members of reserve components. A member of a reserve component of the military service who suffers disability while on active duty, active duty for training, or inactive duty training, and who is placed in a pay status while he is receiving hospitalization or medical care (including outpatient care) for such disability is deemed to continue on such duty for so long as he remains in a pay status.

§ 533.10 To whom not payable. Payment of the six months' gratuity may not be made to:

(a) A person who takes the life of the deceased, on whose account death gratuity would otherwise be payable to such beneficiary. The only exception to this policy is a case where a person takes the life of the deceased but the records clearly establish the absence of any felonious intent on the part of the person who would be entitled to receive payment of death gratuity. See MS. Comp. Gen. A–60953, June 12, 1935, and MS. Comp. Gen. B–115170, July 16, 1953.

(b) The natural parent of a member who had been legally adopted. The fact that the member returned to reside with the natural parent before induction into the service and designated the natural parent as beneficiary to receive the payment does not change the foregoing statement, unless the member resided with the natural parent for a period of not less than one year prior to entry into the active service and parental relationship was exercised by the natural parent at the time of or most nearly prior to the date the member entered into active service. See 24 Comp. Gen. 479.

(c) Stepparents, grandparents, grandchildren, or persons other than those specified in § 533.5, whether or not designated.

(d) The beneficiary of a member who dies while traveling to or from inactive duty training from disease incurred while so traveling.

§ 533.11 Six months' death gratuity exempt from indebtedness. The amount of the six months' death gratuity cannot be used to satisfy the debt of a deceased member, not even for over payment. See MS. Comp. Dec., May 14, 1913.

§ 533.12 Will; not a designation. A general bequest in a will is not a designation within the meaning of the act providing the six months' gratuity pay, as that gratuity is not a debt or money due the member and cannot become a part of his estate.

§ 533.13 Special determinations—(a) Person who dies en route home upon release from active duty. Any person who is discharged or released from a period of active duty will be deemed to continue on active duty during the period of time immediately following the date of such discharge or release that The Adjutant General, on behalf of the Secretary of the Army, may determine is required for him to proceed to his home by the most direct route. In any event, he will be deemed to continue on active duty until midnight of the date of such discharge or release.

(b) Leader of Military Academy Band. The dependents of the director of music, the leader of the Military Academy Band, are entitled to the same death gratuity as dependents of an officer of the Regular Army of corresponding grade with corresponding length of service.

(c) Missing personnel. For missing personnel determined to be dead see AR 35–1325 (Administrative Regulations pertaining to pay of personnel while missing, captured, or interned).

(d) Absent without leave. (1) During periods of absence without leave, a member will continue in a pay status, but will forfeit all pay and allowances during such absence unless such absence is excused as unavoidable. The six months' death gratuity is not a part of a member's pay and allowances; therefore, if a member dies during an absence without leave, whether or not such absence is excused as unavoidable, payment of the six months' death gratuity is authorized if otherwise payable.

(2) In each case where a member dies after having been dropped from the rolls as a deserter or where there is an indication that the member may be a deserter, an administrative determination as to whether the member was in a desertion or absent without leave status at date of death will be obtained from The Adjutant General by the Commanding General, Finance Center, United States Army. Payment of the six months' death gratuity will be dependent upon the determination as to the status of such member. See 31 Comp. Gen. 645.

(3) Payment of the six months' death gratuity is not authorized if death occurred when the deceased was in an absent without leave status and the date of death was subsequent to date of the expiration of the deceased's normal period of enlistment. See MS. Comp. Gen. B–105587, November 19, 1951.

(e) Flying requirements not met when on flying status. If a member dies while assigned to flying duty and has not made any flights during any one of the 3 months immediately succeeding the quarter in which he last met the flight requirements, his rate of pay for the payment of the six months' gratuity includes the increased pay for flying although no flying pay had accrued to him on the date of his death, if sufficient time remained in which flight requirements could have been met. See 7 Comp. Gen. 476.

(f) Flight status suspended. If a member dies while under suspension from flying duty, pay for flying will not be included in the rate of pay at date of death for the payment of the six months' death gratuity. See MS. Comp. Gen. B–122105, April 12, 1955.

(g) Advanced in grade after date of death. Section 2 of the act of March 7, 1942, as amended, which entitles any member in active service officially reported as missing, missing in action, interned in a foreign country, captured by a hostile force, beleaguered or besieged, to continue to receive, or have credited to his account, the pay and allowances to which he was then or thereafter became entitled, does not authorize computation of the six months' death gratuity payment on the basis of pay for a grade to which a member was advanced after being officially reported missing where it was later determined that the member had died prior to such advancement in grade. See 22 Comp. Gen. 395.

(h) Declared dead after missing. In the case of a member who was officially carried in a missing status and subsequently declared dead as of a certain date, the death gratuity should be computed on the pay rate to which the member was entitled on the date as of which he was declared dead, rather than on the rate he was receiving at the beginning of the missing status. See 22 Comp. Gen. 1053.

PROPOSED RULE MAKING

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Agricultural Marketing Service

[7 CFR Part 952]

[Docket No. AO-256-A3]

MILK IN AUSTIN-WACO, TEX., MARKETING AREA

NOTICE OF HEARING ON PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO TENTATIVE MARKETING AGREEMENT AND TO ORDER, AS AMENDED

Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), notice is hereby given of a public hearing to be held in the Lower Colorado River Authority Building, Lake Austin Boulevard, Austin, Texas, beginning at 10:00 a. m., on January 14, 1957, with respect to proposed amendments to the tentative marketing agreement and order, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the Austin-Waco, Texas, marketing area.

The public hearing is for the purpose of receiving evidence with respect to the economic and marketing conditions which relate to the proposed amendments, hereinafter set forth, and any appropriate modifications thereof, to the tentative marketing agreement and order, as amended.

The proposed amendments, set forth below, have not received the approval of the Secretary of Agriculture.

Proposed by The Mid-Tex Milk Producers' Association:

1. Amend § 952.10 by adding thereto the following: "and (b) any plant approved by the appropriate health authority to supply milk for distribution as Grade A milk in the marketing area if such plant is owned and operated by a cooperative association and milk from members of such association is transferred during the month from such a plant to a distributing plant."

2. Amend § 952.13 by adding thereto the following: "and (b) a cooperative association which is the operator of a plant pursuant to § 952.10 (b) with respect to the milk of any producer which it causes (1) to be transferred from such plant to the fluid milk plant of another handler, and (2) which it causes to be delivered direct from the farm in transport trucks owned and operated by such association to the fluid milk plant of another handler, provided that such milk shall be deemed to have been received by the cooperative association at the location of the fluid milk plant to which it is delivered except that such milk shall be considered as a receipt of producer milk by the operator of such fluid milk plant for the purpose of §§ 952.42, 952.41 (b) (4), 952.46 (a) (1), and 952.94."

3. Delete § 952.18 and substitute therefor the following:

§ 952.18 Producer-handler. "Producer-handler" means any person who produces milk and operates an approved plant but receives no milk from other dairy farmers and who, during the delivery period, disposes of no more than 1,000 pounds on a daily average of Class I milk as defined pursuant to § 952.41 (a) through a route(s) in the marketing area: Provided, That such handler shall furnish to the market administrator for his verification, subject to review by the Secretary, evidence that the maintenance, care, and management of the dairy animals and other resources necessary for the production of milk in his name are and continue to be the personal enterprise of and at the personal risk of such producer and the processing, packaging, and distribution of the milk are and continue to be the personal enterprise of and at the personal risk of such producer in his capacity as a handler.

4. Amend § 952.41 to provide that all skim milk and butterfat contained in inventory of milk and milk products designated as Class I milk on hand at the end of the month shall be classified as Class I.

5. Delete § 952.41 (b) (4) and substitute therefor the following:

(4) In shrinkage assigned to Class II milk pursuant to § 952.42.

6. Delete § 952.42 and substitute therefor the following:

§ 952.42 Shrinkage. The market administrator shall determine the assignment of shrinkage to Class II milk at the fluid milk plant(s) of each handler as follows:

(a) Determine the total shrinkage of butterfat and skim milk in the fluid milk plant(s) of the handler;

(b) Multiply the pounds of skim milk and butterfat in producer milk and other source milk by 0.02;

(c) Multiply the pounds of butterfat and skim milk, respectively, determined pursuant to paragraph (a) or (b) of this section, whichever is less, by the percentage of butterfat and skim milk classified pursuant to § 952.41 (a) and (b) (1) and (2) which is in Class II milk. The resulting amounts of skim milk and butterfat shall be classified as Class II milk; and

(d) Assign the shrinkage of skim milk and butterfat classified as Class II milk pro rata to producer milk and other source milk.

7. Amend §§ 952.70 and 953.73 to provide that for the months of February through July any charges for overages and any audit adjustments for previous months shall be prorated on a volume basis between base and excess milk.

8. Amend § 952.73 (b) to provide that the uniform price for excess milk shall not exceed the uniform price for base milk adjusted for location.

9. Delete the present proviso in § 952.80 and substitute therefor the following: "Provided, That if during the months of September through December any milk from a producer that is a member of a cooperative association which is caused to be delivered to a nonfluid milk plant by such association shall be added to the volume of milk delivered by that producer to a fluid milk plant(s) for the purpose of computing a daily base for such producer."

10. Delete § 952.90 (d) and substitute therefor the following:

(d) On or before the 13th and 26th days of each month in lieu of the payments pursuant to paragraphs (a) and (b) and (c) of this section, respectively, each handler shall pay to a cooperative association which is not a handler pursuant to § 952.13 (b), for milk which it caused to be delivered to such handler from producers, if such cooperative association is authorized to collect such payments for its member producers and wishes to exercise such authority, an amount equal to the sum of the individual payments otherwise payable to such producers;

11. In § 952.90 redesignate paragraph (e) as paragraph (f) and add a new paragraph (e) to read as follows:

(e) On or before the 13th and 26th days of each month, each handler shall pay to a cooperative association which is a handler pursuant to § 952.13 (b), for milk which was caused to be delivered to such handler by such cooperative association, an amount not less than the value of such milk computed by multiplying the pounds of such milk allocated to each class pursuant to § 952.46 by the applicable class prices;

12. Amend § 952.95 by adding the following: "Provided, That a cooperative association that is a handler pursuant to § 952.13 (b) shall pay to the market administrator 5 cents per hundredweight, or such amount not exceeding 5 cents per hundredweight, as the Secretary may prescribe, with respect to all receipts of producer milk which is classified as Class I milk."

Proposed by the Dairy Division, Agricultural Marketing Service:

13. Make such other changes as may be required to make the entire marketing agreement and order, as amended, conform with any amendments thereto that may result from this hearing.

Copies of this notice of hearing and the order, as amended, may be procured from the Market Administrator, 3401-A East Avenue, Austin 2, Texas, or from the Hearing Clerk, Room 112, Administration Building, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C., or may be there inspected.

Issued at Washington, D. C., this 7th day of January 1957.

NOTICE OF POSTPONEMENT OF RECONVENED HEARING ON PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO TENTATIVELY APPROVED MARKETING AGREEMENT AND TO ORDER, AS AMENDED

Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900) notice is hereby given of the postponement of the reconvening of a public hearing, which at the time the hearing was recessed on November 21, 1956, was announced to be reconvened beginning at 9:30 a. m., on January 14, 1957. The hearing is now scheduled to be reconvened in the Court of Appeals Court Room, United States Court House, Ninth and Market Streets, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, on January 21, 1957, beginning at 9:30 a. m., e. s. t.

The issues under consideration at this hearing are set forth in the notice of hearing issued by the Deputy Administrator, Agricultural Marketing Service, on May 17, 1956, and published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on May 22, 1956 (21 F. R. 3386, F. R. Doc. 56-3983).

Issued at Washington, D. C., this 4th day of January 1957.

CHEESES; PROCESSED CHEESES; CHEESE FOODS; CHEESE SPREADS; AND RELATED FOODS; DEFINITIONS AND STANDARDS OF IDENTITY

FINDINGS OF FACT AND PROPOSED ORDER IN RE ESTABLISHMENT OF DEFINITION AND STANDARD OF IDENTITY FOR PARTIALLY CREAMED COTTAGE CHEESE

In the matter of establishing a definition and standard of identity for a food to be known as partially creamed cottage cheese:

In the FEDERAL REGISTER of August 23, 1955 (20 F. R. 6141), there was published a notice of the filing of a proposal for establishing a definition and standard of identity for a food to be known as partially creamed cottage cheese. An order was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER of October 21, 1955 (20 F. R. 7944), ruling not to adopt the proposed definition and standard of identity. Exceptions were taken to this order and a public hearing was requested (21 F. R. 430).

The public hearing in this matter having been held, on the basis of the evidence submitted at the hearing and pursuant to the authority vested in the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare by the provisions of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (sec. 401, 52 Stat. 1046, 68 Stat. 54; 21 U. S. C. 341) and delegated to the Commissioner of Food and Drugs by the Secretary (20 F. R. 1996; 21 F. R. 6581), and after consideration of written arguments and suggested findings, which are adopted in part and rejected in part as is apparent from the detailed findings herein made, now, therefore, it is proposed that the following order be issued:

Findings of fact.[1] 1. Of the soft uncured cheeses for which standards have been set under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act, cottage cheese is lowest in milk fat content. It normally contains from 1/10 percent to 3/10 percent of milk fat, but it may sometimes have 5/10 percent or slightly more of milk fat, depending upon how closely the skim milk was separated. The standard for cottage cheese limits its moisture content to not more than 80 percent. (R. 56, 71-72, 88, 192; Ex. 14, 16; 21 CFR 19.525)

2. Creamed cottage cheese is a soft uncured cheese for which a standard has been set under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act. It contains somewhat more milk fat than cottage cheese. Creamed cottage cheese is a composite dairy food made by mixing with cottage cheese a fluid component consisting of pasteurized cream or a pasteurized mixture of cream and milk or skim milk or both. The identity standard for creamed cottage cheese provides that the milk fat furnished by the fluid component shall amount to not less than 4 percent by weight of the finished product and that the finished product contains not more than 80 percent of moisture. Insofar as it can be determined from the record, creamed cottage cheese outsells cottage cheese by a wide margin. (R. 15, 27, 46, 49-51, 54-56, 91-92, 108, 110, 117-118, 151-153; Ex. 7, 14, 15, 16; 21 CFR 19.530)

3. About 1953, there began to appear in the retail markets of California and perhaps other States a soft uncured cheese manufactured in a manner similar to creamed cottage cheese, but which did not meet the milk-fat content requirement of the creamed cottage cheese standard of identity. The fluid component of this cheese differed from the fluid component of creamed cottage cheese in that it consisted largely of concentrated skim milk and was lower in milk fat and higher in nonfat solids. This cheese had a texture, taste, and appearance similar to creamed cottage cheese. Its milk fat content was around 2 percent. (R. 10, 12, 18, 39, 42-43, 49, 73-74, 79-80, 84-86, 89, 92, 94, 98-99, 103, 114, 154-158, 161-162, 165; Ex. 10, 11, 17)

4. In 1955, California and Oregon set standards of identity, under the name "Partially creamed cottage cheese" for the article described in finding 3. The California standard, which was incorporated in a State statute, describes the fluid component as "cream, milk, skim milk, concentrtated milk, dried milk, concentrated skim milk, nonfat dry milk solids, or other constituents derived from milk, water." This law further provides: "Such cream or product or mixture is used in such quantity that the milk fat added thereby is not less than 0.5 percent, nor more than 2 percent by weight of the finished partially creamed cottage cheese." The Oregon standard was established as a State regulation. It states that, "Partially Creamed Cottage Cheese is cheese made by the cottage cheese process, the finished product of which shall contain not more than 80 percent moisture and not less than 0.5 percent or more than 2 percent milk fat." The Oregon regulation permits the use of up to 0.5 percent of "wholesome edible stabilizer." It is silent with respect to the fluid component, and its moisture and milk fat requirements might be met without using any fluid component.

The proposal upon which the hearing was held was that the standard for partially creamed cottage cheese adopted by the California legislature should be followed as a basis for the adoption of a definition and standard of identity under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act. Under that proposal a product complying with the standard might be made to which the fluid component would add only ½ percent of milk fat. There was testimony that such a product is manufactured to some extent and is not easily distinguished from a product to which the fluid component added around 1.8 percent milk fat. A product prepared to contain the minimum milk fat required by the proposed standard would be essentially cottage cheese with condensed skim milk. (R. 10, 31–35, 42–44, 47–48, 55–56, 82, 85, 94, 108, 110, 114–115; Ex. 8, 9)

5. Creamed cottage cheese, partially creamed cottage cheese, and cottage cheese with condensed skim milk possess few characteristics by which they can be distinguished from each other by ordinary consumers. Persons who participated in taste tests were unable to tell creamed cottage cheese from a partially creamed cottage cheese containing about 2 percent added milk fat. A product prepared by adding three parts of condensed skim milk to seven parts of cottage cheese was taste-tested, and the results indicated that only about one-half of the tasters could distinguish the cottage cheese with condensed skim milk from creamed cottage cheese. (R. 73–89, 151–157; Ex. 16, 17)

6. Nutritionally, cottage cheese, cottage cheese with condensed skim milk, partially creamed cottage cheese, and creamed cottage cheese are low-fat, low-calorie cheeses. All contain 80 percent or slightly less water. Cottage cheese and cottage cheese with condensed skim milk have about one-half of 1 percent or less of milk fat and approximately 14 percent protein. The caloric value of cottage cheese and cottage cheese with condensed skim milk is about 77 calories per 100 grams. The partially creamed cottage cheese marketed in California at the time of investigation had about 2 percent or less of milk fat and about 14.3 percent of protein and a caloric value of approximately 90 calories per 100 grams. Creamed cottage cheese has slightly more than 4 percent of milk fat and about 13 percent of protein; its caloric value is about 102 calories per 100 grams. There is little evidence in the record from which the significance of these figures as they relate to human diet can be determined. However, there are references to servings of "¼ pound," "½ cup," "3 oz.," and "4 oz." Allowing for two servings, this amounts to about ½ pound daily in the diets of those who eat such cheeses regularly. The difference is caloric value and protein content of creamed cottage cheese and partially creamed cottage cheese, at a daily rate of consumption of ½ pound, would be about 27 calories and 3 grams of protein per day. The differences are too small to be nutritionally significant. (R. 16–17, 51–52, 54–56, 102, 151–152, 173–176, 182–185; Ex. 6, 12–16)

7. Notwithstanding these insignificant differences in caloric and protein content, the sale of partially creamed cottage cheese has been promoted by representations in labeling which emphasize such terms as "slender," "low calories," "low fat," "high protein," "slim," "diet-aid," "calorie controlled," and similar terms so as to exaggerate the small difference in caloric value and protein and milk-fat content between this article and creamed cottage cheese. These representations fail to reveal that partially creamed cottage cheese has a higher milk-fat content and caloric value than cottage cheese. (R. 57–60, 74, 85, 92, 99, 105–108, 131–133, 147–148, 161–163, 193, 196, 199; Ex. 10–13)

8. From the point of view of dairy economics, the constituents of creamed cottage cheese and partially creamed cottage cheese are milk fat, nonfat solids of milk, and water. Of these, milk fat is the most expensive. Partially creamed cottage cheese is cheaper to manufacture than creamed cottage cheese because it is lower in milk-fat content. The two witnesses who testified on this point were agreed that, on the basis of current prices in California, the manufacturing cost for partially creamed cottage cheese is about ½ cent per pound less than for creamed cottage cheese. Yet the prices actually charged by California retail stores show, that, for the samples purchased, partially creamed cottage cheese was priced about 2 cents higher per pound than creamed cottage cheese. This additional cost factor results from the sales promotion based on the claimed lower caloric value and high-protein content. (R. 51, 74–75, 96–97, 110–112, 114, 140–150; Ex. 12–15)

Conclusion. Upon consideration of the whole record and the foregoing findings of fact, it is concluded:

1. That the evidence of record at the hearing does not establish that the promulgation of a regulation setting a definition and standard of identity for partially creamed cottage cheese would promote honesty and fair dealing in the interest of consumers, but on the contrary indicates that such a standard would facilitate the marketing of a product claimed to have low caloric value and higher protein content, when in fact the differences in fat and protein in the new product would be insignificant from a nutrition standpoint.

2. That a standard for cottage cheese with condensed skim milk would seem to be more logical for the uses for which partially creamed cottage cheese has been promoted in California, but the present record does not furnish an adequate basis for adopting a standard for such food.

Wherefore, it is ordered, That the regulations in Part 19, Title 21, of the Code of Federal Regulations be not amended to establish a definition and standard of identity for a food to be known as "partially creamed cottage cheese."

Any interested person whose appearance was filed at the hearing may, within 20 days from the date of publication of this proposed order in the FEDERAL REGISTER, file with the Hearing Clerk, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, Room 5440, 330 Independence Avenue SW., Washington 25, D. C., written exceptions thereto. Exceptions shall point out with particularity the alleged errors in the proposed order, and shall contain specific references to the pages of the transcript of testimony or to the exhibits on which the exceptions are based. Exceptions may be accompanied by briefs in support thereof. Exceptions and accompanying briefs should be submitted in quintuplicate.

Dated: January 3, 1957.

RESTORATION ORDER UNDER FEDERAL POWER ACT

JANUARY 3, 1957.

Pursuant to the following listed determinations of the Federal Power Commission and in accordance with Order No. 541, section 2.5 of the Director, Bureau of Land Management, approved April 21, 1954 (19 F. R. 2473–2476) it is ordered as follows:

1. Subject to valid existing rights and the provisions of existing withdrawals, the lands hereinafter described so far as they are reserved for power purposes are hereby restored to disposition under the public land laws as provided below, subject to the provisions of section 24 of the Federal Power Act of June 10, 1920 (41 Stat. 1075; 16 U. S. C. 818), as amended, and as to DA–778, 830, 833, 885 and 891 subject to the further stipulation that as and when the said lands are required in whole or in part for purposes of power development or for additional developments any structures or improvements placed thereon which should be found to interfere with such development shall be moved or relocated so as to eliminate with interference without cost or expense to the United States its permittees, or licensees; and as to DA–885 subject to the prior right of the licensee for Project No. 233 and its successors to use, for telephone line purposes as provided by the license for Project No. 233, those portions of the land within the telephone line right-of-way as shown on the map designated Exhibit "K" (FPC No. 233–41) and filed in the office of the Federal Power Commission on February 5, 1940; and as to DA–889 subject to the prior right of the Southern California Edison Company, licensee for Project No. 120, and its successors to use said right-of-way as described on map designated Exhibit "K" (FPC 120–53), filed September 8, 1927, for project purposes; and as to DA–904 subject to the prior right of the licensee for Project No. 606 and its successors to use for project purposes as provided by the license for Project No. 606 those portions of the lands within the project boundary as shown on the map designated Exhibit "K" (FPC No. 606–3) and filed in the office of the Federal Power Commission on April 23, 1925.

The areas described contain approximately 1,701.76 acres of public land.

2. The lands are widely scattered throughout California and generally occupy foothill and mountainous regions with climate and precipitation which vary according to elevation and locality. Accessibility is fair to poor as a rule. Adverse topography renders the land generally unsuited to agricultural purposes other than grazing by range livestock.

3. No application for these lands will be allowed under the Homestead, Desert Land, Small Tract or any other nonmineral public land laws, unless the lands have already been classified as valuable, or suitable for such type of application, or shall be so classified upon consideration of an application. Any application that is filed will be considered on its merits. The lands will not be subject to occupancy or disposition until they have been classified.

4. The lands described shall be subject to application by the State of California for a period of 90 days from the date of publication of this order in the FEDERAL REGISTER for rights-of-way for public highways or as a source of material for construction and maintenance of such highways, in accordance with and subject to the provisions of section 24 of the Federal Power Act, as amended.

5. Subject to any existing valid rights and the requirements of applicable law, the lands described are hereby open to filing of applications, selections, and locations in accordance with the following:

a. Applications and selections under the nonmineral public land laws may be presented to the Manager mentioned below, beginning on the date of this order. Such applications and selections will be considered as filed on the hour and respective dates shown for the various classes enumerated in the following paragraphs:

(1) Application by persons having prior existing valid settlement rights, preference rights conferred by the existing laws, or equitable claims subject to allowances and confirmation will be adjudicated on the facts presented in support of each claim or right. All applications presented by persons other than those referred to in this paragraph will be subject to the applications and claims mentioned in this paragraph.

(2) All valid applications under the Homestead, Desert Land, and Small Tract laws by qualified veterans of World War II or of the Korean conflict, and by others entitled to preference rights under the act of September 27, 1944 (58 Stat. 747; 43 U. S. C. 279–284, as amended), presented prior to 10 a. m. on February 8, 1957, local time, will be considered as simultaneously filed at that hour. Rights under such preference right applications filed after that hour and before 10 a. m. on May 10, 1957, local time, will be governed by the time of filing.

(3) All valid applications and selections under the nonmineral public land laws, other than those coming under paragraphs (1) and (2) above, presented prior to 10 a. m. on May 10, 1957, local time, will be considered as simultaneously filed at that hour. Rights under such applications and selections filed after that hour will be governed by the time of filing.

b. The lands have been opened to location and entry under the United States Mining Laws pursuant to the act of August 11, 1955 (69 Stat. 683; 30 U. S. C. 621), and to applications and offers under the mineral leasing laws. The land is by this order opened to location under the United States Mining Laws without regard to the act of August 11, 1955, supra, beginning 10:00 a. m., local time, on May 10, 1957.

6. Persons claiming veteran's preference rights under paragraph a (2) above must enclose with their applications proper evidence of military or naval service, preferably a complete photostatic copy of the certificate of honorable discharge. Persons claiming preference rights based upon valid settlement, statutory preference or equitable claims must enclose properly corroborated statements in support of their applications, setting forth all facts relevant to their claims. Detailed rules and regulations governing applications which may be filed pursuant to this notice can be found in Title 43 of the Code of Federal Regulations.

7. Inquiries regarding these lands shall be addressed to the Manager, Land Office, Bureau of Land Management, Room 1000 California Fruit Building, 4th and J Streets, Sacramento, California, except as to those lands described in DA–889, for which inquiries should be directed to the Manager, Land Office, Bureau of Land Management, Bartlett Building, 215 West 7th Street, Los Angeles, California.

R. R. Best,
State Supervisor.

ALASKA

NOTICE OF PROPOSED WITHDRAWAL AND RESERVATION OF LANDS

The Department of Air Force has filed an application, Serial No. Fairbanks 013668, for the withdrawal of the lands described below, from all forms of appropriation under the public land laws including the mining and mineral leasing laws.

The applicant desires the land for "NIKE" air defense site.

For a period of 60 days from the date of publication of this notice, persons having cause may present their objections in writing to the undersigned official of the Bureau of Land Management, Department of the Interior, Box 480, Anchorage, Alaska.

If circumstances warrant it, a public hearing will be held at a convenient time and place, which will be announced.

The determination of the Secretary on the application will be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER. A separate notice will be sent to each interested party of record.

The lands involved in the application are:

FAIRBANKS MERIDIAN

Bureau of Reclamation

[No. 16]

GILA IRRIGATION PROJECT, ARIZONA, YUMA MESA DIVISION

PUBLIC NOTICE OF ANNUAL WATER SERVICE CHARGES

DECEMBER 21, 1956.

1. Water service. Irrigation water will be furnished during calendar year 1957 under approved water service applications during development period to the irrigable lands in Irrigation Blocks 1 and 2 of the Yuma Mesa Irrigation and Drainage District as designated by the Secretary of the Interior in the contract of May 26, 1956 (No. 14–06–W–102), between the United States and said District.

2. Charges and terms of payment. Toll charges shall be payable in advance of the delivery of water at rates as follows:

(a) (i) For lands irrigated hereunder by gravity the minimum charge shall be $13.95 per acre for each acre of land for which water service is requested, payment of which will entitle the applicant to an allotment of 9 acre-feet of water per acre. Additional water will be furnished at the rate of $1.75 per acre-foot.

(ii) For lands irrigated hereunder by sprinkler the minimum charge shall be $7.75 per acre for each acre of land for which water service is requested, payment of which will entitle the applicant to an allotment of 5 acre-feet of water per acre. Additional water will be furnished at the rate of $1.75 per acre-foot.

(iii) One-half of said minimum charges may be paid on January 1, 1957, or at such time prior to July 1, 1957, as water service application may be filed, which upon approval shall entitle the applicant to one-half of the allotment of water as set forth in paragraphs 2 (a) (i) or (ii) above. The balance of said minimum charge shall be paid on July 1, 1957, whether water is used or not, or at such time as applicant requires more than one-half of such allotment of water, whichever is sooner, and payment thereof shall entitle the applicant to the remaining one-half of such allotment.

(iv) In those cases where the applicant is unable to make payment as provided in paragraph 2 (a) (iii) and so requests, the minimum charge may be paid in not to exceed nine equal installments, the first of which shall be paid on January 1, 1957, or at such time prior to July 1, 1957, as the water service application may be filed, which upon approval shall entitle the applicant to one acre-foot of water per acre for each payment of $1.55. The remaining installments of the minimum charge shall be due on the first day of each month thereafter or at such earlier time as the applicant requires more water than previously paid for and each payment of $1.55 shall entitle the applicant to one acre-foot of water per acre. The applicant shall, in any event, pay the balance of said minimum charge on or before December 1, 1957.

(b) For lands irrigated hereunder by gravity after July 1, 1957, for the first time during the current calendar year the minimum charge shall be $6.96 per acre for each acre of land for which water service is requested, payment of which will entitle the applicant to an allotment of 4½ acre-feet of water per acre. Additional water will be furnished at the rate of $1.75 per acre-foot.

(c) For the remaining lands mentioned in Paragraph 1 receiving water after July 1, 1957, but not previously irrigated, there will be a charge of $1.55 per acre-foot for the first 6 acre-feet of water ordered during calendar year 1957 and a charge of $1.75 per acre-foot for all additional water ordered during that year.

(d) No credit will be given for water purchased during calendar year 1957 at the minimum charge but undelivered at the end of calendar year 1957. However, the amount paid by any applicant during calendar year 1957 for water in excess of the minimum charge which remains undelivered at the end of that year will be refunded to the applicant.

3. Except as otherwise provided in the Reclamation Law (Act of June 17, 1902, 32 Stat. 388, as amended or supplemented), no water will be delivered hereunder to any lands which constitute "excess lands" within the meaning of said laws.

4. Water service applications may be made by the landowner, by his duly authorized representative, or by a tenant of the land for which water is requested, to the Chief, Operations Division, Yuma Projects Office. No water service application will be accepted if the applicant or landowner is delinquent in any water service charges due the United States.

5. Water service applications and the payments required thereunder will be received at the office of the Chief, Operations Division, Yuma Projects Office, Yuma, Arizona.

W. H. Taylor,
Regional Director.

Notice for Filing Objections to Order Withdrawing Public Lands for the Colorado River Storage Project, Colorado

OCTOBER 19, 1956.

Notice is hereby given that for a period of 30 days from the date of publication of this notice, persons having cause to object to the terms of the above order withdrawing certain public lands in the State of Colorado, for use in connection with the Colorado River Storage Project may present their objections to the Secretary of the Interior. Such objections should be in writing, should be addressed to the Secretary of the Interior, and should be filed in duplicate in the Department of the Interior, Washington 25, D. C.

In case any objection is filed and the nature of the opposition is such as to warrant it, a public hearing will be held at a convenient time and place, which will be announced, where opponents to the order may state their views and where the proponents of the order can explain its purpose, intent and extent. Should any objection be filed, notice of the determination by the Secretary as to whether the order should be rescinded, modified, or let stand will be given to all interested parties of record and the general public.

FLOYD E. DOMINY,
Acting Assistant Commissioner.

[Docket No. G-11214]

UNITED GAS PIPE LINE CO.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION AND DATE OF HEARING

JANUARY 4, 1957.

Take notice that United Gas Pipe Line Company, a Delaware corporation, with principal place of business at 1525 Fairfield Avenue, Shreveport, Louisiana, filed an application on October 8, 1956, in docket No. G-11214 for a certificate of public convenience and necessity, pursuant to section 7 (c) of the Natural Gas Act, authorizing it to construct and operate one-third of a mile of two-inch transmission pipe line extending from a point on its 16-inch Escambia Chemical Corporation line to the plant of NRC Metals Company near Floridatown, Santa Rosa County, Florida, together with a metering station to be located upon the land of that company. Costs of $8,916 to be financed from funds on hand. Applicant proposes to use the facilities to deliver natural gas in quantities not to exceed 850 Mcf per day and 240,000 Mcf per annum for consumption by NRC Metals Company.

Pursuant to the authority contained in and subject to the jurisdiction conferred upon the Federal Power Commission by sections 7 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act, and the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, a hearing will be held on January 29, 1957, at 9:30 a. m., e. s. t., in a Hearing Room of the Federal Power Commission, 441 G Street NW., Washington, D. C., concerning the matters involved in and the issues presented by such application: Provided, however, That the Commission may, after a noncontested hearing, dispose of the proceedings pursuant to the provisions of § 1.30 (c) (1) or (2) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure.

Protests or petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington 25, D. C., in accordance with the rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) on or before January 18, 1957. Failure of any party to appear at and participate in the hearing shall be deemed a waiver of and concurrence in omission herein of the intermediate decision procedure in cases where a request therefor is made. Under the procedure herein provided for, unless otherwise advised, it will be unnecessary for applicant to appear or be represented at the hearing.

SECURITIES AND EXCHANGE COMMISSION

[File No. 70-3537]

MONTAUP ELECTRIC CO.

ORDER REGARDING ISSUANCE AND SALE OF NOTES TO BANK

JANUARY 4, 1957.

Montaup Electric Company ("Montaup"), a public-utility subsidiary of Eastern Utilities Associates ("EUA"), a registered holding company, has filed a declaration and amendments thereto with this Commission pursuant to section 7 of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("act") regarding the following proposed transactions:

Montaup has obtained a commitment from The First National Bank of Boston under which the Bank agrees to lend Montaup up to a maximum of $10,000,000 during 1957. Although each note will be made payable to The First National Bank of Boston, the following banking institutions will participate in each loan to the extent indicated:

	Percent
The First National Bank of Boston	30
National Shawmut Bank of Boston	25
First National City Bank of New York	30
Second Bank-State Street Trust Company	15
The Hanover Bank	10

Montaup proposes to issue from time to time prior to December 31, 1957 unsecured promissory notes in an aggregate amount not in excess of $25,000,000 with a maximum amount to be outstanding at any one time not to exceed $10,000,000. Each of said notes will mature in 90 days or less from the date of issue and in no event later than December 31, 1957 and will bear interest from the date of issue at not more than the prime rate per annum at such date of issuance. The current prime rate is stated to be 4 percent. The notes may be prepaid, in whole or in part, at any time without penalty.

As of October 31, 1956, Montaup had outstanding short-term bank loans in the amount of $1,000,000. The proceeds from the proposed notes will be used to pay Montaup's outstanding note indebtedness and to provide the company with cash during 1957 to finance its construction program involving the installation of a 100,000 kw turbo-generator unit now on order and estimated to cost $19,500,000 through 1959.

In the event that any permanent financing is done by Montaup prior to the maturity of any of the notes proposed in the instant filing, Montaup will apply the proceeds from such permanent financing in reduction of, or in total payment of, its short-term indebtedness then outstanding, and the amount of short-term indebtedness that may be outstanding at any one time shall be reduced by the amount of the permanent financing.

No State commission or Federal agency, other than this Commission, has jurisdiction over the proposed note issues. No commissions, fees, expenses or other remuneration will be paid in connection with the proposed note issues, except legal fees and expenses of counsel for Montaup estimated not to exceed $210.

Notice regarding the filing of said declaration having been given pursuant to Rule U-23 and no hearing having been requested of, or ordered by, the Commission; and the Commission finding that the applicable provisions of the act and the rules promulgated thereunder are satisfied, and that said declaration, as amended, should be permitted to become effective forthwith:

It is ordered, Pursuant to Rule U-23, that said declaration, as amended, be and the same hereby is, permitted to become effective forthwith subject to the terms and conditions prescribed in Rule U-24.

By the Commission.

OHIO POWER CO. AND CENTRAL OHIO COAL CO.

NOTICE OF FILING REGARDING ISSUANCE AND SALE BY SUBSIDIARY OF COMMON STOCK AND ACQUISITION THEREOF BY PARENT COMPANY

JANUARY 4, 1957.

Notice is hereby given that Ohio Power Company ("Ohio Power"), an electric utility subsidiary company of American Gas and Electric Company ("American Gas"), a registered holding company, and Central Ohio Coal Company ("Coal Company"), a non-utility subsidiary company of Ohio Power, have filed a joint application pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("act") and have designated sections 6 (b) and 10 of the act as being applicable to the proposed transactions.

All interested persons are referred to said joint application which is on file in the offices of this Commission for a statement of the transactions therein proposed, which are summarized as follows:

Coal Company proposes to issue and sell and Ohio Power proposes to acquire not in excess of 40,000 additional shares of Coal Company's capital stock from time to time prior to December 31, 1958, for a cash consideration of $100 per share, being the par value of such shares, or for a total of $4,000,000.

It is stated that the proceeds to be derived by Coal Company from the proposed transactions will be used to pay a portion of the estimated cost of installing additional equipment for the purpose of expanding coal production at its Muskingum and Cumberland #3 mines and coal transportation facilities at the Muskingum mine not provided for by cash generated internally by Coal Company.

The application states that no legal or other fees, commissions or other expenses are to be paid or incurred by Ohio Power, or Coal Company or any associate company in connection with the proposed transactions except that services incident to the transactions will be performed, at cost, by the service corporation of American Gas. The application also indicates that no state commission or Federal regulatory commission other than this Commission has jurisdiction over the proposed transactions.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than January 21, 1957, at 5:30 p. m., request the Commission in writing that a hearing be held on such matter, stating the reasons for such request, the nature of his interest, and the issues of fact or law raised by said application which he desires to controvert, or may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. Any such request should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington 25, D. C. At any time after said date, said application, as filed or as it may be amended, may be granted as provided in Rule U-23 of the rules and regulations promulgated under the act, or the Commission may grant exemption from its rules as provided in Rules U-20 (a) and U-100 or may take such other action as it may deem appropriate.

WEST PENN POWER CO.

NOTICE OF PROPOSED INCREASE IN AUTHORIZED AMOUNT OF COMMON STOCK AND STATED CAPITAL, AND PROXY SOLICITATION IN FAVOR THEREOF

JANUARY 4, 1957.

Notice is hereby given that West Penn Power Company ("Company"), a Pennsylvania corporation which is a public-utility subsidiary of West Penn Electric Company, a registered holding company, has filed with this Commission a declaration pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("act"), designating sections 6, 7, and 12 (e) thereof and Rule U-62 thereunder as applicable to the proposed transaction, which is summarized as follows:

Pursuant to the laws of Pennsylvania, the Company proposes to increase its authorized capital stock and stated capital from $95,292,300 to $150,000,000 by increasing its authorized Common Stock from 4,529,230 shares without par value, having an aggregate stated capital of $45,292,300, to 10,000,000 shares without par value, having an aggregate stated capital of $100,000,000. (The remaining $50,000,000 of its authorized capital stock, consisting of 500,000 shares of Preferred Stock with a paf value of $100 per share, will remain unchanged.)

The Company plans to hold a special meeting of its stockholders on March 1, 1957 to consider the aforesaid proposal, and to solicit proxies in favor thereof.

It is estimated that the Company's total expenses in the matter will aggregate $2,500.

In the opinion of the Company's counsel, no other regulatory commission has jurisdiction over the proposed transaction.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than January 23, 1957 at 5:30 p. m., request the Commission in writing that a hearing be held on such matter, stating the nature of his interest, the reasons for such request, and the issues of fact or law, if any, raised by said declaration which he desires to controvert; or he may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. Any such request should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington 25, D. C. At any time after said date, said declaration as filed or as amended, may be permitted to become effective as provided by Rule U-23 of the rules and regulations promulgated under the act, or the Commission may grant exemption from its rules as provided in Rules U-20 (a) and U-100, or take such other action as it may deem appropriate.

PART 53—LIVESTOCK, MEATS, PREPARED MEATS, AND MEAT PRODUCTS (GRADING, CERTIFICATION, AND STANDARDS)

OFFICIAL UNITED STATES STANDARDS FOR LAMB, YEARLING MUTTON, AND MUTTON CARCASSES

On October 31, 1956, a notice of proposed rule making was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (21 F. R. 8322) regarding the amendment of the official United States standards for lamb, yearling mutton, and mutton carcasses, under the provision of sections 203 and 205 of the Agricultural Marketing Act of 1946, as amended (7 U. S. C. and Supp. III 1622 and 1624).

After due consideration of all relevant material submitted pursuant to the notice, and under the aforesaid sections of the Agricultural Marketing Act of 1946, as amended, the official United States standards for lamb, yearling mutton, and mutton carcasses (7 CFR 53.114–53.118) are amended to read as follows:

§ 53.114 Differentiation between lamb, yearling mutton, and mutton carcasses. (a) Ovine carcasses are classified as lamb, yearling mutton, or mutton, on the basis of differences that occur in the development of their muscular and skeletal systems.

(b) Lamb carcasses always have break joints on their front shanks and generally have narrow rib bones, a relatively narrow, compact forequarter, and a light red color and fine texture of lean. They usually have a considerable amount of red in the ribs and a somewhat smaller amount in the shanks.

(c) Yearling mutton carcasses may have either break joints or "spool" joints on their front shanks and generally have moderately wide rib bones, a slightly wide or "spready" appearance through the forequarter, and a slightly dark red color and slightly coarse texture of lean. They usually have only traces of red in the ribs and shanks.

(d) Mutton carcasses always have "spool" joints on their front shanks and generally have wide rib bones, a wide, "spready" forequarter, and a dark red color and coarse texture of lean. Ribs and shanks usually are devoid of red color.

§ 53.115 Application of standards. (a) Lamb, yearling mutton, and mutton carcasses are graded on a composite evaluation of two general grade factors—conformation and quality. These factors are concerned with the proportions of the various wholesale cuts and the proportions of meat and bone in the carcass and the quality of the lean, respectively.

(b) Conformation is the manner of formation of the carcass with particular reference to the relative development of the muscular and skeletal systems, although it is also influenced, to some extent, by the quantity and distribution of external finish. The conformation of a carcass is evaluated by averaging the conformation of its various component parts, giving consideration not only to the proportion of each cut to the carcass weight but also to the general desirability of the cut as compared with other cuts. Best conformation implies a high proportion of edible meat to bone and a high proportion of the weight of the carcass in the more demanded cuts and is indicated by a compact, blocky, plump, full, well-rounded appearance. Inferior conformation implies a low proportion of edible meat to bone and a low proportion of the weight of the carcass in the more demanded cuts and is indicated by a rangy, angular, thin, sunken appearance. External fat in excess of that normally left on retail cuts is not considered in evaluating conformation.

(c) Quality of the lean flesh is best evaluated from consideration of its color, texture, firmness, and marbling, as observed in a cut surface, in relation to the apparent maturity of the animal from which the carcass was produced. However, in grading carcasses or sides in which direct observation of these characteristics is not possible, the quality of the lean is evaluated indirectly from consideration of its color and firmness, the quantity of certain interior fat deposits, and the firmness of the external fat, all in relation to the apparent evidences of maturity. The interior fat deposits considered in this indirect evaluation of quality, in descending order of their importance, are as follows: (1) The fat intermingled within the lean between the ribs called "feathering", (2) the streaking of fat within and upon the inside flank muscles, and (3) the fat deposited over the inside of the ribs adjacent to the backbone called "overflow fat". Feathering and fat streaking in the inside flank muscles are each given much more consideration than overflow fat. Firmness of external fat which is superior or inferior to that specified as minimum for each grade is used to a limited extent as an indicator of quality.

(d) The standards for each grade of lamb specify two general levels of development of the quality-indicating characteristics described in paragraph (c) of this section, dependent upon the apparent evidences of maturity attained by the lamb at the time of slaughter. It is not intended, however, that these two maturity groups should cover the entire range of maturity within which lambs are marketed, but rather it is intended that these groups represent the extremes of maturity encountered and that there is an additional group which is intermediate in maturity between the two described whose grade requirements must be determined by interpolation. The standards for each grade of yearling mutton and mutton specify only one general level of development of the quality-indicating characteristics described, and these characteristics apply only to carcasses which are typical in maturity for their class. In order to qualify for a specific grade, yearling mutton or mutton carcasses with evidences of more advanced maturity than typical for their class are required to have a slightly greater development of these characteristics than described. Conversely, such carcasses with evidences of less maturity than typical for their class may qualify for a given grade with a slightly lesser development of these characteristics.

(e) Carcasses qualifying for any particular grade may vary with respect to the relative development of the various characteristics that contribute to their conformation and quality, and there will be carcasses which qualify for a particular grade in which the development of some of these individual grade factors will be typical of other grades. Because it is impractical to describe the nearly limitless numbers of such recognizable combinations of characteristics, the standards for each grade describe only carcasses which have a relatively similar development of individual conformation and quality factors and which are also representative of the lower limit of each grade. However, examples of the extent to which superiority in quality may compensate for deficiencies in conformation, and vice versa, are indicated for each grade.

(f) The standards are intended to apply to all ovine carcasses without regard to the apparent sex condition of the animal at time of slaughter. However, carcasses which have thick, heavy necks and shoulders typical of uncastrated males are discounted in grade in accord with the extent to which these characteristics are developed. Such discounts may vary from less than half a grade in carcasses from young lambs in which such characteristics are barely noticeable to as much as two full grades in carcasses from mature rams in which such characteristics are very pronounced.

(g) The standards for lamb, yearling mutton, and mutton carcasses contained in §§ 53.116 through 53.118 together provide for grading carcasses within the full range of maturity of the ovine species. Although the grade standards for this full range of maturity are contained in three separate standards, it is the intent that the three standards be considered as a continuous series. Therefore, in determining the grade of a carcass which has a degree of maturity that is not typical of that specified in one of the three standards, it is necessary to interpolate between the standard for the kind of carcass (lamb, yearling mutton, or mutton) being graded and the standard for the kind of carcass which is most closely adjacent to it in maturity.

§ 53.116 Specifications for official United States standards for grades of lamb carcasses—(a) Prime. (1) Carcasses possessing minimum qualifications for the Prime grade tend to be compact and blocky and tend to have plump, full legs; wide, thick backs; thick, full, smooth shoulders; and short, thick necks.

(2) Evidences of quality vary markedly with changes in maturity. Carcasses from young lambs that have red, narrow rib bones; red, moist, porous break joints; and a light pink color of inside flank muscles have a moderate amount of feathering between the ribs, a modest quantity of fat streaking in the inside flank muscles, and a small amount of overflow fat over the inside of the ribs adjacent to the backbone. The exterior finish is firm, and the flanks are full and firm.

(3 Carcasses from more mature lambs that have slightly wide, slightly red rib bones; slightly red but rather dry and hard break joints; and a dark pink color of inside flank muscles have moderately abundant and rather extensive feathering between the ribs, slightly abundant fat streaking in the inside flank muscles, and a moderate amount of overflow fat over the inside of the ribs adjacent to the backbone. The external finish is very firm, and the flanks are very full and firm.

(4) To qualify for the Prime grade a carcass must possess the minimum qualifications for quality regardless of the extent that its conformation may exceed the minimum requirements for Prime. However, a development of quality which is superior to that specified as minimum for the Prime grade may compensate, on an equal basis and without limit, for a development of conformation which is inferior to that specified for Prime as indicated in the following example: A carcass which has evidences of quality equivalent to the mid-point of the Prime grade may have conformation equivalent to the mid-point of the Choice grade and remain eligible for Prime.

(b) Choice. (1) Carcasses possessing minimum qualifications for the Choice grade are slightly compact with slightly plump, full legs; slightly wide, thick backs; slightly wide, full shoulders; and slightly short, thick necks.

(2) Evidences of quality vary considerably with changes in maturity. Carcasses from young lambs that have red, narrow rib bones; red, moist, porous break joints; and a slightly dark pink color of inside flank muscles have a small amount of feathering between the ribs, a slight quantity of fat streaking in the inside flank muscles, and a slight amount of overflow fat over the inside of the ribs adjacent to the backbone. The exterior finish is moderately firm, and the flanks are slightly full and firm.

(3) Carcasses from more mature lambs that have slightly wide, slightly red rib bones; slightly red but rather dry and hard break joints; and a light red color of inside flank muscles have a moderate amount of feathering between the ribs, a small quantity of fat streaking in the inside flank muscles, and a small amount of overflow fat over the inside of the ribs adjacent to the backbone. The external finish is firm, and the flanks are moderately full and firm.

(4) A carcass which has conformation equivalent to at least the mid-point of the Choice grade may have evidences of quality equivalent to the minimum for the upper third of the Good grade and remain eligible for Choice. Also, a development of quality which is superior to that specified as minimum for the Choice grade may compensate, on an equal basis and without limit, for a development of conformation which is inferior to that specified for Choice as indicated in the following example: A carcass which has evidences of quality equivalent to the mid-point of the Choice grade may have conformation equivalent to the mid-point of the Good grade and remain eligible for Choice.

(c) Good. (1) Carcasses possessing minimum qualifications for the Good grade are moderately rangy and slightly angular with slightly thin, tapering legs; slightly narrow, thin backs and shoulders; and moderately long, thin necks.

(2) Evidences of quality vary moderately with changes in maturity. Carcasses from young lambs that have red, narrow rib bones; red, moist, porous break joints; and a dark pink color of inside flank muscles have traces of feathering between the ribs but practically no fat streaking in the inside flank muscles and practically no overflow fat over the inside of the ribs adjacent to the backbone. The exterior finish is slightly firm, and the flanks are slightly thin and soft.

(3) Carcasses from more mature lambs that have slightly wide, slightly red rib bones; slightly red but rather dry and hard break joints; and a slightly dark red color of inside flank muscles have a slight amount of feathering between the ribs, traces of fat streaking in the inside flank muscles, and traces of overflow fat over the inside of the ribs adjacent to the backbone. The external finish is moderately firm, and the flanks are slightly full and firm.

(4) A carcass which has conformation equivalent to at least the mid-point of the Good grade may have evidences of quality equivalent to the minimum for the upper third of the Utility grade and remain eligible for Good. Also, a development of quality which is superior to that specified as minimum for the Good grade may compensate, without limit, for a development of conformation which is inferior to that specified for Good on the basis of a half grade of superior quality for a third of a grade of deficient conformation as indicated in the following example: A carcass which has evidences of quality equivalent to the mid-point of the Good grade may have conformation equivalent to the minimum for the upper third of the Utility grade and remain eligible for Good.

(d) Utility. (1) Carcasses possessing minimum qualifications for the Utility grade are very rangy and angular with thin, slightly concave legs; very narrow, sunken backs; narrow, sharp shoulders; and long, thin necks. Hips and shoulder joints are plainly visible.

(2) Although evidences of quality vary slightly with changes in maturity the differences are so small as to make their separate descriptions impractical. There is practically no feathering between the ribs, no fat streaking in the inside flank muscles, and no overflow fat over the inside of the ribs adjacent to the backbone. The lean in the inside flank muscles and between the ribs is dark red in color. External finish is soft, and the flanks are soft and slightly watery.

(3) A carcass which has conformation equivalent to at least the mid-point of the Utility grade may have evidences of quality equivalent to the minimum for the upper third of the Cull grade and remain eligible for Utility. Also, a development of quality which is superior to that specified as minimum for the Utility grade may compensate, without limit, for a development of conformation which is inferior to that specified for Utility on the basis of a half grade of superior quality for a third of a grade of deficient conformation as indicated in the following example: A carcass which has evidences of quality equivalent to the mid-point of the Utility grade may have conformation equivalent to the minimum for the upper third of the Cull grade and remain eligible for Utility.

(e) Cull. Typical Cull grade carcasses are extremely rangy and angular and extremely thin-fleshed throughout. Legs are extremely thin and concave, backs are extremely sunken and thin, shoulders are very thin and sharp, and necks are extremely thin. Hips and shoulder joints, as well as ribs and bones of the spinal column, are clearly outlined, and the flesh is soft and watery and very dark red in color.

§ 53.117 Specifications for official United States standards for grades of yearling mutton carcasses—(a) Prime. (1) Carcasses possessing minimum qualifications for the Prime grade are compact and blocky and have plump, full legs; wide, thick backs; wide, full, smooth shoulders; and short, thick necks. They have extensive and abundant feathering between the ribs, moderately abundant streaking of fat in the inside flank muscles, slightly abundant overflow fat over the inside of the ribs adjacent to the backbone, and a light red color of inside flank muscles. The exterior finish is very firm, and the flanks are very full and firm.

(2) To qualify for the Prime grade a carcass must possess the minimum qualifications for quality regardless of the extent that its conformation may exceed the minimum requirements for Prime. However, a development of quality which is superior to that specified as minimum for the Prime grade may compensate, on an equal basis and without limit, for a development of conformation which is inferior to that specified for Prime as indicated in the following example: A carcass which has evidences of quality equivalent to the mid-point of the Prime grade may have conformation equivalent to the mid-point of the Choice grade and remain eligible for Prime.

(3) Carcasses which are otherwise eligible for Prime grade but which have excessive, bunchy, or irregular distribution of external fat or excessive quantities of kidney and pelvic fat are not eligible for Prime.

(b) Choice. (1) Carcasses possessing minimum qualifications for the Choice grade are moderately compact with rather short, plump, full legs; moderately wide, thick backs; moderately wide, full shoulders; and rather short, thick necks. They have slightly abundant feathering between the ribs, a modest amount of fat streaking in the inside flank muscles, a modest amount of overflow fat over the inside of the ribs adjacent to the backbone, and a slightly dark red color of inside flank muscles. The exterior finish is firm, and the flanks are moderately full and firm.

(2) A carcass which has conformation equivalent to at least the mid-point of the Choice grade may have evidences of quality equivalent to the minimum for the upper third of the Good grade and remain eligible for Choice. Also, a development of quality which is superior to that specified as minimum for the Choice grade may compensate, on an equal basis and without limit, for a development of conformation which is inferior to that specified for Choice as indicated in the following example: A carcass which has evidences of quality equivalent to the mid-point of the Choice grade may have conformation equivalent to the mid-point of the Good grade and remain eligible for Choice.

(3) Carcasses which are otherwise eligible for Prime grade but which have excessive, bunchy, or irregular distribution of external fat or excessive quantities of kidney and pelvic fat are included in the Choice grade.

(c) Good. (1) Carcasses possessing minimum qualifications for the Good grade are slightly rangy and angular, with slightly thin, tapering legs; slightly narrow, thin backs; and slightly long, thin necks. They have a small amount of feathering between the ribs, a slight amount of fat streaking in the inside flank muscles, a slight amount of overflow fat over the inside of the ribs adjacent to the backbone, and a moderately dark red color of inside flank muscles. The exterior finish is moderately firm, and the flanks are slightly thick and full.

(2) A carcass which has conformation equivalent to at least the mid-point of the Good grade may have evidences of quality equivalent to the minimum for the upper third of the Utility grade and remain eligible for Good. Also, a development of quality which is superior to that specified as minimum for the Good grade may compensate, without limit, for a development of conformation which is inferior to that specified for Good on the basis of a half grade of superior quality for a third of a grade of deficient conformation as indicated in the following example: A carcass which has evidences of quality equivalent to the mid-point of the Good grade may have conformation equivalent to the minimum for the upper third of the Utility grade and remain eligible for Good.

(d) Utility. (1) Carcasses possessing minimum qualifications for the Utility grade are very rangy and angular with thin, slightly concave legs; very narrow, sunken backs; narrow, sharp shoulders; and long, thin necks. Hips and shoulder joints are plainly visible. There is practically no feathering between the ribs, no fat streaking in the inside flank muscles, no overflow fat over the inside of the ribs adjacent to the backbone, and a dark red color of inside flank muscles. The exterior finish is moderately soft, and the flanks are soft and slightly watery.

(2) A carcass which has conformation equivalent to at least the mid-point of the Utility grade may have evidences of quality equivalent to the minimum for the upper third of the Cull grade and remain eligible for Utility. Also, a development of quality which is superior to that specified as minimum for the Utility grade may compensate, without limit, for a development of conformation which is inferior to that specified for Utility on the basis of a half grade of superior quality for a third of a grade of deficient conformation as indicated in the following example: A carcass which has evidences of quality equivalent to the mid-point of the Utility grade may have conformation equivalent to the minimum for the upper third of the Cull grade and remain eligible for Utility.

(e) Cull. Typical Cull grade carcasses are extremely rangy and angular and extremely thin-fleshed throughout. Legs are extremely thin and concave, backs are extremely sunken and thin, shoulders are very thin and sharp, and necks are extremely thin. The hips and shoulder joints, as well as the ribs and the bones of the spinal column, are clearly outlined, and the flesh is soft and watery and very dark red in color.

§ 53.118 Specifications for official United States standards for grades of mutton carcasses—(a) Choice. (1) Carcasses possessing minimum qualifications for the Choice grade are moderately compact with slightly plump, full legs; wide, thick backs; wide, full shoulders; and slightly short, thick necks. They have moderately abundant feathering between the ribs, a moderate amount of fat streaking in the inside flank muscles, a modest amount of overflow fat over the inside of the ribs adjacent to the backbone, and a dark red color of inside flank muscles. The exterior finish is firm, and the flanks are moderately full and firm.

(2) A carcass which has conformation equivalent to at least the mid-point of the Choice grade may have evidences of quality equivalent to the minimum for the upper third of the Good grade and remain eligible for Choice. Also, a development of quality which is superior to that specified as minimum for the Choice grade may compensate, on an equal basis and without limit, for a development of conformation which is inferior to that specified for Choice as indicated in the following example: A carcass which has evidences of quality equivalent to the mid-point of the Choice grade may have conformation equivalent to the mid-point of the Good grade and remain eligible for Choice.

(3) Carcasses which are otherwise eligible for Choice grade but which have excessive, bunchy, or irregular distribution of external fat or excessive quantities of kidney and pelvic fat are not eligible for Choice.

(b) Good. (1) Carcasses possessing minimum qualifications for the Good grade are slightly rangy and angular, with slightly thin, tapering legs; slightly wide but slightly thin-fleshed backs and shoulders; and slightly long, thin necks. Hips and shoulder joints are visible. Such carcasses have a modest amount of feathering between the ribs, a slight amount of fat streaking in the inside flank muscles, a slight amount of overflow fat over the inside of the ribs adjacent to the backbone, and a dark red color of inside flank muscles. The exterior finish is moderately firm, and the flanks are slightly thick and full.

(2) A carcass which has conformation equivalent to at least the mid-point of the Good grade may have evidences of quality equivalent to the minimum for the upper third of the Utility grade and remain eligible for Good. Also, a development of quality which is superior to that specified as minimum for the Good grade may compensate, without limit, for a development of conformation which is inferior to that specified for Good on the basis of a half grade of superior quality for a third of a grade of deficient conformation as indicated in the following example: A carcass which has evidences of quality equivalent to the mid-point of the Good grade may have conformation equivalent to the minimum for the upper third of the Utility grade and remain eligible for Good.

(3) Carcasses which are otherwise eligible for Choice grade but which have excessive, bunchy, or irregular distribution of external fat or excessive quantities of kidney and pelvic fat are included in the Good grade.

(c) Utility. (1) Carcasses possessing minimum qualifications for the Utility grade are very rangy and angular with thin, slightly concave legs; very narrow, sunken backs; narrow, sharp shoulders; and long, thin necks. Hips and shoulder joints are plainly visible. There are traces of feathering between the ribs, but practically no fat streaking in the inside flank muscles, practically no overflow fat over the inside of the ribs adjacent to the backbone, and a very dark red color of inside flank muscles. The exterior finish is slightly soft, and the flanks are soft and slightly watery.

(2) A carcass which has conformation equivalent to at least the mid-point of the Utility grade may have evidences of quality equivalent to the minimum for the upper third of the Cull grade and remain eligible for Utility. Also, a development of quality which is superior to that specified as minimum for the Utility grade may compensate, without limit, for a development of conformation which is inferior to that specified for Utility on the basis of a half grade of superior quality for a third of a grade of deficient conformation as indicated in the following example: A carcass which has evidences of quality equivalent to the mid-point of the Utility grade may have conformation equivalent to the minimum for the upper third of the Cull grade and remain eligible for Utility.

(d) Cull. Typical Cull grade carcasses are extremely rangy and angular and extremely thin-fleshed throughout. Legs are extremely thin and concave, backs are extremely sunken and thin, shoulders are very thin and sharp, and necks are extremely thin. The hips and shoulder joints, as well as the ribs and the bones of the spinal column, are clearly outlined, and the flesh is soft and watery and very dark red in color.

Some of these amendments modify the interpretation of the standards for some of the grades. The other changes will not alter the interpretation of the standards but are designed to make the standards more precise and definitive and thereby facilitate their interpretation.

Changes which affect the interpretation of the standards are as follows: (a) In the Choice grade, a superior development of conformation (mid-point Choice or better) is permitted to compensate for a deficiency of one-third of a grade of quality, and (b) some of the requirements for feathering, fat streaking in the inside flank muscles, overflow fat, firmness of flanks, and firmness of external fat are revised for the Prime, Choice, and Good grades. In general, the requirements for these factors are relaxed for the more mature lamb carcasses in the Prime and Choice grades but are increased slightly for Good grade lamb carcasses. Corresponding changes also are made in the standards for yearling mutton and mutton carcasses.

The following changes are made primarily to clarify the interpretation of the standards: (a) Section 53.115 Application of standards is revised to indicate more clearly the relative importance of the factors used in evaluating conformation and quality, (b) certain references to quantity of external fat and of kidney and pelvic fat are deleted, (c) color of inside flank muscles is indicated more clearly as a factor considered in evaluating maturity, and (d) the manner in which a superior development of quality is permitted to compensate for a deficient development of conformation, and vice versa, is clarified in each of the grades.

These changes were recommended to the Department by an industry-wide committee appointed by the National Wool Growers Association and reflect the results of several meetings with various segments of the industry during the last 18 months.

The foregoing amendments will become effective on February 11, 1957.

Chapter VII—Commodity Stabilization Service (Farm Marketing Quotas and Acreage Allotments), Department of Agriculture

PART 722—COTTON

PROCLAMATION OF RESULTS OF MARKETING QUOTA REFERENDUM FOR 1957 CROP OF UPLAND COTTON

§ 722.804 Basis and purpose. The purpose of this proclamation is to announce the results of the marketing quota referendum for the 1957 crop of upland cotton. Under the provisions of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended, the Secretary of Agriculture on August 30, 1956, proclaimed a national marketing quota for the 1957 crop of upland cotton (21 F. R. 6691), and on October 30, 1956, announced that a referendum would be held on December 11, 1956, to determine whether cotton farmers were in favor of or opposed to such quota (21 F. R. 8466). Since the only purpose of this proclamation is to announce the results of the referendum, it is hereby found and determined that, with respect to the proclamation, application of the notice and public procedure provisions of the Administrative Procedure Act (60 Stat. 238; 5 U. S. C. 1003) is unnecessary.

§ 722.805 Proclamation of results of the marketing quota referendum for the 1957 crop of upland cotton. In a referendum held on December 11, 1956, of farmers engaged in the production of the 1956 crop of upland cotton, 231,678 farmers voted. Of those voting 214,003, or 92.4 percent, favored the national marketing quota proclaimed by the Secretary of Agriculture for the 1957 crop of upland cotton, and 17,675, or 7.6 percent, opposed such quota. Therefore, the national marketing quota of 11,014,493 bales proclaimed by the Secretary of Agriculture on August 30, 1956, for the 1957 crop of upland cotton shall continue in effect.

(Sec. 375, 52 Stat. 66, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 1375. Interpret or apply secs. 342–345. 52 Stat. 56–58, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 1342–1345)

Done at Washington, D. C., this 8th day of January 1957. Witness my hand and the seal of the Department of Agriculture.

PART 722—COTTON

PROCLAMATION OF RESULTS OF MARKETING QUOTA REFERENDUM FOR 1957 CROP OF EXTRA LONG STAPLE COTTON

§ 722.1404 Basis and purpose. The purpose of this proclamation is to announce the results of the marketing quota referendum for the 1957 crop of extra long staple cotton. Under the provisions of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended, the Secretary of Agriculture on October 15, 1956, proclaimed a national marketing quota for the 1957 crop of extra long staple cotton (21 F. R. 7931), and on October 30, 1956, announced that a referendum would be held on December 11, 1956, to determine whether cotton farmers were in favor of or opposed to such quota (21 F. R. 8466). Since the only purpose of this proclamation is to announce the results of the referendum, it is hereby found and determined that, with respect to the proclamation, application of the notice and public procedure provisions of the Administrative Procedure Act (60 Stat. 238; 5 U. S. C. 1003) is unnecessary.

§ 722.1405 Proclamation of results of the marketing quota referendum for the 1957 crop of extra long staple cotton. In a referendum held on December 11, 1956, of farmers engaged in the production of the 1956 crop of extra long staple cotton, 888 farmers voted. Of those voting 839, or 94.5 percent, favored the national marketing quota proclaimed by the Secretary of Agriculture for the 1957 crop of extra long staple cotton, and 49, or 5.5 percent, opposed such quota. Therefore, the national marketing quota of 76,565 bales proclaimed by the Secretary of Agriculture on October 15, 1956, for the 1957 crop of extra long staple cotton shall continue in effect.

(Sec. 375, 52 Stat. 66, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 1375. Interpret or apply secs. 342–345, 347, 52 Stat. 56–59, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 1342–1345, 1347)

SUBPART—1956-CROP GRAIN SORGHUMS LOAN AND PURCHASE AGREEMENT PROGRAM

MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

The regulations issued by the Commodity Credit Corporation and the Commodity Stabilization Service published in 21 F. R. 4248, 4790, 6947 and 7931 containing the specific requirements for the 1956-crop Grain Sorghums are amended as follows:

Section 421.1833 (d) (2) is amended by changing the basic county support rates in Texas as follows:

Martin County increased from $1.84 to $1.87 per hundredweight.

Midland County increased from $1.84 to $1.86 per hundredweight.

Ector County increased from $1.84 to $1.85 per hundredweight.

AIRMAN IDENTIFICATION CARD REQUIREMENTS

The Civil Aeronautics Board deleted the airman identification card requirements of Part 22 by Civil Air Regulations Amendment 22-11 (21 F. R. 9010, November 21, 1956), accordingly the rules and policies issued by the Administrator pursuant to § 22.32 (g) are also deleted.

This supplement does not impose any additional burden upon interested persons, and no useful purpose would be served by compliance with the notice, procedures, and effective date provisions of section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act. Therefore, compliance is unnecessary and is not required.

The airman identification card requirements contained in §§ 22.32–1, 22.32–2, 22.32–3, and 22.32–4 are hereby deleted.

(Sec. 205, 52 Stat. 984; 49 U. S. C. 425. Interprets or applies secs. 601, 602, 52 Stat. 1007, 1008; 49 U. S. C. 551, 552)

This supplement shall become effective upon publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

PART 24—MECHANIC AND REPAIRMAN CERTIFICATES

AIRMAN IDENTIFICATION CARD REQUIREMENTS

Airman identification card requirements have been deleted by the Civil Aeronautics Board from the various part of the Civil Air Regulations pertaining to airman certification; therefore, it is expedient at this time to delete the rules and interpretations issued by the Administrator pursuant to these regulations.

This supplement does not impose any additional burden upon interested persons, and no useful purpose would be served by compliance with the notice, procedures, and effective date provisions of section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act; therefore, compliance is unnecessary and is not required.

The airman identification card requirements contained in §§ 24.10–1 through 24.10–4, published in 21 F. R. 3775–3776 on June 2, 1956, and § 24.104–1 published in 18 F. R. 6803, October 28, 1953, are hereby deleted.

(Sec. 205, 52 Stat. 984; 49 U. S. C. 425. Interprets or applies secs. 601, 602, 52 Stat. 1007, 1008; 49 U. S. C. 551, 552)

This supplement shall become effective upon publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

PART 27—AIRCRAFT DISPATCHER CERTIFICATES

AIRMAN IDENTIFICATION CARD REQUIREMENTS

The Civil Aeronautics Board deleted the airman identification card requirements of Part 27 by Civil Air Regulations Amendment 27-8 (21 F. R. 9011, November 21, 1956), accordingly the rules and interpretations issued by the Administrator pursuant to § 27.23 are also deleted.

This supplement does not impose any additional burden upon interested persons, and no useful purpose would be served by compliance with the notice, procedures, and effective date provisions of section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act. Therefore, compliance is unnecessary and is not required. The airman identification card requirements contained in §§ 27.23–1 through 27.23–5 are hereby deleted.

(Sec. 205, 52 Stat. 984; 49 U. S. C. 425. Interprets or applies sec. 601, 602, 52 Stat. 1007, 1008; 49 U. S. C. 551, 552)

This supplement shall become effective upon publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

TITLE 32—NATIONAL DEFENSE

Chapter VII—Department of the Air Force

Subchapter F—Reserve Forces

PART 861—OFFICERS' RESERVE

SHORT AND SPECIAL TOURS OF ACTIVE DUTY

In Part 861 §§ 861.1151 to 861.1160 are revised to read as follows:

Sec.
861.1151 General.
861.1152 Eligibility.
861.1153 Employees of U. S. Government and the District of Columbia.
861.1154 Application.
861.1155 Place of duty.
861.1156 Duration of tours.
861.1157 Medical requirements.
861.1158 Waiver for defects.
861.1159 Reservists medically disqualified.
861.1160 Medical certificates.

AUTHORITY: §§ 861.1151 to 861.1160 issued under R. S. 161, sec. 202, 61 Stat. 500, as amended; 5 U. S. C. 22, 171a. Interpret or apply secs. 265, 276, 672, 677–682, 70A Stat. 11, 27, 29–31; 10 U. S. C. 265, 276, 672, 677–682.

DERIVATION: AFR 45-14, July 26, 1956.

§ 861.1151 General—(a) Policy. Tours of active duty or active duty for training are authorized for Ready Reservists who occupy unit or individual positions reflected in the Reserve mobilization requirement of the Air Force. Tours of active duty or active duty for training are performed in the interest of unit and individual proficiency and for the convenience of the government.

(b) Definitions—(1) Short tour. A tour of active duty for training to maintain individual or unit proficiency.

(2) Tour for school training. A tour of active duty for training to attend service schools conducted by the Air University, the Air Training Command and joint service schools.

(3) Special tour. A tour of active duty or active duty for training, other than those defined in this paragraph, for the convenience of the government.

(c) Criteria for special tours of active duty. Special tours of active duty will be requested only if all of the following conditions are met:

(1) The reservist must volunteer for the tour.

(2) The duties to be performed must not be the function of the active establishment.

(3) Funds must be available to the requesting command.

(4) Either the training must be necessary to qualify the individual to effectively perform in his duty assignment when the desired degree of qualification cannot be obtained through inactive duty or school training or the duty to be performed must be necessary to accomplish a project in support of the Reserve Program which is the sole responsibility of the Air Force Reserve.

§ 861.1152 Eligibility—(a) Reservists eligible. Ready reservists assigned to Air Reserve Wings, separate units (Training Category A) and to the Mobilization Assignment Reserve Section in Training Categories A through D (see §§ 861.1 to 861.14) are eligible for short, special and school training tours.

(b) Reservists not eligible. The following reservists are not eligible for short tours, special tours and tours for school training:

(1) Those assigned to program elements other than outlined in paragraph (a) of this section.

(2) All Standby Reservists.

(3) Air Force Reserve Officers serving on active duty as warrant officers or airmen or Air Force Reserve Warrant Officers serving on active duty as airmen.

(4) Those whose appointments or enlistments will expire before completing a tour of duty.

(5) Those drawing pensions, disability allowances, disability compensation, retired pay or retirement pay unless they waive such entitlement.

§ 861.1153 Employees of the U. S. Government and the District of Columbia. A reservist who is a full-time employee of the Federal Government will not be ordered to active duty for training to perform duties in the same position in which he is employed as a civilian. The law grants 15 days military leave to employees to participate in reserve training. When this leave expires the reservist's employer may grant him annual leave to perform further military duty. He is entitled to the compensation of his civilian position plus his military pay and allowances for both periods without regard to dual compensation laws.

§ 861.1154 Application. The reservist will make application on AF Form 1289, "Application for Active Duty Training."

(a) Short tours. Training Category A units which are organized to serve on active duty as units train as units during annual encampments. Reservists assigned to such units are not required to submit applications for short tours. All other reservists will send their applications through the custodian of the field personnel records soon enough to arrive at the unit of assignment at least 30 days before the effective date of duty.

(b) Special tours. The reservist will send his application through the custodian of the field personnel record to the unit of assignment at least 30 days before the effective date of duty. The unit concerned will submit detailed justification for special tours other than those authorized by the Annual Short and Special Tour Operating Program, through channels, to Headquarters USAF. Applications of the persons concerned will be included. Special tours will be approved only when the conditions specified in § 861.1151 (c) have been met.

(c) School tours. The reservist normally will submit his application 3 months before class starting date.

(d) Reservists drawing pensions, disability allowance, disability compensation, retired pay or retirement pay. These reservists must waive such entitlement before they enter on active duty.

§ 861.1155 Place of duty. Commanders will not order reservists who are assigned to activities located within the zone of interior to short tours of active duty for training at places outside the continental limits of the United States. Also, they will not order reservists to duty within the zone of interior and then place them on temporary duty outside the United States. Exception: Reservists participating in over-water training flights contained in approved operating programs.

§ 861.1156 Duration of tours—(a) Short tours. Fifteen consecutive days including travel time. A reservist may not perform more than one short tour in any fiscal year but he may participate in one or more tours for school training or a special tour and a short tour during the same year.

(b) Tour for school training. Sufficient time for the reservist to complete the course he is selected to attend. It will include travel time.

(c) Special tour. No more than 90 days including travel time. A reservist may not serve on short and/or special tours more than a total of 90 days in any fiscal year.

§ 861.1157 Medical requirements—(a) Qualifications. (1) Applicants must meet the appropriate medical requirements. Reservists applying for tours of active duty of 30 days or less will be ordered to active duty without prior medical examination except as provided in paragraph (c) of this section.

(2) Reservists applying for active duty tours for more than 30 days are required to undergo a medical examination normally not more than 45 days before the expected date of entry on active duty. However, medical examinations accomplished not more than 90 days before the expected date of entry on active duty are acceptable. Such examinations will be without expense to the government for travel or pay. They may be performed at the military installation which is nearest the reservist's residence and which has the necessary medical facilities. The reservist should make an appointment with the medical facility before reporting for examination.

(b) Portions may be omitted. Wherever feasible, the complete standard medical examination will be accomplished. However, the following portions may be omitted when not clinically indicated: serology, chest X-ray, electrocardiogram, audiogram, microscopic urinalysis, lens correction and pelvic examination for female personnel. The medical examination for flying will always be completed.

(c) Certificate to sign upon reporting. Upon reporting for active duty each reservist, if he considers himself qualified for full military duty, will sign in duplicate certificate Number 1 in § 861.1160. If he does not consider himself qualified and cannot conscientiously sign the certificate, the commander of the training base will order him to undergo a medical examination. In any event, if he reports for active duty having an obvious physical disability, is ill, has been injured in any way since last taking a medical examination or is drawing a pension, disability allowance or disability compensation, he must submit to a medical examination.

(d) Certificate to sign upon relief. Upon relief from active duty each reservist will sign certificate Number 2 in § 861.1160. However, if he believes that his physical condition has materially changed during his active duty tour or if he is suffering from any disability or defect that was not present at the beginning of the tour, the commander of his training base will order him to undergo a medical examination.

§ 861.1158 Waivers for defects. Major air commanders may approve waivers of medical defects if reservists are found to be below the prescribed medical standards for general service.

All commanders will carefully consider the opinions of reviewing authorities in granting waivers for defects which reviewing authorities believe:

(a) Are static in nature.

(b) Are not subject to complication or aggravation by military duty.

(c) Will not interfere with the satisfactory performance of full military duty.

(d) Will not involve hospitalization or time lost from duty.

(e) Will not in any way compromise the performance of unlimited flying duty, flying safety or the personal well-being of rated personnel.

§ 861.1159 Reservists medically disqualified. The commander of the base where the medical examination is taken will relieve from active duty any reservist who undergoes a medical examination and is found medically disqualified. He will then send notice to this effect to the commander who ordered the reservist to active duty. Upon receipt of a medical disqualification notice, the commander responsible for the administration of the reservist will reassign the reservist to Headquarters Continental Air Command (Non-affiliated reserve section) for transfer to the Retired Reserve or for separation, whichever is appropriate.

---------- (Date)

I certify that I now consider myself sound and well and physically qualified for military duty; that I was considered physically qualified for military service when examination was accomplished on/or about ---------- at ----------;

(Date) (Place)

and that to the best of my knowledge and belief, I do not have any physical defects or conditions, except as noted below, which would preclude my performing full military duty.

Signed ----------

---------- (Date)

I certify that during the period of active duty training from ---------- to ---------- there has been no change in my physical condition and that I am not suffering any disability, defect or illness which was not present at the beginning of the tour of duty.

Signed ----------

NOTE: (1) Reservists will execute Medical Certificate No. 1 when the period of active duty for training is 30 days or less.

(2) All reservists will execute Medical Certificate No. 2 upon completion of active duty training tour.

TITLE 33—NAVIGATION AND NAVIGABLE WATERS

Chapter I—Coast Guard, Department of the Treasury

[CGFR 56-40]

PART 8—REGULATIONS, UNITED STATES COAST GUARD RESERVE

MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

By virtue of the authority contained in section 280, Title 10, U. S. Code, and Title 14, U. S. Code, the following amendments are hereby prescribed and shall become effective upon publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

POLICY

1. A new § 8.1110 is hereby added as follows:

§ 8.1110 Composition of boards—(a) Reserve membership. All boards convened for the appointment, promotion, demotion, involuntary release from active duty, discharge, or retirement of members of the Coast Guard Reserve shall include in the membership appropriate numbers of Coast Guard Reservists as follows:

(1) If the board is considering both Regular and Reserve personnel, the membership shall include Reserve representation in a number substantially equal to the proportion that Reserve personnel under consideration bears to the total of the Regular and Reserve personnel being considered by the board, if practicable.

(2) If the board is considering Reserve personnel only, the membership shall include at least 50 per centum of Reserve members, if practicable. This requirement shall be deemed to be fulfilled in any case wherein a board includes medical officers of the U. S. Public Health Service if Coast Guard Reserve membership is equal to Coast Guard Regular membership.

(3) If deemed impracticable by the convening authority to provide for Reserve membership as prescribed in subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph due to the unavailability of qualified Reservists, Reserve membership may, with the approval of the Commandant, be reduced.

(b) Seniority. The members of all boards convened for selection for promotion, or for the discharge or demotion of members of the Coast Guard Reserve shall be senior to the members under consideration, except that a member of a board serving in a legal advisory capacity may be junior to any person, other than a law specialist being considered, and that a member of a board serving in a medical advisory capacity may be junior to any person, other than a medical officer being considered.

PHYSICAL EXAMINATIONS AND STANDARDS

2. Paragraph (a) of § 8.1403 is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 8.1403 Persons authorized to conduct physical examinations. (a) Physical examinations of Reservists and of applicants for appointment, enlistment, or reenlistment shall, if practicable, be conducted by at least two medical officers of the U. S. Public Health Service. If impracticable to assemble such examining officers, physical examinations shall be conducted by one medical officer of the U. S. Public Health Service. If such a medical officer is unavailable, physical examinations may be conducted by one medical officer of any component of the Armed Forces. In special cases, physical examinations may be conducted by a reputable civilian physician provided that, unless otherwise authorized, no expense to the government is incurred.

DISCIPLINE, DISCHARGES, RESIGNATIONS, AND RETIREMENTS

3. Section 8.6201 is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 8.6201 Separation of Reservists. (a) Commissioned officers, chief warrant officers, and warrant officers shall be separated only in the discretion of the Secretary of the Treasury.

(b) Enlisted personnel may be separated in the discretion of the Commandant.

(c) District Commanders shall separate enlisted personnel under the conditions prescribed in § 8.6206 and as directed by the Commandant.

(d) Commanding officers may separate enlisted personnel serving on active duty or active duty for training under the same conditions as apply to enlisted personnel of the Regular Coast Guard.

4. Section 8.6202 is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 8.6202 Restrictions on separation. (a) Except as provided in §§ 8.6208 and 8.6210, no officer who has completed three years of commissioned service shall be involuntarily separated except pursuant to the approved recommendation of a board of officers or the approved sentence of a court-martial.

(b) No member shall be separated by the issuance of a discharge under conditions other than honorable except upon a finding of one or more of the following:

(1) That the approved sentence of a court-martial was discharge under conditions other than honorable.

(2) That the approved findings of a board of officers recommended discharge under conditions other than honorable.

(3) That the member consented thereto in writing with waiver of court-martial or board proceedings.

5. Section 8.6203 is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 8.6203 Type and character of discharge certificates. (a) Except as provided in paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section, members shall be separated with the same type and character of discharge certificate as is provided for personnel of the Regular Coast Guard under similar circumstances.

(b) If the type and character of discharge was in issue, a member who is separated pursuant to board action shall be issued the type and character of discharge certificate recommended by the board, as approved.

(c) Members who are dropped from the rolls as provided for in § 8.6208 will not be issued a discharge certificate.

(d) The type and character of separation as evidenced by the discharge certificate shall be entered in the service record.

6. Section 8.6204 is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 8.6204 Procedure for discharge generally. Except as indicated in § 8.6205, the procedures for effecting the discharge of members shall be as prescribed for personnel of the Regular Coast Guard under similar conditions.

7. Section 8.6205 is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 8.6205 Composition and procedure for discharge by board action. (a) All boards convened to consider the involuntary discharge of Reservists shall be composed as prescribed in § 8.1110 and shall be conducted in accordance with the provisions relating to boards of investigation as contained in the U. S. Coast Guard Supplement to the Manual for Courts-Martial.

(b) Each member whose name is referred to a board shall be accorded the rights of a party.

(c) Review and final action of all boards shall be as follows:

(1) By the Secretary of the Treasury if, as approved by the Commandant, the board recommended the separation of an officer.

(2) By the Commandant if, as approved by him, the board recommended retention of a member or recommended the discharge of an enlisted member.

8. Section 8.6206 is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 8.6206 Reasons for discharge of enlisted personnel. Unless otherwise indicated, the appropriate District Commander is authorized and directed to effect the discharge, without prior authority from the Commandant, of enlisted members for the following reasons and under the following conditions:

(a) Expiration of enlistment. Enlisted personnel shall, if otherwise eligible therefor, be discharged upon expiration of enlistment or upon expiration of enlistment as extended.

(b) Fulfillment of service obligation. Enlisted personnel having a military obligation pursuant to law shall, if otherwise eligible therefor, be discharged upon completion of the term of service required for fulfillment of such obligation. Personnel having such an obligation shall not be discharged upon fulfillment thereof in those cases where a portion of an enlistment or extension thereof remains to be served unless such discharge is authorized by the Commandant.

(c) Convenience of the Government. (1) Upon receipt of written evidence of acceptance of an appointment to commissioned or warrant status in any component of any Armed Force. Discharge will be effective as of the day next preceding acceptance of such an appointment.

(2) Upon receipt of written evidence of enlistment in a Reserve component of another Armed Force for the purpose of enrolling in an officer training program. Included in this category are those who will be enrolled in the aviation cadet or Reserve Officer Training Corps programs of the Army, Navy, or Air Force or in the Officer Candidate Course or Platoon Leaders Class of the U. S. Marine Corps. Discharge shall be effective as of the day next preceding acceptance of such an enlistment.

(3) Upon receipt of written evidence of enlistment in the Regular Army, Navy, Air Force, Marine Corps, or Coast Guard. Discharge shall be effective as of the day next preceding such enlistment.

(4) When inter-service transfers are authorized, discharge shall be effected as of the day next preceding the date of enlistment in the gaining Armed Force.

(5) Upon request of the individual concerned and after receipt of written evidence from a licensed physician that a woman member is pregnant.

(6) Upon request of the individual concerned and after receipt of written evidence that a woman member is the mother of a child under 18 regardless of the legal custody of the child or is the step-parent of a child under 18 and the child lives within the household of the woman for a period of more than 30 days a year.

(7) Upon receipt of formal notice from the Selective Service System or from competent military authority that a member has been inducted into the active service of another Armed Force. Discharge shall be effective as of the day next preceding the date of such induction.

(8) Upon request of the individual concerned and after receipt of written evidence that he has become a regular or duly ordained minister of religion.

(9) Other good and sufficient reasons when authorized or directed by the Commandant.

(d) Physical disability. Reservists who are found not physically qualified will be discharged only after review by the Commandant of the medical information received.

(e) Hardship or dependency. The discharge of Reservists by reason of hardship or dependency will be effected only after approval of the Commandant in each individual case and will be governed and processed in accordance with the provisions of the Personnel Manual. Special authority to direct discharge under certain conditions may be granted to specified commands by the Commandant when considered appropriate.

(f) Minority. The discharge of Reservists by reason of minority will be effected only after approval of the Commandant in each individual case and will be governed and processed in accordance with the provisions of the Personnel Manual. Special authority to direct discharge under certain conditions may be granted to specified commands by the Commandant when considered appropriate.

(g) For cause. (1) In any case in which it is considered that an enlisted person should not be retained in the Coast Guard Reserve, a detailed report including all available facts together with an appropriate recommendation shall be forwarded to the Commandant.

(2) If a discharge is recommended by reason of unsuitability, inaptitude, unfitness, or misconduct, the member concerned shall be so informed and shall be permitted to submit a statement in connection therewith, as provided in the Personnel Manual. Reports of civil convictions or fraudulent enlistments shall be submitted in accordance with the Personnel Manual and shall include a statement from the person concerned, if feasible, and a recommendation relative to disposition. If, in any case, the individual does not desire to submit a statement, a notation to this effect shall be made in his service record and shall be included in the report specified in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph.

9. Section 8.6207 is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 8.6207 Reasons for discharge of officers. (a) The following or similar reasons warrant recommendation for discharge of officers:

(1) Failure to keep the Commandant or appropriate District Commander informed of official residence.

(2) Failure to answer official correspondence.

(3) Willful declination or refusal to complete any administrative forms or procedures that may be directed by competent authority.

(4) Failure to maintain an acceptable standard of efficiency as indicated by fitness reports or other information evaluating professional fitness.

(5) Conduct of a character incompatible with exemplary standards of personal conduct, character, and integrity.

(6) Failure to appear for or pass prescribed physical examination.

(7) Upon a determination that an officer is a homosexual or exhibits, professes, or admits homosexual tendencies.

(8) Enlisting or accepting an appointment in the Regular component of the Coast Guard or in any component of another Armed Force.

(9) Upon a determination that retention of an officer is not clearly consistent with the interest of national security as applied to current military security standards.

(10) Under the conditions and upon reaching the maximum age prescribed in § 8.6210.

(11) Circumstances not covered in this section in which the Commandant considers that a board should evaluate an officer's worth to the service.

10. Section 8.6208 is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 8.6208 Dropping from the rolls. (a) Any member may be dropped from the rolls upon a finding of one or more of the following:

(1) That he has been absent without authority from his place of duty for a period of three months or more.

(2) That he has been found guilty by the civil authorities of an offense for which he has been finally sentenced to confinement in a Federal or State penitentiary or Federal or State correctional institution.

(b) Dropping from the rolls will be accomplished by letter to the member concerned which will set forth the substance of the findings required by paragraph (a) of this section. Such letter will serve to completely separate such member from the Coast Guard service.

(c) No certificate of discharge will be issued and separation by dropping from the rolls will not be officially characterized as having been either "under honorable conditions" or "under conditions other than honorable."

11. A new § 8.6209 is hereby added as follows:

§ 8.6209 Resignations. (a) Resignations from officers shall be submitted in letter form to the Secretary of the Treasury via the chain of command and shall set forth the reason therefor.

(b) Each resignation shall be considered on its individual merits taking into account the interests of national security and the needs of the Coast Guard subject to the following:

(1) The resignation of an officer who has not fulfilled his term of obligated service under the Universal Military Training and Service Act, as amended, will normally not be accepted unless submitted for the purpose of becoming a member of another Armed Force or the Regular component of the Coast Guard.

(2) The resignation of an officer accompanied by written evidence that he has become a regular or duly ordained minister of religion as defined in section 16 (g) of the Universal Military Training and Service Act, as amended, will be accepted.

12. A new § 8.6210 is hereby added as follows:

§ 8.6210 Mandatory discharge for age—(a) Reserve commissioned officers. Unless retired with pay or transferred to the Retired Reserve, a Reserve commissioned officer shall be discharged without board proceedings upon reaching age 62, or age 64 if retained as a flag officer or to complete 20 years of satisfactory Federal service pursuant to law.

(b) Reserve chief warrant and warrant officers—(1) Male. Unless retired with pay or transferred to the Retired Reserve, a male chief warrant or warrant officer shall be discharged without board proceedings upon reaching age 62, or not later than the date which is 60 days after the date on which he attains age 64 if retained to complete 20 years of satisfactory Federal service pursuant to law.

(2) Female. Unless transferred to the Retired Reserve, a woman chief warrant or warrant officer shall be discharged without board proceedings upon reaching age 55, or not later than the date which is 60 days after the date on which she attains age 60 if retained to complete 20 years of satisfactory Federal service pursuant to law.

(c) Reserve enlisted personnel. Unless retired with pay or transferred to the Retired Reserve, an enlisted person shall be discharged upon reaching age 62.

(Sec. 1, 63 Stat. 503, as amended, sec. 1, 63 Stat. 545, sec. 280, 70A Stat. 14; 14 U. S. C. 92, 633, 10 U. S. C. 280)

TITLE 43—PUBLIC LANDS: INTERIOR

Chapter I—Bureau of Land Management, Department of the Interior

Appendix—Public Land Orders

[Public Land Order 1378]

COLORADO

RESERVING LANDS WITHIN NATIONAL FORESTS FOR USE OF THE FOREST SERVICE AS PICNIC GROUNDS AND RECREATIONAL AREAS

By virtue of the authority vested in the President by the act of June 4, 1897 (30 Stat. 34, 36; 16 U. S. C. 473), and otherwise, and pursuant to Executive Order No. 10355 of May 26, 1952, it is ordered as follows:

Subject to valid existing rights, the following-described public lands within the national forests hereinafter designated are hereby withdrawn from all forms of appropriation under the public-land laws, including the mining but not the mineral-leasing laws or the act of July 31, 1947 (61 Stat. 681; 30 U. S. C. 601-604), and reserved for use of the Forest Service, Department of Agriculture, as picnic grounds and recreation areas as indicated:

[7 CFR Part 52]

U. S. STANDARDS FOR GRADES OF FROZEN CONCENTRATE FOR GRAPE BEVERAGE[1]

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE MAKING

Proposed United States Standards for Grades of Frozen Grape Juice Concentrate for Grape Beverage were previously published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on October 20, 1954 (19 F. R. 6773) and December 6, 1955 (20 F. R. 8962). After careful study of all written data, views, and arguments which were submitted, important changes have been made which include the name of the product being changed to frozen concentrate for grape beverage. Therefore, a third notice is hereby given that the U. S. Department of Agriculture is considering the issuance of United States Standards for Grades of Frozen Concentrate for Grape Beverage pursuant to the authority contained in the Agricultural Marketing Act of 1946 (60 Stat. 1087 et seq., as amended; 7 U. S. C. 1621 et seq.). This issuance, if made effective, will be the first issue by the Department of grade standards for this product.

All persons who desire to submit written data, views, or arguments for consideration in connection with the proposed standards should file same with the Chief, Processed Products Standardization and Inspection Branch, Fruit and Vegetable Division, Agricultural Marketing Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C., not later than 60 days after publication hereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

The proposed standards are as follows:

AUTHORITY: §§ 52.2451 through 52.2464 issued under sec. 205, 60 Stat. 1090, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 1621.

PRODUCT DESCRIPTION, TYPES, STYLES, AND GRADES

§ 52.2451 Product description. Frozen concentrate for grape beverage is prepared from unfermented single-strength grape juice from sound properly mature fresh grapes which, with or without aging, or depectinization, is then concentrated. Single-strength grape juice or natural grape essence or a combination of single-strength grape juice and natural grape essence may be mixed to the concentrate and packed with the addition of nutritive sweetening ingredient and with or without ascorbic acid. Fruit acid may be added to adjust the flavor. The product is then frozen in accordance with good commercial practice and maintained at temperatures necessary for the preservation of the product.

§ 52.2452 Types of frozen concentrate for grape beverage—(a) Type I. Frozen concentrate for grape beverage prepared from grapes of the slip-skin varieties of the Concord type of the Labrusca species. Not less than 50 percent of the total soluble solids of the finished concentrate shall be derived from the grapes.

(b) Type II. Frozen concentrate for grape beverage prepared from a mixture of Type I with one or more varieties other than Type I. Not less than 50 percent of the total soluble solids of the finished concentrate shall be derived from the grapes, of which, not less than one-half shall be derived from Type I grapes.

§ 52.2453 Styles of frozen concentrate for grape beverage. Brix value of the finished concentrate (including added sweetening ingredient) shall be not less than the following for the respective dilution factor of frozen concentrate for grape beverage:

Dilution factor	Minimum Brix value of finished concentrate including added sweetening ingredient Degrees
1 plus 1	24.8
1 plus 2	35.5
1 plus 3	45.4
1 plus 4	54.5
1 plus 5	62.8
1 plus 6	70.7

§ 52.2454 Grades of frozen concentrate for grape beverage. (a) "U. S. Grade A" or "U. S. Fancy" is the quality of frozen concentrate for grape beverage which reconstitutes properly and of which the reconstituted product possesses a good color; is practically free from defects; possesses a good flavor; and scores not less than 85 points when scored in accordance with the scoring system outlined in this subpart.

[1] Compliance with these standards does not excuse failure to comply with the provisions of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act.

(b) "U. S. Grade B" or "U. S. Choice" is the quality of frozen concentrate for grape beverage which reconstitutes properly and of which the reconstituted product possesses a reasonably good color; is reasonably free from defects; possesses a reasonably good flavor; and scores not less than 70 points when scored in accordance with the scoring system outlined in this subpart.

(c) "Substandard" is the quality of frozen concentrate for grape beverage that fails to meet the requirements of U. S. Grade B or U. S. Choice.

FILL OF CONTAINER

§ 52.2455 Recommended fill of container. The recommended fill of container is not incorporated in the grades of the finished product since fill of container, as such, is not a factor of quality for the purpose of these grades. It is recommended that the container be filled with frozen concentrate for grape beverage as full as practicable without impairment of quality.

FACTORS OF QUALITY

§ 52.2456 Ascertaining the grade. (a) The grade of frozen concentrate for grape beverage is ascertained by considering the factors of quality which are not scored and those which are scored as follows:

(1) Factors which are not scored. Ease of mixing into grape beverage.

(2) Factors which are scored. The relative importance of each factor which is scored is expressed numerically on the scale of 100. The maximum number of points that may be given such factors are:

Factors:	Points
Color	40
Defects	20
Flavor	40
Total score	100

(b) The scores for the factors of color, defects, and flavor are determined immediately after the beverage has been prepared by thoroughly mixing the frozen concentrate with a specific volume of water as directed by the manufacturer.

§ 52.2457 Ascertaining the rating for the factors which are scored. The essential variations within each factor which is scored are so described that the value may be ascertained for each factor and expressed numerically. The numerical range with each factor which is scored is inclusive. (For example, "17 to 20 points" means 17, 18, 19, or 20 points.)

§ 52.2458 Color—(a) (A) classification. Frozen concentrate for grape beverage of which the prepared beverage possesses a good color may be given a score of 34 to 40 points. "Good color" has the following meanings with respect to the types of frozen concentrate for grape beverage.

(1) Type I. A bright reddish-purple color characteristic of a beverage properly prepared from Concord type grape juice and, in addition, the beverage prepared conforms to the following requirements:

Minimum absorbancy at 520 millimicrons	[2] 4.5
Minimum absorbancy ratio	[2] 1.5

[2] Determined according to instructions § 52.2462.

(2) Type II. A bright color characteristic of a beverage properly prepared from Type I juice and from varietal type or varietal types of juice other than Type I.

(b) (B) classification. If the prepared beverage possesses a reasonably good color a score of 28 to 33 points may be given. Frozen concentrate for grape beverage that falls into this classification shall not be graded above U. S. Grade B or U. S. Choice regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule). "Reasonably good color" has the following meanings with respect to the types of frozen concentrate for grape beverage:

(1) Type I. A reddish-purple color characteristic of a beverage prepared from Concord type grape juice and which color may be slightly dull but which is not off color for any reason.

(2) Type II. A color that reflects to a reasonable extent the appearance characteristic of a beverage prepared from Type I juice and from any varietal type or varietal types of juice other than Type I and which color may be slightly dull but not off color for any reason.

(c) (SStd.) classification. Frozen concentrate for grape beverage that fails to meet the requirements of paragraph (b) of this section may be given a score of 0 to 27 points and shall not be graded above Substandard, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule).

§ 52.2459 Defects—(a) General. The factor of defects refers to the degree of freedom from sediment and other residue, from tartrate crystals, from particles of skin, particles of seed, and from other defects.

(b) (A) classification. Frozen concentrate for grape beverage of which the prepared beverage is practically free from defects may be given a score of 17 to 20 points. "Practically free from defects" means that there may be present not more than a slight amount of sediment and residue; is practically free from tartrate crystals; and is free from particles of skin, particles of seed, and from other defects.

(c) (B) classification. If the prepared beverage is reasonably free from defects a score of 14 to 16 points may be given. Frozen concentrate for grape beverage that falls into this classification shall not be graded above U. S. Grade B or U. S. Choice, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule). "Reasonably free from defects" means that there may be present not more than a moderate amount of sediment and residue; may possess a slight amount of tartrate crystals; may possess not more than a trace of particles of skin, particles of seed, and other defects.

(d) (SStd.) classification. If the prepared beverage fails to meet the requirements of paragraph (c) of this section a score of 0 to 13 points may be given. Frozen concentrate for grape beverage that falls into this classification shall not be graded above Substandard, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule).

§ 52.2460 Flavor—(a) (A) classification. Frozen concentrate for grape beverage of which the prepared beverage possesses a good flavor may be given a score of 34 to 40 points. "Good flavor" means that the flavor is a fine, distinct and normal flavor, typical of well-matured grapes for the variety or varieties and is free from any objectionable flavors and objectionable odors of any kind. To score in this classification the prepared beverage and concentrate shall meet the following additional requirements:

BEVERAGE

(1) Type I. Brix—not less than 13.0 degrees.

Acid—not less than 0.40 gram per 100 milliliters nor more than 0.60 gram per 100 milliliters, calculated as tartaric acid.

Brix-acid ratio—the ratio of Brix value to acid is not less than 20 to 1 nor more than 32 to 1.

CONCENTRATE

Methyl anthranilate [3] (naturally occurring)—not less than the following for the respective dilution factor of frozen concentrate for grape beverage.

Dilution factor	Minimum methyl anthranilate (naturally occurring) (mg./L.)
1 plus 1	0.4
1 plus 2	.8
1 plus 3	1.2
1 plus 4	1.6
1 plus 5	1.6
1 plus 6	1.6

BEVERAGE

(2) Type II. Brix—not less than 13.0 degrees.

Acid—not less than 0.40 gram per 100 milliliters nor more than 0.60 gram per 100 milliliters, calculated as tartaric acid.

Brix-acid ratio—The ratio of Brix value to acid is not less than 20 to 1 nor more than 32 to 1.

CONCENTRATE

Methyl anthranilate [3] (naturally occurring)—not less than the following for the respective dilution factor of frozen concentrate for grape beverage.

Dilution factor	Minimum methyl anthranilate (naturally occurring) (mg./L.)
1 plus 1	0.3
1 plus 2	.4
1 plus 3	.6
1 plus 4	.8
1 plus 5	.8
1 plus 6	.8

(b) (B) classification. If the prepared beverage possesses a reasonably good flavor a score of 28 to 33 points may be given. Frozen concentrate for grape beverage that falls into this classification shall not be graded above U. S. Grade B or U. S. Choice regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule). "Reasonably good flavor" means a reasonably typical flavor of reasonably well matured grapes for the varietal type or varietal types and is free from objectionable flavors and objectionable odors of any kind. To score in this classification the prepared beverage shall meet the following additional requirements:

[3] Determined according to instructions § 52.2462.

(1) Type I. Brix—not less than 13.0 degrees.

Acid—not less than 0.30 gram per 100 milliliters nor more than 0.60 gram per 100 milliliters, calculated as tartaric acid.

Brix-acid ratio—the ratio of Brix value to acid is not less than 18 to 1 nor more than 36 to 1.

(2) Type II. Brix—not less than 13.0 degrees.

Acid—not less than 0.30 gram per 100 milliliters nor more than 0.60 gram per 100 milliliters, calculated as tartaric acid.

Brix acid ratio—the ratio of Brix value to acid is not less than 18 to 1 nor more than 36 to 1.

(c) (SStd.) classification. If the frozen concentrate for grape beverage fails to meet the requirements of paragraph (b) of this section a score of 0 to 27 points may be given. Frozen concentrate for grape beverage that falls into this classification shall not be graded above Substandard regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule).

EXPLANATIONS AND METHODS OF ANALYSIS

§ 52.2461 Definition of terms used in these standards. (a) "Brix" means the degrees Brix of the reconstituted grape beverage when tested with a Brix hydrometer calibrated at 20 degrees C. (68 degrees F.). If used in testing grape beverage at a temperature other than 20 degrees C. (68 degrees F.), the applicable temperature correction shall be made to the reading of the scale as prescribed in "Official Methods of Analysis of the Association of Official Agricultural Chemists." [4] The degrees Brix of grape beverage may be determined by any other method which gives equivalent results.

(b) "Acid" means the grams of acid (calculated as tartaric acid) per 100 milliliters of the reconstituted grape beverage determined by titration with standard sodium hydroxide solution using phenolphthalein as an indicator.

(c) "Brix-acid ratio" means the ratio between the degrees Brix as determined in this section and the acid in grams per 100 milliliters of reconstituted grape beverage.

(d) "Dilution factor" is the ratio of the volumes of water to the volume of concentrate. This factor is provided by the manufacturer's directions for preparing the desired grape beverage (i. e., 3 plus 1 implies 3 volumes of water to 1 volume of concentrate).

(e) "Absorbancy ratio" means the ratio of absorbancy reading at 520 millimicrons to the absorbancy reading at 430 millimicrons.

§ 52.2462 Methods of analysis—(a) Methyl anthranilate—(1) Reagents. (i) Hydrochloric acid—dilute 81 milliliters (ml.) of HCL to 100 ml. with H_2O.

(ii) Sodium nitrate solution—dissolve 3 grams (gm.) of $NaNO_2$ in 200 ml. of H_2O.

(iii) Hydrazine sulfate solution—dissolve 5 gm. of $N_2H_4 \cdot H_2SO_4$ in 200 ml. of H_2O.

(iv) Sodium carbonate solution—dissolve 50 gm. of Na_2CO_3 in 150 ml. of H_2O.

(v) Sodium - a - naphthol-2-sulfonate solution—dissolve 4.7 gm. of the sulfonate in 100 ml. of H_2O.

(vi) Standard solution of methyl anthranilate—dissolve 0.25 gm. of methyl anthranilate in 60 ml. of 95 percent ethyl alcohol and dilute with H_2O to 500 ml.

(2) Apparatus. Kjeldahl distillation apparatus and steam generator recommended by committee on micro-chemical apparatus, Div. Anal. Chem., A. C. S. Illustrated 8th Edition, 1955, fig. 77 and 78, A. O. A. C. or equals may be used.

(3) Standard curve. (i) Dilute 20 ml. of standard solution of methyl anthranilate to 1 liter with H_2O (equivalent to 10 micrograms per ml.).

(ii) Prepare series of solution for standard curve by transferring 0–5 ml. of solution (i) into 100 ml. volumetric flask. Dilute to ca. 80 ml. with H_2O.

(iii) Then add as follows:

(a) 1 ml. HCl and 1 ml. sodium nitrite solution. Invert flask and let stand 2 minutes.

(b) 3 ml. hydrazine sulfate solution. Invert flask and let stand 1 minute.

(c) 2 ml. sodium-a-naphthol-2-sulfonate solution. Invert flask.

(d) Immediately add 3 ml. sodium carbonate solution, dilute to 100 ml. volume with H_2O, let stand 10 minutes.

(e) Adjust and maintain temperature of solution at 25°±1° C.

(f) Read absorbancy at 490 millimicrons, in a spectrophotometer or colorimeter, against a blank, carried through entire procedure, set at zero absorbancy.

(iv) Plot standard curve of concentration (microgram per 100 ml. of final solution) of methyl anthranilate against absorbancy of solutions.

(4) Determination. Use a 100 ml. volumetric flask as receiver. Add 5 ml. of water to just cover or seal end of extended condenser tube. Transfer 15–25 ml. of sample concentrate into distillation flask. Collect about (ca.) 80 ml. of distillate. Treat as under subparagraph (3) (iii) of this paragraph. Obtain concentration (micrograms/100 ml. of final solution) of methyl anthranilate from standard curve (see subparagraph (3) (iv) of this paragraph).

$$\frac{\text{mgs.}}{\text{liter of concentrate}} = \frac{\text{microgram 100 ml. of final solutions}}{\text{ml. of sample taken}}$$

(b) Absorbancy and absorbancy ratio. Absorbancy and absorbancy ratio shall be obtained as follows:

(1) The concentrate shall be diluted at 25 degrees C., using MacIlavaine's pH 3.2 buffer as the liquid.

(2) 5 ml. aliquot of diluted sample shall be further diluted to 100 ml. with MacIlvaine's pH 3.2 buffer.

(3) Filter 50 ml. of solution through sintered glass crucible 4-cm. diameter, 4.5-cm. height, medium porosity.

(4) Read absorbancy of filtrate on a spectrophotometer at 520 millimicron wavelength with a 0.05 mm. width slit and at 430 millimicron wavelength with a 0.025 mm. width slit.

$$\text{Absorbancy} = 2 - \log T, \text{ where } T = \text{percentage transmittancy}$$

$$\text{Corrected absorbancy} = \text{observed absorbancy} \times \frac{20}{\text{thickness of cell in cm.}}$$

$$\text{Absorbancy ratio} = \frac{\text{corrected absorbancy at 520 millimicrons}}{\text{corrected absorbancy at 430 millimicrons}}$$

LOT CERTIFICATION TOLERANCES

§ 52.2462 Tolerances for certification of officially drawn samples. (a) When certifying samples that have been officially drawn and which represent a specific lot of frozen concentrate for grape beverage the grade for such lot will be determined by averaging the total scores of the containers comprising the sample, if, (1) such containers meet all of the applicable grade requirements of the factors of quality that are not rated by score points; (2) all containers comprising the sample meet all applicable standards of quality promulgated under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act and in effect at the time of the aforesaid certification; and (3) with respect to those factors which are rated by score points:

(i) Not more than one-sixth of the containers fails to meet the grade indicated by the average of such total scores;

(ii) None of the containers falls more than four points below the minimum score for the grade indicated by the average of such total scores;

(iii) None of the containers falls more than one grade below the grade indicated by the average of such total scores; and

(iv) The average score of all containers for any factor subject to a limiting rule is within the score range of that factor for the grade indicated by the average of the total scores of the containers comprising the sample.

Commodity Credit Corporation

SALES OF CERTAIN COMMODITIES

JANUARY 1957 MONTHLY SALES LIST

Pursuant to the policy of Commodity Credit Corporation issued October 12, 1954 (19 F. R. 6669) and subject to the conditions stated therein, the commodities listed below are available for sale in the quantities stated and on the price basis set forth. The Commodity Credit Corporation will entertain offers from prospective buyers for the purchase of any such commodity.

Applicable interest rates on sales made in January under the Export Credit Sales Announcement GSM 1 are as follows:

For periods up to and including 6 months, 3¾ percent per annum.

For periods over 6 months up to and including 18 months, 4¼ percent per annum.

For periods over 18 months up to and including 36 months, 4¾ percent per annum.

The Commodity Credit Corporation reserves the right, before making any sale, to define or limit export areas. Announcements containing the contractual terms and conditions of sale for the respective commodities will be furnished upon request. For ready reference a number of these announcements are identified by code number in the following list. Commodity Credit Corporation also reserves the right to amend, from time to time, any of its announcements, which amendments shall be applicable to and be made a part of the sales contracts thereafter entered into.

JANUARY 1957 MONTHLY SALES LIST

NOTICE TO BUYERS

On sales for which the buyer is required to submit proof to CCC of exportation, the buyer (1) shall be regularly engaged in the business of buying or selling commodities and, for this purpose, shall maintain a bona fide business office in the United States, its territories, or possessions and therein have a person, principal or resident agent, upon whom service or judicial process may be had, and (2) shall submit a financial statement, bank advice, surety bond or other evidence of financial responsibility as may be required by CCC.

Commodity and approximate quantity available (subject to prior sale)	Sales price or method of sale
Dairy products	Domestic prices (except for restricted use) apply "in store" [1] at storage locations of products. Domestic price for restricted use is basis delivered to delivery point named in offer. CCC will convert to "in store" price by deducting lowest domestic rail freight rate, except that no deduction for freight will be made if the "in store" location and the delivery point named in offer are in the same city. Export prices are basis f. a. s. port or f. o. b. point of export. CCC will convert to "in store" price by deducting lowest export rail freight rate. Available through Cincinnati and Portland CSS Commodity Offices for domestic sale for unrestricted use and domestic sale for animal and poultry feed, and through the Livestock and Dairy Division, CSS, USDA, Washington 25, D. C., for other sales.

Office of the Secretary

NEW MEXICO

DESIGNATION OF AREA FOR PRODUCTION EMERGENCY LOANS

For the purpose of making production emergency loans pursuant to section 2 (a) of Public Law 38, 81st Congress (12 U. S. C. 1148a-2 (a)), as amended, it has been determined that in all counties in New Mexico, except the 12 counties listed in 20 F. R. 7054 in which the special credit program for the Great Plains area was authorized on September 15, 1955, a production disaster has caused a need for agricultural credit not readily available from commercial banks, cooperative lending agencies, or other responsible sources.

Pursuant to the authority set forth above, production emergency loans will not be made in the counties covered by the determination referred to above after December 31, 1957, except to applicants who previously received such assistance and who can qualify under established policies and procedures.

Done at Washington, D. C., this 8th day of January 1957.

CALIFORNIA

SMALL TRACT CLASSIFICATION ORDER, CALIFORNIA NO. 506

1. Pursuant to authority delegated to me by the California State Supervisor, Bureau of Land Management, under Part II, Document 4, California State Office, dated November 19, 1954 (19 F. R. 7697), I hereby classify the following described public lands, totaling approximately 1,581.65 acres in Trinity County, California, as suitable for lease and sale for residence purposes under the Small Tract Act of June 1, 1938 (52 Stat. 609, 43 U. S. C. 682a), as amended:

MOUNT DIABLO MERIDIAN

T. 33 N., R. 9 W.,
Sec. 5, lots 1, 2, 5, 6, 8, approximate E½ lot 3, approximate E½W½ lot 3, SE¼NW¼, E½SE¼SW¼, SE¼, S½NE¼;
Sec. 7, lots 10, 11, 12;
Sec. 8, SW¼, E½NW¼, E½NE¼, SW¼NE¼;
Sec. 17, NW¼, N½NE¼, SW¼N¼, N½N½SW¼;
Sec. 18 lots 84 and 85, NE¼NE¼NE¼, S½NE¼NE¼;
Sec. 27, E½SE¼, S½SE¼NE¼, NW¼SE¼NE¼;
Sec. 34, NE¼NE¼.
T. 33 N., R. 10 W.,
Sec. 13, lots 1, 2, W½NE¼, E½NE¼NW¼, E½NW¼NE¼NW¼.

2. Classification of the above-described lands by this order segregates them from all appropriations, including locations under the mining laws, except as to applications under the mineral leasing laws.

3. The lands classified by this order shall not become subject to applications under the Small Tract Act of June 1, 1938 (52 Stat. 609; 43 U. S. C. 682a), as amended, until it is so provided by an order to be issued by an authorized officer, opening the lands to application or bid with a preference right to Veterans of World War II and of the Korean conflict and other qualified persons entitled to preference under the act of September 27, 1944 (58 Stat. 497; 43 U. S. C. 279-284), as amended.

4. All valid applications filed prior to January 4, 1957, will be granted, as soon as possible, the preference right provided for by 43 CFR 257.5 (a).

MOUNTAIN HOME PROJECT, IDAHO

ORDER OF REVOCATION

SEPTEMBER 5, 1956.

Pursuant to the authority delegated by Departmental Order No. 2765 of July 30, 1954, I hereby revoke Departmental Order of April 30, 1951, insofar as said order affects the following-described land: Provided, however, That such revocation shall not affect the withdrawal of any other lands by said order or affect any other orders withdrawing or reserving the land hereinafter described:

BOISE MERIDIAN, IDAHO

T. 2 N., R. 2 E.,
Sec. 29, NW¼NE¼, NE¼NW¼.

The above areas aggregate 80 acres.

E. G. NIELSEN,
Acting Commissioner.

[61715]

JANUARY 7, 1957.

I concur. The records of the Bureau of Land Management will be noted accordingly.

1. The land is located about 8 miles east of Kuna, Idaho, and lies at an elevation of about 2,800 feet. The northerly part of the land is nearly level to undulating. Vegetation consists generally of a moderate to heavy stand of sagebrush with an understory of cheatgrass, native blue grass, and mustard. Most of the tract has some suitability for agricultural development under irrigation if an adequate supply of water can be made available.

2. No application for the lands may be allowed under the homestead, desert-land, small tract, or any other nonmineral public-land law unless the lands have already been classified as valuable or suitable for such type of application, or shall be so classified upon the consideration of an application. Any application that is filed will be considered on its merits. The lands will not be subject to occupancy or disposition until they have been classified.

3. Subject to any valid existing rights and the requirements of applicable law, the lands are hereby opened to filing of applications, selections, and locations in accordance with the following:

a. Applications and selections under the nonmineral public-land laws may be presented to the Manager mentioned below, beginning on the date of this order. Such applications and selections will be considered as filed on the hour and respective dates shown for the various classes enumerated in the following paragraphs:

(1) Applications by persons having prior existing valid settlement rights, preference rights conferred by existing laws, or equitable claims subject to allowance and confirmation will be adjudicated on the facts presented in support of each claim or right. All applications presented by persons other than those referred to in this paragraph will be subject to the applications and claims mentioned in this paragraph.

(2) All valid applications under the Homestead, Desert Land, and Small Tract Laws by qualified veterans of World War II or of the Korean conflict, and by others entitled to preference rights under the act of September 27, 1944 (58 Stat. 747; 43 U. S. C. 279–284 as amended), presented prior to 10:00 a. m. on Feb. 12, 1957, will be considered as simultaneously filed at that hour. Rights under such preference right applications filed after that hour and before 10:00 a. m. on May 14, 1957, will be governed by the time of filing.

(3) All valid applications and selections under the nonmineral public-land laws, other than those coming under paragraphs (1) and (2) above, presented prior to 10:00 a. m. on May 14, 1957, will be considered as simultaneously filed at that hour. Rights under such applications and selections filed after that hour will be governed by the time of filing.

4. Persons claiming veterans preference rights must enclose with their applications proper evidence of military or naval service, preferably a complete photostatic copy of the certificate of honorable discharge. Persons claiming preference rights based upon valid settlement, statutory preference, or equitable claims must enclose properly corroborated statements in support of their claims. Detailed rules and regulations governing applications which may be filed pursuant to this notice can be found in Title 43 of the Code of Federal Regulations.

5. The lands have been open to applications and offers under the mineral-leasing laws. They will be open to location under the United States mining laws beginning at 10:00 a. m. on May 14, 1957.

6. Inquiries concerning the lands shall be addressed to the Manager, Land Office, Bureau of Land Management, Boise, Idaho.

EDWARD WOOZLEY,
Director, Bureau of Land Management.

ATOMIC ENERGY COMMISSION

[Docket No. F-35]

AMF ATOMICS, INC.

NOTICE OF PROPOSED ISSUANCE OF FACILITY EXPORT LICENSE

Please take notice that the Atomic Energy Commission proposes to issue, on Form AEC-250, facility export license XR-3 described below unless within 15 days after publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER, a request for a formal hearing is filed with the Commission in the manner prescribed by § 2.102 (b) of the Commission's rules of practice (10 CFR Part 2).

1. Pursuant to section 104 (c) of the Atomic Energy Act of 1954 and Title 10, CFR, Chapter 1, Part 50, "Licensing of Production and Utilization Facilities", and upon findings that (a) the reactor proposed to be exported is a utilization facility and (b) the issuance of a license for the export thereof is within the scope of and is consistent with an agreement for cooperation with the Kingdom of the Netherlands, the Atomic Energy Commission proposes to issue the license to AMF Atomics, Inc., 261 Madison Avenue, New York 16, N. Y., for the export of a 10 kilowatt pool type demonstration reactor described in Supplement A to AMF Atomics application, filed September 27, 1956. Said reactor is to be exported to the Ministry of Education, Kingdom of the Netherlands and is to be erected at the International Exhibition "Het Atoom", Amsterdam under the auspices of the Laboratorium Voor Chemische Werktuigen der Technische Hogeschool (Delft Institute of Technology).

2. The license will be subject to the following conditions:

(a) Neither the license nor any right under the license shall be assigned or otherwise transferred in violation of the provisions of the Atomic Energy Act of 1954.

(b) The license will be subject to the right of recapture or control reserved by section 108 of the Atomic Energy Act of 1954, and to all other provisions of the act, now or hereafter in effect, and to all rules and regulations of the United States Atomic Energy Commission.

(c) The license will be effective as of the date of issuance thereof and shall expire on August 1, 1957, unless sooner terminated.

Dated at Washington, D. C., this 7th day of January 1957.

For the Atomic Energy Commission.

H. L. PRICE,
Director, Division of Civilian Application.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION

[Docket No. 11899, F. C. C. 57-7]

TELEVISION DIABLO, INC. (KOVR)

MEMORANDUM OPINION AND ORDER DESIGNATING APPLICATION FOR HEARING

In re application of Television Diablo, Inc. (KOVR), Stockton, California, for construction permit to change transmitter site, etc.; File No. BPCT-2187.

1. The Commission has before it for consideration a "Protest and Petition for Reconsideration" filed on December 3, 1956, pursuant to sections 309 (c) and 405 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, by Capital City TV Corporation (Capital City), licensee of Television Broadcast Station KCCC-TV, Channel 40, Sacramento, California, and directed against the Commission's action of November 8, 1956, granting without hearing the above-captioned application of Television Diablo, Inc., permittee of Television Broadcast Station KOVR, Channel 13, Stockton, California (KOVR), for a construction permit to change transmitter and antenna site and to make other changes. The petitioner also requests reconsideration of the Commission's actions of like date returning the application tendered by Capital City for Channel 13 at Stockton, and denying Capital City's petition for comparative consideration of such application with the above-captioned application and with the pending application (BLCT-459) of KOVR for license, and retenders its application for Channel 13. On December 18, 1956, KOVR filed an "opposition to Capital City's Protest and Petition for Reconsideration" and on December 26, 1956, Capital City filed a "Reply".

2. In the above-captioned application, KOVR requested authority to move its transmitter and antenna site a distance of approximately 72 miles, from Mount Diablo, 35 miles southwest of Stockton, to Butte Mountain, 40 miles northeast of Stockton, to reduce antenna height above average terrain from 3,240 feet to 1,180 feet, to increase effective radiated power from 100 kw visual to 316 kw visual, and to make other changes in the operating facilities of the station. This application was granted by the Commission after consideration of objections filed by the petitioner, Capital City, against the application, and upon a finding that the public interest, convenience and necessity would be served by the grant. The Commission also rejected Capital City's claim for comparative consideration of its application for Stockton and returned the tendered application.

3. Capital City claims to be a "party in interest" or a "person aggrieved or whose interests are adversely affected" within the meaning of sections 309 (c) and 405 of the act, respectively, to have standing to file its protest and petition for reconsideration on the grounds that it is the permittee of KCCC-TV, Sacramento, and is now affiliated with the American Broadcasting Company (ABC) television network; that grant of this subject application opens it to active local competition with a third VHF station, KOVR; that as a result of the grant it will lose its ABC network programs and related income to KOVR; and that without such programs and income it cannot long survive. Capital City alleges further that at present KOVR is a "negligible factor" in the Sacramento competitive picture, but by the instant proposal will become oriented to Sacramento and the Central Valley area; that KOVR's admitted intention is to become the ABC affiliate for the entire Central Valley area; that ABC has committed itself to enter into an affiliation agreement with KOVR when it is authorized to operate from Butte Mountain; that KCCC-TV will sustain substantial financial losses, even if ABC does not cancel its affiliation contract, to the extent that sponsors will select KOVR in preference to KCCC-TV; that loss of ABC programs will also result in the loss of income from other sources; and that UHF receiver circulation will decrease because of the loss of programming, with the result that sales by KCCC-TV will become difficult if not impossible. In addition to the foregoing, Capital City also claims standing under section 405 of the act because of the denial of its application for Channel 13 without hearing.

4. Capital City alleges that the Commission's action granting the above-captioned application was in error (a) because the grant would result in the destruction of UHF service in the area, contrary to the public interest; (b) because the public interest would not be served by a vast reduction in the coverage of KOVR which would result from the proposed move; (c) because the entire history of KOVR, including its representations in connection with the instant application, is one of concealment, misrepresentation and lack of candor to an extent that it reflects adversely on its character and other qualifications to be a broadcast licensee; (d) because KOVR's past programming and its program proposals do not serve the needs of the Stockton area; and (e) because the grant was improperly made in the light of the pending application of Capital City. In support of each of the above-recited conclusions, Capital City has advanced numerous factual allegations.

5. In addition to the foregoing, Capital City also claims that the Commission erred as a matter of law in refusing to accord its application for Channel 13 at Stockton comparative consideration with both the above-captioned application and the pending license application of KOVR (BLCT-459) to cover its existing operation from Mt. Diablo. In support of this claim it has advanced a variety of arguments, but, in essence, its claim to comparative consideration rests on the contentions (1) that the modification proposal is so extensive as to amount to a new proposal, thus entitling Capital City's application to comparative consideration under the Ashbacker case;[1] (2) that the KOVR license application should be treated as a renewal application, because construction was completed at a time that would have allowed licensing of the facilities in 1954, and, under the Commission's Rules a renewal application would have been pending against which Capital City's application would be entitled to comparative consideration under the Communications Act; and in any event (3) that under the Communications Act, the Commission "has full discretion to grant or deny an application for a station license and to entertain competing applications therefor."

6. In the light of the foregoing allegations and contentions, Capital City requests that the Commission grant its Protest and Petition for Reconsideration; vacate, set aside or postpone the effective date of its grant of KOVR's application for construction permit; designate the application for hearing on the issues specified by Capital City and such other issues as the Commission may adopt; and make Capital City a party to such proceeding. In addition, Capital City requests that the Commission reconsider its action returning Capital City's application for Channel 13 at Stockton, accept said application for filing, and designate it for comparative hearing with both KOVR's above-capitioned application and with its application for license to cover the current operation.

7. In its opposition, filed on December 18, 1956, KOVR takes the position that Capital City has no standing to protest the grant under section 309 (c) of the act, because of the knowledge of the pendency of the above-capitioned application by Lincoln Deller, present owner of Capital City at the time he acquired control of the protestant corporation; because of the mere speculative nature of the allegations of injury resulting from the grant; and since the injury claimed by Capital City results from the Sixth Report which allocated the channel to Stockton, from the original grant which authorized KOVR to serve Sacramento with a signal of the same intensity as it now proposes, and from the August 1955 revision of § 3.658 (b)[1] of the Commission's rules. KOVR contends further that, assuming Capital City has standing under sections 309 (c) and 405 of the act, it is entitled at most to oral argument because its contentions can be disposed of on demurrer. KOVR argues that only "well pleaded fact" must be treated as true, requiring the disregard of inferences and conclusions drawn by the protestant. In this connection, KOVR alleges controverting facts with respect to six contentions made by the protestant. Contending that there is little likelihood of Capital City prevailing on the merits, because of the necessity of maintaining KOVR as an existing service, and because of the pressing public need for the prompt implementation of this grant, KOVR urges that its grant should not be suspended while oral argument or other hearing is being held.

8. In its above-referenced Reply, Capital City points out that neither protestant's ownership nor the provisions of § 3.658 (b) of the rules have anything to do with standing, and that the facts alleged are more than sufficient to show a likelihood of economic injury and make Capital City a "party in interest" under section 309 (c) of the act. Capital City contends, furthermore, that an evidentiary hearing is required, and that KOVR's attempt to controvert the facts protestant has alleged only point up the necessity of taking evidence. Finally, Capital City argues that the grant should be stayed, that the exception in section 309 (c) relative to the maintenance of an existing service is inapplicable, and that public interest requires, rather, that operation of KOVR from its present site be continued.

9. In view of the fact that Capital City is licensee of Television Station KCCC–TV, Sacramento, and that it has alleged it will be in active local competition with KOVR for the first time, and will suffer economic injury as a result of the proposed operation of KOVR from Butte Mountain, we find Capital City to be a "party in interest" and "person aggrieved or whose interests are adversely affected" within the meaning of sections 309 (c) and 405 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended. FCC v. Sanders Brothers Radio Station, 309 U. S. 470 (9 Pike and Fischer RR 2008). We find further that Capital City has standing to seek reconsideration under section 405 of the act of the Commission's action, refusing to accept for filing its application for Channel 13 at Stockton and to accord said application comparative consideration with the above-captioned application and with KOVR's license application.

10. A question is also presented as to whether we should stay the effective date of our grant of the above-captioned application. In this connection, section 309 (b) of the Communications Act provides that:

> Pending hearing and decision (of cases arising under this statute) the effective date of the Commission's action to which protest is made shall be postponed to the effective date of the Commission's decision after hearing, unless the authorization involved is necessary to the maintenance or conduct of an existing service, or unless the Commission affirmatively finds for reasons set forth in the decision that the public interest requires that the grant remain in effect, in which event the Commission shall authorize the applicant to utilize the facilities or authorization in question pending the Commission's decision after hearing.

11. The applicant argues, in part, that the authorization involved is necessary to the maintenance or conduct of an existing service. In view of the fact that KOVR is an operating station serving Stockton and its surrounding area, and it is not alleged that a stay of the instant authorization will result in KOVR being unable to continue its operation from Mount Diablo, although it is suggested that its programming may be reduced somewhat, we cannot agree that the applicant's position in this respect is tenable. Therefore, unless the Commission affirmatively finds that the public interest requires that the grant remain in effect, the grant must be stayed. We thus turn to the need for a service proposed by KOVR from Butte Mountain. There are three VHF stations (including KOVR) and one UHF station already serving most or all of the Stockton-Sacramento area. In view of the number of services already available to the Stockton-Sacramento area, and without attempting to determine the likelihood of the protestant prevailing on the merits, we cannot affirmatively find that the public interest requires that the grant remain in effect. Accordingly, the effective date of the Commission's action here in question will be postponed to the effective date of the Commission's decision in the hearing hereinafter ordered.

12. The Commission further finds that the protestant has specified with particularity, within the meaning of section 309 (c), the facts upon which it relies to warrant designation of the above-captioned application for hearing on appropriate issues to be specified by further order of the Commission. At that time the Commission will also act upon the Petition for Reconsideration filed by the protestant.

13. Accordingly, in view of the foregoing: It is ordered, That, effective immediately, the effective date of this grant is postponed pending final determination by the Commission with respect to the protest filed herein by Capital City TV Corporation, and That, pursuant to section 309 (c) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the above-captioned application is designated for hearing at a time and place, upon appropriate issues, and pursuant to hearing procedures, to be specified by further order of the Commission.

Adopted: January 2, 1957.

Released: January 7, 1957.

[1] Section 3.658 (b) provides as follows: Territorial exclusivity. No license shall be granted to a television broadcast station having any contract, arrangement, or understanding, express or implied, with a network organization which prevents or hinders another broadcast station located in the same community from broadcasting the network's programs not taken by the former station, or which prevents or hinders another broadcast station located in a different community from broadcasting any program of the network organization. This regulation shall not be construed to prohibit any contract, arrangement, or understanding between a station and a network organization pursuant to which the station is granted the first call in its community upon the programs of the network organization. As employed in this paragraph, the term "community" is defined as the community specified in the instrument of authorization as the location of the station.

CITIES SERVICE CO.

ORDER PERMITTING DECLARATION TO BECOME EFFECTIVE REGARDING STOCK DIVIDEND

JANUARY 7, 1957.

Cities Service Company ("Cities"), a registered holding company, having filed a declaration pursuant to sections 6 (a) and 7 of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("act") in respect of the following proposed transactions:

Cities proposes to issue 202,206 shares of its authorized but unissued $10 par value common stock, and to distribute such shares on or about January 24, 1957, to its stockholders of record as of December 6, 1956, as a 2 percent stock dividend, on the basis of one share of new stock for each fifty shares of its outstanding 10,110,347 shares of common stock. In lieu of fractional shares, it is proposed to issue order forms evidencing such fractional interests, and the fractional interests represented thereby may be combined with other fractional interests to enable the holder thereof to receive certificates for full shares, or may be sold as the owner may elect. The company has made arrangements with Guaranty Trust Company of New York, as Distribution Agent, to buy and sell such fractional interests for the account of the holders thereof, without cost to such holders. All shares held to cover fractional interests with respect to which Guaranty Trust Company does not receive completed order forms before the close of business on February 25, 1957, will be sold in due course for the account of the holders thereof, and the proceeds distributed pro rata. On February 28, 1963, all unclaimed and all undeliverable proceeds of such sales shall become the absolute property of Cities.

Cities proposes to assign a value of $64 per share to each of the 202,206 shares of common stock to be issued as a stock dividend, or an aggregate of $12,941,184. It also proposes to debit earned surplus in that amount, to credit its common stock capital account with the par value of such shares, $10 per share, or an aggregate of $2,022,060, and to credit its capital surplus account with the excess of the assigned value over the par value, $54 per share, or an aggregate of $10,919,124.

Notice of the filing having been duly given in the form and manner prescribed by Rule U-23 promulgated under the act (Holding Company Act Release No. 13344), and no hearing having been requested of or ordered by the Commission in respect of the declaration; and

It appearing that the estimated fees and expenses to be incurred consist of the following:

Guaranty Trust Co., for handling issuance of common stock as dividend, and for handling fractional interest order forms:
Fee	$125,000
Expenses	45,000
Original issue and transfer taxes	8,000
Listing fees	2,000
Printing and postage	20,000
Miscellaneous	1,000
Total	201,000

and that such fees and expenses are not unreasonable, if they do not exceed the estimates; and

The Commission observing no basis for adverse findings or for the imposition of terms and conditions in respect of the proposed transactions, and finding that the applicable provisions of the Act and the Rules and Regulations thereunder are satisfied, and deeming it appropriate in the public interest and the interest of investors that the declaration be permitted to become effective forthwith, subject to the terms and conditions prescribed in Rule U-24:

It is ordered, Pursuant to Rule U-23 and the applicable provisions of the act, that the declaration be, and it is hereby, permitted to become effective forthwith, subject to the terms and conditions prescribed in Rule U-24.

By the Commission.

AMERICAN RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT CORP. AND TRACERLAB, INC.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR ORDER EXEMPTING TRANSACTIONS BETWEEN AFFILIATES

JANUARY 7, 1957.

Notice is hereby given that American Research and Development Corporation ("American Research"), a registered closed-end, non-diversified management investment company, and Tracerlab, Incorporated ("Tracerlab"), a manufacturing company, have filed an application and an amendment thereto, pursuant to section 17 (b) of the Investment Company Act of 1940 ("act"), requesting an order exempting from the provisions of section 17 (a) of the act certain transactions between American Research and Tracerlab described below.

Tracerlab was organized in 1946 under the laws of Massachusetts and operates laboratories and manufacturing facilities in Boston, Massachusetts, Richmond, California and Houston, Texas. Its business at the present time consists of the manufacture of scientific and industrial instruments and equipment for the utilization, detection and measurement of radioactivity and, for itself and others, carries on a wide range of research and service activities in the field of nuclear physics and chemistry. Its 99 percent owned subsidiary, Keleket X-ray Corporation ("Keleket") manufactures and distributes X-ray apparatus and equipment and distributes X-ray film, tubes, supplies and accessories.

Tracerlab has outstanding $1,500,000 principal amount of 5 Percent Debentures due November 1, 1970, initially convertible into Common Stock at $14.75 per share and 456,553 shares of Common Stock, $1 par value, of which American Research holds 60,005 shares or 13.1 percent of the total outstanding voting securities of Tracerlab. At November 8, 1956, Tracerlab also owed $991,676 to The First National Bank of Boston on notes now due on demand.

Tracerlab acquired a controlling interest in Keleket in 1951 because of the close interrelation of the applications and problems of radiation, whether produced from radioisotopes or from X-ray technology. Despite profitable operations of Keleket in 1951, 1952 and 1953, substantial losses have been incured in the period since 1954, which losses have offset the profitable operations of Tracerlab's nucleonics business during the period. In an effort to improve this situation, a program of reorganizing the operations of Keleket and integrating its manufacturing operations with those of Tracerlab was begun in 1955. The business of Keleket and Tracerlab will be consolidated in a new plant now being constructed in Waltham, Massachusetts, for lease to Tracerlab. This program has resulted in long delays in manufacturing and shipment of X-ray equipment. Many replacements of engineering and other personnel have been necessary, resulting in further delays of deliveries and added costs.

The present operating difficulties have been further complicated by the fact that Tracerlab's indebtedness to The First National Bank of Boston is on a demand basis and Tracerlab is unable to pledge its receivables to secure such indebtedness because of the restrictions contained in the Trust Indenture under which its outstanding debentures were issued.

Tracerlab has consulted with an underwriter to obtain advice with respect to the raising of additional equity capital. In view of the need to obtain additional capital funds promptly, conventional financing methods are not considered appropriate by the underwriter, which has also advised Tracerlab that it could not place privately $400,000 or more of common stock at a satisfactory price to Tracerlab.

Prior to the filing of the instant application Tracerlab was advised informally that upon condition that Tracerlab (i) obtains $480,000 of additional equity capital through sale of its Common Stock, (ii) obtains a one year line of credit for $1,000,000 from The First National Bank of Boston and (iii) agrees to grant to Massachusetts Business Development Corporation ("MBDC") options to purchase 2,000 shares of its Common Stock at a price of $5.50 per share, MBDC will purchase a $400,000 second mortgage note of Tracerlab Development Corporation ("TDC") from Tracerlab, or in the alternative, will lend an equivalent sum to TDC for that corporation to repay its second mortgage note to Tracerlab.

In order to obtain the $480,000 of equity capital required as part of the financing program outlined above, Tracerlab has negotiated with several existing security holders and others including American Research and proposes to offer and sell to American Research and to five or six other persons not more than 87,273 shares of its Common Stock at a price of $5.50 per share, of which American Research has agreed to purchase not more than 43,673 shares.

On December 3, 1956, The First National Bank of Boston advanced an additional $200,000 to Tracerlab on a demand basis in contemplation of the proposed financing.

Letter agreements have been entered into between Tracerlab and each of the parties relative to the above mentioned financing program and copies thereof have been or will be furnished by amendment to the application.

The parties consider the raising of equity capital in the manner proposed to be the only way in which Tracerlab can be assured of raising the necessary working capital as promptly as the circumstances require.

American Research, on the other hand, preserves the value of its investment and increases its ownership of the Common Stock to 103,642 or approximately 19 percent of the total to be outstanding after the sales are consummated.

Generally speaking, section 17 (a) of the act prohibits an affiliated person of a registered investment company from purchasing from, or selling to, such registered investment company, any security, with certain exceptions, unless the Commission upon application pursuant to section 17 (b) of the act, grants an exemption from section 17 (a) of the act after finding that the terms of the proposed transactions, including the consideration to be paid or received, are reasonable and fair and do not involve overreaching on the part of any person concerned, that the proposed transactions are consistent with the policy of each registered investment company concerned, as recited in its registration statement and reports filed under the act, and consistent with the general purposes of the act.

Since American Research owns more than 5 percent of the Common Stock of Tracerlab, these companies are affiliated persons of each other as defined in section 2 (a) (3) of the act, hence, the transactions between them pursuant to the proposed agreements are prohibited under section 17 (a) of the act unless the Commission grants the application herein, and issues an order of exemption pursuant to section 17 (b) of the act.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than January 18, 1957, at 1:00 p. m., submit to the Commission in writing any facts bearing upon the desirability of a hearing on the matter and may request that a hearing be held, such request stating the nature of his interest, the reasons for such request and the issues, if any, of fact or law proposed to be controverted, or he may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. Any such communication or request should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington 25, D. C. At any time after said date, the application may be granted as provided in Rule N-5 of the rules and regulations promulgated under the act.

By the Commission.

[File No. 812-1057-1]

BOSTON FUND, INC. AND BOND FUND OF BOSTON, INC.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR ORDER EXTENDING THIRTY-DAY PERIOD TO FILL VACANCY ON BOARD OF DIRECTORS

JANUARY 7, 1957.

Notice is hereby given that Boston Fund, Inc. ("Boston Fund") and The Bond Fund of Boston, Inc. ("Bond Fund"), registered open-end diversified investment companies, have filed an application pursuant to section 10 (e) of the Investment Company Act of 1940 ("act") for an order of the Commission extending until February 15, 1957, the period during which a vacancy on the board of directors may be filled in order to bring the membership of the board into compliance with the provisions of sections 10 (a) and 10 (b) (2) of the act.

Powell M. Cabot, a director of both Boston Fund and Bond Fund, died on December 15, 1956. Cabot's death has reduced the board of directors of Boston Fund to eight members of whom five are partners, and therefore affiliated persons, of Boston Management and Research Company, the investment adviser of Boston Fund. Cabot's death also has reduced the Board of Directors of Bond Fund to six members, of whom four are partners or employees, and therefore affiliated persons, of Boston Management and Research Company, the investment adviser of Bond Fund, and of whom three are partners, and therefore affiliated persons, of Vance, Sanders and Co., the principal underwriter of Bond Fund.

Section 10 (a) of the act provides that no registered company shall have a Board of Directors more than 60 percent of the members of which are affiliated persons of the registered company's investment adviser. Boston Fund and Bond Fund, therefore, by reason of Cabot's death, do not comply with these requirements of section 10 (a). Section 10 (b) (2) of the act provides that no registered company shall use as a principal underwriter any person of which a director of such registered company is an affiliated person, unless a majority of the board of directors of such registered company are persons who are not affiliated persons of such principal underwriters. Bond Fund does not now comply with these provisions of section 10 (b) (2).

Section 10 (e) of the act provides, among other things, that if by reason of the death of a director, the requirements of the provisions of sections 10 (a) and (b) in respect of directors are not met by a registered company, the operation of such provisions are suspended as to that company for a thirty-day period, and for such longer period as the Commission may prescribe by order upon application as not inconsistent with the protection of investors.

The application states that Boston Fund plans to hold its next regular meeting of directors on January 30, 1957, and Bond Fund would normally hold its next meeting of directors early in March. The application further states that because of delays incident to the holiday season, and in view of the time required for preliminary discussions, it appears to the management of both Funds that it will not be conveniently possible for the boards of directors of the two Funds to take action to fill the vacancies created by Cabot's death within the thirty-day period prescribed by section 10 (e) of the act. The application also states that in view of the fact that the Funds' boards of directors are not expected to meet until they take action on these vacancies, it appears to be not inconsistent with the protection of investors that the requested application be granted and the thirty-day period provided for in section 10 (e) of the act be extended until February 15, 1957.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than January 18, 1957, at 5:30 p. m., submit to the Commission in writing any facts bearing upon the desirability of a hearing on the matter and may request that a hearing be held, such request stating the nature of his interest, the reasons for such request and the issues, if any, of fact or law proposed to be controverted, or he may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. Any such communication or request should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington 25, D. C. At any time after said date the application may be granted as provided in Rule N-5 of the rules and regulations promulgated under the act, unless prior to that date the Commission orders a hearing upon request or upon its own motion. Persons who request a hearing or advice as to whether a hearing is necessary should submit their requests on or before January 18, 1957.

REVLON, INC.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION FOR UNLISTED TRADING PREVILEGES, AND OF OPPORTUNITY FOR HEARING

JANUARY 7, 1957.

In the matter of application by the Boston Stock Exchange for unlisted trading privileges in Revlon, Inc., Common Stock. File No. 7-1840.

The above named stock exchange, pursuant to section 12 (f) (2) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 and Rule X-12F-1 promulgated thereunder, has made application for unlisted trading privileges in the specified security, which is listed and registered on the New York Stock Exchange.

Upon receipt of a request, on or before January 23, 1957, from any interested person, the Commission will determine whether to set the matter down for hearing. Such request should state briefly the nature of the interest of the person making the request and the position he proposes to take at the hearing. In addition, any interested person may submit his views or any additional facts bearing on this application by means of a letter addressed to the Secretary of the Securities and Exchange Commission, Washington 25, D. C. If no one requests a hearing on this matter, this application will be determined by order of the Commission on the basis of the facts stated in the application and other information contained in the official file of the Commission pertaining to the matter.

Charges of Ebasco Services Inc	6,000
Fees of Company's counsel:
Reid & Priest, New York, N. Y.	10,000
Monroe & Lemann, New Orleans, La	10,000
Miscellaneous expenses	6,945
Total	90,000

The legal fee of the firm of Winthrop, Stimson, Putnam & Roberts, New York, N. Y., who have been designated to act as counsel for the underwriters, will be $6,500 and is to be paid by the successful bidder or bidders.

Notice of the filing of the declaration having been duly given in the manner prescribed by Rule U-23 (Holding Company Act Release No. 13340), and no hearing having been requested of or ordered by the Commission; and

It appearing that the estimated fees and expenses to be incurred and paid in connection with the proposed transactions are not unreasonable if they do not exceed the estimates; and the Commission observing no basis for adverse findings, or the imposition of terms and conditions, and finding with respect to the proposed transactions that the applicable provisions of the act and the rules promulgated thereunder are satisfied, and deeming it appropriate in the public interest and in the interest of investors and consumers to permit the declaration to become effective forthwith:

It is ordered, Pursuant to Rule U-23 and the applicable provisions of the act, that the declaration, as amended, be, and it is hereby, permitted to become effective forthwith, subject to the conditions prescribed in Rules U-50 and U-24.

3. Having determined that it is in the national interest that the affairs of American Voith be wound up and that its remaining assets be assigned to the Attorney General and that any proceeds derived from the administration or liquidation of the assets be applied as hereinafter specified,

Hereby orders, That the directors and officers of American Voith wind up the affairs of American Voith and distribute the assets of the company coming into their possession as follows:

I. They shall first pay all current expenses and necessary charges in effecting the dissolution of the company and winding up its affairs;

II. They shall then pay all known federal, state and local taxes, if any, now owed by or accrued against the company;

III. They shall then pay from the funds remaining the liabilities of the company listed in Paragraph 2 above, the said payments to be made on a pro rata basis to the extent of the available funds.

IV. They shall then transfer, assign and deliver to the Attorney General any and all remaining assets and property of American Voith, including after-discovered assets or property; and

Further orders, That any funds derived from the sale, licensing and/or other disposition of the assigned assets or property shall be applied, first, to pro rata payments of balances then remaining unpaid on the liabilities listed in Paragraph 2 above, and second as a liquidating distribution of assets to stockholders; and

Further orders, That nothing herein set forth shall be construed as prejudicing the rights, under the Trading with the Enemy Act, as amended, of any person who may have a claim against American Voith to file such claim with the Attorney General against any funds or property received by the Attorney General hereunder; Provided, however, That nothing herein contained shall be construed as creating additional rights in such person; Provided, further, That any such claim against American Voith shall be filed with or presented to the Attorney General within the time and in the form and manner prescribed for such claims by the Trading with the Enemy Act, as amended, and applicable regulations and orders issued pursuant thereto; and Further orders, That all actions taken and acts done by the said officers and directors of American Voith pursuant to this Order and the directions contained herein shall be deemed to have been taken and done in reliance on and pursuant to Paragraph numbered (2) of Subdivision (b) of section 5 of the Trading with the Enemy Act, as amended, (50 U. S. C. App. 5 (b) (2)) and the acquittance and exculpation provided therein.

Executed at Washington, D. C., on December 31, 1956.

For the Attorney General.

TITLE 3—THE PRESIDENT

PROCLAMATION 3167

SESQUICENTENNIAL OF THE COAST AND GEODETIC SURVEY

BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

A PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS, by an act of Congress approved February 10, 1807 (2 Stat. 413), President Thomas Jefferson was authorized and requested to cause a survey to be taken of the coasts of the United States and to take such further action as he deemed proper for completing an accurate chart of every part of these coasts; and

WHEREAS the observance of the 150th anniversary of the Coast and Geodetic Survey, which traces its origins to the above-mentioned act, will honor the services of the officers and employees of the Coast and Geodetic Survey who have maintained so zealously the reputation of our Nation in the development of mathematical and physical sciences related to higher surveying and cartography; and

WHEREAS the Coast and Geodetic Survey, in surveying uncharted coastal waters and in mapping virgin regions of our country and its territories and possessions, has been safeguarding life and commerce for a century and a half; and

WHEREAS the devotion, industry, efficiency, and enterprise of Coast and Geodetic Survey personnel throughout the years have set an enviable record of public service:

NOW, THEREFORE, I, DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER, President of the United States of America, do hereby proclaim the month of February 1957 as Coast and Geodetic Survey Month; and I call upon my fellow citizens to salute the Coast and Geodetic Survey during that month with ceremonies designed to give appropriate recognition to one of our oldest and most respected Federal agencies on the occasion of its sesquicentennial anniversary.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the Seal of the United States of America to be affixed.

DONE at the City of Washington this tenth day of January in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and [SEAL] fifty-seven, and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and eighty-first.

DWIGHT D. EISENHOWER

By the President:

JOHN FOSTER DULLES,
Secretary of State.

EXECUTIVE ORDER 10694

AUTHORIZING THE SECRETARIES OF THE ARMY, NAVY, AND AIR FORCE TO ISSUE CITATIONS IN THE NAME OF THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES TO MILITARY AND NAVAL UNITS FOR OUTSTANDING PERFORMANCE IN ACTION

By virtue of the authority vested in me as President of the United States and as Commander in Chief of the armed forces of the United States, it is hereby ordered as follows:

1. The Secretaries of the Army, the Navy, and the Air Force, respectively, are hereby authorized to issue a citation in the name of the President of the United States, as public evidence of deserved honor and distinction, to any organization, detachment, installation, ship, aircraft, or other unit for outstanding performance in action on or after October 16, 1941, in the case of the Navy or Marine Corps, and on or after December 7, 1941, in the case of the Army or the Air Force. Such citations may also be issued to units of armed forces of cobelligerent nations serving with the armed forces of the United States for outstanding performance in action on or after December 7, 1941; provided that such units shall meet the standards established for the armed forces of the United States.

2. Appropriate insignia of such form and design as may be determined by the Secretary concerned may be displayed by any organization, detachment, instal-

Chapter IX—Agricultural Marketing Service (Marketing Agreements and Orders), Department of Agriculture

[Navel Orange Reg. 101]

PART 914—NAVEL ORANGES GROWN IN ARIZONA AND DESIGNATED PART OF CALIFORNIA

LIMITATION OF HANDLING

§ 914.401 Navel Orange Regulation 101—(a) Findings. (1) Pursuant to the marketing agreement, as amended, and Order No. 14, as amended (7 CFR Part 914; 21 F. R. 4707), regulating the handling of navel oranges grown in Arizona and designated part of California, effective September 22, 1953, under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.; 68 Stat. 906, 1047), and upon the basis of the recommendation and information submitted by the Navel Orange Administrative Committee, established under the said amended marketing agreement and order, and upon other available information, it is hereby found that the limitation of handling of such navel oranges, as hereinafter provided, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(2) It is hereby further found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule making procedure, and postpone the effective date of this section until 30 days after publication thereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER (60 Stat. 237; 5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.) because the time intervening between the date when information upon which this section is based became available and the time when this section must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act is insufficient, and a reasonable time is permitted, under the circumstances, for preparation for such effective time; and good cause exists for making the provisions hereof effective as hereinafter set forth. The Navel Orange Administrative Committee held an open meeting on January 10, 1957, after giving due notice thereof, to consider supply and market conditions for navel oranges and the need for regulation; interested persons were afforded an opportunity to submit information and views at this meeting; the recommendation and supporting information for regulation during the period specified herein were promptly submitted to the Department after such meeting was held; the provisions of this section, including its effective time, are identical with the aforesaid recommendation of the committee, and information concerning such provisions and effective time has been disseminated among handlers of such navel oranges; it is necessary, in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act, to make this section effective during the period herein specified; and compliance with this section will not require any special preparation on the part of persons subject thereto which cannot be completed on or before the effective date hereof.

(b) Order. (1) The quantity of navel oranges grown in Arizona and designated part of California which may be handled during the period beginning at 12:01 a. m., P. s. t., January 13, 1957, and ending at 12:01 a. m., P. s. t., January 20, 1957, is hereby fixed as follows:

(i) District 1: 462,000 cartons;

(ii) District 2: 184,800 cartons;

(iii) District 3: Unlimited movement;

(iv) District 4: Unlimited movement.

(2) All navel oranges handled during the period specified in this section are subject also to all applicable size restrictions which are in effect pursuant to this part during such period.

(3) As used in this section, "handled," "District 1," "District 2," "District 3," "District 4," and "carton" have the same meaning as when used in said amended marketing agreement and order.

PART 609—STANDARD INSTRUMENT APPROACH PROCEDURES

PROCEDURE ALTERATIONS

The standard instrument approach procedure alterations appearing hereinafter are adopted to become effective when indicated in order to promote safety. Compliance with the notice, procedures, and effective date provisions of section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act would be impracticable and contrary to the public interest, and therefore is not required.

Part 609 is amended as follows:

NOTE: Where the general classification (LFR, VAR, ADF, ILS, RADAR, or VOR), location, and procedure number (if any) of any procedure in the amendments which follow, are identical with an existing procedure, that procedure is to be substituted for the existing one, as of the effective date given, to the extent that it differs from the existing procedure; where a procedure is cancelled, the existing procedure is revoked; new procedures are to be placed in appropriate alphabetical sequence within the section amended.

1. The low frequency range procedures prescribed in § 609.6 are amended to read in part:

RADAR STANDARD INSTRUMENT APPROACH PROCEDURES

Bearings, headings, and courses are magnetic. NOTE: Distances are in nautical miles unless otherwise indicated, elevations and altitudes are in feet, MSL. Ceilings are in feet above airport elevation.

If a radar instrument approach is conducted at the below named airport, it shall be in accordance with the following instrument procedure, unless an approach is conducted in accordance with a different procedure for such airport authorized by the Administrator of Civil Aeronautics. Initial approaches shall be made over specified routes. Minimum altitudes shall correspond with those established for en route operation in the particular area or as set forth herein. Positive identification must be established with the radar controller. From initial contact with radar to final authorized landing minimums, the instructions of the radar controller are mandatory except when (A) visual contact is established on final approach at or before descent to the authorized landing minimums, or (B) at pilot's discretion if it appears desirable to discontinue the approach. Missed approach shall be executed as provided below when (A) communication on final approach is lost for more than 5 seconds during a precision approach, or for more than 30 seconds during a surveillance approach; (B) directed by radar controller; (C) visual contact is not established upon descent to authorized landing minimums; or (D) if landing is not accomplished.

In the Matter of United Fishermen of Alaska, an Unincorporated Association; and Eldon Lester, Individually, as President of United Fishermen of Alaska, and as Representative of All Members of Said Union, John Anderson, Individually, as Vice-President of United Fishermen of Alaska, and as Representative of All Members of Said Union, and P. J. Kerrigan, Individually, as Secretary-Treasurer of United Fishermen of Alaska, and as Representative of All Members of Said Union; and Charles Warren, and Alfred Levine, Individually, as Members of the Executive Board of United Fishermen of Alaska, and as Representative of All Members of Said Union; and Kodiak Fish Producers Association; and W. A. Cannon, Dal Valley, Barney Corgatelli, Jack Warren, A. J. Cichoski, Ray Heinrichs, and Thomas Clampffer, Individually, as Directors of Kodiak Fish Producers Association, and as Representative of All Members of Said Association; and Island Seafoods, Inc., a Corporation; King Crab, Inc., a Corporation; and Walter Muller and Mildred D. Muller, Individually and as Partners Doing Business Under the Trade Name of Kodiak Sea Foods Packing Company

This proceeding was heard by a hearing examiner on the complaint of the Commission charging a union of fishermen and "shore" workers in canneries, etc., a cooperative association of boat owners, and three canneries with a combination in restraint of trade in the king crab fishing industry in the Kodiak, Alaska, area, pursuant to which the prices of king crab were fixed and maintained collectively and a competing cannery which did not maintain the fixed prices was prevented from employing workers. As to two of the canneries, the case was disposed of by means of a consent order entered May 3, 1956, 21 F. R. 3454. The third cannery failed to answer the complaint or appear at hearings and the decision as to that concern is based upon such default.

With respect to the union and cooperative and their officers and members, the hearing examiner made his initial decisions and orders to cease and desist after the usual proceedings. Denying the request of said respondents for modification of the initial decision, the Commission dismissed the complaint as to one individual respondent and on December 17 adopted the initial decision as so modified as the decision of the Commission.

The order to cease and desist, as so modified, is as follows:

It is ordered, That respondents United Fishermen of Alaska and Kodiak Fish Producers Association, and their respective members and officers, and respondents Eldon Lester, P. J. Kerrigan, Charles Warren, and Alfred Levine, individually and as officers of respondent United Fishermen of Alaska, and respondents W. A. Cannon, Dal Valley, Barney Corgatelli, A. J. Cichoski, Ray Heinrichs and Thomas Clampffer, individually and as officers and directors of respondent Kodiak Fish Producers Association, and respondents' agents, representatives and employees, directly or through any corporate or other device, in connection with the sale or offering for sale in commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the Federal Trade Commission Act, of king crab, do forthwith cease and desist from entering into, continuing, cooperating in or carrying out any planned common course of action, understanding or agreement between or among said respondents, or between any of said respondents and any of the other respondents in this proceeding, or between any of the respondents named in this order and others not parties to this proceeding, to do any of the following things:

1. Fixing, establishing, adopting, maintaining or adhering to, or attempting to fix, establish, adopt, maintain or adhere to, by any means or method, any price at which king crab or king crab meat is to be purchased or sold.

2. Jointly or collectively negotiating, bargaining or agreeing, by any means or method, as to any price at which king crab or king crab meat is to be purchased or sold.

3. Coercing or compelling, or attempting to coerce or compel, by any means or method, purchasers or prospective purchasers or sellers or prospective sellers of king crab or king crab meat to maintain or adhere to any price for such products.

4. Preventing or attempting to prevent, by any means or method, any person or persons from accepting or retaining employment in any cannery or other establishment handling or processing king crab or king crab meat, with the purpose or effect of causing such cannery or establishment to maintain or adhere to any particular price or prices for such products.

Provided, however, That nothing herein shall be construed or interpreted as preventing or prohibiting any respondent, individually, from purchasing or selling or bargaining for the purchase or sale of king crab or king crab meat with any canner or processor or other single buyer or seller.

Provided further, That nothing herein shall be construed or interpreted as preventing or prohibiting any association of bona fide fishermen, acting pursuant to or in accordance with the provisions of the Fishermen's Cooperative Marketing Act (15 U. S. C. A., sections 521 and 522), from performing any of the acts and practices permitted by said act.

Provided further, That nothing herein shall prevent collective bargaining between respondent United Fishermen of Alaska and any employer with respect to wages, hours and working conditions of any employee members of said Union.

It is further ordered, That the complaint be, and it hereby is, dismissed as to respondents John Anderson and Jack Warren.

By "Order Denying Motion To Modify Initial Decision; and Decision of the Commission As To Certain Respondents" report of compliance was required as follows:

It is ordered, That the respondents' request of November 5, 1956, for modification of the initial decision be, and it hereby is denied.

It is further ordered, That the aforesaid initial decision be, and it hereby is, modified so as to dismiss the complaint as to Russell Attwood and that, as so modified, it is adopted as the decision of the Commission.

It is further ordered, That respondents, United Fishermen of Alaska and Kodiak Fish Producers Association, and respondents, Eldon Lester, P. J. Kerrigan, Charles Warren and Alfred Levine, individually and as representatives of all members of respondent United Fishermen of Alaska, and respondents, W. A. Cannon, Dal Valley, Barney Corgatelli, A. J. Cichoski, Ray Heinrichs and Thomas Clampffer, individually and as representatives of all members of respondent Kodiak Fish Producers Association, shall, within sixty (60) days after service upon them of this order, file with the Commission a report in writing, setting forth in detail the manner and form in which they have complied with the order to cease and desist contained in the aforesaid initial decision, as modified.

The order to cease and desist as to certain respondents is as follows:

It is ordered, That respondents Walter Muller and Mildred D. Muller, individually and as copartners trading as Kodiak Sea Foods Packing Company, or trading under any other name, and their representatives, agents and employees, directly or through any corporate or other device, in connection with the purchase or offering to purchase, in commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the Federal Trade Commission Act, of raw king crab caught in waters bordering Western and Northwestern Alaska, including the waters adjacent to Kodiak, Alaska, do forthwith cease and desist from entering into, cooperating in or carrying out any planned common and concerted course of action, understanding or agreement between said respondents, or between either or both of said respondents and one or more of the other respondents named in the complaint herein, or between either or both of said respondents and others not parties hereto, to do or perform any of the following acts:

1. Fixing, establishing, maintaining or adhering to, or attempting to fix, establish or maintain, or cause adherence to, by any means or method, any prices for the purchase or sale of such raw king crab and king crab meat;

2. Jointly or collectively negotiating, bargaining or agreeing, by any means or method, as to the price or prices at which said raw king crab or king crab meat are proposed to be, or are, purchased or sold;

3. Authorizing or empowering any association, group, corporation, or union to negotiate, bargain or agree as to the prices to be paid or received in the purchase of such king crab or king crab meat;

Provided, however, That nothing herein contained shall be construed or interpreted as preventing or prohibiting the respondents named herein, acting independently of other parties, from purchasing or selling, or bargaining for the purchase or sale of such raw king crab and king crab meat with any boat owner, boat captain, or other single seller or buyer.

Provided further, That nothing herein contained shall be deemed to prohibit the respondents herein from entering into a bona fide partnership, joint operation, or venture, or consolidation, for the purpose of operating one or more canneries and in which the prices of such raw king crab and king crab meat are determined by said partnership, joint operation, or venture, or consolidation, and where such determination is under the contract establishing such partnership, joint operation, or venture, or consolidation binding upon all members thereof. This proviso shall not be construed as either an approval or disapproval of any specific partnership, joint operation, or venture or consolidation, nor as permitting any such partnership, joint operation or venture or consolidation, to be continued or formed for the purpose, or with the effect, directly or indirectly, of rendering ineffective or unenforceable the inhibitions of this order and the purposes thereof.

Provided further, That nothing herein contained shall prevent any association of bona fide crab fishermen, acting pursuant to, or in accordance with, the provisions of the Fisheries Cooperative Marketing Act (15 U. S. C. A., sections 521 and 522) from performing any of the acts and practices permitted by said act; and Provided further, That if the pending proceeding against respondents United Fishermen of Alaska and Kodiak Fish Producers Association is finally determined in any manner except by the issuance of an order to cease and desist, either (a) by consent, or (b) by final order of the Commission not subject to further review, or (c) by order of the Commission, which, although subject to further review, continues effective, requiring said respondents United Fishermen of Alaska and Kodiak Fish Producers Association to cease and desist from the same or similar acts or practices provided by the order contained herein, then this order shall terminate and cease to be of any effect.

By "Decision of the Commission As To Certain Respondents and Order To File Report of Compliance," report of compliance was required as follows:

It is further ordered, That respondents Walter Muller and Mildred D. Muller, individually and trading as Kodiak Sea Foods Packing Company, shall, within sixty (60) days after service upon them of this order, file with the Commission a report in writing, setting forth in detail the manner and form in which they have complied with the order to cease and desist contained in the aforesaid initial decision.

Issued: December 17, 1956.

By the Commission.

PART 14—APPRAISEMENT

EXAMINATION AND APPRAISEMENT OF MERCHANDISE BY SAMPLE

As a simplification measure to facilitate matters for the trade, it has been decided that examination and appraisement of merchandise by sample may be permitted of any merchandise as to which an accurate appraisement will be assured, whether or not it is a class or kind of merchandise which is commonly bought and sold by sample.

To permit the unlimited use of samples for these purposes in appropriate cases, the first sentence of § 14.2 (g) is amended to read: "When deemed sufficient for the purposes, samples of merchandise may be used for examination and appraisement."

PROPOSED RULE MAKING

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Agricultural Marketing Service

[7 CFR Part 942]

[Docket No. AO-103-A15]

MILK IN NEW ORLEANS, LA., MARKETING AREA

NOTICE OF HEARING ON PROPOSED AMENDMENTS TO TENTATIVE MARKETING AGREEMENT AND TO ORDER, AS AMENDED

Pursuant to the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), notice is hereby given of a public hearing to be held in the Walnut Room, Administration Building, New Orleans Airport (not Moisant Airport) Downman Road (at Lake Front), beginning at 10:00 a. m., local time, Monday, January 27, 1957, for the purpose of receiving evidence with respect to the proposed amendments hereinafter set forth, or appropriate modification thereof, to the tentative marketing agreements heretofore approved by the Secretary of Agriculture and to the order, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the New Orleans, Louisiana, marketing area (7 CFR 942 et seq.). The proposed amendments have not received the approval of the Secretary of Agriculture.

Proposal Nos. 1 and 39 relative to the enlargement of the marketing area, raise the issue as to whether the present provisions of the order, as amended, would tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act if applied to the marketing area as proposed to be extended, or if not, what modifications of such provisions are appropriate to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

The amendments to the order, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the New Orleans, Louisiana, milk marketing area were proposed as follows:

By the Louisiana-Mississippi Milk Producers' Association and the Dairy Farmers Cooperative Association:

1. Delete § 942.4 and substitute therefor the following:

§ 942.4 New Orleans, Louisiana, Marketing Area. New Orleans, Louisiana, marketing area hereafter called the "marketing area" means all territory included within the boundaries of the Parishes of Jefferson, Orleans, Plaquemines, St. Bernard, St. Charles, Lafourche, and Terrebonne, all in the State of Louisiana.

2. Delete § 942.6 and substitute therefor the following:

§ 942.6 Producer. "Producer" means any person, other than a producer-handler, who produces milk in compliance with Grade A inspection requirements of a duly constituted health authority having jurisdiction within the marketing area which milk is received during the month at a pool plant or which milk is not received by a pool plant for reasons other than compliance with Grade A specifications and for reasons of off flavor or odor; such milk may be diverted only by a cooperative association for its account.

3. Delete § 942.7 and substitute therefor the following:

§ 942.7 Handler. "Handler" means: (a) A cooperative association with respect to milk of producers diverted for the account of such association from a pool plant to a nonpool plant in accordance with the provisions of § 942.6; or (b) any person in his capacity as the operator of one or more approved plants: Provided, That, if a person operates more than one pool plant he may, upon written application to the market administrator, be considered as a separate handler for the month with respect to one or more of his pool plants if no fluid milk products or producers are transferred during the month between such plant(s) and other pool plant(s) of such handler.

4. Delete § 942.8 and substitute therefor the following:

§ 942.8 Producer-handler. "Producer-handler" means any person who operates a dairy farm and a distributing plant which during the month has no other source milk or producer milk.

5. Delete § 942.9 and substitute therefor the following:

§ 942.9 Approved plant. "Approved plant" means all of the buildings, premises and facilities of a plant (a) in which milk or skim milk is processed or packaged and from which any fluid milk product is disposed of during the month on routes (including routes operated by vendors and sales through plant stores) to wholesale or retail outlets (except milk distributing or processing plants) located in the marketing area, or (b) from which milk or skim milk eligible for distribution in the marketing area under a Grade A label is shipped during the month to a distributing plant.

6. Add new § 942.10 as follows:

§ 942.10 Distributing plant. "Distributing plant" means an approved plant from which Class I milk equal to not less than 50 percent of its receipts of producer milk and fluid milk products from other pool plants is disposed of during the month, on routes or through plant stores, to wholesale or retail outlets (except pool plants) and from which Class I milk equal to not less than 25 percent of such receipts is disposed of during the month on routes or through plant stores, to wholesale or retail outlets (except pool plants) located in the marketing area.

7. Add a new § 942.11 as follows:

§ 942.11 Supply plant. "Supply plant" means (a) an approved plant from which fluid milk products equal to not less than 50 percent of its receipts of producer milk during the month are shipped to distributing plants: Provided, That, any plant which qualifies as a supply plant for each of the months during the period August through January shall, upon written application to the market administrator, on or before the end of such period, be designated as a supply plant for the following months of February through July.

8. Add new § 942.12 as follows:

§ 942.12 Pool plant. "Pool plant" means either a distributing plant or supply plant, except a plant operated by a producer-handler.

9. Add new § 942.13 as follows:

§ 942.13 Nonpool plant. "Nonpool plant" means any milk manufacturing or processing plant other than a pool plant.

10. Delete § 942.10 and substitute therefor a new § 942.14 as follows:

§ 942.14 Producer milk. "Producer milk" means only that skim milk or butterfat contained in milk (a) received at a pool plant directly from producers, or (b) diverted from a pool plant to a nonpool plant in accordance with the provisions of § 942.7 (a).

11. Renumber § 942.16 as § 942.15.

12. Delete § 942.11 and substitute therefor § 942.16 as follows:

§ 942.16 Other source milk. "Other source milk" means all skim milk and butterfat contained in: (a) Receipts during the month of fluid milk products except (1) fluid milk products received from pool plants and (2) producer milk; and (b) products, other than fluid milk products, from any source (including those produced at the plant) which are reprocessed or converted to another product in the plant during the month.

13. Renumber § 942.12 as § 942.17.

14. Delete § 942.13 and substitute therefor as § 942.18 as follows:

§ 942.18 Base milk. "Base milk" means milk received at pool plants from a producer during any of the months of March through August of each year which is not in excess of such producer's daily average base computed pursuant to § 942.90 multiplied by the number of days in such month.

15. Delete § 942.14 and substitute therefor as § 942.19 as follows:

§ 942.19 Excess milk. "Excess milk" means milk received from a producer during any of the months of March through August of each year which is in excess of the base milk of such producer for such month.

16. Delete § 942.22 (j) and (k) and substitute therefor the following:

§ 942.22 Duties. • • •

(j) On or before the 11th day after the end of each month, report to each cooperative association which so requests, the percentage of producer milk delivered by members of such association which was used in each class by each handler receiving such milk. For the purpose of this report the milk so received shall be prorated to each class in accordance with the total utilization of producer milk by such handler; and

(k) On or before the date specified publicly announce, and mail to each handler at his last known address a notice of the following:

(1) The 5th day of each month, the Class I milk price and the Class I butterfat differential, both for the current month, and the Class II milk price, and the Class II butterfat differential both for the preceding month;

(2) The 11th day of each month, the uniform prices for September through February and uniform price for the base and excess milk for March through August pursuant to § 942.72, and the producer butterfat differential, both for the preceding month.

17. Renumber § 942.15 as § 942.20.

18. Delete § 942.43 and substitute therefor the following:

§ 942.43 Transfers. (a) Skim milk and butterfat transferred to a pool plant of another handler (except a producer-handler) in the form of fluid milk products shall, to the extent required, be classified so as to result in the maximum assignment of the producer milk of both handlers to Class I milk. Any additional amounts of skim milk and butterfat shall be classified as Class I milk, unless the operators of both plants claim utilization thereof in Class II milk in their reports submitted pursuant to § 942.30; Provided: That, the skim milk or butterfat so assigned to Class II milk for any month shall be limited to the respective amounts thereof remaining in Class II milk for such month at the pool plant(s) of the receiving handler after the subtraction of other source milk pursuant to § 942.45.

(b) Skim milk and butterfat transferred to the plant of a producer-handler in the form of fluid milk products, shall be classified as Class I milk.

(c) Skim milk and butterfat transferred or diverted in bulk form as milk or skim milk to a nonpool plant from which no fluid milk products are distributed on routes and which is located less than 150 miles by the shortest hard-surfaced highway distance, as determined by the market administrator, from the plant from which transferred or diverted shall be classified as Class I milk unless, (1) the transferring or diverting handler claims classification in Class II milk in his report submitted to the market administrator pursuant to § 942.30 for the month within which such transaction occurred, (2) the operator of the nonpool plant maintains books and records showing the utilization of all skim milk and butterfat at such plant which are made available if requested by the market administrator for the purpose of verification, and (3) not less than an equivalent amount of skim milk and butterfat was actually utilized in the nonpool plant in the use indicated in such report: Provided: That, milk transferred from handlers to a nonpool plant shall be assigned to Class I after similar assignment of the Grade A milk of dairy farmers at such nonpool plant;

(d) Skim milk and butterfat transferred or diverted more than 150 miles from such handlers plant shall be Class I;

(e) Skim milk and butterfat transferred in bulk form as cream to a nonpool plant shall be classified as Class I milk unless, (1) the transferring handler claims classification in Class II milk in his report submitted to the market administrator pursuant to § 942.30 and such nonpool plant maintains records and reports pursuant to paragraph (c) (2) of this section.

19. Delete § 942.44 and substitute therefor the following:

§ 942.44 Computation of skim milk and butterfat in each class. For each month, the market administrator shall correct for mathematical and other obvious errors, the reports submitted by each handler pursuant to § 942.30 and compute the total pounds of skim milk and butterfat respectively, in Class I milk and Class II milk at all of the pool plants of such handler: Provided, That, the skim milk contained in any product utilized, produced or disposed of by the handler during the month shall be considered to be an amount equivalent to the nonfat milk solids contained in such product, plus all of the water originally associated with such solids.

20. Delete § 942.51 (a) (1) and (2) and substitute therefor the following:

§ 942.51 Class I milk prices. (a) The Class I milk prices shall be the basic formula price for the preceding month plus $2.65, plus or minus a supply-demand adjustment calculated for each month as follows: Provided, That, such supply-demand adjustment shall not become effective prior to September 1957;

(1) Divide the total gross volume of Class I milk (less interhandler transfers) in the two immediately preceding months by the total receipt of producer milk for such months, multiply the result by 100 and round to the nearest whole number. The results shall be known as the current supply-demand relationship.

(2) Compute a net deviation percentage by subtracting from the "current supply-demand relationship" computed pursuant to subparagraph (1) of this paragraph, the "representative supply-demand index" shown below:

Month for which price is being computed	Months used to compute ratio	Base period ratio (percent)
January	October-November	79
February	November-December	76
March	December-January	71
April	January-February	69
May	February-March	68
June	March-April	68
July	April-May	66
August	May-June	66
September	June-July	68
October	July-August	69
November	August-September	75
December	September-October	80

(3) Determine the amount of the supply-demand adjustment from the following schedule:

If the net deviation percentage is:	Supply-demand adjustment
+12 or over	+24
+9 or +10	+19
+6 or +7	+14
+3 or +4	+9
+1 or −1	0
−3 or −4	−9
−6 or −7	−14
−9 or −10	−19
−12 or under	−24

In case the net deviation percentage does not fall within the tabulated brackets, the adjustment amount shall be determined by the adjacent net deviation bracket which is the same or nearest to the bracket used in the previous month.

21. Add a new § 942.55 as follows:

§ 942.55 Rate of compensatory payment. The rate of compensatory payment per hundredweight shall be calculated as follows: (a) Subtract the Class II milk price adjusted by the Class II butterfat differential from the Class I milk price adjusted by the Class I butterfat differential and in the case of fluid milk products, by the Class I location differential.

22. Delete §§ 942.60 and 942.61 and substitute therefor the following:

APPLICATION OF PROVISIONS

§ 942.60 Producer-handler. Sections 942.40 through 942.45, 942.50 through 942.55, 942.61, and 942.62, and 942.70 through 942.76, and 942.80 through 942.87 shall not apply to a producer-handler.

§ 942.61 Plants subject to other Federal orders. A plant specified in paragraph (a) or (b) of this section shall be a nonpool plant for purposes of this part except that the operator of such plant shall, with respect to the total receipts and utilization or disposition of skim milk and butterfat at the plant, make reports to the market administrator at such time and in such manner as the market administrator may request (in lieu of the reports required pursuant to § 942.30), and allow verification of such reports by the market administrator.

(a) Any distributing plant which would otherwise be subject to the classification and pricing provisions of another order issued pursuant to the act, unless a greater volume of Class I milk was disposed of from such plant to retail or wholesale outlets (except pool plants or nonpool plants) in the New Orleans marketing area than in the marketing area regulated pursuant to such other order; and

(b) Any supply plant which would otherwise be subject to the classification and pricing provisions of another order issued pursuant to the Act, unless such plant qualified as a pool plant for each of the preceding months of August through January.

23. Add a new § 942.62 as follows:

§ 942.62 Handlers operating nonpool plants. Each handler who is the operator of a nonpool plant which is not subject to the classification and pricing provisions of another order issued pursuant to the act, shall, on or before the 12th day after the end of each month, pay to the market administrator for deposit into the producer-settlement fund an amount calculated by muliplying the total hundredweight of butterfat and skim milk disposed of in the form of fluid milk products from such nonpool plant to retail or wholesale outlets (including deliveries by vendors and sales through plant stores) in the marketing area during the month, by the rate of compensatory payment calculated pursuant to § 942.55.

24. Delete § 942.70 and substitute therefor the following:

DETERMINATION OF PRICES TO PRODUCERS

§ 942.70 Computation of the value of producer milk for each handler. For each month, the market administrator shall compute the value of producer milk for each handler as follows:

(a) Multiply the quantity of producer milk in each class computed pursuant to § 942.45 by the applicable class price, and total the resulting amounts, and add any amount necessary to reflect adjustments in location differential allowance required pursuant to the proviso of § 942.53;

(b) Add an amount computed by multiplying the hundredweight of skim milk and butterfat subtracted from Class I milk pursuant to § 942.45 (a) (2) and (b) by the rate of compensatory payment as determined pursuant to § 942.54 for the nearest plant(s) from which an equivalent amount of other source milk was received by each handler in the form of fluid milk products: Provided; That, with respect to nonfluid milk products classified as Class I milk, the location differential will apply at the plant where such products are converted to any fluid milk product(s).

(c) Add an amount determined by multiplying the pounds of milk subtracted pursuant to § 942.45 (a) (7) and (b) by the applicable class price;

(d) Add the amount computed by multiplying the difference between the appropriate Class II price for the preceding month and the appropriate Class I milk price for the current month by the hundredweight of skim milk and butterfat remaining in Class II milk after the calculations pursuant to § 942.45 (a) (5) and (b) for the preceding month or the hundredweight of skim milk and butterfat subtracted from Class I milk pursuant to § 942.45 (a) (4) and (b) for the current month, whichever is less, respectively.

25. Delete § 942.71 and substitute therefor the following:

§ 942.71 Computation of aggregate value used to determine price(s). For each month the market administrator shall compute an aggregate value from which to determine the uniform price(s) per hundredweight for milk of 4.0 percent butterfat content received from producers as follows:

(a) Combine into one total the values computed pursuant to § 942.70 for all handlers who made the reports prescribed in § 942.30 and who made the payments pursuant to §§ 942.80 and 942.82 for the preceding month.

(b) Add the aggregate of the values of all allowable location adjustments to producers pursuant to § 942.75.

(c) Add not less than one-half of the cash balance on hand in the producer-settlement fund less the total amount of the contingent obligations to handlers pursuant to § 942.83.

(d) Subtract if the average butterfat content of the milk included in these computations is greater than 4.0 percent, or add if such average butterfat content is less than 4.0 percent an amount computed by multiplying the amount by which the average butterfat content of such milk varies from 4.0 percent by the butterfat differential computed pursuant to § 942.74 and multiplying the resulting figure by the total hundredweight of such milk.

26. Delete § 942.72 and substitute therefor the following:

§ 942.72 Computation of uniform price. For each of the months of September through February the market administrator shall compute the uniform price per hundredweight for all milk of 4.0 percent butterfat content received from producers as follows:

(a) Divide the aggregate value computed pursuant to § 942.71 by the total hundredweight of milk included in such computation; and

(b) Subtract not less than 4 cents nor more than 5 cents.

27. Delete § 942.73 and substitute therefor the following:

§ 942.73 Computation of uniform prices for base milk and excess milk. For each of the months of March through August the market administrator shall compute the uniform prices per hundredweight for base milk and for excess milk, each of 4.0 percent butterfat content as follows:

(a) Multiply the hundredweight of excess milk by the Class II price for 4.0 percent milk;

(b) Compute the total value of base milk by subtracting the amount computed pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section from the net amount computed pursuant to § 942.72 (a) and (b): Provided, That, if such result is greater than an amount computed by multiplying the hundredweight of base milk by the Class I milk price (for 4.0 percent milk) plus 4 cents, such amount in excess thereof shall be subtracted from the result obtained prior to this proviso;

(c) Divide the net amount obtained in paragraph (b) of this section by the total hundredweight of base milk and subtract not less than 4 cents but less than 5 cents. This result shall be known as the uniform price per hundredweight of base milk of 4.0 percent butterfat content; f. o. b. 61–70 mile zone; and

(d) Divide the sum of the amount obtained in paragraph (a) of this section and any amount subtracted pursuant to the proviso of paragraph (b) of this section by the hundredweight of excess milk. This result shall be known as the uniform price per hundredweight of excess milk of 4.0 percent butterfat content.

28. Add new § 942.75 as follows:

§ 942.75 Location differential to producers. Each handler in making payment to producers pursuant to § 942.80 shall adjust the uniform price of base milk during the months of March through August and of all milk during each of the months, September through February for each producer with respect to all such milk received from such producer at a pool plant situated other than in the 61–70 mile zone, should be adjusted to the location of the pool plant where such milk was received and at the rates set forth in § 942.53.

29. Add new § 942.76 as follows:

§ 942.76 Notification of handlers. On or before the 11th day after the end of each month, the market administrator shall mail to each handler, who submitted the report(s) prescribed in § 942.30, at his last known address, a statement showing:

(a) The amount and value of his producer milk in each class and the totals thereof;

(b) The amounts and value of his base and excess milk, respectively;

(c) The uniform prices for base milk and excess milk computed pursuant to § 942.72, and the butterfat differentials computed pursuant to § 942.74; and

(d) The amounts to be paid by such handler pursuant to §§ 942.62, 942.82, 942.85, 942.86, and the amount due such handler pursuant to §§ 942.83 and 942.87.

30. Renumber § 942.81 as § 942.84.

31. Add new § 942.81 as follows:

§ 942.81 Producer-settlement fund. The market administrator shall establish and maintain a separate fund known as the "producer-settlement fund" into which he shall deposit all payments made by handlers pursuant to §§ 942.62, 942.82, and 942.84, and out of which he shall make all payments pursuant to §§ 942.83 and 942.84: Provided, That any payments due to any handler shall be offset by any payments due from such handler.

32. Renumber § 942.82 to read 942.85 and new § 942.82 as follows:

§ 942.82 Payments to the producer-settlement fund. On or before the 12th day after the end of each month, each handler shall pay to the market administrator any amount by which the value of his producer milk as computed pursuant to § 942.70 for such month, is greater than the amount owed by him for such milk at the appropriate uniform price(s) adjusted by the producer butterfat and location differentials.

33. Renumber § 942.83 as § 942.86 and add new § 942.83 as follows:

§ 942.83 Payment out of the producer-settlement fund. On or before the 13th day after the end of each month, the market administrator shall pay to each handler any amount by which the total value of his producer milk, computed pursuant to § 942.70, for such month is less than the amount owed by him for such milk at the appropriate uniform price(s) adjusted by the producer butterfat and location differentials. If at such time the balance in the producer-settlement fund is insufficient to make all payments pursuant to this section, the market administrator shall reduce uniformly such payments and shall complete such payments as soon as the appropriate funds are available.

34. Renumber § 942.84 as § 942.88.

35. Add new § 942.87 as follows:

§ 942.87 Adjustment of overdue accounts. There shall be added to any balance due to the market administrator pursuant to §§ 942.62, 942.82, 942.84, and 942.85, and amount equal to one-half of one percent of such balance for each month or any portion thereof that payment of the balance is overdue.

36. Amend the Base Rules to provide that with respect to dairy farmers who were producers pursuant to the New Orleans order during six consecutive months of 1956, the market administrator shall use their deliveries of milk during the period October 1956 through February 1957, regardless of point of delivery, to compute producer bases for such dairy farmers during the base-operating period for 1957.

Proposed by Mr. Clyde Corkern and others, Route 4, Franklinton, Louisiana:

37. Delete the marketing services provision of the New Orleans order.

Proposed by Roemer Dairies, Metairie, Louisiana:

38. Amend § 942.11 "Other source milk" to exclude receipts of milk from producer-handlers in paper or glass containers.

Proposed by Magee's Creamery, Franklinton, Louisiana, and Acadia Dairy, Thibodaux, Louisiana:

39. Extend the New Orleans marketing area to include the Parishes of St. Mary, Iberville, Assumption, Ascension, St. John the Baptist, and St. James, Louisiana.

40. Base the calculation of the handler location adjustment for milk utilized by Terrebonne-Lafourche handlers on the distance between the receiving station, and either Houma or Thibodaux, Louisiana.

Proposed by Cloverland Dairy Products Corporation and Others, New Orleans, Louisiana:

41. Add a new § 942.41 (c) as follows:

(c) Class II-A milk. Class II-A milk shall be all skim milk and butterfat in producer milk which is received or diverted by a handler in excess of 110 percent of the volume of skim milk and butterfat utilized in Class I and Class II products by such handler and which is disposed of to a manufacturing plant outside the marketing area.

42. Add a new § 942.51 (c) as follows:

(c) Class II-A price. The Class II-A price shall be the price determined pursuant to § 942.50 (c).

43. Amend § 942.51 so as to provide for a Class I price for milk disposed of in tanks out of the marketing area at a level 75 cents per hundredweight less than the regular Class I price.

Proposed by Sontheimer Farms, Hammond, Louisiana:

44. Amend the marketing services provision to provide that a producer, who is not a member of a cooperative association, and delivering milk in bulk tank to a New Orleans regulated plant handler would pay the marketing service charge on his actual volume of milk, or 1,000 pounds per day whichever is less.

Proposed by the Dairy Division, Agricultural Marketing Service:

45. Consider the revision of the location adjustment rate per hundredweight in § 942.53 (a), and the method of determining the zone location of each regulated plant pursuant to § 942.53 (b).

46. Make such changes as may be required to make the entire marketing agreement and order, as amended, conform with any amendments thereto which may result from this hearing.

Copies of this notice of hearing and of the order, as amended, now in effect may be procured from the Market Administrator, 3709 South Carrollton Avenue, New Orleans 12, Louisiana, or from the Hearing Clerk, Room 112, Administration Building, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C., or may be there inspected.

Dated: January 9, 1957.

1957 SUGAR QUOTA FOR THE DOMESTIC BEET SUGAR AREA

NOTICE OF HEARING ON PROPOSED ALLOTMENT

Pursuant to the authority contained in the Sugar Act of 1948, as amended (61 Stat. 922, as amended by 65 Stat. 318; 7 U. S. C. 1100, Public Law 545, 84th Cong.), and in accordance with the applicable rules of practice and procedure

(21 F. R. 4251), the Secretary of Agriculture has, after due notice (21 F. R. 8087) and hearing, found that allotment of the 1957 sugar quota for the Domestic Beet Sugar Area is necessary to prevent disorderly marketing and to afford all interested persons an equitable opportunity to market sugar, and has established allotments of such quota totaling 1,600,000 short tons, raw value, to be in effect until allotments of the 1957 sugar quota for the Domestic Beet Sugar Area are prescribed (22 F. R. 24).

Notice is hereby given that a public hearing will be held at Washington, D. C., in Room 2W, Administration Building of the Department on January 23, 1957, at 10:00 a. m., e. s. t., for the purpose of receiving evidence to enable the Secretary of Agriculture to make a fair, efficient and equitable distribution of the above-mentioned quota for the calendar year 1957 among persons who market sugar processed from beets produced in the Domestic Beet Sugar Area. It will be appropriate at the hearing to present evidence on the basis of which the Secretary may affirm, modify, or change the finding which has been made with respect to necessity for allotment, and make or withhold allotment of any such quota in accordance therewith.

In addition, the subjects and issues of this hearing also include (1) the manner in which consideration should be given to the statutory factors as provided in sec. 205 (a) of the act; (2) the manner in which allotments should apply to sugar or liquid sugar processed under contracts providing for sugar beets or molasses to be sold to and processed for the account of one allottee by another; (3) provision for the transfer of allotments under circumstances of a succession of interest.

Notice also is given hereby that it will be appropriate at the hearing to present evidence on the basis of which the Secretary may revise or amend the allotment of the quota or proration thereof for the purposes of (1) allotting any increase, or decrease, in the quota resulting from a change in United States sugar requirements or from the proration of a deficit of another area; (2) prorating any deficit in the allotment for any allottee; and (3) substituting final actual data for estimates of such data wherever estimates are used in the formulation of an allotment of the quota.

Issued this 10th day of January 1957.

Administrator, CSS.

FEDERAL POWER COMMISSION

[18 CFR Part 201]

[Docket No. R-158]

UNIFORM SYSTEM OF ACCOUNTS RESPECTING TREATMENT OF DEFERRED TAXES ON INCOME

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE MAKING

JANUARY 7, 1957.

1. Notice is hereby given of proposed rule making in the above-entitled matters.

2. It is proposed to amend Part 201 of the Commission's general rules and regulations (18 CFR, Chapter I, Subchapter F, Part 201) entitled "Uniform System of Accounts for Natural Gas Companies" by substituting for the existing Accounts 259 and 507–A and 507–B revisions designated as §§ 201.259:1, 201.507–A and 201.507–B. As shown by the accompanying proposal these revisions are intended to clarify the language regarding that account as prescribed by order No. 171 (19 F. R. 2450 April 27, 1954).

3. It is also proposed to add new Accounts designated as §§ 201.259:2 and 201.259:3, which would be related to accounting for liberalized depreciation as contemplated by our order issued August 29, 1956 In the Matter of Amere Gas Utilities Co. et al., Docket No. G–6358 (16 F. P. C. 880) and other deferrals resultant from provisions of various tax code authority. We there, at page 881, stated:

On the record in this proceeding we have heretofore by our order issued June 30, 1956 (15 F. P. C. 781), affirming the decision of the presiding examiner, concluded that the uniform system of accounts prescribed for natural gas companies subject to the provisions of the Natural Gas Act, as amended by order No. 171 relating to accelerated amortization, should be further amended to make similar provision for liberalized depreciation. However, the due and orderly effectuation of that conclusion in a manner uniformly applicable not only to Amere Gas Utilities Co., et al., but to all natural gas companies subject to the provisions of the Natural Gas Act will, under our order, await the initiation and completion of rule-making proceedings in which such amendment can be prescribed. We expect to initiate such proceedings at an early date.

4. The proposed amendments, set forth below, to the Commission's Uniform System of Accounts and Rules are proposed to be issued under the authority granted the Federal Power Commission by the Natural Gas Act, particularly sections 8, 10 and 16 of that act (52 Stat. 821, 825, 826, and 830; 15 U. S. C. 717g, 717i, and 717o).

5. Any interested person may submit to the Federal Power Commission, Washington 25, D. C., not later than March 1, 1957, data, views, comments and suggestions in writing concerning the proposed amendments to the Uniform System of Accounts. An original and nine copies should be filed of any such submittals. The Commission will consider these written submittals before acting upon the proposed amendments.

[SEAL] J. H. GUTRIDE,
Acting Secretary.

Proposed revised texts of Accounts 259, 507–A, and 507–B of the Uniform System of Accounts for Natural Gas Companies to incorporate provisions with respect to deferred taxes arising from liberalized depreciation and from other differences in timing tax deduction:

§ 201.259 Reserve for deferred taxes on income. This account shall be subdivided in accounts 259:1 to 259:3.

§ 201.259:1 Reserve for deferred taxes on income; accelerated amortization. (a) This account shall be credited and Account 507A, Provision for Deferred Taxes on Income, shall be debited with an amount equal to that by which taxes on income payable for the year are lower because of the use of accelerated [5-year] amortization of certified defense facilities in computing such taxes, as permitted by section 168 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 (section 124A of previous Internal Revenue Code), as compared to the depreciation (deduction) otherwise appropriate and allowable for tax purposes according to the straight line or other nonaccelerated depreciation method and appropriate service life expectancy for such property.

(b) This account shall be debited and Account 507B, Credits to Operations Arising from Taxes on Income Deferred in Prior Years—Credit, shall be credited with an amount equal to that by which taxes on income payable for the year are greater because of the use in prior years of accelerated (5-year) amortization of certified defense facilities instead of nonaccelerated depreciation otherwise appropriate for income tax purposes, and deferral of taxes in such prior years as described in paragraph (a) of this section. Such debit to this account and credit to Account 507B shall, in general, represent the effect on taxes payable for the current year of the unavailability of a depreciation deduction for tax purposes, or a reduced amount, with respect to any depreciable property for which accelerated amortization was used in prior years, as compared to the depreciation deduction which otherwise would be available and appropriate for such property, considering its service life expectancy, according to the depreciation method ordinarily used by the utility for similar property in computing depreciation for tax purposes by a nonaccelerated or nonliberalized depreciation method applied over the entire service life of the property.

(c) Records with respect to entries to this account, as described above, and the reserve balance, shall be so maintained as to show the factors of calculation and the separate amounts applicable to the facilities of each certification or authorization for accelerated amortization for tax purposes.

(d) The use of this account and the accounting described above are not mandatory for any utility, which in accordance with a consistent policy, elects not to follow deferred tax accounting even though accelerated amortization is used in computing taxes on income. If, however, deferred tax accounting is initiated with respect to any certified defense facilities, the accounting shall not be suspended or discontinued on the property covered by that certificate, without approval of the Commission, and shall be carried out fully as provided by the text of this account.

(e) The utility is restricted in its use of this account to the purposes set forth above. It shall not transfer the reserve or any portion thereof to surplus or make any use thereof except as provided in the text of this account without prior approval of the Commission. Any remaining deferred tax reserve balance with respect to any certified defense facility for which deferred tax accounting has been followed, after retirement of such facility or major part thereof, or expiration of the service life on which the deferred tax calculations were based, shall be reported to the Commission and disposed of as the Commission may authorize or direct.

§ 201.259:2 Reserve for deferred taxes on income; Liberalized depreciation. (a) This account shall be credited and Account 507A, Provision for Deferred Taxes on Income, shall be debited with an amount equal to that by which taxes on income payable for the year are lower because of the use of liberalized depreciation in computing such taxes, as permitted by section 167 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, as compared to the depreciation [deduction] otherwise appropriate and allowable for tax purposes for similar property of the same service life expectancy according to the straight line or other nonliberalized method of depreciation.

(b) This account shall be debited and Account 507B, Credits to Operations Arising from Taxes on Income Deferred in Prior Years—Credit, shall be credited with an amount equal to that by which taxes on income payable for the year are greater because of the use in prior years of liberalized depreciation for income tax purposes, and deferral of taxes in such prior years as described in paragraph (a) of this section. Such debit to this account and credit to Account 507B, shall, in general, represent the effect on taxes payable for the current year of the smaller amount of depreciation permitted for tax purposes for the current year with respect to any depreciable property for which liberalized depreciation was used in prior years, as compared to the depreciation deduction otherwise appropriate and available for similar property of the same service life expectancy according to the straight line or other nonliberalized depreciation method ordinarily used by the utility in computing depreciation for tax purposes.

(c) Records with respect to entries to this account, as described above, and reserve balance, shall be so maintained as to show the factors of calculation and the separate amounts applicable to the plant balances of each vintage year for each class, group, or unit as to which different liberalized depreciation methods and service life expectancies have been used.

(d) Utilities intending to defer taxes in accordance with the provisions of this account shall file with the Commission a notice of intention to do so. Such notice shall state the particular method or methods of liberalized depreciation intended to be used as to which taxes are to be deferred and the types of property for which such methods are to be applied if a single method and average service life is not intended to be used generally. The use of this account and the accounting described above are not mandatory for any utility, which in accordance with a consistent policy, elects not to follow deferred tax accounting even though liberalized depreciation is used in computing taxes on income. If, however, deferred tax accounting is initiated with respect to any property the accounting shall not be discontinued on that property, without approval of the Commission, and shall be carried out fully as provided by the text of this account.

(e) The utility is restricted in its use of this account to the purposes set forth above. It shall not transfer the reserve or any portion thereof to surplus or make any use thereof except as provided in the text of this account without prior approval of the Commission. Any remaining deferred tax reserve balance with respect to any year's plant additions or subdivisions thereof for which liberalized depreciation accounting has been followed after retirement of said additions or major part thereof, or after expiration of the service life on which the depreciation calculations for tax purposes are based, shall be reported to the Commission and disposed of as the Commission may authorize or direct.

§ 201.259:3 Reserve for deferred taxes on income—other. (a) This account when its use has been authorized or directed by the Commission for specific types of tax deferrals shall be credited in Account 507A, Provision for Deferred Taxes on Income, shall be debited with an amount equal to that by which taxes on income payable for the year are lower because of the current use in computing taxes on income of deductions, other than accelerated amortization or liberalized depreciation, which for general accounting purposes will not be fully reflected in the utility's determination of annual net income until subsequent years.

(b) This account, when its use has been authorized or directed by the Commission, shall be debited and Account 507B, Credits to Operations Arising from Taxes on Income Deferred in Prior Years—Credit, shall be credited with an amount equal to that by which taxes on income payable for the year are greater because of deferral of taxes on income in previous years, as provided by paragraph (a), of this section, because of difference in timing for tax purposes of particular income deductions from that recognized by the utility for general accounting purposes, other than with respect to accelerated amortization or liberalized depreciation. Such debit to this account and credit to Account 507B shall, in general, represent the effect on taxes payable in the current year of the smaller deduction permitted for tax purposes as compared to the amount recognized in the utility's general accounts with respect to the item or class of items for which deferred tax accounting by the utility was authorized or directed by the Commission.

(c) Records with respect to entries to this account, as described above, and the reserve balance, shall be so maintained as to show the factors of calculation with respect to each annual amount of the item or class of items, other than accelerated amortization or liberalized depreciation, for which tax deferral accounting by the utility is authorized or directed by the Commission.

(d) The utility is restricted in its use of this account to the purposes set forth above. It shall not transfer the reserve or any portion thereof to surplus or make any use thereof except as provided in the text of this account, without prior approval of the Commission. Any remaining deferred tax reserve balance with respect to an amount for any prior year's tax deferral, the amortization of which or other recognition in the utility's income accounts has been completed, or other disposition made, shall be reported to the Commission and disposed of as the Commission may authorize or direct.

NOTE: In determining appropriate use of this account as a basis of request to the Commission for authorization of its use, consideration shall be given to the relative importance of the amount involved, and to other items in the utility's accounts where "prepaid tax accounting" may be appropriate such as (a) where the time of taking a deduction in computing taxes on income is such that the tax deduction must be delayed or applied to a series of future years as opposed to earlier recognition of such item in determination of income in the general accounts of the utility, or (b) where inclusion of an income item is required for tax purposes but is to be recognized in whole or in part in the utility's income accounts of a subsequent year or years.

§ 201.507–A Provision for deferred taxes on income. This account shall be debited and the appropriate subdivision of Account 259, Reserve for Deferred Taxes on Income, shall be credited with an amount equal to any deferral of taxes on income as provided by Account 250 and the subaccounts thereunder. No entries shall be made to this account which are not provided for by the applicable subaccounts of Account 259, Reserve for Deferred Taxes on Income. There shall not be netted against entries required to be made to this account any credit amounts appropriately includible in Account 507B, Credits to Operations Arising from Taxes on Income Deferred in Prior Years—Income.

§ 201.507–B Credits to operations arising from taxes on income deferred in prior years—credit. This account shall be credited and the appropriate subaccount of Account 259, Reserve for Deferred Taxes, debited with an amount equal to the portion of taxes on income payable for the year that is attributable to a deferral of taxes on income in a prior year, in accordance with the plan of deferred tax accounting provided by Account 259. No entries to this account shall be omitted if required according to the plan of deferred tax accounting as provided by the applicable subdivisions of Account 259, Reserve for Deferred Taxes on Income. There shall not be netted against entries required to be made to this account any debit amounts appropriately includible in Account 507A, Provision for Deferred Taxes on Income.

ORDER OF REVOCATION

SEPTEMBER 20, 1956.

Pursuant to the authority delegated by Departmental Order No. 2765 of July 30, 1954, I hereby revoke Departmental Order of April 30, 1951, insofar as said order affects the following-described land; provided, however, that such revocation shall not affect the withdrawal of any other lands by said order or affect any other orders withdrawing or reserving the land hereinafter described:

BOISE MERIDIAN, IDAHO

T. 1 N., R. 2 E.,
Sec. 17, NE¼NW¼, N½NE¼.

The above areas aggregate 120 acres.

DON S. CAMPBELL,
Acting Commissioner.

[61715]

JANUARY 8, 1957.

I concur. The records of the Bureau of Land Management will be noted accordingly.

1. The lands are located about 6 miles east and two miles south of Mora, Idaho. It lies at an elevation of about 2,900 feet. The topography varies from nearly level to gently undulating. The vegetative cover consists of cheatgrass, mustard, native bluegrass, and Russian thistle. The land would be suitable for agriculture if water could be made available.

2. No application for the lands may be allowed under the homestead, desert-land, small tract, or any other nonmineral public-land law unless the lands have already been classified as valuable or suitable for such type of application, or shall be so classified upon the consideration of an application. Any application that is filed will be considered on its merits. The lands will not be subject to occupancy or disposition until they have been classified.

3. Subject to any valid existing rights and the requirements of applicable law, the lands are hereby opened to filing of applications, selections, and locations in accordance with the following:

a. Applications and selections under the nonmineral public-land laws may be presented to the Manager mentioned below, beginning on the date of this order. Such applications and selections will be considered as filed on the hour and respective dates shown for the various classes enumerated in the following paragraphs:

(1) Applications by persons having prior existing valid settlement rights, preference rights conferred by existing laws, or equitable claims subject to allowance and confirmation will be adjudicated on the facts presented in support of each claim or right. All applications presented by persons other than those referred to in this paragraph will be subject to the applications and claims mentioned in this paragraph.

(2) All valid applications under the Homestead, Desert Land, and Small Tract Laws by qualified veterans of World War II or of the Korean Conflict, and by others entitled to preference rights under the act of September 27, 1944 (58 Stat. 747; 43 U. S. C. 279–284 as amended), presented prior to 10:00 a. m. on February 13, 1957, will be considered as simultaneously filed at that hour. Rights under such preference right applications filed after that hour and before 10:00 a. m. on May 15, 1957, will be governed by the time of filing.

(3) All valid applications and selections under the nonmineral public-land laws, other than those coming under paragraphs (1) and (2) above, presented prior to 10:00 a. m. on May 15, 1957, will be considered as simultaneously filed at that hour. Rights under such applications and selections filed after that hour will be governed by the time of filing.

4. Persons claiming veterans preference rights must enclose with their applications proper evidence of military or naval service, preferably a complete photostatic copy of the certificate of honorable discharge. Persons claiming preference rights based upon valid settlement, statutory preference, or equitable claims must enclose properly corroborated statements in support of their claims. Detailed rules and regulations governing applications which may be filed pursuant to this notice can be found in Title 43 of the Code of Federal Regulations.

5. The lands have been open to applications and offers under the mineral-leasing laws. They will be open to location under the United States mining laws beginning at 10:00 a. m. on May 15, 1957.

6. Inquiries concerning the lands shall be addressed to the Manager, Land Office, Bureau of Land Management, Boise, Idaho.

EDWARD WOOZLEY,
Director, Bureau of Land Management.

Subchapter B—Export Regulations

[8th Gen. Rev. of Export Regulations, Amdt. 24 [1]]

PART 371—GENERAL LICENSES

PART 372—PROVISIONS FOR INDIVIDUAL AND OTHER VALIDATED LICENSES

PART 379—EXPORT CLEARANCE AND DESTINATION CONTROL

PART 380—AMENDMENTS, EXTENSIONS, TRANSFERS

MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

1. Section 371.4 Reexportation from country of destination, paragraph (a) Prohibited reexportations is amended by deleting the words "or in § 371.8 (b)" at the end thereof.

2. Section 371.8 General license GRO; shipments of non-Positive List commodities is amended as follows:

a. Paragraph (b) Shipments to redistribution points is deleted.

b. Paragraph (c) Surplus agricultural commodities and manufactures thereof is renumbered (b) and subparagraph (2) Exportations is amended by deleting the first unnumbered paragraph including the statement.

3. Section 372.4 Applications for validated licenses, paragraph (c) Requirement to disclose parties in interest, subparagraph (2) Definitions of parties in interest, subdivision (iii) Intermediate consignee is amended to read as follows:

(iii) Intermediate consignee. (a) The bank, forwarding agent, or other intermediary (if any) who acts in a foreign country as an agent for the exporter, the purchaser, or the ultimate consignee, for the purpose of effecting delivery of the exportation to the ultimate consignee, must be named on the application, if known. If no intermediary is to be used, or if the intermediate consignee is unknown at the time of the application, this fact must be stated on the application.

(b) Optional intermediate consignees may be indicated on the application for export license by an exporter who is unable to determine, at the time of filing his license application, at which port the commodities will be unloaded from the exporting carrier.

(c) In all cases, before a shipment will be cleared for export, the name and address of any intermediate consignee to be used must be ascertained and set forth on the Shipper's Export Declaration, whether or not named on the license application or validated license (see § 379.4 (b) (3) of this subchapter). However, the name and address of the intermediate consignee need not be shown on the commercial invoice.

(d) Amendment of the export license is required if an intermediate consignee to be used in the export transaction is not located in the country of ultimate destination unless named on the export license.

(e) If the newly added intermediate consignee is located in the country of ultimate destination, an amendment is required only where the change in or addition of the intermediate consignee involves a consolidated shipment as provided by § 379.10 (h) (2) (iv) of this subchapter or where pursuant to notice from the Bureau of Foreign Commerce, in any case, the Collector of Customs specifically requires an amendment for this purpose.

4. Section 372.12, Note 1 Destination control statement is amended to read as follows:

NOTE 1. Destination control statement. See § 379.10 of this subchapter, for requirement for destination control statement on Shipper's Export Declaration, Bill of Lading and Commercial Invoice covering exports from the United States.

5. Section 379.3 Presentation of shipper's export declaration, paragraph (e) Special requirements, subparagraph (3) Special requirements for exportations by air is amended so that subdivision (i) thereof reads as follows:

(i) The provisions of this paragraph apply to any exportation by air, other than air mail or air parcel post, which is made under authority of a validated export license.

6. Section 379.4, Note 2 Shipments to redistribution points under General License GRO following is deleted and Note 3 is renumbered 2.

7. Section 379.10 is amended to read as follows:

§ 379.10 Destination control—(a) Definition of Bill of Lading. As used in this section, "Bill of Lading" means the contract of carriage and receipt for commodities issued by the carrier.

(b) Country of ultimate destination. The following provisions of this paragraph apply to all shipments made under a validated license. (For the carrier's responsibilities regarding general license shipments see §§ 371.4, 381.2, 381.3, 381.4 and 381.6 of this subchapter.)

(1) No carrier by water, land, or air, nor any other person on behalf of any carrier, shall issue a bill of lading which provides for delivery of cargo subject to the provisions of this paragraph at any foreign port except a port located in the country of (i) the ultimate consignee, or (ii) the intermediate consignee, named in the authenticated Declaration.

(2) No carrier shall deliver such cargo at any other country at the request or option of either the shipper, consignor, exporter, purchaser, or ultimate consignee, or their agents, or any other person having custody or control of the shipment, without prior written authorization from the Bureau of Foreign Commerce to the carrier or its agent.

(3) No shipper, consignor, exporter, purchaser or ultimate consignee, or their agents, or any other person, shall, without prior written authorization from the Bureau of Foreign Commerce to the carrier or its agent: (i) Divert any cargo to any country of ultimate destination other than that named in the authenticated Declaration or in the Bill of Lading described in paragraph (c) of this section; (ii) request or demand that any carrier or its agent divert such cargo from the country of ultimate destination named in any of such documents. In addition, no agent of any carrier shall instruct or authorize the master of the vessel to divert any such cargo to any other country of ultimate destination without such prior written authorization from the Bureau of Foreign Commerce.

(4) No carrier of such cargo shall issue a Bill of Lading providing for delivery to the ultimate consignee named in the authenticated Declaration at optional ports where one of such optional ports is in a country not named as the ultimate country of destination in the license or Declaration, unless written authorization has been granted by the Bureau of Foreign Commerce. However, where the authenticated Declaration provides for delivery of cargo consisting of commodities subject to this paragraph to optional intermediate consignees located in ports in different countries, the carrier may issue a Bill of Lading providing for delivery at such optional ports.

(c) Statement regarding ultimate destination on declaration, bill of lading, and commercial invoice. The provisions of this paragraph apply to a shipment made under a general license where a Shipper's Export Declaration is required to be presented to the Collector of Customs, except for General License GIT; a shipment made under a validated license.

NOTE: The provisions of paragraph (c) of this section are inapplicable to shipments intended for consumption in Canada, since these exportations to Canada require neither a validated nor a general license. However, these provisions are applicable to shipments through Canada to other foreign countries.

(1) An appropriate destination control statement shall be entered on the Shipper's Export Declaration, in accordance with the provisions set forth below, for all shipments subject to the provisions of this section.[1]

(i) The following statement shall be entered on the Declaration covering an exportation under either a validated or general license other than General License GIT, with the blank space filled in with the name of the country of ultimate destination set forth in the Declaration; unless, instead of this statement, an appropriate statement as provided in subdivision (ii) or subdivision (iii) of this subparagraph has been entered.

These commodities licensed by the United States for ultimate destination (name of country). Diversion contrary to United States law prohibited.

NOTE: In some instances the destination control statement used by an exporter or his agent for a specific shipment may indicate that the shipment can not be reexported to a destination to which the ultimate consignee or purchaser wishes to sell or distribute the commodities; however, the reexportation provisions of the Export Regulations (§§ 371.4 and 372.12 of this subchapter) would permit the reexportation. Where this occurs, and permission to distribute or resell is requested by the foreign importer or any other party in possession of the commodities, the exporter, without obtaining written approval of the Bureau of Foreign Commerce, may inform the foreign importer or other party that distribution or resale may be made in accordance with the reexportation provisions where applicable. In all other instances, written approval shall be obtained from the Bureau of Foreign Commerce.

(ii) Instead of the statement set forth in subdivision (i) of this subparagraph, the following statement may be substituted with the blank spaces filled in as instructed below.

These commodities licensed by the United States for ultimate destination _____ and for distribution or resale in _____. Diversion contrary to the United States law prohibited.

(a) If the exportation is made under a general license, other than General License GIT, insert the name of the country to which the shipment is being made in the first blank space and the following words in the last blank space, "any destination except Soviet Bloc, Communist China, North Korea, Macao, Hong Kong, or Communist controlled areas of Viet Nam and Laos unless otherwise authorized by the United States".

(b) If the exportation is made under a validated license, insert in the first blank space the name of the country shown on the license as country of ultimate destination. In the last blank space, insert the names of the countries shown on the license as approved destinations for distribution or resale. If no country is shown on the license as approved for distribution or resale, insert the word "none" in the last blank space.

[1] Where the country of ultimate destination is Cambodia, Laos, or Viet Nam (the area formerly known as Indo-China), the destination control statement shall be filled in as required by § 373.68 of this subchapter regardless of the country designation shown on the Shipper's Export Declaration.

NOTE: The note following subdivision (i) of this subparagraph is also applicable to requests for permission to distribute or resell where the statement set forth in subdivision (ii) of this subparagraph is used.

(iii) Where a shipment is made under a general license, other than General License GIT, the following statement may be entered on the declaration instead of the statements set forth in subdivisions (i) and (ii) of this subparagraph.

United States law prohibits disposition of these commodities to the Soviet Bloc, Communist China, North Korea, Macao, Hong Kong, or Communist controlled areas of Viet Nam and Laos, unless otherwise authorized by the United States.

NOTE: The Note following subdivision (i) of this subparagraph is also applicable to requests for permission to distribute or resell where the statement set forth in subdivision (iii) of this subparagraph is used.

(2) (i) No carrier by water, land, or air shall issue, and no licensee, shipper, consignor, exporter or consignee, or their agents, or any other person, shall prepare or procure a Bill of Lading covering an exportation of a commodity with respect to which a Declaration has been authenticated by a Collector containing the applicable statement set forth in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph, unless all copies of such Bill of Lading, including all non-negotiable and office copies except as provided in subdivision (ii) of this subparagraph, shall contain the same statement.

(ii) In the case of shipments by air (other than airmail or air parcel post) the provisions of subdivision (i) of this subparagraph are applicable to: (a) Any Air Waybill issued by a consolidator (indirect carrier) for an exportation included in a consolidated shipment; or (b) any Air Waybill issued by a carrier or other person covering an exportation not included in a consolidated shipment. The provisions of subparagraph (1) of this paragraph do not apply to a "Master" Air Waybill issued by a carrier to cover a consolidated shipment.

(3) No licensee, shipper, or consignor, exporter, or agent thereof, or any other person, shall prepare or issue any commercial invoice with respect to any shipment of commodities subject to the provisions of this section, unless such invoice or invoices, and all copies thereof shall contain on the face thereof the applicable statement set forth in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph.

(4) No carrier shall release custody of a shipment of commodities covered by the provisions of this section to any party (including agents, on-carriers, foreign customs officials, or any other person) without surrender by that party, to the carrier, of a copy of the Bill of Lading bearing on its face the applicable destination control statement set forth in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph; unless simultaneously with release of the commodities the carrier delivers to such party a written copy of the destination control statement covering the shipment as contained on the copy of the Bill of Lading in the carrier's possession. The written statement shall identify the shipment by Bill of Lading number, name of carrier, voyage number, date and port of arrival. The carrier shall secure and retain either a signed receipted copy of such written statement or other equivalent written evidence of such statement.

(d) Notice and prohibition against diversion. (1) Whenever a commercial invoice shall be issued containing the destination control statement prescribed in paragraph (c) (1) of this section, the shipper or other person issuing such invoice shall promptly send copies thereof to (i) the ultimate consignee and the purchaser named in the authenticated Declaration; (ii) the intermediate consignee; and (iii) any other persons named in the invoice who are located in a foreign country. Nothing herein contained shall be construed to limit the persons or classes of persons to whom such invoices and Bills of Lading are usually and customarily sent in the course of export trade. The shipper or other person issuing the commercial invoice may either omit all reference to price or sales commission from the copy of the invoice sent to any of the above-named persons, provided such invoice otherwise adequately identifies the shipment; or, in lieu of a copy of the commercial invoice, may send a copy of the Bill of Lading containing the destination control statement prescribed in paragraph (c) (1) of this section.

(2) No person, including the ultimate consignee or intermediate consignee and any on-forwarding carrier, shall, after notification of the prohibition against diversion prescribed in paragraph (c) (1) of this section, whether by such invoice or Bill of Lading or by any other means, divert or cause to be diverted any of the commodities described in such Bill of Lading to any country of ultimate destination other than that named in such notification.

(e) Proof of notice. In any administrative compliance proceeding brought by the Bureau of Foreign Commerce, evidence of the sending of such invoice or Bill of Lading, or other form of notification of the prohibition against diversion to any person, shall constitute prima facie proof of his receipt thereof and of notification that the commodities have been licensed for a particular country of ultimate destination and may not be lawfully diverted to any other country. In addition, proof of the sending of such notice to the intermediate consignee shall be deemed notification of such prohibition to the ultimate consignee and purchaser.

(f) Unloading of cargo at a port in other than intermediate or ultimate country of destination. Nothing contained in the Export Regulations shall be deemed to prohibit a carrier from unloading cargo at a port in other than the intermediate or ultimate country of destination shown on the authenticated Declaration where, by reason of an act of God, perils of the sea, damage to the carrier, strikes, war, political disturbances, insurrection, or other causes beyond the control of the carrier set forth as standard provisions of the carrier's Bill of Lading, it is not feasible to deliver the cargo at the licensed port of destination. Whenever, because of the existence of any of the said causes, cargo is unloaded at a port in any other country:

(1) The carrier shall promptly, and within 10 days from the date of unloading such cargo, report the facts with respect thereto to the nearest American consul and to the agent of the carrier located in the United States. Within 10 days after the receipt of such notice by the agent of the carrier in the United States, such agent shall transmit a copy of the report to the Bureau of Foreign Commerce. This report shall consist of a copy of the manifest of such diverted cargo, together with a statement of the place of unloading and the name and address of the person in whose custody the commodities were delivered.

(2) The exporter of such commodities shall, upon notice from the Bureau of Foreign Commerce of such diversion, promptly, and within 10 days, notify the Bureau of Foreign Commerce of the proposed disposition of the commodities.

(3) No person, including the exporter, the licensee, any consignee, or the carrier and any agent or person acting on its behalf, shall take any steps to effect delivery or entry of the commodities into the commerce of the country where unloaded without prior approval of the Bureau of Foreign Commerce. The carrier shall take steps to assure that such commodities are placed in custody under bond or other guaranty not to enter the commerce of such country or any country other than the countries of the ultimate and intermediate consignees shown on the authenticated Declaration without such prior approval.

(g) Indication of shipper's export declaration number on ship's manifest. The carrier or its agent shall, on all copies of the outward foreign manifest which is filed with the United States Collector of Customs, indicate thereon, with respect to each shipment, the applicable Shipper's Export Declaration number assigned to each such shipment by the Collector.

INTERPRETATIONS

1. Q. Who other than the shipper is authorized to insert the ultimate destination control statement on the Shipper's Export Declaration, the Bill of Lading and the commercial invoice, as provided by § 379.10 (c) (1)?

A. The forwarding agent is deemed to have authority to insert the ultimate destination control statement required by § 379.10 (c) (1) on the Bill of Lading, Declaration, and commercial invoices, unless the forwarding agent's authorization prohibits him from so doing. If the carrier prepares the Bill of Lading, the carrier must insert the statement on that document based upon information communicated to the carrier by the exporter or his authorized forwarding agent, i. e., and authenticated Declaration or a validated license, or a properly executed Declaration given to the carrier for submission to Collectors for authentication containing the statement.

2. Q. Is the Collector responsible for checking as to the ultimate destination control statement on the Bill of Lading and on invoices, as well as on the Declaration?

A. Collectors have the responsibility for checking as to the ultimate destination control statement on all Declarations submitted for authentication, and should ascertain that the inscription has been placed on any Bills of Lading or invoices which they receive in the regular course of business or which otherwise come to their attention. In other cases, Collectors may, wherever they deem it appropriate to assure compliance with the Export Regulations, check the Bill of Lading or commercial invoices as to the ultimate destination control statement or other matters.

(h) Conformity of export control documents. (1) As used in this paragraph, "licensed exporter" means the person named as "exporter," and "licensed ultimate consignee" means the person named as ultimate consignee, in an authenticated Shipper's Export Declaration covering a validated license shipment.

(2) The rules of conformity set forth below shall apply to any shipment under a validated export license, except that in the case of shipments by air, other than air mail or air parcel post, the conformity rules do not apply to a consolidated "Master" Air Waybill. However, the rules of conformity do apply to any individual Air Waybill issued by a consolidator (indirect carrier) for an exportation included in a consolidated shipment and to any Air Waybill issued by a carrier or other person covering an exportation not included in a consolidated shipment.

(i) The validated export license, the authenticated Declaration, and the outbound Bill of Lading covering the same export shipment must be consistent with one another.

(ii) The Bill of Lading is not consistent if it contains words or a statement indicating that the shipment is in transit to a different country of ultimate destination from the country of ultimate destination named in the authenticated Declaration, such as consigning the shipment to the ultimate destination with a qualifying phrase indicating the shipment is "in transit" at that destination, or consigning the shipment to a free zone or free port when it is known or there is reasonable cause to believe that the shipment is not for consumption in the country in which the ultimate consignee is located.

(iii) The Bill of Lading is not consistent if it names as shipper any person other than the licensed exporter or his duly authorized forwarding agent. Where shipments from more than one exporter are consolidated on a single Bill of Lading, the shipper named on the Bill of Lading must also appear as the authorized forwarding agent for each licensed exporter on each Declaration.

(iv) In the case of negotiable Bills of Lading (i. e., "order" Bills of Lading) the Bill of Lading is deemed consistent only if:

(a) The name and address of the licensed ultimate consignee are shown in the body of the Bill of Lading under the caption "licensed ultimate consignee and notify party" or in the case of the air waybill under the caption "also notify." Where shipments to more than one licensed ultimate consignee are consolidated on one Bill of Lading and the names of all licensed ultimate consignees are not shown in the body of the Bill of Lading, the name of the intermediate consignee (customs broker or consolidator's agent in the foreign country) who will receive and distribute the goods to the licensed ultimate consignees must appear on the Bill of Lading, the export license, and the Declaration. Where the name of the intermediate consignee in such a consolidated shipment differs from that shown on the validated license, or does not appear on the license, an amendment of the license is necessary even though the intermediate consignee is in the same country as the ultimate consignees;

(b) The consignee or order party named in the Bill of Lading is named in the authenticated Declaration; and

(c) The Bill of Lading provides for delivery of the shipment (cargo) at a port located in the country of either the ultimate consignee or intermediate consignee named in the authenticated Declaration.

NOTE: As indicated in subparagraph (2) (iv) of this paragraph, the Bill of Lading may consign the commodities covered thereby to the order of the shipper, to the order of an intermediate consignee (whether bank, foreign freight forwarder or other intermediary), or to the order of purchaser (if not the same as the licensed ultimate consignee).

An "order" Bill of Lading issued in the above form constitutes a representation on the part of such shipper that the commodities covered by the validated license, authenticated Declaration, and Bill of Lading are ultimately destined to such ultimate consignee, that the document has not been used for the purpose of evading the terms and conditions of the validated license, and that pursuant to the contract of carriage, the commodities will be delivered at a port located in the country of the ultimate consignee or of the intermediate consignee named in the authenticated Declaration.

(v) On Bills of Lading the commodities may be described in terms of the freight tariff classification or other type of classification, but may not be inconsistent with the description shown in the authenticated Declaration and validated export license.

(vi) No carrier shall issue, and no licensee, shipper, consignor, exporter or consignee, or their agents, or any other person, shall prepare or procure, a Bill of Lading which is contrary to the provisions of this paragraph, and Collectors are authorized to require any document or to use any other appropriate methods to insure compliance with these provisions.

(vii) If the carrier's outward foreign manifest which is filed with the U. S. Collector contains names of shippers or consignees, these names must not be inconsistent with the names shown on the Bill of Lading (or authenticated Declarations).

8. Section 380.2 Amendments or alterations of licenses is amended in the following particulars:

a. Paragraph (d) Changes by amendment, subparagraph (3) is amended to read as follows:

(3) Intermediate consignee, (i) if the new intermediate consignee is located in any country other than the country of ultimate destination shown on the export license; or (ii) if the new intermediate consignee is located in the country of ultimate destination and an amendment request is submitted in accordance with the provisions of § 379.10 (h) (2) (iv) of this subchapter; or (iii) if pursuant to notice from the Bureau of Foreign Commerce, in any case, the Collector of Customs requires the submission of an amended license showing the new intermediate consignee.

b. Paragraph (e) Changes which require neither amendment nor new license, subparagraph (4) is amended to read as follows:

(4) Change in intermediate consignee if the new intermediate consignee is located in the country of ultimate destination as shown on the export license, except a change in or addition of an intermediate consignee involving a consolidated shipment (see § 379.10 (h) (2) (iv) of this subchapter), or pursuant to notice from the Bureau of Foreign Commerce, in any case, a change of intermidate consignee for which the Collector of Customs requires an amended license.

This amendment shall become effective as of April 3, 1957, except that items 3 and 8 shall become effective as of January 3, 1957.

TITLE 7—AGRICULTURE

Chapter IX—Agricultural Marketing Service (Marketing Agreements and Orders), Department of Agriculture

PART 953—LEMONS GROWN IN CALIFORNIA AND ARIZONA

FINDINGS AND DETERMINATIONS RELATIVE TO EXPENSES TO BE INCURRED AND FIXING OF RATE OF ASSESSMENT FOR 1956–57 FISCAL YEAR

On December 19, 1956, notice of proposed rule making was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (21 F. R. 10182) regarding the expenses and the fixing of the rate of assessment for the 1956–57 fiscal year pursuant to the marketing agreement, as amended, and Order No. 53, as amended (7 CFR Part 953; 21 F. R. 4393), regulating the handling of lemons grown in the State of California or in the State of Arizona. This regulatory program is effective under the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.). After consideration of all relevant matters presented, including the proposals which were submitted by the Lemon Administrative Committee (established pursuant to the amended marketing agreement and order) and set forth in the aforesaid notice, it is hereby found and determined that:

§ 953.211 Expenses and rate of assessment for the 1956–57 fiscal year. (a) (1) The expenses necessary to be incurred by the Lemon Administrative Committee, established pursuant to the provisions of the aforesaid amended marketing agreement and order, for its maintenance and functioning during the fiscal year ending October 31, 1957, will amount to $154,380.00; and the rate of assessment to be paid, in accordance with the amended marketing agreement and order, by each handler who first handles lemons shall be one cent per carton of lemons, or an equivalent quantity of lemons, handled by him as the first handler thereof during the said fiscal year. Such rate of assessment is hereby fixed as each handler's pro rata share of the aforesaid expenses.

(2) It is hereby further found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to postpone the effective date hereof until 30 days after publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER (60 Stat. 237; 5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.) in that (i) the rate of assessment is applicable to all lemons shipped during the 1956–57 season; (ii) shipments of lemons in volume have been made since the start of the fiscal year on November 1, 1956; and (iii) it is essential that the specifications of the assessment rate be issued immediately so that the aforesaid assessment may be collected and thereby enable the Lemon Administrative Committee to perform its duties and functions in accordance with the said amended marketing agreement and order.

(b) Terms used in this section shall have the same meaning as when used in said amended marketing agreement and order.

(c) The terms of this section shall become effective upon publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

(Sec. 5, 49 Stat. 753, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 608c)

Dated: January 10, 1957.

Chapter I—Federal Trade Commission

[Docket 6464]

PART 13—DIGEST OF CEASE AND DESIST ORDERS

ATALANTA TRADING CORP.

Subpart—Discriminating in price under section 2, Clayton Act, as amended—Payment for services or facilities for processing or sale under 2 (d): § 13.824 Advertising expenses.

(Sec. 6, 38 Stat. 721; 15 U. S. C. 46. Interprets or applies sec. 2, 38 Stat. 730, as amended; 15 U. S. C. 13) [Cease and desist order, Atalanta Trading Corporation, New York, N. Y., Docket 6464, Dec. 20, 1956]

This proceeding was heard by a hearing examiner on the complaint of the Commission, charging a seller of meat products, principally imported hams, under the trade name "Unox" and approximating sales during 1954 of $24,000,000, with granting advertising allowances to some but not to all of its competing customers engaged in the resale of its products, in violation of section 2 (d) of the Clayton Act as amended. Following the usual hearings and submission of proposed findings of fact by all counsel, the hearing examiner made his initial decision including findings and order to cease and desist, from which respondent appealed.

Thereupon the Commission, after hearing the matter, rendered its decision denying the appeal and on December 20 adopted as its own the initial decision[1] as modified.

The order to cease and desist and the order requiring report of compliance therewith are as follows:

It is ordered, That respondent, Atalanta Trading Corporation, a corporation, its officers, employees, agents, and representatives, directly or through any corporate or other device, in or in connection with the sale of grocery products in commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the aforesaid Clayton Act, as amended, do forthwith cease and desist from:

Making or contracting to make, to or for the benefit of any customer, any payment of anything of value as compensation or in consideration for any advertising or other services or facilities furnished by or through such customer, in connection with the handling, offering for resale, or resale of products sold to him by respondent, unless such payment is affirmatively offered or otherwise made available on proportionally equal terms to all other customers competing in the distribution or resale of such products.

It is further ordered, That the respondent shall, within sixty (60) days after service upon it of this order, file with the Commission a report, in writing, setting forth in detail the manner and form in which it has complied with said order.

Issued: December 20, 1956.

By the Commission.

PART 13—DIGEST OF CEASE AND DESIST ORDERS

ANAHIST CO., INC.

Subpart—Discriminating in price under section 2, Clayton Act, as amended—Payment for services or facilities for processing or sale under 2 (d): § 13.824 Advertising expenses.

(Sec. 6, 38 Stat. 721; 15 U. S. C. 46. Interprets or applies sec. 2, 38 Stat. 730, as amended; 15 U. S. C. 13) [Cease and desist order, Anahist Co., Inc., Yonkers, N. Y., Docket 6524, Dec. 20, 1956]

This proceeding was heard by a hearing examiner on the complaint of the Commission charging a corporate manufacturer in Yonkers, N. Y., of medicinal preparations including Anahist Tablets, with violating section 2 (d) of the Clayton Act as amended through paying substantial sums of money to United Cigar-Whelan Stores Corp.—operator of a drugstore chain—for services and facilities furnished in the form of advertising of Anahist products on television programs sponsored by United-Whelan in New York, while not making such payments available on proportionally equal terms, or any terms, to all other customers competing in the sale of Anahist products.

Following entry of agreement containing consent order, the hearing examiner made his initial decision and order to cease and desist which became on December 20 the decision of the Commission.

The order to cease and desist is as follows:

It is ordered, That respondent Anahist Co., Inc., a corporation, its officers, employees, agents and representatives, directly or through any corporate or other device, in connection with the sale or offering for sale in commerce (as "commerce" is defined in the Clayton Act) of medicinal preparations and related products, do forthwith cease and desist from:

Paying or contracting to pay to or for the benefit of any customer anything of value as compensation or in consideration for any radio or television advertising furnished by or through such customer in connection with the handling, sale or offering for sale of respondent's products, unless such payment or consideration is available on proportionally equal terms to all other customers competing in the distribution or resale of such products.

By "Decision of the Commission", etc., report of compliance was required as follows:

It is ordered, That respondent Anahist Co., Inc., a corporation, shall, within sixty (60) days after service upon it of this order, file with the Commission a report in writing setting forth in detail the manner and form in which it has complied with the order to cease and desist.

Issued: December 20, 1956.

TITLE 26—INTERNAL REVENUE, 1954

Chapter II—The Tax Court of the United States

REVISION OF CHAPTER

These revised rules are promulgated pursuant to authority of section 7453, Internal Revenue Code of 1954, which provides that "The proceedings of the Tax Court and its divisions shall be conducted in accordance with such rules of practice and procedure (other than rules of evidence) as the Tax Court may prescribe and in accordance with the rules of evidence applicable in trials without jury in the District Court of the District of Columbia."

Congress in the revenue acts has enacted provisions relating to the organization, jurisdiction, and procedure of the Tax Court of the United States, and to the action of the Internal Revenue Service with respect to the assessment and collection of deficiencies when a petition has been filed with the Court. Reference is made to those statutory provisions in the revenue acts for procedural requirements other than those relating to the conduct of proceedings before the Court and its divisions to which these Rules of Practice are limited. Refer to the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, and particularly to sections 6211 through 6215, 7441, and 7483.

The forms in §§ 702.1, 702.5, 702.6, 702.7, 702.8, 702.9, and 702.10 are not printed forms and are not obtainable from the Court. When preparing pleadings or documents involving such forms, be sure to follow § 701.4 carefully as to form, size, type and copies of papers required, unless the number of copies is otherwise specified in the pertinent rule.

The forms identified as §§ 702.2, 702.3 and 702.4 are printed forms, which the Court will furnish upon request. Typed copies of these printed forms may be used instead of the printed forms, except for the subpoena form, which latter must be obtained from the Court.

§ 701.1 Location, address, telephone number, and business hours of the court, fees, and definitions—(a) Office of the Court. The office of the Tax Court of the United States is located on the second floor of the building on the northeast corner of 12th Street and Constitution Avenue NW., Washington, D. C. The office of the Clerk of the Court is in Room 2004.

(b) Mailing address. All mail sent to the Court should be addressed to:

Tax Court of the United States,
Box 70,
Washington 4, D. C.

Other addresss where the Court may be in session should never be used in addressing mail to the Court or to its Clerk.

(c) Telephone number. The telephone number of the Tax Court of the United States at its office in Washington, D. C., is NAtional 8–5771.

(d) Business hours. The Office of the Clerk of the Court at Washington, D. C., shall be open during business hours on all days, except Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays, for the purpose of receiving petitions, pleadings, motions, and the like. "Business hours" are from 8:45 a. m. to 5:15 p. m. (For legal holidays in Washington, D. C., see § 701.61 (b).)

(e) Fees, method of payment. Checks, money orders, etc., for fees or charges of the Court should be made payable to the Treasurer of the United States and mailed or delivered to the Clerk of the Court. (See §§ 701.2, 701.7 (b), 701.52, and 701.53.)

(f) Definitions—(1) Time. Time, as provided in this part and in orders and notices of the Court, means standard time in the city mentioned except when advanced time is substituted therefor by law. (See §701.61.)

(2) Commissioners. Where in this part (except in § 701.48) the word "Commissioner" is used, it refers to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

(3) Code of 1954. The designation "Code of 1954" as used in this part refers to the Internal Revenue Code of 1954.

§ 701.2 Admission to practice. (a) An applicant who establishes to the satisfaction of the Court that he or she is a citizen of the United States, of good moral character and repute, and possessed of the requisite qualifications to represent others in the preparation and trial of cases, may be admitted to practice before the Court subject to the specific requirements stated hereafter in this section.

(b) Each application must be on the form provided by the Court. Application forms and other necessary information will be furnished upon request addressed to the Enrollment Clerk of this Court, Box 70, Washington 4, D. C.

(c) An attorney at law may be admitted to practice upon filing with the Enrollment Clerk a completed application accompanied by a current certificate from the Clerk of the appropriate court, showing that the applicant has been admitted to practice before and is a member in good standing of the Bar of the Supreme Court of the United States, or of the highest court of any State, or Territory, or of the District of Columbia.

(d) An applicant, not an attorney at law, as a condition of being admitted to practice, must pass a written examination given by the Court and the Court may require such person, in addition, to take an oral examination. Any person who has thrice failed such examinations shall not thereafter be eligible to take another examination for admission.

(e) An applicant for admission by examination must be sponsored by at least three persons theretofore enrolled to practice before this Court, and each sponsor must send a letter of recommendation directly to the Enrollment Clerk of the Court where it will be treated as a confidential communication. The sponsor shall send in his letter promptly, stating therein fully and frankly the extent of his acquaintance with the applicant, his opinion of the moral character and repute of the applicant, and his opinion of the qualifications of the applicant to practice before this Court. The Court may in its discretion accept an applicant with less than three such sponsors.

(f) The Court will hold an examination for applicants at its offices in Washington, D. C., on the last Wednesday in October of each year, and at such other times and places as it may designate. The Court will notify each applicant, whose application is in order, of the time and place at which he is to present himself for examination, and the applicant must present that notice to the examiner as his authority for taking an examination. An applicant seeking to qualify by examination must accompany his application with a fee of $10; check or money order to be made payable to the "Treasurer of the United States."

(g) Corporations and firms will not be admitted or recognized.

(h) Practitioners before this Court shall carry on their practice in accordance with the letter and spirit of the canons of professional ethics as adopted by the American Bar Association.

(i) The Court may deny admission to, suspend, or disbar any person who in its judgment does not possess the requisite qualifications to represent others, or who is lacking in character, integrity, or proper professional conduct. No person shall be suspended for more than 60 days or disbarred until he has been afforded an opportunity to be heard. A Division may immediately suspend any person for not more than 60 days for contempt or misconduct during the course of any trial or hearing.

(j) The Court may require any practitioner before it to furnish a statement under oath of the terms and circumstances of his employment in any case. (See § 701.24.)

§ 701.3 Personal representation in lieu of counsel. Any individual taxpayer may appear for himself upon adequate identification to the Court. A taxpayer corporation may be represented by a bona fide officer of the corporation upon permission granted in its discretion, by the Court or the Division sitting.

§ 701.4 Form and style of papers—(a) General—(1) Typing process to be used. Papers filed with the Court may be prepared by any process provided the information therein is set forth in clear and legible type.

(2) Binding. All papers shall be bound together on the lefthand side only and shall have no backs or covers.

(3) Caption, signature, and number of copies. All papers shall have a caption and a signature and copies shall be filed as specified in § 701.5.

(b) Printed papers. Printed papers shall be printed in 10- or 12-point type, on good unglazed paper, 5⅞ inches wide by 9 inches long, with inside margin not less than 1 inch wide, and with double-leaded text and single-leaded quotations.

(c) Typewritten papers. Typewritten papers shall be typed on only one side of plain white paper, 8½ inches wide by 11 inches long, and weighing not less than 16 pounds to the ream.

(d) Citations. Citations shall be in italics when printed and shall be underscored when typewritten.

(e) Proper caption. The proper caption omitting all prefixes and titles shall be placed on all papers filed. The full given name and surname of each individual petitioner shall be set forth in the caption, but without any prefix or title, such as "Mrs.," "Dr.," etc. The name of the estate, the trust, or the other person for whom he acts, shall be given first by each fiduciary filing a petition, followed then by his own name and pertinent title, thus: "Estate of John Doe, deceased, Richard Roe, Executor." (See §§ 701.6 and 701.7 (c) (4) (i) and § 702.1 of this chapter.)

(f) The signature. The signature, either of the petitioner or of his counsel, shall be subscribed in writing to the original of all pleadings, motions, and briefs, and shall be in individual and not in firm name, except that the signature of a petitioner corporation shall be in the name of the corporation by one of its active officers, thus: "John Doe, Inc., by Richard Roe, President." The name and the mailing address of the petitioner or counsel actually signing shall be typed or printed immediately beneath the written signature. The mailing address of counsel shall include the firm name if it is an essential part of the accurate mailing address.

(g) Conformed copies. Four conformed copies shall be filed with the signed original of every paper filed, except as otherwise provided in this part. Papers to be filed in more than one case (as a motion to consolidate, or in cases already consolidated) shall include one additional copy for each such additional case.

(h) Copy requirements. All copies shall be clear and legible, but they may be on any weight paper.

§ 701.5 Filing of all documents. Any document to be filed with the Court, must be filed in the office of the Clerk of the Court in Washington, D. C., during business hours (see § 701.1); except the Judge presiding at any trial or hearing in a case may permit documents pertaining thereto to be filed at that particular session of the Court.

§ 701.6 Proper parties. (a) A case in the Tax Court shall be brought by and in the name of the person against whom the Commissioner determined the deficiency (or liability, as the case may be), or by and in the full descriptive name of the fiduciary legally entitled to institute a case on behalf of such person.

(b) In the event of a variance between the name set forth in the notice of deficiency or liability and the correct name, a statement of the reasons for such variance shall be set forth in the petition. (See §§ 701.4, 701.7, and 701.23.)

(c) The Commissioner shall be named as the respondent.

§ 701.7 Initiation of a case; petition; filing fee; form—(a) Petition—(1) Filing. A case shall be initiated by filing with the Court a petition consisting of an original and 4 complete, accurately conformed, clear copies, either printed or typed. (See §§ 701.4 and 701.6.)

(2) Improper petition; dismissal. Failure of a petition to comply with this section or with § 701.4 or § 701.6 shall be ground for dismissal of the case. (See also section 6213 (a), Code of 1954, in regard to absolute statutory time limit on filing.)

(b) Fee for filing petition. The fee for filing a petition with the Court shall be $10, payable at the time of filing. (See § 701.1 (e).)

(c) Form of petition. (1) The petition shall be substantially in accordance with form a, shown in § 702.1 of this chapter.

(2) It shall be complete in itself so as fully to state the issues.

(3) No telegram, cablegram, radiogram, telephone call, or similar communication will be recognized as a petition.

(4) The petition shall contain

(i) A caption in the following form:

TAX COURT OF THE UNITED STATES

Petitioner v. Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Respondent	Docket No. ----

PETITION

(ii) Numbered paragraphs stating:

(a) Petitioner's name and principal office or residence, and the office of the director or district director of internal revenue in which the tax return for the period in controversy was filed.

(b) The date of mailing of the notice of deficiency on which the petition is based, or other proper allegations showing jurisdiction in the Court.

(c) The amount of the deficiency (or liability, as the case may be), determined by the Commissioner, the nature of the tax, the year or other period for which the determination was made and, if different from the determination, the approximate amount of taxes in controversy.

(d) Clear and concise assignments of each and every error which the petitioner alleges to have been committed by the Commissioner in the determination of the deficiency. Issues in respect of which the burden of proof is by statute placed upon the Commissioner will not be deemed to be raised by the petitioner in the absence of assignments of error in respect thereof. Each assignment of error shall be lettered.

(e) Clear and concise lettered statements of the facts upon which the petitioner relies as sustaining the assignments of error, except those assignments of error in respect of which the burden of proof by statute is placed upon the Commissioner.

(f) A prayer, setting forth relief sought by the petitioner.

(g) The signature of the petitioner or that of his counsel. (See § 701.4 (f).)

(h) (1) A verification by the petitioner; provided that where the petitioner is sojourning outside the United States or is a nonresident alien, the petition may be verified by a duly appointed attorney in fact, who shall attach to the petition a copy of the power of attorney under which he acts and who shall state in his verification that he acts pursuant to such power, that such power has not been revoked, that petitioner is absent from the United States, and the grounds of his knowledge of the facts alleged in the petition. As used herein the term "United States" includes only the States and the District of Columbia. A notary public is not authorized to administer oaths, etc., in matters in which he is employed as counsel. (See Title 1, ch. 5, D. C. Code (1951) and 26 Op. A. G. 236.)

(2) Verification by fiduciaries shall contain a statement that the fiduciaries signing and verifying have authority to act for the taxpayer.

(i) Where the petitioner is a corporation, the person verifying shall state in his verification that he has authority to act for the corporation.

(ii) The signature and the verification to the petition shall be considered the certificate of those performing these acts that there is good ground for the petition, the case has not been instituted merely for delay, and it is not frivolous.

(iii) A copy of the notice of deficiency (or liability, as the case may be), shall be appended to the petition and to each copy required. If a statement has accompanied the notice of deficiency, so much thereof as is material to the issues set out in the assignments of error likewise shall be appended. If the notice of deficiency refers to prior notices from the Commissioner, which are necessary to elucidate the determination, such parts thereof as are material to the issues set out in the assignments of error shall likewise be appended. (See § 702.1 of this chapter. See § 701.22 re service of the petition.)

§ 701.11 Docket. Upon receipt of the petition by the Clerk, the case will be entered upon the docket and assigned a number and the parties notified thereof. This docket number shall be placed by the parties on all papers thereafter filed in the case and referred to in all correspondence with the Court. (See §§ 701.5, and 701.7 (a) (1).)

§ 701.14 Answer—(a) Time to answer or move. The Commissioner, after service upon him of the petition, shall have 60 days within which to file an answer or 45 days within which to move with respect to the petition. (See § 701.22 (a) re service of answer.)

(b) Form of answer. The answer shall be drawn so that it will advise the petitioner and the Court fully of the nature of the defense. It shall contain a specific admission or denial of each material allegation of fact contained in the petition and a statement of any facts upon which the Commissioner relies for defense or for affirmative relief or to sustain any issue raised in the petition in respect of which issue the burden of proof is, by statute, placed upon him. Paragraphs of the answer shall be numbered to correspond to those of the petition to which they relate. The original shall be signed by the Commissioner or his counsel.

(c) Copies and conformation. The original and 3 copies of the answer shall be filed, and each copy shall be conformed.

(d) Application of Rule to amended answers. This section shall apply to the filing of answers to amended petitions and to amendments to petitions, except as the Court in a particular case may otherwise direct.

§ 701.15 Reply—(a) Time to reply or move. The petitioner, after service upon him of an answer in which material facts are alleged, shall have 45 days within which to file a reply or 30 days within which to move with respect to the answer. (See § 701.22 (a) re service of reply.)

(b) Contents and form. The reply shall contain a specific admission or denial of each material allegation of fact contained in the answer and shall set forth any facts upon which the petitioner relies for defense. The paragraphs in the reply shall be numbered to correspond with the paragraphs of the answer. The original copy of each reply shall be signed by the petitioner or his counsel.

(c) Copies and conformation. An original and 4 copies of the reply shall be filed, and each copy shall be conformed to the original by the petitioner or his counsel.

(d) Verification. The Court, upon motion of the Commissioner in which good cause is shown, or upon its own motion, may require the verification of any reply.

§ 701.16 Joinder of issue. A case shall be deemed at issue upon the filing of the answer unless a reply is required under § 701.15, in which event it shall be deemed at issue upon filing of the reply, or the entry of an order under § 701.18 (c).

§ 701.17 Amended and supplemental pleadings—(a) General. A motion for leave to amend a pleading shall state reasons for granting it and shall be accompanied by the proposed amendment.

(b) Petition—(1) Before answer. The petitioner may amend his petition at any time before answer is filed.

(2) After answer. A petition may be amended, after answer is filed and up to the commencement of the trial, only with the consent of the Commissioner or by leave of the Court.

(c) Amendment ordered—(1) Occasion for. The Court upon its own motion, or upon motion of either party showing good cause filed prior to the setting of the case for trial, may order a party to file a further and better statement of the nature of his claim, of his defense, or of any matter stated in any pleading. Such a motion filed by a party shall point out the defects complained of and the details desired.

(2) Consideration of such motion. The Court, in its discretion, may set such a motion for hearing (see § 701.27 (a)) or may act upon it ex parte.

(3) Penalty for failure to amend. The Court may strike the pleadings to which the motion was directed or make such other order as it deems just, if an order of the Court to file amended pleadings hereunder is not obeyed within 15 days of the date of the service of said order or within such other time as the Court may fix.

(d) To conform pleadings to proof. The Court may at any time during the course of the trial grant a motion of either party to amend its pleadings to conform to the proof in particulars stated at the time by the moving party. The amendment or amended pleadings thus permitted, shall be filed with the Court at the trial or shall be filed in the office of the Clerk of the Court in Washington, D. C., within such time as the Court may fix. (See §§ 701.4, 701.5, and 701.19.)

§ 701.18 Admissions and denials of pleaded facts—(a) Effect of answer. Every material allegation of fact set out in the petition and not expressly admitted or denied in the answer, shall be deemed to be admitted.

(b) Effect of reply. Every material allegation of fact set out in the answer and not expressly admitted or denied in the reply, where a reply is filed, shall be deemed to be admitted. Any new material contained in the reply shall be deemed to be denied.

(c) Effect of failure to reply and motion thereon—(1) Denial; motion seeking admission. The affirmative allegations of the answer will be deemed denied in the absence of a reply, unless the Commissioner, within 45 days after the expiration of the time for filing a reply, files a motion reciting that a reply required under this part was not filed and requesting the Court to enter an order that specified allegations of fact in the answer shall be deemed to be admitted.

(2) Service of and hearing on motion. The Clerk will serve a copy of the Commissioner's motion upon the petitioner and issue notice of a hearing thereon at which hearing the Court may grant the motion unless the required reply is filed on or before the day fixed for such hearing.

§ 701.19 Motions. (a) Motions must be timely, must fully set forth the alleged reasons for the action sought and must be prepared in the form and style prescribed by § 701.4. (See § 701.22 (a) re service.)

(b) Motions will be acted upon as justice may require and may, in the discretion of the Court, be placed upon the motion calendar for argument. Disposition of motions will be expedited if the party filing the same, after consultation with his adversary, is able to note on the motion that there is no objection thereto. (See § 701.27 (a) and (c) and § 701.30 (b).)

(c) The filing of a motion shall not constitute cause for postponement of a trial from the date set. (See also § 701.27 (c) on motions for continuance.)

(d) If a motion, other than one relating to the receipt of evidence during trial, is made orally during trial, the maker thereof shall promptly reduce it to writing and file it with the Court unless the Division sitting directs otherwise.

(e) No motion for retrial, further trial, or reconsideration may be filed more than 30 days after the opinion has been served, except by special leave.

(f) (1) No motion to vacate or revise a decision may be filed more than 30 days after the decision has been entered, except by special leave.

(2) Motions covered by paragraph (e) of this section and this paragraph and shall be separate from each other and not joined to or made a part of any other motion.

§ 701.20 Extensions of time. (a) An extension of time (except for the absolute time limit on filing of the petition, see section 6213 (a), Code of 1954, and except as otherwise provided in this part) may be granted by the Court within its discretion upon a timely motion filed in accordance with these rules setting forth good and sufficient cause therefor or may be ordered by the Court upon its own motion.

(b) If a motion is filed or an order issued in respect to the adequacy of any petition, the time prescribed in § 701.14 (a) shall begin to run from the date upon which the Court takes final action with respect to the motion or the order unless the Court orders otherwise. The time for reply shall be similarly extended in the case of a motion or an order with respect to the adequacy of an answer unless the Court orders otherwise.

(c) Any extension of time for filing a brief shall correspondingly extend the time for filing all other briefs yet to be filed in that case unless the Court orders otherwise. (See §§ 701.19, 701.22, and 701.35.)

(d) For continuances, see § 701.27 (c).

§ 701.21 Dismissal. A case may be dismissed for cause upon motion of either party or of the Court. (See § 701.7 (a) (2) and § 701.27 (b) (3).)

§ 701.22 Service upon the parties—(a) Who will serve and method to be used. (1) The Clerk shall make service upon the petitioner by mailing to him or to his counsel of record a copy of the pleading, motion, notice, brief, or other document to be served.

(2) Service shall be made by the Clerk upon any named respondent in person, upon deputies duly designated by him to accept service, or upon counsel appearing for the respondent in the case. (See §§ 701.14 and 701.15.)

(b) Upon first counsel of record. Service upon any counsel of record will be deemed service upon the party, but, where there are more than one, service will be made only upon counsel for petitioner whose appearance was first entered of record—unless the first counsel of record, by writing filed with the Court, designates other counsel to receive service, in which event service will be so made.

(c) Where no counsel of record. If there is no counsel of record, service will be made upon the petitioner.

§ 701.23 Substitution of parties; change of names—(a) Successor fiduciaries; certificate needed. A motion shall be filed to substitute parties who are successor fiduciaries and shall be supported by a certificate of the proper court or official showing the appointment and qualification of the party who seeks to be substituted. (See §§ 701.4, 701.19, and 701.24 (a) (2).)

(b) Change in name; certificate needed. A motion shall be filed to amend the pleadings to show a change in the name of a corporation or other party and shall be supported by a proper official certificate or copy of the decree or other document by which the change was effected, duly certified by the official having its custody. (See §§ 701.4 and 701.19.)

(c) Waiver of certificate. No certificate need be filed, unless required by Court order, if the respondent consents to a change as described in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section.

(d) Court order. The Court, on motion of a party or upon its own motion, may order the substitution of proper parties upon the death of a petitioner, where a mistake in the name or title of a party appears, or for other cause.

§ 701.24 Counsel; appearance; withdrawal; substitution; changed address—(a) Entry of appearance of counsel. (1) Counsel enrolled to practice before this Court may enter his appearance by subscribing the initial petition.

(2) Counsel who subscribes any motion filed under § 701.23 (a) will be deemed to have entered his appearance for such new party and he shall promptly file a motion by the new petitioner for the withdrawal of counsel who had previously entered their appearance unless they are to be recognized as counsel for the new petitioner.

(3) Counsel may otherwise enter his appearance only by filing, in duplicate, an entry of appearance which shall be signed by counsel individually, shall show his mailing address, and shall state that he is enrolled to practice before this Court. Form 305 may be obtained from the Clerk and used for this purpose but an adequate substitute will suffice. (See § 702.4.)

(4) Counsel not properly enrolled to practice before this Court will not be recognized except by special leave of the Court granted at a hearing or trial and then only where it appears that counsel can and will promptly become enrolled. (See §§ 701.2, 701.4 (f), and 701.7 (c) (4) (viii).)

(b) Withdrawal of counsel. Counsel of record in any case desiring to withdraw, or any petitioner desiring to withdraw counsel of record, must file a motion with the Court requesting leave therefor reciting that notice thereof has been given to the client or to the counsel being withdrawn, as the case may be. The Court may, in its discretion, deny such motion.

(c) Substitution of counsel. New counsel may be substituted by conforming to the provisions of (a) (2) or (3) and (b) of this section. (See §§ 701.2, 701.4, 701.19, and 701.27 (c).)

(See § 701.22 (b) in regard to substitution of "first counsel of record" for purposes of service.)

(d) Change of address. Notice of any change in the mailing address of either counsel or petitioner shall be filed promptly with the Court, in duplicate. Separate notices shall be filed for each case.

Counsel may not act as notary. (See § 701.7 (c) (4) (ix).)

§ 701.26 Place of trial; requests; and designation—(a) Requests for place of trial. The petitioner at the time of filing the petition shall also file a request showing the name of the place where he would prefer the trial to be held. If the petitioner has filed no request the respondent shall file at the time he files his answer, a request showing the name of the place preferred by him.

(b) Form and caption. These requests shall be separate from the petition or answer, shall have a caption, and shall consist of an original and 2 copies. (See § 701.7 (c) (4) (i).)

(c) Designation of place of trial. The Court will designate the place of trial in accordance with the statutory provisions that the time and place of trial shall be fixed "with as little inconvenience and expense to taxpayers as is practicable," and, in all cases, will notify the parties of the place at which or in the vicinity of which the trial will be held.

(d) Motions for changing place designated. If either party desires a change in designation of the place of trial he must file a motion (with 4 copies) to that effect, stating fully his reasons therefor. Such motions, made after the notice of the time of the trial has been mailed, will not be deemed to have been timely filed.

(See § 701.26a for further information to assist in making requests as to place of trial. See § 701.4.)

§ 701.26a Requests for place of trial. The Court will fix the time and place for trial to afford a taxpayer reasonable opportunity to try his case with as little inconvenience and expense as is practicable. A trial may be requested at any place at which suitable courtroom facilities are available and a sufficient number of cases are ready for trial. A partial list of cities in which sessions of the Court are held appears below. This list is published to assist parties in making requests under § 701.26. The grouping of cities indicates that it may be necessary to conduct a trial at another city if there are not sufficient cases for trials at the requested city. Moreover, if sufficient cases are not ready for trial in a city requested by a taxpayer, or if suitable courtroom facilities are not available in that city, the Court may find it necessary to calendar cases for trial in some other city within reasonable proximity of the designated place.

§ 701.27 Place, time, and notice of hearings and trials; attendance and continuances—(a) Calendars of hearings on motions and other procedural and subsidiary matters. (1) If it is necessary for the Court to hear the parties on matters other than the merits, the proceeding will be listed for such hearing on a motion calendar which is called in Washington, D. C., unless good cause for holding the hearing elsewhere is shown in a timely motion to the Court. Ordinarily such calendars will be set for call at 10 a. m. (see § 701.1) on Wednesdays throughout the year, but due notice of the time and place in each case will be given to the parties by the Clerk. (See § 701.22.)

(2) Attendance at hearings on motion calendar: If a party fails to appear at the call of the motion calendar, the Court will hear the proceeding ex parte. However, a memorandum or brief stating the position of the petitioner upon the pending motion will be accepted, when the failure of the petitioner to appear is justified by distance, shortness of time, or other good reason stated in such memorandum or brief.

(3) Where the motion or order is directed to defects in a pleading, prompt filing of a proper pleading correcting the defects may obviate the necessity of a hearing thereon.

(b) Trial calendars. (1) Each case, when at issue, will be placed upon a calendar for trial in accordance with § 701.26 and the Clerk, not less than 30 days in advance, will notify the parties of the place where and the date and time when it will be called.

(2) Calendar call: Each case appearing on such a calendar will be called at the time and place scheduled. The cases will be called usually in the order listed, and counsel or the parties will state their estimate of the time required for trial or file stipulations in lieu of trial. The cases for trial will thereupon be tried in due course, but not necessarily in the order listed.

(3) Attendance at trials: The unexcused absence of a party or his counsel when a case is called for trial will not be the occasion for delay. The case may be dismissed for failure properly to prosecute or the trial may proceed and the case be regarded as submitted on the part of the absent party or parties.

(4) The Court may require appearance for argument or it may accept briefs in lieu of personal appearance.

(c) Continuances; motions; trials. (1) Court action on cases set for hearing on motions or trial will not be delayed by a motion for continuance unless it is timely sets forth good and sufficient cause, and complies with all applicable rules.

(2) Conflicting engagements of counsel or the employment of new counsel will never be regarded as good ground for a continuance unless set forth in a motion filed promptly after the notice of hearing or trial has been mailed or unless extenuating circumstances are shown which the Court deems adequate. (See § 701.20.)

(d) Reserve calendar. A case once at issue may, upon motion, be placed on an inactive list called the reserve calendar. Good cause must be shown, as, for example, that the case will be governed by the decision in a case pending in a higher court. The case may be placed later on a trial calendar by motion of either party or by the Court on its own motion when the reason for inaction no longer exists.

§ 701.30 Submission without trial or appearance—(a) Submission of cases without trial where facts are uncontested. Any case not requiring a trial for the submission of evidence (as, for example, where sufficient facts have been admitted, stipulated, established by deposition, or included in the record in some other way) may be submitted at any time by notice of the parties filed with the Court. The parties need not wait for the case to be calendared and need not appear in person. The Chief Judge will then assign the case to a Division for report, which Division, upon request of the parties, will fix a time for filing briefs or for oral argument. (See, however, § 701.31 (g).)

(b) Contested motion. A contested motion, not predicated upon an issue of fact, may be submitted in the same way. (See § 701.27 (a).)

§ 701.31 Evidence and the submission of evidence—(a) Rules applicable. The trials before the Court and its Divisions will be conducted in accordance with the rules of evidence applicable in trials without a jury in the United States District Court for the District of Columbia. With reference to the examination of unwilling or hostile witnesses, see Rule 43 (b) of the Rules of Civil Procedure for the United States District Courts.[1]

(b) Stipulations—(1) Stipulations required. The Court expects the parties to stipulate evidence to the fullest extent to which complete or qualified agreement can be reached including all material facts that are not or fairly should not be in dispute.

(2) In preparation for trial. The party expecting to introduce any evidence which might possibly be stipulated (as, for example, entries or summaries from books of account and other records, documents, and all other evidence, to the extent not disputed) shall confer with his adversary promptly after receipt of the trial notice, and both shall endeavor to stipulate all facts not already stipulated.

(3) Presentation; copies; form. Stipulations in writing may be filed with the Court in advance or presented at the trial and when filed need not be offered formally to be considered in evidence. They shall be filed in duplicate except that duplicates of the exhibits attached to the original of the stipulation need not be filed. (See § 701.4 as to form and style.)

(4) Objections. Any objection to all or any part of a stipulation should be noted in the stipulation, but the Court will consider any objection to stipulated facts made at the trial.

(5) No evidence received to alter or contradict. The Court may set aside a stipulation in whole or in part where justice requires, but otherwise will not receive evidence tending to qualify, change, or contradict any fact properly introduced into the record by stipulation.

(c) Depositions must be offered. Testimony taken by deposition will not be considered until offered and received in evidence.

(d) Marking exhibits. Exhibits attached to a stipulation or a deposition shall be numbered serially, i. e., 1, 2, 3, etc., if offered by the petitioner; shall be lettered serially, i. e., A, B, C, etc., if offered by the respondent; and shall be marked serially, i. e., 1–A, 2–B, 3–C, etc., if offered as a joint exhibit.

(e) Documentary evidence—(1) Copies. A copy of any book, record, paper, or document may be offered directly in evidence in lieu of the original, where the original is available or where there is no objection, and, where the original is admitted in evidence, a copy may be substituted later for the original or such part thereof as may be material or relevant, upon leave granted in the discretion of the trial Judge.

(2) Return after final decision. Either party desiring the return at his expense of any exhibit belonging to him, after the decision of the Court in any case has become final, shall make prompt application in writing to the Clerk, suggesting a practical manner of delivery. Otherwise exhibits may be disposed of as the Court deems advisable.

(f) Ex parte statements are not evidence. Ex parte affidavits, statements in briefs, and unadmitted allegations in pleadings do not constitute evidence.

(g) Failure of proof. Failure to adduce evidence in support of the material facts alleged by the party having the burden of proof and denied by his adversary, may be ground for dismissal. The provisions of § 701.30 do not relieve the party upon whom rests the burden of proof of the necessity of properly producing evidence in support of issues joined on questions of fact.

§ 701.32 Burden of proof. The burden of proof shall be upon the petitioner, except as otherwise provided by statute, and except that in respect of any new matter pleaded in his answer, it shall be upon the respondent.

§ 701.35 Briefs—(a) General. The filing of briefs and the making of oral arguments shall be in accordance with the directions of the Judge presiding at the trial. The parties should be prepared to make oral argument at the conclusion of a trial or to file a written citation of authorities at that time if the Judge so directs.

(b) Filing. Each party shall file an original brief within 45 days after the day on which the trial was concluded and a reply brief within another 30 days thereafter unless the trial Judge directs otherwise. A party, who fails to file an original brief, may not file a reply brief except on leave granted by the Court, and if his reply brief is filed, his adversary may have an additional 30 days thereafter to file his reply brief. (See §§ 701.19 and 701.20 re extensions of time.)

(c) Service. Each brief, whether original or reply, will be served promptly upon the opposite party after it is filed, except where it bears a notation that a copy has already been served, and except that where simultaneous briefs are to be filed they will be served upon the other party immediately after the time for filing such briefs (including any extension thereof) has expired. If an extension is granted after the original time for filing has expired and the brief of the opposite party has been filed but not served, it will be served promptly after the extended period. (See § 701.20 (c).)

(d) Number of copies. An original and 2 copies shall be filed if briefs are typewritten and 20 copies shall be filed if briefs are printed. An original and 5 copies shall be filed on Internal Revenue Code of 1939 section 722 and section 721 (a) (2) (C) issues.

(e) Form and contents. All briefs shall contain the following in the order indicated:

(1) On its first page, a table of contents with page references followed by a list of all citations alphabetically arranged as to cases cited together with references to pages. Citations shall be in italics when printed and underscored when typewritten. (See § 701.4.)

(2) A statement of the nature of the controversy, the tax involved, and the issues to be decided.

(3) The party having the burden of proof shall set forth complete statements of the facts based upon the evidence. Each statement shall be numbered, shall be complete in itself, and shall consist of a concise statement of the essential fact and not a discussion or argument relating to the evidence or the law. Reference to the pages of the transcript or the exhibits relied upon in support thereof shall be inserted after each separate statement.

If the other party disagrees with any or all of the statements of fact, he shall set forth each correction which he believes the evidence requires and shall give the same numbers to his statements of fact as appear in his opponent's brief. His statement of fact shall be set forth in accordance with the requirements above designated.

(4) A concise statement of the points upon which the party relies.

(5) The argument: The argument shall set forth the points of law relied upon and any discussion of the evidence deemed necessary to support the statement of fact.

(6) The signature of counsel or the party filing. (See § 701.4 (f).)

§ 701.40 Transcripts of proceedings. Hearings or trials before the Court or its Divisions shall be stenographically reported and a transcript thereof shall be made if, in the opinion of the Court or of the Division conducting the hearing or trial, a permanent record is deemed necessary. Transcripts shall be supplied to the parties and to the public by the official reporter at such rates as may be fixed by contract between the Court and the reporter.

§ 701.44 Subpoenas—(a) How issued. The party desiring a subpoena must submit the original and 3 copies of the proposed subpoena to be issued by the Court. The applicant or his counsel must sign 1 copy (not the original), as indicated on the form,[2] and this signature will be considered a request for the subpoena and assurance by the signatory that the subpoena is necessary to establish the cause of action or defense of the applicant. (For the required form, see § 702.2 of this chapter.)

(b) For a witness. Each subpoena shall state the name and address of the witness required, the time and place at which and the officer (if not the Court) before whom he is to appear, and whether he may designate someone to appear in his place.

(c) For production of documents. If evidence other than oral testimony is required, such as documents or written data, the subpoena shall number, set forth separately, and describe adequately each item to be produced.

(d) Service and proof. The Court will not serve subpoenas, but will leave service to be procured by the party making the application. Service may be made by any citizen of the United States over the age of 21 years and competent to be a witness, and not a party to or in any way interested in the case. Proof of service may be made by affidavit.

§ 701.45 Depositions—(a) Application to take. When either party desires to take a deposition, he shall file with the Court a verified application and 2 conformed copies, together with an additional copy for each additional docket number involved. The Court upon request will furnish forms for this purpose. If the space in the form furnished by the Court is inadequate for setting forth the reasons in support of the application in any particular case, a substitute form may be used, but the substitute must contain all of the information called for on the Court's form. (See § 702.3 of this chapter.)

(b) Limitation on time for application to take. Applications to take depositions must be filed at least 30 days prior to the date set for the trial of the case, and such depositions must be completed and filed with the Court at least 10 days prior to the trial: Provided, Such applications will not be regarded as sufficient ground for the granting of a continuance from the date or place of the trial theretofore set, unless the case shall have been at issue less than 60 days and the motion for continuance shall have been filed not less than 20 days prior to said date of trial: Provided, further, That under special circumstances, and for good cause shown, the Court may otherwise order.

(c) Qualification of officer. The officer before whom depositions are taken must be authorized to administer oaths. (See section 7622, Code of 1954.) In no case shall a deposition be taken before any person who has any office connection or business employment with either party or his counsel except by consent of the parties and when no other officer is available, and in his certificate

(b) Scope of Examination and Cross-examination. A party may interrogate any unwilling or hostile witness by leading questions. A party may call an adverse party or an officer, director, or managing agent of a public or private corporation or of a partnership or association which is an adverse party, and interrogate him by leading questions and contradict and impeach him in all respects as if he had been called by the adverse party, and the witness thus called may be contradicted and impeached by or on behalf of the adverse party also, and may be cross-examined by the adverse party only upon the subject matter of his examination in chief.

[2] Counsel is to sign a copy—not the original subpoena.

of return to such deposition such officer shall so certify.

(d) Order for taking. Upon receipt of such application, the Clerk will serve a copy thereof on the opposite party, and allow a reasonable time for objection thereto. Thereafter, the Court will, in its discretion, make an order, a copy of which will be mailed or delivered to the parties or their counsel, wherein the Court will name the witness whose deposition is to be taken and specify the time when, the place where, and the officer before whom the witness is to testify, but such time, place, and officer specified in the Court's order may or may not be the same as set forth in the application. The applicant shall thereupon make all necessary arrangements for the taking of such deposition and shall furnish the officer before whom it is to be taken with a copy of the order above mentioned.

(e) By stipulation. At any time after issue is joined, the parties or their counsel may, by stipulation duly signed and filed, take depositions. In such cases, the stipulation shall state the name and address of each witness, the time when and the place where such depositions will be taken, and the name, address, and official title of the officer before whom it is proposed to take depositions. In such cases, no order to take depositions will be issued, but they shall be taken and returned by the officer in accordance with the rules of the Court.

(f) Manner of taking. (1) Each witness must first take the oath or affirm. The questions propounded to him and his answers must be recorded verbatim.

(2) Objections to questions or answers shall be explicitly but briefly and concisely stated and recorded without any unnecessary comment, explanation, or argument by counsel for either party.

(g) Other witnesses to be excluded. At the request of either party, a person whom either expects or intends to call as a witness in the same or any related case shall be excluded from the room where the testimony of a witness is being taken. If such person remains in the room or within hearing of the examination after such request has been made, he shall not thereafter be permitted to testify except by the consent of the party who requested his exclusion.

(h) Depositions to be signed. The testimony of the witness when transcribed shall be read to or by him and shall be signed by him. (See § 702.3 (b) of this chapter.)

(i) Form in which depositions must be returned to the Court. (1) When a deposition is returned to the Court it must show the docket number and the caption (the names of the parties) of the case as they appear in the Court's records, the place and date of taking, the name of the witness, the party by whom called, the names of counsel present, indicating which party each counsel represents, and (in the body of the deposition) the name of counsel examining or cross-examining the witness.

(2) The officer must so fasten the sheets of the deposition that they cannot be tampered with. He must spare no pains to return to the Court the exact testimony he has taken. All exhibits must be carefully marked so as to be capable of identification, and when practicable must be attached to the deposition.

(3) The officer must properly execute and attach to the deposition a certificate of return in the form prescribed. (See § 702.3 (b) of this chapter.)

(j) Return of. The officer must enclose the original depositions and exhibits, together with 2 copies of the depositions, in a sealed packet, with postage or other transportation charges prepaid, and direct and forward the same to the Tax Court of the United States, Box 70, Washington 4, D. C. In each case, the original of the depositions must be directed and forwarded to the Court. The officer may, however, upon written request, deliver a copy of the depositions to either or to both of the parties, or to their representatives, in lieu of sending such copies to the Court as above provided. If one or both of the required copies are delivered by the officer taking the depositions, he shall attach to his return the written request of the party or parties, or of their counsel to whom such copy or copies were delivered, and shall state in his certificate of return the fact of delivery by him of such copy or copies. If copies of the depositions are delivered by the officer taking the same, no service of copies of such depositions upon the party or his counsel of record will be made by the Court.

§ 701.46 Depositions upon written interrogatories—(a) Application for, interrogatories, objections, etc. Applications to take depositions upon written interrogatories may be made in substantially the same manner as depositions taken under § 701.45 except as hereinafter noted. An original and 5 copies of the interrogatories must be filed with the verified application. The Clerk will serve a copy of the application and of the interrogatories with notice to the opposite party that objections or cross-interrogatories may be filed within 15 days thereafter. Cross-interrogatories shall consist of an original and 5 copies. The Clerk will serve a copy thereof with notice that any objections thereto may be filed within 15 days. The initial application and interrogatories must be filed in time to allow for service, objections, cross-interrogatories, and objections thereto, and for taking and filing the deposition at least 10 days prior to any trial then scheduled.

(b) Manner of taking. The officer taking the deposition upon written interrogatories shall propound the interrogatories and cross-interrogatories in their proper order to each witness and shall cause the testimony to be reduced to writing in the witness's own words by a stenographic reporter then present, but no person other than the witness, reporter, and the officer taking the deposition shall be present at the examination. Otherwise said officer shall conform substantially to the provisions of § 701.45.

(c) Certificate and return of deposition. The officer taking the deposition shall certify in his return that no person was present at the examination except the witness, the reporter, and himself and he shall otherwise comply with the pertinent provisions of § 701.45.

(d) Depositions in foreign countries. Depositions obtained in foreign countries must be taken upon written interrogatories except as otherwise directed by the Court for cause shown.

§ 701.47 Tender of and objections to depositions—(a) Objections to depositions taken upon oral examination—(1) Competency, relevancy, or materiality. Objections to the competency of a witness or to the competency, relevancy, or materiality of testimony, where depositions are taken upon oral examination, may be made at the trial, even though not noted at or before the taking of the deposition, unless the ground for the objection is one which might have been obviated or removed if presented at or before the time of the taking of the deposition.

(2) Irregularities as to manner or form. Objections directed to errors and irregularities in the manner of taking the deposition, in the form of any question or answer, in the oath or affirmation, or in the conduct of parties, and errors of any kind which might have been obviated, removed, or cured if promptly presented will not be considered unless made at the taking of the deposition. (See § 701.45 (f).)

(3) Errors re how transcribed, signed, certified, etc. Errors or irregularities in the manner in which the testimony is transcribed or the deposition is prepared, signed, certified, sealed, endorsed, transmitted, filed, or otherwise dealt with by the officer under §§ 701.45 and 701.46 shall not form the basis for objections but questions in respect thereto shall be raised on a motion to suppress the deposition in whole or in part made with reasonable promptness after such defect is or with due diligence might have been ascertained.

(b) Objections to written interrogatories or cross-interrogatories. No objections to written interrogatories or cross-interrogatories will be considered subsequent to the taking of the deposition unless they have been made in the manner and within the time prescribed therefor by § 701.46. (See § 701.31 (c) and (e).)

§ 701.48 Commissioner of the Tax Court. (a) The term "commissioner" as used in this Rule 48 applies to any attorney of the legal staff of this Court who shall have been designated by the Chief Judge as a "commissioner in a particular case" pursuant to section 7456, Code of 1954.

(b) The commissioner shall conduct the hearing in such case in accordance with the Court's rules of practice. He shall rule upon objections and other evidentiary matters in accordance with the rules of evidence as provided in section 7453, and shall exercise such further and incidental authority, including the issuance of subpoenas, as may be necessary for the conduct of the hearing.

(c) Each party shall file his proposed findings of fact and original brief within 60 days after the date on which the hearing is concluded, unless otherwise directed. As to their form and contents, the provisions of §701.35 (e) shall apply, except that the proposed findings of fact of each party shall be complete under the evidence and shall not be subject to the limiting provision of the first sentence of §701.35 (e) (3). The number of copies of proposed findings of fact and briefs to be filed and service thereof shall be as specified in § 701.35 (d) and (c), respectively.

(d) The objections of each party to the proposed findings of fact of the opposing party, prepared in the manner provided in the second paragraph of § 701.35 (e) (3), shall be filed within 30 days after service of the proposed findings.

(e) Thereafter the commissioner shall prepare and file a report of his findings of fact based upon the evidence in the case, and a copy thereof shall be served on each party.

(f) Reply briefs and any exceptions which the parties may have to the commissioner's findings of fact shall be filed within 30 days from the date of service of the said findings of fact.

(g) Upon motion of either party, made not later than the due date for filing his reply brief, or upon its own motion, the Division to which the case is assigned may, in its discretion, direct oral argument and set a date therefor.

§ 701.50 Computations by parties for entry of decision—(a) Agreed computations. Where the Court has filed its opinion determining the issues in a case, it may withhold entry of its decision for the purpose of permitting the parties to submit computations pursuant to the Court's determination of the issues, showing the correct amount of the deficiency or overpayment to be entered as the decision. If the parties are in agreement as to the amount of the deficiency or overpayment to be entered as the decision pursuant to the report of the Court, they or either of them shall file promptly with the Court an original and 2 copies of a computation showing the amount of the deficiency or overpayment and that there is no disagreement that the figures shown are in accordance with the report of the Court. The Court will then enter its decision.

(b) Procedure in absence of agreement. If, however, the parites are not in agreement as to the amount of the deficiency or overpayment to be entered as the decision, in accordance with the report of the Court, either of them may file with the Court a computation of the deficiency or overpayment believed by him to be in accordance with the report of the Court. The Clerk will serve a copy thereof upon the opposite party, will place the matter upon a motion calendar for argument in due course, and will serve notice of the argument upon both parties. If the opposite party fails to file objection, accompanied by an alternative computation, at least 5 days prior to the date of such argument, or any continuance thereof, the Court may enter decision in accordance with the computation already submitted. If in accordance with this section computations are submitted by the parties which differ as to the amount to be entered as the decision of the Court, the parties will be afforded an opportunity to be heard in argument thereon on the date fixed, and the Court will determine the correct deficiency or overpayment and enter its decision.

(c) Limits on argument under this section. Any argument under this section will be confined strictly to the consideration of the correct computation of the deficiency or overpayment resulting from the report already made, and no argument will be heard upon or consideration given to the issues or matters already disposed of by such report or of any new issues. This section is not to be regarded as affording an opportunity for retrial or reconsideration.

§ 701.51 Estate tax deduction developing after trial. If the parties in an estate tax case are unable to agree under § 701.50, or under a remand, upon a deduction involving expenses incurred at or after the trial, the petitioner may move to reopen the case for further trial on that issue provided it is raised in the petition or by amendment thereto.

§ 701.52 Preparation of record on review; costs. (a) Immediately after the contents of a record on review have been settled or agreed to, the Clerk will notify the petitioner of the costs and charges for the preparation, comparison, and certification of said records; such charges to be determined in accordance with the provisions of section 7474, Code of 1954, and the act of September 27, 1944, 58 Stat. 743.

(b) No transcript will be certified and transmitted to the appellate court until the costs and charges therefor have been paid. (For name of payee, see § 701.1 (e).)

(c) A petitioner for review who requests the Clerk to certify but not to prepare documents for transmission to a United States Court of Appeals shall furnish the Clerk with the copies of the documents to be certified, if duplicates are not already in the record. (See §§ 701.4 (g) and 701.31 (b).)

(For statutory provisions relating to appellate court review of Tax Court decisions, see section 7482 et seq., Code of 1954. For forms of bonds, see §§ 702.5 and 702.6 of this chapter. The rules of the appellate court to which the appeal is being taken should be consulted.)

§ 701.53 Court records; removal; fees for copies—(a) Original records to be retained by Clerk; exceptions. The Clerk shall not permit any original record, paper, document, or exhibit filed with the Court to be taken from the courtroom or from other offices of the Court, except as ordered by a Judge of the Court, or except as the Clerk may find necessary in furnishing photostat copies of such records or transmitting originals to higher Courts for appeal purposes, but when a decision of the Court becomes final he shall proceed in accordance with § 701.31 (e) (2).

(b) Copies obtained from Clerk. A plain or a certified copy of any document, record, entry, or other paper pertaining to a case before this Court may be had upon application to the Clerk, the fee to be charged and collected therefor to be determined in accordance with the provisions of section 7474, Code of 1954, and the act of September 27, 1944, 58 Stat. 743.

§ 701.60 Fees and mileage. Section 7457 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 provides:

(a) Amount. Any witness summoned or whose deposition is taken under section 7456 shall receive the same fees and mileage as witnesses in courts of the United States.

(b) Payment. Such fees and mileage and the expenses of taking any such deposition shall be paid as follows:

(1) Witnesses for Secretary or his delegate: In the case of witnesses for the Secretary or his delegate, such payments shall be made by the Secretary or his delegate out of any moneys appropriated for the collection of internal revenue taxes, and may be made in advance.

(2) Other witnesses: In the case of any other witnesses, such payments shall be made, subject to the rules prescribed by the Tax Court, by the party at whose instance the witness appears or the deposition is taken.

(3) No witness, other than one for the Commissioner, shall be required to testify in any case before the Court until he shall have been tendered the fees and mileage to which he is entitled in accordance with the above provision of law.

§ 701.61 Computation of time; Saturdays, Sundays, and Holidays—(a) Computation of time; exclusions. The day of the act, event, or default starting any period of time prescribed or allowed by these Rules or by an order of this Court shall not be counted as a part of the period, but Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays in the District of Columbia shall count just as any other days, except that when the period would expire on a Saturday, Sunday, or legal holiday in the District of Columbia, it shall extend to and include the next succeeding day that is not a Saturday, Sunday, or such legal holiday.

(b) The legal holidays within the District of Columbia are:

New Year's Day, January 1 (U. S. C., Title 5, sec. 87).

Inauguration Day, every fourth year (48 Stat. 879; D. C. Code (1951), Title 28, sec. 616).

Washington's Birthday, February 22 (U. S. C., Title 5, sec. 87).

Memorial Day, May 30 (U. S. C., Title 5, sec. 87).

Fourth of July (U. S. C., Title 5, sec. 87).

Labor Day, first Monday in September (U. S. C., Title 5, sec. 87).

Veterans Day, November 11 (U. S. C., Title 5, sec. 87).

Thanksgiving Day, fourth Thursday of November (U. S. C., Title 5, sec. 87).

Christmas Day, December 25 (U. S. C., Title 5, sec. 87).

When legal holidays fall on Sunday the next day shall be a holiday (22 Stat. 1; D. C. Code (1951), Title 28, sec. 616).

§ 701.63 Cases based upon disallowance of claims for refund or relief. All of the rules of practice, with appropriate changes in wording wherever necessary, shall apply to cases involving the disallowance of claims for refund or relief over which this Court has jurisdiction. Petitions in such cases shall have attached to them a copy of the notice of disallowance, together with whatever statements may accompany that notice, and shall also have attached to them a copy of the claim or application for refund or relief. In cases where no appeal lies from the decision of the Tax Court a copy of the claim or application need be attached only to the original and first copy of the petition.

§ 701.64 Renegotiation of contracts cases—(a) Applicability of other rules to renegotiation cases. Except as otherwise prescribed by this section, cases for the redetermination of excessive profits under the Renegotiation Acts[3] shall be governed by the existing rules of practice before this Court. Where any of the existing rules (except § 701.48) or the matter contained in Part 702 of this chapter refer to the Commissioner, such rules and the matter in Part 702 of this chapter, when applied to a case for the redetermination of excessive profits under the Renegotiation Acts, shall refer to the War Contracts Price Adjustment Board (or to the United States when substituted therefor),[4] to the Secretary as defined and used in the Renegotiation Acts, or to the Renegotiation Board. Similarly references to the taxpayer shall refer to the contractor or subcontractor; references to tax shall refer to profits under a contract or subcontract subject to renegotiation, or to excessive profits thereunder, dependent upon context; and references to the determination of a deficiency, or a notice of such determination, shall refer to the order of the Board or the Secretary determining the amount of excessive profits.

(b) Initiation of cases. (1) A case for the redetermination of excessive profits under the Renegotiation Acts shall be initiated by the filing of a petition, as provided in §§ 701.4, 701.6, and the pertinent parts of § 701.7, in which the authority making the determination of excessive profits shall be shown as the respondent. (See § 702.1 of this chapter.)

(2) The petition shall be complete in itself so as fully to state the issues. It shall contain:

(i) A caption in the following form:

TAX COURT OF THE UNITED STATES

Petitioner v. Respondent	Docket No. ____

PETITION

(ii) Proper allegations showing jurisdiction in the Court.

(iii) A statement of the amount of excessive profits determined by the Board or the Secretary, as the case may be, the period for which determined, and the amount thereof in controversy. If the determination of excessive profits was made on the basis of a specific contract or contracts, the petition shall identify the contract or contracts and shall state the period covered thereby.

(iv) Clear and concise assignments of each and every error which the petitioner alleges to have been committed by the Board or the Secretary in the determination of excessive profits. Each assignment of error shall be lettered.

(v) Clear and concise lettered statements of the facts upon which the petitioner relies as sustaining the assignments of error. The allegations of fact shall contain a statement of the amount received or accrued during the period in question under the contracts or subcontracts subject to renegotiation; the costs paid or incurred with respect thereto and the profits derived therefrom, the type and character of business done, and any other facts pertinent to a determination of the error alleged.

(vi) A prayer, setting forth relief sought by the petitioner.

(vii) The signature of the petitioner or that of his counsel. (See § 701.4.)

(viii) A verification by the petitioner in accordance with the applicable provision of § 701.7 (c) (4) (ix).

(ix) A copy of the notice and a copy of the order determining the amount of excessive profits, which form the basis for the initiation of the case shall be appended to the petition. If a statement has been furnished to the petitioner by the renegotiating authority setting forth the facts upon which the determination of excessive profits was based and the reasons for such determination, a copy of such statement shall also be appended to the petition.

(c) Claim by respondent for increased amount of excessive profits. Any claim for the redetermination of an amount of excessive profits greater than the amount shown in the notice of determination shall be made by the respondent in his answer filed under § 701.14, or in an amendment thereto filed under § 701.17 at or before the time of the trial.

(d) (See statutory references, footnotes 3, and 4.)

§ 701.65 Bond to stay execution of order of Renegotiation Board—(a) Statute. The Renegotiation Act of 1951 provides that execution of the order of the Renegotiation Board may be stayed by filing with the Tax Court a bond, approved as to form and in an amount fixed by the Court, within 10 days after the filing of the petition. See sections 105 (a) and 108 of the Renegotiation Act of 1951. For forms of bonds see §§ 702.7, 702.8, 702.9, and 702.10 of this chapter.

(b) Fixing amount of bond. An application to fix the amount of a bond filed with the petition will be considered prima facie evidence of the proper amount of the bond if it asks that a bond be fixed:

(1) At 112 percent of the full amount of the excessive profits determined in the unilateral order on which the petition is based, or

(2) At 112 percent of an amount equal to the full amount of the excessive profits determined in that order reduced by the credit authorized by section 1481, Code of 1954, and is accompanied by a statement from the district director of internal revenue[5] for the district in which the return for the taxable year was filed, showing the amount of the credit to which the petitioner is entitled as a result of the determination.

(3) The Court will consider other applications differing from the above, but the applicant must have in mind the short time allowed by the statute for the approval of the bond.

(c) Sureties and collateral. (1) The Tax Court will accept as sureties on such bonds companies holding certificates of authority from the Secretary of the Treasury. (See latest U. S. Treasury Form 356.)

(2) If collateral is to be deposited as security for a bond, in lieu of a surety, United States Government marketable public securities fully negotiable by the bearer, owned by the petitioner, in a sum equal at their par value to the amount of the bond to be furnished, will be acceptable. A power of attorney and agreement must accompany such securities. (See §§ 702.9 and 702.10 of this chapter.) For other collateral which may be furnished and documents required therewith see the latest revision of Treasury Department Circular No. 154 (Revised).

TAX COURT OF THE UNITED STATES

Petitioner v. Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Respondent	Docket No. ____

PETITION

The above-named petitioner hereby petitions for a redetermination of the deficiency set forth by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue in his notice of deficiency (Service symbols) dated _____, 19__, and as the basis for his case alleges as follows:

1. The petitioner is (set forth whether individual, corporation, fiduciary, etc., as provided in § 701.6) with principal office (or residence) at _____, _____ (Street) (City) _____ (State). The return for the period here involved was filed with the collector (director or district director) for the _____ district of _____.

2. The notice of deficiency (a copy of which is attached and marked Exhibit A) was mailed to the petitioner on _____, 19__.

3. The deficiencies (or liabilities) as determined by the commissioner are in income (profits, estate, or gift) taxes for the calendar (or fiscal) year 19__ in the amount of _____ dollars of which approximately _____ dollars is in dispute.

4. The determination of tax set forth in the said notice of deficiency is based upon the following errors: (Set forth specifically in lettered subparagraphs the assignments of error in a concise manner and avoid pleading facts which properly belong in the succeeding paragraph.)

5. The facts upon which the petitioner relies as the basis of this case are as follows: (Here set forth allegations of the facts relied upon—but not the evidence—in orderly and logical sequence, with subparagraphs lettered, so as fully to inform the Court of the issues to be presented and to enable the Commissioner to admit each or deny each specific allegation.)

Wherefore, the petitioner prays that this Court may try the case and (here state the relief desired).

PROPOSED RULE MAKING

FEDERAL TRADE COMMISSION

[16 CFR Part 18]

[File No. 21-469]

COMMERCIAL DENTAL LABORATORY INDUSTRY

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING

A public hearing on proposed amendments to the trade practice rules for the Commercial Dental Laboratory Industry (16 CFR Part 18), as promulgated by the Federal Trade Commission on November 4, 1955, will be held in the ballroom of the Hotel Knickerbocker, 163 E. Walton Place, Chicago, Illinois, commencing at 10 a. m., c. s. t., on February 4, 1957.

Such hearing is called by the Commission for the purpose of considering the need for amendment of the definition of the Commercial Dental Laboratory Industry contained in the second paragraph of the "Statement by the Commission" preceding the rules for the industry (20 F. R. 8282, November 4, 1955) in order adequately to inform as to the kinds and types of businesses covered by the rules; whether the word "design" appearing in the paragraph (a) of § 18.1 and paragraph (b) of § 18.2 should be deleted or another term or language substituted therefor; whether the word "occlusion" appearing in paragraph (a) of § 18.1 should be deleted or another term or language substituted therefor; and whether paragraphs (c) and (d) of § 18.12, and all of § 18.13, should be deleted.

With respect to consideration of changes in the definition of the industry, the Commission states that such should be confined to the question of need for amendment of the present definition in order adequately to inform as to the applicability of the rules, and that this can be satisfactorily accomplished without identifying the relationship of the commercial dental laboratories to the dental profession.

At the hearing on February 4th, industry members, and other interested or affected parties, will be afforded opportunity to present to the Commission their views concerning the above-mentioned proposed amendments, including such pertinent information, suggestions, or objections as they may desire to submit and to be heard in the premises. Such information, suggestions, or objections may also be submitted by letter, memorandum, brief, or other communication, to be filed with the Commission not later than the date of the hearing.

Issued: January 10, 1957.

By direction of the Commission.

[SEAL] ROBERT M. PARRISH,
Secretary.

NOTICES

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE

Bureau of Foreign Commerce

[Case No. 222 A]

AMERICAN LEVANT INDUSTRIAL CO., INC. AND SAMUEL OBERFEST

ORDER DENYING EXPORT PRIVILEGES

In the matter of American Levant Industrial Co., Inc., 38-32 31st Street, Long Island City, New York and Samuel Oberfest, 76-12 35th Avenue, Jackson Heights, Long Island, New York, respondents.

The respondents, American Levant Industrial Co., Inc. and Samuel Oberfest, hereinafter referred to as Levant, having been charged by the Agent-in-Charge, Investigation Staff, Bureau of Foreign Commerce, with having violated the Export Control Act of 1949, as amended, and regulations promulgated thereunder, duly appeared in this proceeding, were represented by counsel, and demanded an oral hearing, which, in accordance with the practice, was referred to the Compliance Commissioner. Said hearing was duly held and the Compliance Commissioner has submitted his report and recommendation after considering the evidence in support of the charges and all evidence and data submitted by respondents in defense and mitigation thereof.

Now, after reading the report of the Compliance Commissioner, and after considering the entire record herein, I hereby make the following findings of fact.

1. At all times hereinafter mentioned, respondent American Levant Industrial Co., Inc., was and now is engaged in the export business in New York City and Samuel Oberfest was entrusted with the management of all its export activities. (Hereafter, whenever reference is made to Levant, such reference includes both American Levant Industrial Co., Inc., and Samuel Oberfest.)

2. In March 1956, Levant, while in possession of a validated export license authorizing the exportation of $4,000.00 worth of automobile spare parts to a named consignee in Morocco, did export, purportedly under said license, goods of a total value of approximately $5,717.18, and it accomplished such exportation by making three shipments, each declared at a value lower than its actual value, so that the aggregate of the declared values came to $3,939.00.

3. During the months of February, March, and April of 1956, Levant made six shipments of goods to two named consignees in Morocco, all of which shipments were made by resort to the general license GLV.

4. In resorting to said general license GLV, Levant described each such shipment as containing automobile replacement parts, Schedule B, No. 792620, and thereby represented that each shipment contained such parts and was of a value not in excess of $500.00.

5. Each such shipment did in fact contain goods invoiced to its customers at a value in excess of $500.00, and the value of each such shipment was in fact greater than $500.00.

6. In April 1956, Levant made four exportations of various lots of automotive spare parts and, as to each of said shipments, accomplished such exportations by declaring the values at less than $500.00, thus representing these exportations as properly made under general license GLV.

7. In each of these shipments there were contained either roller bearings or ball bearings but Levant failed to disclose that such bearings were therein contained. A proper disclosure would have required the insertion of a different Schedule B number and the GLV maximum value would have been less than $500.00.

8. As to one of such shipments, the declared value was $440.00 when the actual invoiced value was $1,388.47; as to the second of these shipments, the declared value was $412.00 when the actual invoiced value was $1,660.75; as to the third shipment, the declared value was $404.00 but this shipment was seized by the U. S. Customs and it was found to contain auto parts appraised at a value of $200.00 and roller bearings appraised at a value of $2,420.00; and as to the fourth of these shipments, the declared value was $352.00 but this shipment was also seized by the U. S. Customs and it was found to contain roller bearings appraised at a value of $1,540.00.

9. As to each and every shipment to which reference is made in Findings 3 to 8 inclusive, the representations as to contents of shipments and as to values were made in shipper's export declarations filed with the Collector of Customs, which export declarations were necessary to support the exportations and enable the shipments to leave the United States.

10. As to each and every shipment to which reference is made in Findings 3 to 8 inclusive, a validated export license should have been obtained by Levant but no such validated export license was obtained and, as to each, the exportation was accomplished or sought to be accomplished by an improper resort to general license.

And, from the foregoing, the following are my conclusions.

That American Levant Industrial Co., Inc. and Samuel Oberfest violated the Export Control Law and the regulations promulgated thereunder in that they knowingly, (a) made or caused exportations to be made, for which a validated export license was required, without first having obtained a validated export license, thereby violating §§ 370.2 (b) and 372.3 of the export control regulations; (b) used a validated export license and shipper's export declaration for the purpose of or in connection with facilitating or effecting an exportation contrary to the terms, provisions and conditions thereof, thereby violating §§ 372.4 (b), 381.7 and 381.8 of the export control regulations; (c) used, or caused to be used, a general license symbol or a validated export license number on shipper's export declarations, thereby falsely certifying that the terms, provisions, and conditions of the general license or validated export license had been met, thereby violating §§ 371.2 (b), 379.6 and 381.5 of the export control regulations; (d) used, or caused general license GLV to be used in effecting exportations, as a device to evade the requirements for a validated export license, thereby violating § 371.10 (c) (2) (iv) of the export control regulations; (e) caused, commanded, induced, procured or permitted the doing of acts prohibited by, and the omission of acts required by, the Export Control Law and regulations, thereby violating § 381.2 of the export control regulations; (f) attempted to make or cause exportations to be made in violation of the Export Control Law and regulations, thereby violating § 381.3 of the export control regulations; (g) made or caused false representations, statements, and certifications to be made to, and falsified material facts to and concealed material facts from the Bureau of Foreign Commerce and a Collector of Customs in connection with the preparation, issuance, or use of export control documents and for the purpose of or in connection with effecting exportations from the United States, thereby violating § 381.5 of the export control regulations.

In his report the Compliance Commissioner said,

In determining what recommendation I should make in this matter, I have taken into consideration various factors which I regard as important. It is not usual, when violations such as were charged here are involved, to issue temporary denial orders. In this case, all the respondents were temporarily denied export privileges by order dated July 31, 1956, which order remained in effect as to respondent • • • American Levant Industrial Co., Inc., until August 23, 1956. The order against respondent Oberfest remained in effect until it expired by its own terms on September 28, 1956. These orders were issued on the basis of evidence which, at the time of issuance, appeared to justify their issuance. This evidence, however, did not stand up and was not brought into the formal hearing on the charges involved herein. It has been brought to my attention also that the American Levant Industrial Co., Inc., has suffered large losses because of its inability to obtain export licenses necessary for the completion of orders which it had obtained. • • • I have considered also the fact that Oberfest, while he, too, suffered financial losses by reason of Levant's inability to perform its export contracts during the period of the investigation and the pendency of these charges, nevertheless deliberately took the law into his own hands and, with knowledge that he was violating the regulations, made the exportations to further his own business interests insofar as such interests might be furthered by the transaction of business by Levant. Impatience with the conduct of Government officials and even a sincere belief that such conduct was unwarranted or discriminatory are not sufficient reasons for deliberately bypassing or violating regulations made in connection with the administration of a statute. Having all this in mind, it is my recommendation that the respondent Oberfest be denied export privileges for a period of six months from the date of the order to be entered herein, and that American Levant Industrial Co., Inc., also be denied export privileges for a similar period but that, as regards American Levant Industrial Co., Inc., such denial of export privileges shall not be effective unless it violates the conditions of the order to be submitted herewith, • • •

The recommendation of the Compliance Commissioner, upon the record herein, appears to be just, fair and necessary to achieve effective enforcement of the act, and therefore: It is hereby ordered:

I. The respondent, American Levant Industrial Co., Inc., for a period of six months as hereinafter provided, and Oberfest for a period of six months from the date hereof are hereby suspended from and denied all privileges of participating, directly or indirectly, in any manner or capacity, in an exportation of any commodity or technical data from the United States to any foreign destination, including Canada, or in a transshipment or reexportation outside of the United States of any commodity in whole or in part exported from the United States. Without limitation of the generality of the foregoing denial of export privileges, such participation is deemed to include and prohibit participation by them, directly or indirectly, in any manner or capacity, (a) as a party or as a representative of a party to any validated export license application, (b) in the obtaining or using of any validated or general export license or other export control documents, (c) in the receiving, ordering, buying, selling, delivering, using, or disposing in any foreign country of any commodities in whole or in part exported or to be exported from the United States, and (d) in financing, forwarding, transporting, or other servicing of such exports from the United States.

II. Such denial of export privileges shall extend not only to the said respondents, but also to any person, firm, corporation, or business organization which may be related now or hereafter to either of them by ownership, control, or position of responsibility in the conduct of trade in which may be involved exports from the United States or services connected therewith.

III. However, as to the respondent, American Levant Industrial Co., Inc., the entire denial period of six months shall be suspended during a term of good behavior to continue until the expiration of six months from the date hereof. During the said six months, all export privileges otherwise denied to it shall be permitted to it upon condition that, during said term of good behavior, it shall comply in all respects with this order, with all other requirements of the Export Control Act of 1949, as amended, and all regulations promulgated thereunder and shall not, directly or indirectly, employ or avail itself of the services of Samuel Oberfest in any capacity. The privileges so conditionally permitted to American Levant Industrial Co., Inc., may be revoked summarily and without notice, but subject to its right to appeal therefrom, upon a finding by the Director of the Office of Export Supply, or such other official as may at that time be exercising the duties now exercised by him, that it, at any time within six months following the date hereof, knowingly failed to comply with the conditions upon which it has been permitted to engage in the export business during the said term of good behavior. In the event that it be so determined that American Levant Industrial Co., Inc., has breached the said conditions or any of them, the denial of its export privileges shall commence on the day of such determination and shall continue for six full months thereafter, without prejudice to any other or additional action which might be taken by reason of such conduct.

IV. No person, firm, corporation, or other business organization, whether in the United States or elsewhere, during any time when the respondents and related parties are prohibited under the terms hereof from engaging in any activity within the scope of paragraph I hereof, shall, without prior disclosure to and specific authorization from, the Bureau of Foreign Commerce, directly or indirectly, in any manner or capacity, (a) apply for, obtain, or use any export license, shipper's export declaration, bill of lading, or other export control document relating to any such prohibited activity, or (b) order, receive, buy, sell, use, deliver, dispose of, finance, transport, forward, or otherwise service or participate in, any exportation from the United States or a transshipment, or reexportation of any commodity exported from the United States, in which the respondent or any related party may have any interest or obtain any benefit of any kind or nature, directly or indirectly.

Dated: January 10, 1957.

Director,
Office of Export Supply.

GENTRY SHIPPING CORP. ET AL.

NOTICE TO SHOW CAUSE WHY FREIGHT FORWARDER REGISTRATIONS ISSUED TO CERTAIN REGISTRANTS SHOULD NOT BE CANCELLED

Notice is hereby given that at a session of the Federal Maritime Board held at its Office in Washington, D. C., the 28th day of December 1956, the Board entered the following order:

Whereas the following registrants were assigned freight forwarder registration numbers pursuant to General Order 72 (46 CFR 244):

Name	Registration No.	Date issued
Gentry Shipping Corp. (New York)	1626	May 29, 1953
Francisco Alvarez Gil (Miami)	1874	May 3, 1955
John Manners & Co. (New York) Inc.	1826	Jan. 20, 1955
Pacific Continental Forwarders (San Francisco)	1863	Apr. 20, 1955
Philippine-International Freight Forwarding Co. (Los Angeles) (Mrs. Lourdes L. Figueras, dba)	1916	Apr. 25, 1955
Worldwide Forwarders, Inc. (New Orleans)	1602	Mar. 2, 1953

Whereas the Board has by registered letters requested these registrants to furnish certain information in connection with their forwarding activities, pursuant to § 244.3 of General Order 72; and

Whereas registered mail sent to John Manners & Co. (New York) Inc. and Pacific Continental Forwarders has been returned by the post office as undeliverable, and the Board is therefore unable to exercise regulatory authority over them because their present whereabouts is unknown; and

Whereas the other four registrants named above have failed to respond to registered letters in violation of General Order 72; now, therefore,

It is ordered, That the above-named registrants show cause, in writing or at a public hearing to be hereafter set if requested by registrant, within thirty (30) days from the date of publication hereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER why their registrations should not be cancelled for the reasons above stated; and

It is further ordered, That failure to any registrant named above to respond as ordered hereby will result in automatic cancellation of its freight forwarder registration without further action by the Board; and that notice of such cancellation shall be sent to the registrant by the Secretary; and

It is further ordered, That a copy of this order be sent by registered mail to each of the above-named registrants at its last known address; and

It is further ordered, That this order be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Dated: January 10, 1957.

By order of the Federal Maritime Board.

FEDERAL POWER COMMISSION

[Docket No. G-11095]

OHIO FUEL GAS CO.

NOTICE OF APPLICATIONN AND DATE OF HEARING

JANUARY 8, 1957.

Take notice that The Ohio Fuel Gas Company, an Ohio corporation and a subsidiary of the Columbia Gas System, Inc., having its principal place of business at 99 North Front Street, Columbus 15, Ohio, filed on September 17, 1956, an application for a certificate of public convenience and necessity, pursuant to section 7 of the Natural Gas Act authorizing construction and operation of additional underground storage facilities, and for authority to abandon certain facilities as hereinafter described, subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission all as more fully represented in the application which is on file with the Commission and open for public inspection.

Applicant proposes the following facilities for the expansion of underground storage operations:

Project No. 1, Wellington Storage (Expansion). Installation of superchargers and new compressors and compressor piping on existing gas engine-compressor units at Wellington Storage Compressor Station in Medina County, Ohio, increasing station rated power from 3,200 to 4,320 horsepower and the input rate from 40,000 Mcf to 54,000 Mcf per day. The output rate at 1,150 psig ultimate storage pressure and with 18,804,000 Mcf in storage is 190,000 Mcf per day.

The estimated cost of facilities is $193,000, less net salvage of $25,460. No service to field line customers is to be abandoned.

Project No. 2, Holmes Storage (Extension). Activation and development of two additional storage pools in the Holmes Storage Field in Holmes, Wayne and Ashland Counties, Ohio, including installation of approximately 16.4 miles of 3½ inch O. D. to 6⅝ inch O. D. project piping.

The maximum deliverability of the two pools to be activated at ultimate pressure of 1,150 psig and stored volume of 5,300,000 Mcf is 35,000 Mcf per day.

The estimated cost of facilities is $362,000, less net salvage of $36,920.

Project No. 3, McArthur Storage (New Storage Area). Activation and development of a new storage field in Vinton County, Ohio, to be identified as the McArthur Storage Field, including installation of approximately 15.1 miles of 4½ inch O. D. to 20 inch O. D. project piping and transmission line and a 3,300 horsepower storage compressor station. Input capacity of 10,000 Mcf per day with present line pressure will be increased to 85,000 Mcf per day in 1958. Output capacity will be 40,000 and 70,000 Mcf per day for the peak days of 1959 and 1960 respectively, with deliverability of approximately 80,000–100,000 Mcf per day possible in earlier months.

The estimated cost of this project is $2,070,000, less net salvage of $19,200:

The cost of all three projects will be financed by The Columbia Gas System, Inc.

Applicant states that service will be discontinued to few, if any of the 30 field line customers being served in the Holmes Storage area and the 3 customers in the proposed McArthur storage area as a result of the relocation of lines.

Applicant requests authorization to abandon existing compressors and compressor piping at Wellington Station to be replaced by proposed facilities described under Project No. 1.

Applicant also proposes to abandon approximately 33.1 miles of existing 2⅜ inch O. D. to 6⅝ inch O. D. well and field lines to be replaced by storage piping proposed under Projects Nos. 2 and 3.

This matter is one that should be disposed of as promptly as possible under the applicable rules and regulations and to that end:

Take further notice that, pursuant to the authority contained in and subject to the jurisdiction conferred upon the Federal Power Commission by sections 7 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act, and the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, a hearing will be held on February 7, 1957, at 9:30 a. m., e. s. t., in a Hearing Room of the Federal Power Commission 441 G Street NW., Washington, D. C., concerning the matters involved in and the issues presented by such application: Provided, however, That the Commission may, after a noncontested hearing, dispose of the proceedings pursuant to the provisions of § 1.30 (c) (1) or (2) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure. Under the procedure herein provided for, unless otherwise advised, it will be unnecessary for Applicant to appear or be represented at the hearing.

Protests or petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington 25, D. C., in accordance with the rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) on or before January 22, 1957. Failure of any party to appear at and participate in the hearing shall be construed as waiver of and concurrence in omission herein of the intermediate decision procedure in cases where a request therefor is made.

BATEMAN DRILLING CO. ET AL.

ORDER SUSPENDING PROPOSED CHANGE IN RATES

JANUARY 8, 1957.

Bateman Drilling Co., et al., (Bateman), on December 7, 1956, tendered for filing a proposed change in the presently effective rate schedules for sales of natural gas subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission. The proposed change, which constitutes an increased rate, is contained in the following designated filing:

Description; Purchaser; Rate Schedule Designation; and Effective Date[1]

Notice of change, undated; Texas Gas Transmission Corporation; Supplement No. 1 to Bateman's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 3; January 10, 1957.

The increased rates and charges proposed in the aforesaid filing have not been shown to be justified, and may be unjust, unreasonable, unduly discriminatory, or preferential, or otherwise unlawful.

The Commission finds: It is necessary and proper in the public interest and to aid in the enforcement of the provisions of the Natural Gas Act that the Commission enter upon a hearing concerning the lawfulness of the said proposed change, and that the above-designated supplement be suspended and the use thereof deferred as hereinafter ordered.

The Commission orders:

(A) Pursuant to the authority contained in sections 4 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act and the Commission's regulations (18 CFR Chapter I) a public hearing be held upon a date to be fixed by notice from the Secretary concerning the lawfulness of said proposed change in rates and charges; and, pending such hearing and decision thereon, the above-designated supplement be and the same hereby is suspended and the use thereof deferred until June 10, 1957, and until such further time as it is made effective in the manner prescribed by the Natural Gas Act.

(B) Neither the supplement hereby suspended nor the rate schedule sought to be altered thereby shall be changed until this proceeding has been disposed of or until the period of suspension has expired, unless otherwise ordered by the Commission.

(C) Interested State commissions may participate as provided by §§ 1.8 and 1.37 (f) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 and 1.37 (f)).

By the Commission.

[SEAL] LEON M. FUQUAY,
Secretary.

[1] The stated effective date is the first day after the expiration of the required thirty days notice, or the effective date proposed by Bateman, if later.

[Project No. 2177]

GEORGIA POWER CO.

NOTICE OF SUPPLEMENT TO APPLICATION FOR LICENSE

JANUARY 8, 1957.

Public notice is hereby given that Georgia Power Company of Atlanta, Georgia, has filed a supplement to its application for license for Project No. 2177, notice of which was published during June and July 1956. The supplement requests the inclusion of the existing Bartlett's Ferry development, located immediately upstream from Goat Rock, in the license for Project No. 2177 if issued. The Bartlett's Ferry development consists of a dam comprised of a concrete gravity spillway section with 19 Tainter gates, 2 skimmer gates and 4 siphon spillways, a concrete intake section, and earth-fill sections on either end of the concrete section; a reservoir extending upstream about 10 miles having a usable storage capacity of 120,000 acre-feet; penstocks; a powerhouse, located 300 feet below the intake, with three 22,000-horsepower turbines each connected to a 15,000-kilowatt generator and a 28,500-horsepower turbine connected to a 20,000-kilowatt generator installed therein; a substation; a transmission line; a railroad spur line; and appurtenant mechanical and electrical facilities.

Protests or petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington 25, D. C., in accordance with the rules of practice and procedure of the Commission (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10). The last date upon which protests may be filed is February 29, 1957. The application is on file with the Commission for public inspection.

By the Commission.

PART 13—DIGEST OF CEASE AND DESIST ORDERS

THE BLANTON CO.

Subpart—Advertising falsely or misleadingly: § 13.30 Composition of goods: Oleomargarine amendment to FTC Act.

(Sec. 6, 38 Stat. 721; 15 U. S. 46. Interprets or applies sec. 5, 38 Stat. 719, as amended, sec. 15, 64 Stat. 20–21; 15 U. S. C. 45, 55) [Cease and desist order, The Blanton Company, St. Louis, Mo., Docket 6197, December 26, 1956]

The complaint in this matter charged a corporate manufacturer of "Creamo" margarine in St. Louis, Mo., with violating the Oleomargarine Amendment to the Federal Trade Commission Act by disseminating advertisements in newspapers and periodicals, and by radio and television, which suggested, by use of the word "Creamo" as part of a brand or trade name, and the words "cream", "sweet fresh cream", etc., that said oleomargarine was a dairy product.

The hearing examiner's dismissal of the complaint on the ground of insufficient evidence was remanded by the Commission on appeal, for further proceedings. Instead of presenting additional evidence, however, counsel for the parties agreed on a consent order, and on that basis the hearing examiner issued his second initial decision, including order to cease and desist, which was adopted by the Commission. Shortly thereafter, the Commission reconsidered and again remanded the matter for further proceedings which were had in due course.

Thereafter, the hearing examiner again submitted an initial decision, including findings and order to cease and desist, which by order of December 26 was modified and, as so modified, adopted as the decision of the Commission.

The order to cease and desist is as follows:

It is ordered, That the respondent, The Blanton Company, a corporation, and its officers, agents, representatives and employees, directly or through any corporate or other device, in connection with the offering for sale, sale or distribution of oleomargarine do forthwith cease and desist from, directly or indirectly:

1. Disseminating or causing to be disseminated, by means of the United States mails or by any means in commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the Federal Trade Commission Act, any advertisement which contains any statement, word, grade designation, design, device, symbol, sound or any combination thereof, which represents or suggests that such oleomargarine or margarine is a dairy product: Provided, however, That nothing contained in this order shall prevent the use in advertisements of a truthful, accurate, and full statement in any such advertisement of all the ingredients contained in such product.

2. Disseminating or causing to be disseminated, as described in Paragraph 1 of this order, any advertisement in which the word or words "cream", "sweet fresh cream", "pure cream", "cream-enriched", "sweet light cream", "milk" or "sweet fresh milk" are used, except as a part of a truthful, accurate and full statement of all the ingredients con-

In the Matter of National Business and Property Exchange, Inc., a Corporation, and Alexander Haagen (Erroneously Referred to in the Complaint as Alexander Hagen) and Michael M. Fodor, Individually and as Officers of Said Corporation

This proceeding was heard by a hearing examiner on the complaint of the Commission charging a Los Angeles publisher engaged in the sale of advertising in its magazine-type catalog listing real estate for sale or exchange designated "National Buyers' Guide," with representing falsely, through use of the name "National Business and Property Exchange" and also through representations in magazines and newspapers and broadcast by radio, that they were engaged in the buying, selling, and exchange of business and other property; and with making false representations through agents as to the advantages to be obtained by prospects in listing properties with them.

Following an agreement between the parties providing for entry of a consent order, the hearing examiner made his initial decision and order to cease and desist which became on December 27 the decision of the Commission.

The order to cease and desist is as follows:

It is ordered, That respondents National Business and Property Exchange, Inc., a corporation (now known as U. S. Buyers' Report, Inc., a corporation), and its officers, and Alexander Haagen (erroneously referred to in the complaint as Alexander Hagen) and Michael M. Fodor, individually and as officers of said corporation, and their agents, representatives and employees, directly or through any corporate or other device, in connection with the offering for sale, or sale of advertising in their publication or catalog designated as "National Buyers' Guide," or any other publication or catalog, to the public in commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the Federal Trade Commission Act, do forthwith cease and desist from:

(1) Using the words "Business and Property Exchange" or any other word or words of similar import as a part of any corporate or trade name, or representing in any manner that they are engaged in the buying, selling or exchanging of real estate or any other property.

(2) Representing directly or by implication:

(a) That the "Confidential Report of Buyers" (now known as "U. S. Buyers' Report"), published by respondents, is a list of prospective buyers for any specific property, or that the names listed in said publication are a screened or handpicked list of prospective buyers for a specific parcel of property, or are known to respondents or their agents or representatives as having cash ready to buy the specific property of persons who purchase respondents' advertising.

(b) That respondents will advertise the property of purchasers of their advertising in nationally distributed or well-known magazines, or over the radio, or in any other manner.

(c) That real estate brokers who subscribe to "National Buyers' Guide" published by respondents, will undertake to sell the specific parcel of property of a purchaser of advertising in "National Buyers' Guide".

(d) That brokers use respondents' "Confidential Report of Buyers" or "U. S. Buyers' Report" to sell the property of purchasers of respondents' advertising.

(e) That the property of respondents' advertisers will be sold in any event, or within a certain specified time, or before the payment for such advertising becomes due.

(f) That Governors of States, Congressmen and other notables, or any other persons, are connected with or endorse respondents' business, unless such is the fact.

(g) That a purchaser is immediately available to buy the specific parcel of property of one who purchases respondents' advertising.

By "Decision of the Commission", etc., report of compliance was required as follows:

It is ordered, That respondents herein shall, within sixty (60) days after service upon them of this order, file with the Commission a report in writing setting forth in detail the manner and form in which they have complied with the order to cease and desist.

Issued: December 27, 1956.

In the Matter of Lelord E. Kordel, Trading Under the Name of Nutrition Enterprises

This proceeding was heard by a hearing examiner on the complaint of the Commission—charging a Detroit, Michigan, seller with making false representations in advertising in newspapers, circulars, etc., as to the nutritional and healthful qualities of his "Super-Nutriway" mineral and vitamin preparation, and its superior freshness and excellence in comparison with competitive products—and an agreement between counsel providing for entry of a consent order.

On this basis, the hearing examiner made his initial decision and order to cease and desist which became on December 27 the decision of the Commission.

The order to cease and desist is as follows:

It is ordered, That the respondent Lelord E. Kordel, trading under the name of Nutrition Enterprises or any other name or names, his agents, representatives and employees, directly or through any corporate or other device, in connection with the offering for sale, sale or distribution of the preparation Super-Nutriway, or any other preparation of substantially similar composition or possessing substantially similar properties, do forthwith cease and desist from:

1. Disseminating or causing to be disseminated by means of the United States mails or by any means in commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the Federal Trade Commission Act, any advertisement which represents directly or by implication:

(a) That vitamins as usually purchased at retail establishments are stale or have lost their potency;

(b) That the vitamin preparation Super-Nutriway is fresher or more nutritious than other vitamin preparations or products;

(c) That all ingredients in the preparation Super-Nutriway are nutritional elements.

2. Disseminating, or causing to be disseminated any advertisement by any means, for the purpose of inducing or which is likely to induce, directly or indirectly, the purchase of the preparation Super-Nutriway in commerce, as "commerce" is defined in the Federal Trade Commission Act, which advertisement contains any of the representations prohibited in Paragraph 1 hereof.

By "Decision of the Commission", etc., report of compliance was required as follows:

It is ordered, That the respondent herein shall, within sixty (60) days after service upon him of this order, file with the Commission a report in writing setting forth in detail the manner and form in which he has complied with the order to cease and desist.

Issued: December 27, 1956.

TITLE 32A—NATIONAL DEFENSE, APPENDIX

Chapter VI—Business and Defense Services Administration, Department of Commerce

[BDSA Reg. 2 (formerly NPA Reg. 2). Amdt. 4 of January 11, 1957]

REG. 2—BASIC RULES OF THE PRIORITIES SYSTEM

CHANGE IN LIST A

This amendment is found necessary and appropriate to promote the national defense and is issued pursuant to the Defense Production Act of 1950, as amended. In the formulation of this amendment, there was consultation with industry representatives, including trade association representatives, and consideration was given to their recommendations.

This amendment supersedes Amendment 3 of December 18, 1956 to BDSA (formerly NPA) Reg. 2. It effects BDSA Reg. 2 as heretofore amended by excluding copper-base alloy shot and waffle containing 3 percent or more nickel (by weight) from the category of copper raw materials not subject to ratings.

Item 1 of List A of BDSA Reg. 2 (formerly NPA Reg. 2), as amended by Amendment 3 of December 18, 1956, is hereby further amended to read as follows:

1. The following items are not presently subject to any ratings issued by or under the authority of BDSA and therefore no rating shall be effective to obtain any of them:

Communications services.
Copper raw materials as that term is defined in BDSA Order M-11A (as the same may be amended from time to time), except copper-base alloy ingot, shot and waffle (as defined in that order) containing 3 percent or more of nickel (by weight).
Crushed stone.
Gravel.
Sand.
Scrap.
Slag.
Steam heat, central.
Waste paper.
Water.
Wood pulp.

This amendment shall take effect January 11, 1957.

BUSINESS AND DEFENSE SERVICES ADMINISTRATION,
H. B. MCCOY,
Administrator.

Chapter I—Federal Communications Commission

[Docket No. 11861; FCC 57-38]

[Rules Amdt. 3-51]

PART 3—RADIO BROADCAST SERVICES

TABLE OF ASSIGNMENTS, TELEVISION BROADCAST STATIONS

In the matter of amendment of § 3.606, Table of Assignments, Rules Governing Television Broadcast Stations (Aguadilla, Puerto Rico).

1. The Commission has before it for consideration its Notice of Proposed Rule Making issued in this proceeding on November 2, 1956 (FCC 56-1067), and published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on November 7, 1956 (21 F. R. 8543), proposing to shift Channel 13 from Arecibo to Aguadilla, Puerto Rico in response to a petition for rule making filed by Hector Reichard.

2. No comments opposing the proposed amendment of the television Table of Assignments were filed. In support of its request, petitioner asserts that the residents of the Aguadilla area are desirous of obtaining a local television service; that because of terrain factors, a local channel is needed to render adequate television service to Aguadilla, a city of 18,276 persons, and to the surrounding area; that the proposed assignment conforms with the Commission's Rules and Regulations; and that, if Channel 13 is allocated to Aguadilla, petitioner will apply for a station on that channel.

3. The Commission is of the view that the proposed amendment would represent a more effective use of available facilities and would serve the public interest.

4. Authority for the adoption of the amendment herein is contained in sections 4 (i), 301, 303 (c), (d), (f) and (r) and 307 (b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

5. In view of the foregoing, it is ordered, That effective February 15, 1957, the Table of Assignments contained in § 3.606 of the Commission's rules and regulations is amended, insofar as the communities named are concerned as follows:

1. Delete from the Table, Arecibo, Puerto Rico.

2. Insert in the Table under Puerto Rico:

City:	Channel No.
Aguadilla	13

Chapter I—Interstate Commerce Commission

Subchapter B—Carriers by Motor Vehicles

[Ex Parte No. 205]

PART 206—FREIGHT COMMODITY STATISTICS

MOTOR CARRIER FREIGHT COMMODITY STATISTICS

At a General Session of the Interstate Commerce Commission, held at its office in Washington, D. C., on the 8th day of January, A. D. 1957.

Upon consideration of the matter and things involved in the above-entitled proceeding, of the rules and regulations heretofore prescribed herein, and of petitions for reconsideration of the order of December 9, 1955 (20 F. R. 9860) requiring the filing of freight commodity statistics by motor carriers;

And it appearing that the parties have been heard in oral argument, and the Commission, on the date hereof, has filed a report on oral argument containing its findings and conclusions thereon, which report is hereby made a part hereof;

It is ordered, That the order of December 9, 1955, as amended May 21, 1956, in the above-entitled matter and that 49 CFR Part 206 be, and they are hereby further amended as follows:

Section 206.1 Freight commodity statistics is amended by adding the following paragraph:

(b) The regulations shall apply only to those class I motor carriers of property having gross annual operating revenue of $1,000,000 or more.

2. Section 206.7 is added as follows:

§ 206.7 Public inspection. The individual reports filed pursuant to this part will not be open for public inspection.

It is further ordered, That the said petitions, except to the extent herein granted, be, and they are hereby, denied.

And it is further ordered, That notice of this order shall be given to the general public by depositing a copy thereof in the office of the Secretary of the Commission at Washington, D. C., and by filing it with the Director of the Division of the Federal Register.

PROPOSED RULE MAKING

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Agricultural Marketing Service

[7 CFR Part 1014]

[AO-287]

TOMATOES GROWN IN LOWER RIO GRANDE VALLEY IN TEXAS

NOTICE OF RECOMMENDED DECISION AND OPPORTUNITY TO FILE WRITTEN EXCEPTIONS WITH RESPECT TO PROPOSED MARKETING AGREEMENT NO. 124 AND ORDER NO. 114

Pursuant to the rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900; 19 F. R. 57), notice is hereby given of the filing with the Hearing Clerk of this recommended decision of the Deputy Administrator, Agricultural Marketing Service, United States Department of Agriculture, with respect to proposed marketing agreement No. 124 and Order No. 114, hereinafter referred to as the "marketing agreement and order," regulating the handling of tomatoes grown in the Lower Rio Grande Valley in Texas, to be effective pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.; 68 Stat. 906, 1047), hereinafter called the "act." Interested parties may file exceptions to this recommended decision with the Hearing Clerk, Room 112, Administration Building, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C., not later than the close of business on the fifteenth day after publication of this recommended decision in the FEDERAL REGISTER. Exceptions should be filed in quadruplicate.

Preliminary statement. The public hearing on the record of which the proposed marketing agreement and order were formulated was held at Edinburg, Texas, on September 24–27, 1956, pursuant to notice thereof which was published September 1, 1956, in the FEDERAL REGISTER (21 F. R. 6612). Such notice set forth the proposed marketing agreement and order which were sponsored by producers and handlers of tomatoes in the Lower Rio Grande Valley in the State of Texas.

Material issues. The material issues presented on the record of the hearing are as follows:

(1) The existence of the right to exercise Federal jurisdiction;

(2) The need for the proposed regulatory program to effectuate the declared purposes of the act;

(3) The definition of the commodity and determination of the production area to be affected by the marketing agreement and order;

(4) The identity of the persons and transactions to be regulated; and

(5) The specific terms and provisions of the marketing agreement and order including:

(a) Definitions of terms used therein which are necessary and incidental to attain the declared objectives of the act, and including all those set forth in the notice of hearing, among which are those applicable to the following additional terms and provisions:

(b) The establishment, maintenance, composition, powers, duties, and operation of a committee, which shall be the administrative agency for assisting the Secretary in administration of the program;

(c) The authority to incur expenses and to levy assessments on shipments;

(d) The authority for the establishment of tomato marketing research and development projects;

(e) The method for limiting the handling of tomatoes grown in the production area;

(f) The methods for establishing minimum standards of quality and maturity;

(g) The methods for authorizing special regulations applicable to the handling of tomatoes for specified purposes or to specified outlets under special regulations that are modifications of, or amendments to, grade, size, and quality regulations;

(h) The necessity for inspection and certification of shipments;

(i) The relaxation of regulation in hardship cases and the methods and procedures applicable thereto;

(j) The procedure for establishing reporting requirements upon handlers;

(k) The requirements of compliance with all provisions of the marketing agreement and order and with regulations issued pursuant thereto; and

(l) Additional terms and conditions as set forth in §§ 1014.82 through 1014.95 and published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (21 F. R. 6612) on September 1, 1956, which are common to marketing agreements and orders.

Findings and conclusions. The findings and conclusions on the aforementioned material issues, all of which are based on the evidence introduced at the hearing and record thereof, are as follows:

(1) All tomatoes grown in Cameron, Hidalgo, Starr or Willacy Counties in Texas (customarily referred to as the Lower Rio Grande Valley or more commonly the Lower Valley) which are handled between such production area and any point outside thereof are either in interstate or foreign commerce or directly burden, obstruct, or affect such commerce. The bulk of the Lower Valley tomatoes moves to markets outside of Texas or to markets located in the larger cities in Texas. Such tomatoes are transported by rail and truck principally to Central States, the Northeastern States, and to the Pacific Northwest. Shipments are also made to other parts of the country in lesser quantities, and many shipments are also destined for Canada. There are numerous markets in Texas which receive large quantities of tomatoes grown in the Lower Valley as well as tomatoes from other areas outside Texas. San Antonio, Houston, and Dallas are the principal tomato markets in Texas. However, smaller quantities are sold in other Texas markets such as Austin, Fort Worth, Corpus Christi, and Amarillo. At the same time Lower Valley tomatoes are being sold and shipped, tomatoes from other producing areas are also being sold in and shipped to the same markets, both in Texas and outside thereof, receiving Lower Valley tomatoes.

Tomatoes grown in the production area compete principally with tomatoes grown in Florida and Mexico. They also compete to some extent with tomatoes grown in other producing areas in Texas, California, and other southern producing areas, such as Alabama and Georgia, since the shipping season for Lower Valley tomatoes overlaps the shipping seasons of such areas. Tomatoes produced in these competing areas compete in the same markets as tomatoes produced in the production area.

Many shipments destined originally for Texas markets are shipped in interstate commerce from such markets. It was testified at the heafing that tomatoes are sold to repackers located in Texas cities and, after ripening and repacking, are oftentimes resold in adjoining States. It was also testified that a large repacker in San Antonio also has a repacking plant in Denver, Colorado. The shipper selling tomatoes to this repacker does not know whether such tomatoes will be transported to San Antonio or Denver. Testimony also shows that tomatoes sold to repackers in Oklahoma are often sold to Texas retailers and are consumed in Texas.

Many rail shipments from the production area are consigned by the shipper to junction points in Texas such as Houston. Before the car reaches the junction point, it is sold and diverted from the junction point to a buyer located in a terminal market, usually outside of Texas.

Any handling of tomatoes grown in the Lower Valley exerts a direct influence upon all handling of tomatoes. The volume of tomatoes from a given producing area, irrespective of whether it is the Lower Valley, Florida, or Mexico, received in a terminal market will have an effect on prices received for other tomatoes offered for sale in that market. Tomato handlers, of course, try to obtain the highest possible return for their commodity. If such handlers expect to stay in business they must keep well informed on market conditions and information, in both out-of-state and Texas markets, and both buyers and sellers use modern means of communicatibns to maintain this close association with market conditions so they can quickly take advantage of a high market.

Texas markets offer shipper opportunities for making sales the same as markets outside of the State. Two handlers who testified at the hearing stated that 30 to 40 percent of their total sales were in Texas markets. Such sales, if advantageous to the shipper, are as eagerly accepted as other advantageous sales, whether made at shipping point or in the consuming markets such as Boston, New York, or Chicago. The tomato market consists in major part of offering, quoting, bargaining, buying or selling tomatoes. Factors influencing this market are numerous. Such factors include the supply of, and demand for, tomatoes in the production area and in competing areas; the available and potential supplies in the production area and in competing areas; the quality of such supplies; the prices quoted by shippers and receivers; and a great variety of other factors which enter into the meeting of minds between buyers and sellers necessary to consummate a sale.

Such factors are considered by the seller at shipping point and the buyer in the terminal market, because factors influencing prices of tomatoes in the production area are soon reflected on prices paid in terminal markets. In turn, factors influencing prices paid in the terminals are soon reflected in prices received at shipping point. An example given at the hearing was that if Cameron County received a hard rain and Hidalgo County did not, buyers would shift to Hidalgo County points and prices there would probably increase because buyers would be bidding higher in order to obtain the available supplies. It was also testified that if a terminal market such as Houston or Dallas is glutted with culls or low quality tomatoes, prices received for good quality tomatoes are reduced so the receivers can compete pricewise with the poorer quality tomatoes. Another example of the intricate, interlocked, and dependent nature of the tomato market involves factors influencing prices in a competing shipping area. If Florida or Mexico suffers from a freeze which materially reduces the supply available for shipment from such area, prices in terminal markets receiving Florida or Mexican tomatoes react quickly. This in turn is reflected in prices received at shipping points in the production area.

The practice of diverting shipments from Houston or other junction points in Texas is also a result of the intricate nature of tomato marketing. If prices are favorable at the junction point the shipment will be sold on such market. However, if another market appears more favorable to the shipper he will have the car diverted to the second market. Because of this practice of diverting rail shipments, the shipper does not always know at the time of shipment where such shipment will be sold. Truck shipments can also be diverted, but such diversion is usually done at the discretion of the trucker rather than the shipper. If a trucker has purchased tomatoes in the production area, he usually heads for a market within Texas or a nearby State. If conditions are unfavorable at such market he oftentimes moves on to the next market. It is impossible to determine in most cases when tomatoes are sold to a trucker whether such tomatoes will be marketed within Texas or an out-of-state market.

The factors influencing the sale and movement of tomatoes make up the market for tomatoes. The interdependence of the markets both within and outside the State directly burdens, obstructs and affects interstate commerce. The factors making up the market for tomatoes constitute commerce which is so inextricably intermingled that all sale and movement of such tomatoes are either in the current of interstate or foreign commerce or directly burden, obstruct, or affect such commerce and therefore all such movement and sale of tomatoes grown in the production area should be subject to the authority of the act and of the marketing agreement and order which may be issued pursuant thereto.

(2) Lower Valley Texas tomato farmers have received less than parity prices for their early spring crop tomatoes during six of the ten seasons, 1945–46 through 1954–55. They received an average price for early spring crop tomatoes in three of these ten seasons which was in excess of parity, and during one season, 1948–49, they received the equivalent of parity prices. The relationship of prices received by the farmers for Lower Texas Valley tomatoes has been less favorable during the six year period 1950–55 than during the previous four years. During the latter period, season average farm prices for the early spring crop ranged from 75 percent to 112 percent of parity with prices received by farmers being below parity in all but one of the six seasons. In three of these latter seasons the prices received by farmers averaged less than 80 percent of parity.

For the eleven season period 1945–46 through 1955–56 prices to Lower Valley Texas tomato farmers for the late fall crop was below parity in five of the eleven seasons and above parity during the others. During the 1955 fall crop, prices averaged 80 percent of parity and the previous year the average was 87 percent of parity. The previous season, 1953–54, prices were 112 percent of parity, but during the 1952–53 late fall season, Lower Valley Texas tomatoes returned 66 percent of parity to farmers.

Prices to Lower Valley Texas tomato farmers have prevailed at levels below parity during most seasons despite the organized effort of tomato growers, handlers, and public officials to promote better marketing practices that will protect the growers' interests.

In addition to the facts hereby found that prices to Lower Valley Texas tomato farmers have been below parity for the the early spring season during most of the past ten years and for the late fall season during a significant portion of such seasons, it is also found to be a fact that prices for such tomatoes fluctuate widely within seasons. Furthermore prices vary widely for different grades and sizes of such tomatoes. Prices of such tomatoes are affected not only by the total volume of tomatoes available for market at any time but also by the grade, size and quality of such tomatoes being marketed at any given time.

Market reports show that the price of Texas tomatoes fluctuates throughout the season in terminal markets, also at f. o. b. shipping points and such prices in turn are reflected to the prices paid farmers. These facts are substantiated by the expert testimony of growers and shippers in the record. During the 1956 season the price of U. S. No. 1 quality, 6 x 6 and larger, ranged higher than the prices of 6 x 7 same quality. Also prices of size 7 x 7's of the same quality in general were lower than for the two larger sizes. The price of U. S. No. 2, 6 x 6 and larger was in general about one-half the price of the same size of the No. 1 quality while the price of size 6 x 7 was generally less than one-half the price of the same size No. 1 quality and less than one-half the price of U. S. No. 1, 6 x 6's and larger. In general, the same relationships applied between grade and sizes for grower prices with size 6 x 6 and larger No. 1 quality returning higher prices to growers than size 6 x 7 No. 1 quality and considerably higher than size 7 x 7 No. 1 quality. In the same manner, prices of 6 x 6 and larger, U. S. No. 2 grade returned approximately one-half the price of the U. S. No. 1 quality for the same size, while size 6 x 7 No. 2 quality returned less than size 6 x 6 No. 2 quality and returned less than half the price for size 6 x 6 and larger U. S. No. 1. Similar price relationships hold for the 1955 season, as well as for the 1954 and for the 1953 season. During mid-May of the 1955 season, when f. o. b. prices of size 6 x 6 U. S. No. 1 quality ranged from $3.25 to $3.50 per 30 pound lug for mature green tomatoes the price to growers was 2 to 3½ cents per pound. Later in the season when prices were $2.75 to $3.50 f. o. b. per 30-pound lug, 6 x 6 and larger U. S. No. 1 grade, prices to growers were 1½ to 3 cents per pound. The hearing record shows the fact that similar patterns apply to the 1954 season and for the 1953 season.

The sale of cull tomatoes, the same as the sale of better quality tomatoes, has a direct effect upon the prices paid to Lower Valley tomato farmers. Some shippers do not normally sell all cull tomatoes but when such cull tomatoes are sold the prices received are substantially lower than for either No. 1 or No. 2 quality tomatoes, oftentimes returning only a salvage price. At the same time, such cull tomatoes go into commercial markets competing directly with the sale of better quality tomatoes and the sale of such cull tomatoes at the lower prices has an adverse and a depressing effect upon prices received for the better quality tomatoes and, therefore, tends to depress the prices received by growers for their tomatoes. The record shows that one shipper built up a good trade in some markets for U. S. No. 2 tomatoes, but when shipments of cull tomatoes were not prohibited and some of such poor quality tomatoes got into the markets in which the shipper was selling No. 2's, the demand for his No. 2's fell off substantially. The shipment of cull tomatoes has become a common practice since the prohibition of the movement of such quality was discontinued. Some shippers find it difficult to meet competition from cull tomatoes as long as some other shippers are allowed to sell and transport them. The record of hearing provides substantial evidence by expert witnesses that there is no place in the market for cull tomatoes from the Lower Valley and that there should be authority in the marketing order to prevent their resale and transportation because of adverse, depressing effects on prices to farmers for better grades of tomatoes.

It is also found that there is a need for a marketing agreement and order to help the industry develop orderly marketing practices that will tend to prevent abuses from overweight of containers as well as from lack of uniform sizing of tomatoes within different packs. Provision for placing competition on an even basis with respect to size among shippers is a need that will tend to promote orderly marketing of Lower Valley Texas tomatoes and will help to improve prices to farmers.

The record shows that tomato farmers and shippers in the Lower Valley of Texas have no other means of helping to promote and improve marketing conditions for their tomato crop. The need for a marketing agreement and order to assist them in promoting better marketing conditions and in increasing the prices paid to Lower Valley tomato growers for their crop is substantially shown on the basis of the record.

(3) The term "tomatoes" as used in the marketing agreement and order identifies the agricultural commodity referred to therein and distinguishes it from other agricultural commodities. The term "tomatoes" should be defined to mean all varieties of the edible fruit (lycopersicon esculentum) which are commonly referred to as tomatoes in the production area as well as throughout the United States. The definition of tomatoes as set forth in the marketing agreement and order establishes the identity of the agricultural commodity for which regulation is authorized, and establishes the commodity to which the handling activities related thereto are subject to the authority of the marketing agreement and order. Tomatoes therefore, should be defined in the marketing agreement and order to mean all varieties of tomatoes grown in the production area.

The term "production area" should be incorporated in the marketing agreement and order as a means of specifying the area within which tomatoes must be produced before the handling thereof is subject to regulation thereunder. Production area is defined to include all territory in the counties of Cameron, Hidalgo, Starr, and Willacy, in the State of Texas. "Production area", thus defined, contains all of the tomato producing counties in the lower Rio Grande Valley of Texas. Growing and climatic conditions are about the same in the four counties and there are no appreciable or sizeable acreages of tomatoes grown within approximately 150 miles of this area.

There may be minor variations in practices and methods of production, harvesting and marketing tomatoes between counties and within specific counties. Nevertheless, grading and quality standards for commercial sales are the same throughout the production area. The marketing seasons are the same as shown by the tabulation of shipments from the four counties. Each county within the production area has to share and compete in common markets at the same time. Undesirable grades, sizes, qualities and maturities of tomatoes have the same effect in the market on prices paid for Lower Valley tomatoes irrespective of the producing county.

The production area includes four counties which constitute a relatively small area bordered on the south by the Rio Grande River and Mexico on the east by the Gulf of Mexico, and which are separated from other tomato and vegetable producing sections in Texas by non-irrigated range land. The four counties differ from the surrounding counties in that the four counties have been developed for intensive farming of fruits and vegetable crops, including tomatoes, which are grown under irrigation. This section is commonly recognized as a separate and distinct production area by growers and handlers operating there, also by the produce trade in terminal markets and by official publications reporting tomato and other vegetable crops. The production area is so recognized as a distinct entity, commonly referred to as the "Lower Rio Grande Valley", or simply the "Lower Valley", because of the natural barriers of the Gulf, the international border, the insulation of range land, and the separate characteristics of the production and marketing problems encountered there by producers, the customary recognition of the four counties as a production area for tomatoes provides proper basis for the definition of production area.

Highway outlets leading out of the production area are limited to three major highways. Two to the north and one to the west. There is no reasonable method or basis of dividing the production area into two or more areas for purposes of separate marketing agreements and orders. All territory included within the boundaries of the production area constitutes the smallest regional production area that is practical and consistent with carrying out the declared policy of the act, and the production area therefore should be defined as hereinafter set forth.

(4) The terms "handler" and "shipper" are synonymous. They should be defined to identify those persons who handle tomatoes in the manner described and set forth in the definition of "handle". The definition of handler establishes and identifies the persons who are to be subject to the regulations authorized by the marketing agreement and order. Any person who is engaged in the act or acts of handling or shipping tomatoes or who causes tomatoes to be handled or shipped is a handler. Such persons are responsible for the grade, size, quality and maturity of tomatoes delivered to transportation agencies or which are transported or sold in the current of interstate or foreign commerce, or so as directly to burden, obstruct, or affect such commerce and such persons are handlers.

Common or contract carriers transporting tomatoes which are owned by another person are performing a handling function, but such handling should not be regulated under the marketing agreement and order because such carriers are not responsible for grade, size, quality and maturity of the tomatoes being transported, neither are they responsible for the introduction of such tomatoes in the stream of interstate commerce. Also, the sole interest of common or contract carriers in such tomatoes is to transport them for a service charge to destinations given by others. The person or persons delivering tomatoes to a common or contract carrier should be responsible for the grade, size, quality and maturity of such tomatoes. Therefore, the term "handler" or "shipper" should be defined to mean any person (except a common or contract carrier of tomatoes owned by another person) who handles tomatoes or causes tomatoes to be handled.

The term "handle" is defined in the marketing agreement and order to determine the particular transactions in the marketing of tomatoes, as defined herein, which fall within the authority for regulation under this program. "Handle" and "ship" are interchangeable and their definition should include the acts of selling and of moving, or otherwise transporting, tomatoes between the production area and any points outside thereof.

The great bulk of tomatoes grown in the production area is subjected, either in the field or more usually at packing houses, to grading and packing operations prior to moving to market. The tomatoes are picked by trained crews under the supervision of a grower or of a handler, i. e., packing house operator. After picking, the tomatoes are hauled to the platform of the packing house. Title to the tomatoes is usually transferred from the grower to the handler at this point. The handler takes the field-run tomatoes and runs them through the packing house for washing, grading, sizing, packing and loading. The handler makes sales, either direct to other handlers at shipping point, or to receivers or brokers in terminal markets in metropolitan or other areas outside the State or in the State. Also in some instances tomatoes are consigned to such markets.

The growing of tomatoes in the production area is a producer function and should be construed as an activity of the producer in his capacity as a producer. The harvesting of tomatoes, particularly when harvested by a crew employed by or under management of a packing house operator, also the sale or transportation of tomatoes to a packing house, i. e., to a recognized or registered handler within the production area, for grading and packing, although physically a part of a handling activity, should not be regulated under this program as such tomatoes have not yet been prepared for market. For the bulk of the tomatoes grown in and marketed from the proposed production area, the packing house operator is the handler or the person responsible for preparing the tomatoes for market and for transporting or selling the tomatoes, i. e., placing them in the channels of commerce. Compliance with the regulations which are authorized by the marketing agreement and order can readily be determined by such handler since it is he who determines the grades, sizes, packs and weights to be shipped. Of course, all subsequent handlers of such tomatoes in the production area should also have responsibility for the grade, size, quality and maturity of the tomatoes at the time such persons handle the tomatoes.

It is common practice for producers to sell or deliver their tomatoes to persons having facilities for packing and otherwise preparing the fruit for market, i. e., to persons who are generally recognized as tomato handlers. The producers, in such instances, properly rely on the persons preparing the tomatoes for market to see that the fruit which is thereafter shipped meets all applicable requirements for marketing. Thus, there should be excepted, in such instances, the movements of tomatoes from the fields to the places where the fruit will be prepared for market. It is necessary, however, to limit the scope of this exception in order to insure compliance with the regulations established under the program. Hence, it should be required that the facilities where the tomatoes are to be prepared for market be located within the production area. Otherwise, it would not be practicable for the committee to check effectively on the disposition of the tomatoes delivered to the packing facilities which did not meet the program requirements. Also, this exception should apply only in case the person engaged in the preparation of tomatoes for market has registered with the committee in accordance with such rules as it may, with the approval of the Secretary, prescribe. Registration would be necessary because some tomatoes are prepared for market in places located at or near tomato fields and it is necessary that the committee have knowledge of these locations for enforcement purposes. It is intended that the committee, under its rules, will register all handler-applicants whom it is reasonable to believe will conduct their packing and handling operations in accordance with the program requirements. It is also intended that all recognized handlers and other prospective handlers desiring to conduct their business in the usual or customary manner will register with the committee in order to enable them to obtain tomatoes without their having to meet program requirements at the time of deliveries by the producers or others.

There are some exceptions to the general rule, as outlined above, concerning handling activities for Lower Valley tomatoes. Some such tomatoes are graded and packed in the field where grown and are moved directly from the field to markets outside the production area by the producer or by truckers who purchase the tomatoes from the producer. Such persons would presumably not normally be registered handlers. However, each such sale or movement within the production area is a handling activity and, as such, makes the producer who sells the tomatoes a handler and subject to rules and regulations issued under the marketing agreement and order, because such actions place the tomatoes in the stream of commerce between the production area and points outside thereof. In like manner, the trucker who transports such tomatoes to market outside the production area also directly affects interstate commerce in tomatoes and, therefore, is subject to the terms and provisions of the marketing order.

It has been a practice in the production area to sell or to ship some tomatoes as they are picked in the field to repacking plants in the State of Texas but outside of the production area. This practice also constitutes "handling" on the part of the producer or seller. If the repacking plant, however, is located within the production area, then the operator of the repacking plant becomes the handler.

The sale or transportation of tomatoes within the production area for consumption within the production area should not be considered a handling activity under the marketing agreement and order. As there are no large population centers within the production area, such shipments are comparatively small and their regulation would be burdensome without any appreciable benefits. Also, the definition of the term "handle" does not include the sale at retail of tomatoes by a person in his capacity as a retailer.

With the exception of the activities which are specifically excluded from the definition of the term handle, all transportation and sales of tomatoes, from the time they are harvested until they move outside of the production area, should therefore be included within the definition of the terms "handle."

(5) (a) Certain terms applying to specific individuals, agencies, legislation, concepts, or things are used throughout the marketing agreement and order. Such terms should be defined for the purpose of designating specifically their applicability in establishing the approximate limitation of their respective meanings wherever they are used.

The definition of "Secretary" should include not only the Secretary of Agriculture of the United States, but also in order to recognize the fact that it is physically impossible for him to perform personally all of the functions and duties imposed upon him by law, any other officer or employee of the United States Department of Agriculture who is, or who may hereafter be authorized to act in his stead.

The definition of "Act" provides the correct legal citation for the statute pursuant to which the proposed regulatory program is to be operative. It makes it unnecessary to refer to such citation when used thereafter in the marketing agreement and order.

The definition of "person" follows the definition of that term as set forth in the act, and will insure that it will have the same meaning as when used in the act.

"Producer" should be defined to mean any person who is engaged in a proprietary capacity in the production of tomatoes within the production area, and who is producing such tomatoes for market. A definition of the term "producer" is necessary for appropriate determinations as to eligibility to vote for, and to serve as, members or alternate members of the committee and for other reasons. The term should be limited to those who have an ownership interest in tomatoes produced in the production area. It should not include laborers or others who perform work for a fee or for hire in producing tomatoes.

There was considerable discussion during the hearing with respect to the interpretation of the definition of producer particularly as such interpretation would apply to persons eligible to serve as committee members. The problem of determining who is a producer and who is not a producer for the purposes of the marketing agreement and order is affected by numerous credit and financial arrangements currently existing among persons connected with the growing and marketing of tomatoes within the production area.

A producer is any "person" who produces in a proprietory capacity tomatoes for market. Inasmuch as a person is defined as an individual, partnership, corporation, association, or any business unit, each such person establishes a legal entity. Each person or legal entity, whether an individual, partnership, joint venture, or corporation, so engaged in the production of tomatoes for market, should have one voice in selecting committee members and alternates in the district.

The term "producer" should be limited to those who have an ownership interest in the tomatoes which gives them title or authority to pass title to such tomatoes. The person who owns and farms land resulting in his ownership of the tomatoes produced on such land should clearly be considered as the producer of such tomatoes. The same is true with respect to the person who rents and farms land resulting in his ownership of all or a portion of the tomatoes produced thereon. Likewise a person who owns land which he does not farm but as rental for such land obtains the ownership of a portion of the tomatoes produced thereon should be regarded as a producer of that portion received as rent and the tenant on such land should be regarded as a producer of the remaining portion produced on such land. In each of the above situations where the person acquires ownership of all of the particular tomatoes such person regardless of whether he is an individual, partnership, association, corporation or other business unit should be considered as one producer and entitled to one vote. However, in cases where the ownership is divided, that is where one person obtains ownership of only a portion of the particular production and another person obtains ownership of the other portion of such production, such as a landlord-tenant relationship, each such person should be considered as a producer and entitled to one vote. However, in the case of a partnership, the partnership must vote as a unit.

The most common type of partnership appears to be the arrangement whereby one person puts up all or part of the capital and the other contributes machinery or skill, or both. Another arrangement provides that one person is responsible for selling the crop and another in growing and harvesting the tomatoes. Capital, machinery and labor may be contributed in varying degrees by each of the partners. The partnership, however, is an entity and under the definition of "producer" should have only one vote, the same as an individual or corporation. Any action with respect to such an organization regarding voting matters depends, therefore, on the partnership agreement and action by the partners pursuant thereto, irrespective of whether the partnership is composed of individuals, corporations, or combinations thereof.

Persons engaged in tomato growing operations and paid for their services on a wage or per unit of production basis should not have a producer status in the marketing agreement and order if such persons do not have title to any of the tomatoes.

"Grading" or "preparation for market" are interchangeable and means the sorting of tomatoes by hand or mechanical means, or both, so that such tomatoes are separated into grades, sizes, maturities and packs. Such classifications are determined by the handler who directs, in person or through his agent, how and in what number of classes a particular lot of tomatoes should be separated. Grading may vary from an operation performed entirely by hand in which certain tomatoes are picked out when they are being loaded at the field to a production line operation. In the latter method tomatoes are carried by mechanical conveyor through the grading operation. They are first washed and waxed. They are then carried to a series of movnig belts and tables where sizes are determined and good quality, as represented by grades, sizes, and maturities, or any combination thereof, is separated from bad. It is in this operation where the tomatoes which should go to preferred price outlets are separated from those going to discounted price outlets. "Grading" or "preparation for market" is an operation which applies to all tomatoes grown in the production area even though the extent to which tomatoes are separated into market classes may vary considerably among the types of outlets.

Definitions of "grade" and "size" are incorporated in the marketing agreement and order to enable persons affected thereby to determine the basis for application of grading and size limitations to the products they handle. "Grade" and "size", the essential terms in which regulations are issued, should be defined as encompassing the meanings assigned to these terms in the official United States Standards for Fresh Tomatoes issued by the United States Department of Agriculture and to modifications or amendments of such standards and to variations of such standards by regulations under the marketing agreement and order. Regulations under the order can then incorporate such terms (grade, size and maturity) with the constant meaning assigned thereto in such standards or in such modified or amended standards. Also, such regulations can vary such terms by prescribing, for example a percentage of grade. Official inspectors are qualified to certify to the grade, size, and maturity of tomatoes grown in the production area under the terms of the aforesaid standards or modification or amendment based thereon.

"Grade" and "size" should also be defined as comprehending the equivalents of the meanings assigned these terms in the official United States Consumer Standards for Fresh Tomatoes issued by the United States Department of Agriculture and to modifications or amendments to such standards and variations of such standards by regulations under the marketing agreement and order. The United States Standards for Fresh Tomatoes are generally used for shipments of tomatoes from the production area. However, with the increase in importance of tube packing in the shipment of "pinks" from the production area the use of the United States Consumer Standards for Fresh Tomatoes may become more customary and they should be available as a basis for regulation under the marketing agreement and order.

"Pack" should be defined as a basis for distinguishing the various units in which tomatoes are prepared for market, and shipped. The term "pack" is commonly used throughout the tomato trade and refers to a combination of factors relating to grade, size, and maturity of tomatoes and frequently to quantity and type of container. For example, U. S. No. 1 grade tomatoes, 6x6's, when put in 60 pound wire bound crates may be referred to as a specific pack. U. S. No. 2, 6x7's, also may be termed as a specific pack and with additional differentiation when packed in lugs or other various types of containers. The term "pack" should mean any pack of tomatoes as set forth in the United States Standards for Fresh Tomatoes and, in addition, it should include any other packs recommended by the committee and approved by the Secretary. Since some Texas tomatoes are "jumble" packed as opposed to the "place pack," the committee should be permitted under its rules and regulations to define and establish such packs in terms of size tolerances, grades allowed, weight of contents, and maturity in their relationship to the unit being marketed, in addition to United States Standard packs as set forth in the official standards.

"Maturity" should be defined as set forth in the marketing agreement and order. Although the bulk of Texas tomatoes are marketed as "mature greens," "pink" and "vine ripened" tomatoes are assuming an important place in the market. The application of different maturity stages to any regulations recommended by the committee would permit a basis for different regulations for mature green tomatoes and for those with a greater degree of maturity. Mature green tomatoes are considered by many handlers as more firm and less susceptible to bruising, growth cracks, and other injury or defects, than are tomatoes shipped as "pinks" or "vine-ripened" which are in later stages of maturity. Inspectors are qualified to inspect and certify for any maturity level which may be recommended by the committee.

The term "container" should be defined in the marketing agreement and order to mean a box, bag, crate, hamper, basket, package, tube, or any other type of receptacle which may be used in the packaging, transportation, sale, shipment, or other handling of tomatoes. The definition of the term is needed to serve as a basis for differentiation among the various shipping receptacles in which tomatoes are sold or moved to market for which different regulation could be applicable.

The term "varieties" is included in the marketing agreement and order so that the committee may recognize the real differences and characteristics of different varieties and different types of tomatoes, and the differences in types of regulations which might be considered and recommended therefor. The principal variety grown at the present time for the spring deal is the Rutgers. The Grothen Globe is the leading fall crop variety. However, new varieties, such as the Weshaven and the Valiant, which differ in some respects from the aforementioned varieties, are increasing in importance. Also, there is an increase in marketing different types of tomatoes grown in the production area. For example, the "mature greens" are the most important type, but "pinks" and "stemmed" tomatoes are increasing in importance. The means set forth in the definition of varieties is appropriate for determining different varieties or types of tomatoes grown in the production area so that a basis for regulating some and not regulating others may be established.

The definition "committee" is incorporated in the marketing agreement and order to identify the administrative agency which is responsible for assisting the Secretary in the administration of the program. Such committee is authorized by the act and the definition thereof minimizes the use of words in referring to the administrative agency in the marketing agreement and order.

A definition of "fiscal period" should be incorporated in the marketing agreement and order to establish the beginning and ending of a suitable period for fiscal accounting. Such period was set forth in the notice of hearing as "beginning August 1 and ending July 31 following." However, it was testified at the hearing that the orginally proposed beginning and ending dates would not be satisfactory. While two crops of tomatoes are normally produced in the production area, i. e., a fall crop and a spring crop, the regulation of the fall crop does not appear to be likely at any time in the near future. It was also agreed that the fiscal period should begin reasonably near to the time when it is anticipated that active regulation of the commodity will commence in order to insure that collections will be made in adequate amounts to cover the costs of operations so that at the beginning of each season monthly deficits caused by operating costs can be avoided as much as possible. This undesirable result should be avoided by fixing the beginning of the fiscal period reasonably near the beginning of active regulation, which at this time would presumably be the time of the handling of the spring crop. It seemed to be generally agreed that an appropriate time for such period at the present time would be to have it begin on March 1 and end on the last day of the following February and it is concluded that such beginning and ending dates should be the ones adopted for initial use.

However, it is possible that, at some future date, it will be deemed to be desirable to regulate the fall crop. Also, it has happened in some years that shipments from the spring crop are made before March 1. Such shipments are known to have been made as soon as the early part of January. Because of the continuing desirability of starting the fiscal period as close as reasonably practicable to the beginning of active regulation, some latitude should be given for changing the beginning and ending dates to meet changed circumstances, such as those indicated in the two preceding sentences. This latitude would be afforded by the addition of an authorization in the definition for changing of the beginning and ending dates by the Secretary pursuant to the recommendation of the committee.

"District" should be defined in the marketing agreement and order as referring to each of the geographical sections or divisions of the production area either as initially established or as later reestablished in order to provide a basis for the nomination and selection of committee members for regulatory purposes. The proposed division into districts is adequate and equitable, and it provides a practical basis for the purposes for which intended.

"Export" should be defined in the marketing agreement and order as any shipment of tomatoes beyond the boundaries of the continental United States. Separate treatment for export shipments may be necessary because the requirements of certain export markets may differ from those of the domestic market and therefore different or special regulations or even no regulations may be justified with respect to such shipments. It is found from the evidence that Lower Valley tomato producers and handlers customarily consider an important distinction between such export markets as Canada and Mexico. Authority should be provided to permit different regulations for each of these markets, as well as for other markets, as circumstances may warrant. Territories and possessions of the United States should be included under the term "export" because any shipments to such markets would tend to satisfy a different type of demand than domestic shipments.

(b) The marketing agreement and order should provide for the selection by the Secretary of an administrative committee, called the Texas Valley Tomato Committee, composed of nine producer members of whom at least four should be producer-handlers. Establishment of this committee would be desirable and necessary to aid the Secretary in carrying out the declared policy of the act. The establishment of such a committee is authorized by the act. The notice of hearing provided for an administrative committee composed of nine producer members. It was testified that such a number had been generally agreed upon by the industry as being the least number of members which could represent properly all segments of the production area. Because practically all handlers of tomatoes in the Lower Valley are also producers, the proponents did not believe it was necessary to specify that a certain number of committee members should be handlers. However, evidence was introduced at the hearing to the effect that the Committee membership should include producer-handlers so that committee deliberations would be assured of the benefit of the handlers' experience in the marketing of tomatoes and their knowledge of market conditions. While the original proposal, as set forth in the notice of hearing, did not exclude producer-handlers, the evidence was such that the marketing agreement and order should specify that a certain percentage of the membership be producer-handlers to insure that such persons are named to the committee. Testimony as to the desirable number of producer-handler members related both to four and to five. Since the primary purpose of the program is to improve marketing conditions for Lower Valley tomatoes so that farmers' prices will be raised towards parity, the provision that each committee member and alternate must be a producer of such tomatoes and at least four of such members must be producer-handlers, should help to promote the objectives of the act. Inasmuch as alternates serve for their respective members in the event of the absence or disqualification of the latter, it should also be required that at least four of the nine alternate members shall be producer-handlers. This plan of representation should provide adequate and equitable representation of the tomato grower and handler interests in the Lower Valley and such producer-handler representation should help to insure comprehensive coverage of tomato marketing problems.

Each person selected as a member of the committee should be a producer or an officer, or employee of a producer, of tomatoes in the district for which selected, and should also be a resident of the production area. "Producer" is proposed to be defined as meaning any person engaged in a proprietary capacity in the production of tomatoes for market. "Person" is proposed to be defined as meaning an individual, partnership, corporation, association, or any other business unit. In addition to the qualifications for producers, producer-handler members should be persons engaged in packing and shipping tomatoes grown in the production area, or persons who are officers or employees of a producer-handler. It was testified that cooperative associations of tomato producers operate in the area by marketing tomatoes for their grower members. It is appropriate that an officer or employee of such a cooperative will be deemed to be eligible to serve as a producer-handler member or alternate member of the committee. Therefore, the requirement that a producer or producer-handler member of the committee should be a producer or producer-handler or an officer or employee of a producer or a producer-handler should not exclude any qualified individuals from serving on the committee. A person with such qualifications should be intimately acquainted with problems of producing and/or marketing tomatoes grown in the production area and each may be expected to present accurately the problems incident to production or marketing of tomatoes grown in his district. Qualifications for each alternate should obviously be the same as for the respective member for whom he may act. Such qualifications should help to assure that the interests of the group from which each is selected will be adequately represented in committee deliberation.

Each committee member and his respective alternate should serve for a one-year term of office ending as of July 31 and for any additional period needed for the selection and qualification of his successor. Such a term of office is reasonable and will allow the tomato industry to express its approval or disapproval of the committee membership at the end of any season and prior to beginning a new season. August 1 is an appropriate date for the beginning of a term of office because it is between the end of the spring growing season and the beginning of the fall growing season. In addition, no shipments of tomatoes grown in the production area are being made at that time of the year. By beginning the term of office on August 1, each new committee will be authorized to start its term between the end of an old season and the beginning of a new. Committee members and alternates should be selected for the term of office during which they are to serve and until their successors are selected and have qualified in order to insure continuity of committee operation.

Districts should be established to provide a basis for the selection of committee members. The districts as initially established were worked out by the industry and they represent the best basis which could be devised at this time for providing a fair, adequate and equitable representation on the committee.

The proposed production area comprises four counties to be divided into four districts, one for each county. These districts are logical and desirable, because county lines are well defined, and producers and handlers are familiar with such county boundaries. Each person qualified for voting can easily establish the county within which his holdings are located.

The provision for redistricting is desirable because it allows the committee to consider from time to time whether the basis for representation could be improved and how such improvement should be made. The guides, as set forth in the marketing agreement and order, which the committee should keep in mind in considering redistricting are appropriate and desirable points of reference that relate directly to the welfare of the tomato industry.

It is practical and equitable that selection of committee members and alternates should be on a geographical basis such as the districts provided for in the marketing agreement and order. Such geographical basis should be, and for purposes of initial membership has been, related to the number of producers in the production of tomatoes within the production area so that a practical basis for establishing equity has been reached.

Procedure for the election of nominees by producers and producer-handlers for membership on the committee should be prescribed in the marketing agreement and order. Such provisions will provide the Secretary with assistance by the tomato industry in selecting members and alternates for the committee. Nomination of prospective members and alternates at meetings of producers and producer-handlers in the respective districts is the customary and practical method of providing the Secretary with the names of persons whom the industry desires to serve on the committee. In order to obtain an indication of the industry's preference for membership on the initial committee, meetings of producers and producer-handlers should be sponsored by the United States Department of Agriculture or by any agency or group requested to do so by the Department. This sponsorship should provide a practical and appropriate means for the industry to express its wishes and preferences with respect to committee membership, inasmuch as no committee would be in existence to assume such responsibility at that time.

Nomination meetings for succeeding members and alternates on the committee should be called by the committee, because it is practical, proper, and appropriate that the responsibility for calling nomination meetings for succeeding members should rest with the committee as the administrative agency for program operations. The committee should also be permitted to utilize the services of other agencies, such as, but not limited to, Extension Service representatives, to assist in conducting such nomination meetings.

It is appropriate and proper that the committee should be required to hold nominations for successor members and alternates not later than June 15th of each year, since the term of office of committee members and alternates is proposed to begin as of August 1 of each year. Nomination meetings for such successor members and alternates should be held in sufficient time to assure that nominations will be forwarded to the Secretary in time for him to make his selections prior to the beginning of each new term of office.

If the committee wishes to hold nomination meetings in connection with other meetings that are conducted on tomatoes in any or all districts, it is appropriate and proper that such nomination meetings may be so held. If on the other hand, the committee wishes to hold separate nomination meetings it is a matter of judgment and responsibility which should properly fall within the judgment of committee members.

At least two nominees should be designated for each position as member and each position as alternate, so that the Secretary will have a choice in making his selections. It is appropriate, and the marketing agreement and order should provide, that producers and producer-shippers voting at such industry meetings may ballot for nominees to indicate the ranking of their choice for each position to be filled. Nomination lists should be supplied to the Secretary not later than July 15, of each year, so that the Secretary may have sufficient time in which to select committee members prior to the beginning of the succeeding term of office.

Only producers and producer-handlers should participate in nominating members and alternates for the committee, because they are the persons who will be concerned with program operations and the persons whom the program will be designed to benefit.

If a person produces tomatoes in more than one district, such person should select the district in which he wishes to cast his vote for nominees on the committee. Any other procedure would give such persons a greater voice than other producers in the nomination of committee members.

Each producer or producer-handler participating in the industry meetings for the election of nominees to the committee should be limited to one vote on behalf of himself, his agents, subsidiaries, affiliates, or representatives. Voting on any other basis would not provide for equitable representation, because it would give producers and producer-handlers with interests in more than one district a greater voice in the election of nominees than such persons operating in only one district. The limitation of each producer's or producer-handler's right to cast one vote on behalf of himself should be construed to mean that one vote may be cast for each position which is to be filled. For example, if there are three members to be nominated from a district and three alternates to be nominated from such district, then each grower should be privileged to cast one vote for each member position and one vote for each alternate position. Such votes should be cast only in the district in which a producer or producer-shipper elects to vote. Each producer or producer-shipper presumably is interested in nominating well qualified prospective members and their interest is to be expressed in the district where they consider their major interest exists. It is presumed also that such producers and producer-handlers are dependent on tomatoes for an important part of their income. It is only fair that each grower should have the same voice in electing each person who will represent his district on the committee.

It is also desirable and necessary that the Secretary should be authorized to fill committee vacancies without regard to nominations if the names of nominees to fill any such vacancy are not made available to the Secretary within 30 days after such vacancy occurs. This provision is intended to insure continuity in case the industry fails to forward nominations to the Secretary in time for the selection to be made. The Secretary should have recourse to such means of filling vacancies in order to maintain continuity of administrative agency operation and to insure that all portions in the production area are equitably represented in the conduct of committee business. In order that there will be an administrative agency at all times to administer the marketing agreement and order, the Secretary should be authorized to select committee members and alternates without regard to nominations if for any reason nominations are not submitted to him in conformance with the prescribed procedure. Such selection should be on the basis of the representation provided in the marketing agreement and order so that the composition of the committee will continue as prescribed.

Each person selected by the Secretary as a committee member or alternate should qualify by filing with the Secretary written acceptance of his willingness and intention to serve in such capacity. Such requirement is necessary so that the Secretary will have definite knowledge as to whether or not the position has been filled. In order to prevent excessive delay in obtaining full membership on the committee such acceptance should be filed within 10 days after notification of appointment.

An alternate member should be authorized to act in the place and stead of the member for whom he is an alternate in such member's temporary absence. An alternate should be authorized to act in a member's absence when such absence is due to death, removal, resignation, or the disqualification of the member. Alternates acting in the place and stead of members should continue to act in such capacity until the successor for the member has been selected and has qualified. This would assure continuity of the marketing agreement and order operations, prevent the committee from being without sufficient members to carry on its business, and assure adequate representation from all districts at committee meetings.

At least six of the nine members of the committee should be necessary to constitute a quorum. This would require a two-thirds majority of the committee membership and should provide ample representation from each district. Six concurring votes should also be necessary to pass any committee action at an assembled meeting. Two-thirds majority of the committee membership for a quorum and for approval of any committee action is deemed reasonable and provides a basis for adequately reflecting industry thinking in marketing problems. At assembled meetings all votes should be cast in person so the participating members will have the benefit of the discussion when casting their votes, and also to encourage members to attend assembled meetings.

The committee should have the authority to hold meetings by telephone, telegraph, or other means of communication because marketing conditions affecting tomatoes often change rapidly and it may be necessary for the committee to take speedy action which would be delayed by calling an assembled meeting. Any vote cast at such a meeting should be confirmed promptly in writing in order to provide a written record of the votes so cast. In addition any action taken as a result of a vote at an unassembled meeting should be unanimous, because members will not have the opportunity for discussion at such meetings. If a question should be so controversial that there is not unanimity of opinion, an assembled meeting should be held so the matter can be fully discussed.

Committee members and alternates should be reimbursed for necessary expenses incurred in the performance of services to the committee. Such expenses will necessarily be incurred in attending meetings in connection with the marketing agreement and order, or in performing duties for the committee outside the committee meetings. Such expenses might include travel, meals, hotel accommodations, and similar expenses. In other words, they should include actual expenses reasonably necessary to be incurred in the performance of duties in connection with the marketing agreement and order, but should not include per diem reimbursement for time involved.

The committee should be given those specific powers which are set forth in section 8c (7) (C) of the act. Such powers are authorized to be granted by the enabling statutory authority and they are necessary for an agency of the character set forth in the marketing agreement and order to function properly.

The committee's proposed duties, as set forth in the marketing agreement and order, are necessary for the discharge of its responsibilities. The duties established for the committee are generally similar to those specified for administrative agencies under other programs of this character. It is intended that any activities undertaken by members or alternates of the committee will be necessary for the committee to carry out its responsibilities as prescribed in the marketing agreement and order. It should be recognized that these specified duties are not necessarily all inclusive in that it may develop that there are other duties which are incidental to and not inconsistant with the terms and conditions of the marketing agreement and order and which the committee may also need to perform.

(c) The committee should be authorized to incur such expenses as the Secretary finds are reasonable and likely to be incurred by it during each fiscal period for the maintenance and functioning of such committee and for such other purposes as the Secretary may determine to be appropriate pursuant to the provisions of the marketing agreement and order. Expenses so incurred should be shared by handlers on the basis of the ratio of each handler's total shipments under regulation to the total shipments under regulation by all handlers during a specified fiscal period. Tomatoes grown in the Lower Valley involve two separate crops. In addition to the principal late spring crop, a fall crop is grown which the industry may not wish to regulate during some seasons. In this connection, it was testified that the fall crop has, for various reasons, been diminishing in importance during recent seasons and, at the present time, represents a comparatively small percentage of the total production. It is obvious that, in any season when the fall crop is not regulated, the producers and handlers of that crop would not share in the benefits of the proposed program and that, in such circumstances, it would be inequitable to require the tomatoes from such crop to bear any part of the program expenses. On the other hand, during any fiscal period when the fall crop is regulated, the tomatoes from that crop should bear their proportionate part of the program expenses. It is believed that the indicated objectives for the proration of program expenses could be equitably achieved by imposing assessments only on tomatoes which are shipped under regulation. Under such a method, the fall crop would be assessed only in the event it was regulated. The basis for determination of the ratio of shipments by individual handlers subject to assessments should be based upon the total shipments of regulated tomatoes by first handlers thereof.

The committee should be required to prepare a budget at the beginning of each fiscal period, and as often as may be necessary thereafter, showing estimates of income and expenditures necessary for the administration of the marketing agreement and order for such a period. Each such budget should be presented to the Secretary with an analysis of its components and explanation thereof. It is desirable that the committee should recommend to the Secretary the rate of assessment designed to bring in during each fiscal period or period of regulation sufficient income to cover expenses incurred by the committee.

The funds to cover the expenses of the committee should be obtained by levying assessments on handlers. The act specifically authorizes the Secretary to approve the incurring of such expenses by administrative agencies such as the Texas Valley Tomato Committee and the statute also requires that each marketing agreement and order issued pursuant to the act should contain provisions requiring each handler to pay his pro rata share of the necessary expenses. Moreover, in order to assure continuance of the committee, the payment of assessments by handlers should be permitted to be required irrespective of whether particular provisions of the marketing agreement are suspended, or become inoperative.

Each handler should pay the committee upon demand his pro rata share of such reasonable expenses which the Secretary finds will be necessary by the committee in each fiscal period. As indicated above, such pro rata share of expenses in the present situation should be equal to the ratio between the total quantity of tomatoes under regulation handled by him as the first handler thereof during the period of regulation and the total quantity of tomatoes under regulation handled by all handlers during the same period. It is necessary that the responsibility for the payment of the assessment on each lot of tomatoes be fixed and it is logical, proper, and equitable to impose such liability on the first handler of such tomatoes. In most instances the first handler and the applicant for inspection are the same person. However, in the event the first handler fails to apply for and obtain inspection, this does not in any way cancel his obligation with respect to the payment of assessments.

Assessment rates should be recommended by the committee and applied by the Secretary to a specific unit of shipment. For example assessment rates may apply to carlot shipments or they may be applied to a crate, lug, or to any other unit of shipment commonly used in the marketing of tomatoes grown in the production area. However, such assessments for a fiscal period should be applied on a uniform rate basis.

At any time during, or subsequent to, a given fiscal period the committee should be authorized to recommend the approval of an amended budget and the fixing of an increased rate of assessment to balance necessary committee expenses and revenues. Upon the basis of such recommendations, or other available information, the Secretary should be authorized to approve amended budgets, and if he finds that the then current rate of assessment is insufficient to cover committee administration of the marketing agreement and order, he should be authorized to increase the rate of assessment. The marketing agreement and order should authorize the application of such increased rate of assessment to all tomatoes previously handled by first handlers during the specified period so as to avoid inequities among handlers.

Funds received by the committee pursuant to the levying of assessments should be used solely for the purpose of administration of the marketing agreement and order, including appropriate research and development projects. The committee should be required to maintain books and records clearly reflecting the true up-to-date operations of its affairs so that its administration may be subject to inspection at any time by appropriate parties. Each member and each alternate as well as employees, agents, and other persons working for, or on behalf of, the committee should be required to account for all receipts and disbursements, funds, property, or records for which they are responsible and the Secretary should have the authority at any time to ask for such accounting. Whenever any person ceases to be a member of the committee he should be required to account for all receipts, disbursements, funds, property, books, records, and other committee assets for which he is responsible. Such person should also be prepared to execute assignments or such other instruments which may be appropriate to vest in his successor or agency or person designated by the Secretary the right to all such property and all claims vested in such person.

Any committee member, however, or any personnel responsible for committee funds or assets should be covered by an appropriate fidelity bond. Such requirement is a common sound business practice that should be followed by the committee and should be required of all persons handling committee funds.

If the committee should recommend that the operations of the marketing agreement and order should be suspended or if no regulation should be in effect for a part or all of the marketing season the committee should be authorized to recommend as a practical measure that one or more of its members or any other person should be designated by the Secretary to act as a trustee or trustees during such period. This would provide a practical method whereby the the committee's business affairs could be taken care of during periods of relative inactivity with a minimum of difficulty and expense to the industry and to the Secretary.

The committee should provide periodic reports on its fiscal operations. It is expected that audit reports shall be requested by the Secretary at appropriate times such as at the end of each marketing season or at such other times as might be necessary to maintain appropriate supervision and control of the committee's affairs. Handlers should be entitled to a proportionate refund of the excess assessments which remain at the end of a fiscal period or at the end of such other period as may be deemed appropriate by reason of suspension or termination. Such refund should be credited to each such handler against the operations of the following fiscal period unless he should demand payment thereof in which event such proportionate refund shall be paid to him.

If and when the committee is required to wind up its affairs upon termination of a marketing agreement and order authorizing such agency, considerable expense is involved in the liquidation process. It is appropriate, therefore, that if funds, which are in excess of those necessary for payment of expenditures during such period, remain at the end of a fiscal period. Some of such funds should be carried over into subsequent fiscal periods as a reserve for possible liquidation. Such reserve should be maintained for the purpose of helping to cover the expenses of final liquidation in the event that the marketing agreement and order are terminated. It is not anticipated that any such reserve will be accumulated in an amount in excess of what might be the reasonable cost of such liquidation action.

Any funds remaining after liquidation has been effected should be refunded to handlers on a pro rata basis. In some cases, however, individual handlers' accounts may be so small it would be impractical because of the costs involved to make such refunds. The committee should be permitted to use funds of such insignificant nature for purposes of liquidation.

(d) The establishment or provision for the establishment of marketing research and development projects designed to assist, improve, or promote the marketing, distribution, and consumption of tomatoes was authorized by amendments to the act in Public Law 690 known as the Agricultural Act of 1954, enacted by the 83d Congress. Such authorization should be included in the marketing agreement and order.

Research projects with respect to market development, transportation, handling methods, containers, and studies on the relative merits of different stages of maturity at which tomatoes are marketed could be of considerable value to the committee, with respect to the recommendation of regulations, and to the industry in general. It was testified at the hearing that the tomato industry in the Lower Rio Grande Valley could improve its methods with respect to grading, packing, shipping, and harvesting, so that the product offered to the consumer will receive better acceptance and thereby increase returns to tomato growers.

As the industry and the committee become more aware of the value of and need for marketing research and development, other projects will undoubtedly be initiated which may not be apparent early in committee operations. Therefore, the committee should have the authority to recommend the establishment of such projects which are in the best interests of tomato marketing, and which will assist, improve, and promote the marketing, distribution, and consumption of Lower Rio Grande Valley tomatoes. The committee should be authorized to engage in or contract for such projects, spend funds for such purpose, and consult and cooperate with other agencies with regard to their establishment. All such projects should receive prior approval by the Secretary in order to insure that such projects properly come within the purview of the indicated statutory authority.

(e) The declared policy of the act is to establish and maintain such orderly marketing conditions for tomatoes, among other commodities, as will tend to establish parity prices for such tomatoes. The regulation of the handling of tomatoes by grade, size, quality, or maturity as proposed to be authorized in the marketing agreement and order should provide a means of carrying out such policy and is one of the methods authorized by the act (in section 8c (6)) for achieving that objective.

The proposed marketing agreement and order outline certain procedures and methods for the development and institution of marketing policies relating to grade, size, quality, or maturity regulations. Such procedures and methods should provide a practical basis for the committee to obtain appropriate and adequate information relating to tomato marketing problems. A marketing policy is essential each season to provide an overall plan or policy for the committee and the industry with respect to the marketing of tomatoes grown in the area during the marketing season. A marketing policy should indicate to all producers and handlers the general outlook or plan the committee intends to follow in recommending regulations with respect to tomatoes covered by the marketing agreement and order. It would also provide information to handlers so that they may make adequate preparations with respect to anticipated regulations.

In order that the Secretary may carry out effectively his responsibilities in connection with the proposed marketing agreement and order the committee should prepare and submit to the Department of Agriculture a report on each proposed marketing policy statement or amendments thereof, relating to the marketing of tomatoes during each season. The initial marketing policy offered each season by the committee should be prepared and submitted to the Secretary prior to, or simultaneous with its initial recommendations for regulations. This should help to give all interested parties maximum notice of probable regulations. Reports on marketing policy and regulations recommended should be submitted to the Secretary and presented to the industry by the committee.

The factors set forth in the marketing agreement and order which the committee should take into consideration in developing its marketing policy are those commonly and usually taken into account by the industry in its day-to-day evaluation of the market outlook with respect to tomatoes. They are adequate and proper for the intended purposes. Limitation of the handling of poorer grades, off-qualities, and less desirable sizes and maturities of tomatoes grown in the production area should tend to increase prices of more desirable grades, qualities, sizes and maturities and thereby increase returns to producers of such tomatoes. The standards for fresh tomatoes issued by the United States Department of Agriculture would provide a common and acceptable means of determining grades, sizes, qualities, and maturities of tomatoes handled under the marketing agreement and order. Such standards are widely used throughout the area and both producers and shipping point handlers, as well as buyers, are generally acquainted with such standards and commonly use them in their market transactions. Authority should be provided for limiting the grade, size, or quality of tomatoes which may be placed in any given pack or container. Tomatoes affected by numerous serious defects may be of such low market quality that they do not qualify as any established grade under the United States Standards for Fresh Tomatoes. Such low grade tomatoes are officially referred to as "unclassified" and in trade parlance as "culls". Some tomatoes, although qualifying for an official United States grade may be of lower quality than the U. S. No. 1 or better grade, and sell at substantial discount from No. 1 or better grade. Similarly, certain smaller sizes, such as 6 x 7 and 7 x 7, sell at discounts from larger sizes, such as 6 x 6 and larger. The discounted grades and sizes are commonly referred to in the Lower Valley tomato trade as the poorer stock. The limitation of the handling by restricting movement of poorer grades, off-qualities, and less desirable sizes of tomatoes will help to improve orderly marketing conditions for such tomatoes by enhancing the long run demand for, and the competitive position of, tomatoes grown in the production area.

The orderly marketing of tomatoes grown in the production area will be promoted and farmers' returns will tend to be increased toward parity by authorizing regulation of the handling of particular grades, sizes, qualities, or packs of tomatoes differently for different varieties, differently for different stages of maturity, differently for different portions of the production area, differently for different containers, differently for different purposes for which modification or suspension of regulations may be applied, or differently for any combination of these groups during any period.

The hearing record shows that certain markets in Texas, Dallas and Houston in particular, do not readily accept the better grades of tomatoes because of the culls which were commonly sold on such markets. When culls appear in appreciable quantity on such markets terminal market receivers resist buying No. 1 or No. 2 grade tomatoes except at cull prices. Because of these experiences most shippers do not try to sell better grades in these Texas markets.

Farmers' prices for the better grades of tomatoes were much greater than for the poorer grades. The hearing record shows that, in an example offered by a competent witness, farmers received only 42 percent of the U. S. No. 1 price for U. S. No. 2 grades of the same sizes. Returns from culls were so low that they were used for overall operation of the organization. Another shipper testified that last season, according to his records, U. S. No. 2 tomatoes usually returned about 50 percent of the U. S. No. 1 price for tomatoes of the same sizes. Culls were sold at the packaging house and usually returned less than five percent of the U. S. No. 1 prices for all sizes, and less than ten percent of the U. S. No. 2 prices.

The marketing agreement and order should include authority for regulating differently for different sizes of tomatoes. Evidence shows there is a variance in the Valley with respect to sizing at the present time. Some shippers, for example, will include some 6x6 size tomatoes in 6x7 packs in order to gain a slight competitive advantage over other shippers. The competing shippers then adopt the same practice or include even larger sizes. This results in a confused market which works to the disadvantage of the tomato industry in the Valley and reduces farmers' tomato prices. A receiver does not know exactly what sizes he will receive especially if he is buying from more than one shipper. This confusion has a depressing effect on the market which is in turn reflected on prices received by growers. Such practices affect growers' prices to a greater extent when growers are selling to shippers on a pack-out basis. For example, a grower receives a lower 6 x 7 price for the proportions of higher priced 6 x 6 tomatoes put into a pack marked and sold as 6 x 7 pack. The record shows that uniform sizing, if required under the marketing agreement and order, should help to restore confidence on the part of buyers with respect to sizes ordered and received, should tend to stabilize the market for particular sizes, and should eliminate the price-depressing factors which adversely affect growers' prices, thereby promoting more orderly marketing and tending to increase farmers' prices toward parity.

Demand for different varieties of tomatoes establishes price preferences for different grades or sizes or both of such varieties. For example, evidence shows the demand for "pink" and for "stemmed" tomatoes differed from the demand for mature greens. Stemmed tomatoes will return more per pound than mature greens and in some cases are generally of poorer quality, when judged by existing United States Standards, then the mature greens, in that they have more exterior defects. New varieties are being tried in the production area particularly with respect to the production of pink or stemmed tomatoes which may require differences in the application of regulations with respect thereto. There are also difference in varieties now grown in the production area. The Grothen Globe is a good example. This variety differs from other varieties, particularly the Rutgers, because it sometimes runs into difficulty in making grade because of shape. The authority to limit the grade and size of Lower Valley tomatoes differently for different varieties or types should include the authority for distinguishing between types of tomatoes as they are marketed. Such various types may include tomatoes with stems on, as distinguished from stemless tomatoes. The difference in market acceptability of such tomatoes, as well as differences involved in physical handling and packing, provides a factual basis for market distinctions which should be recognized in the marketing agreement and order.

Different regulations in terms of different stages of maturity will enable the committee to adjust its recomendations to meet different marketing problems. With the increasing importance of the "packing house pink or vine-ripened deals," repacking operations within the area may increase, which would necessitate consideration by the committee. The preference in Texas markets for more mature fruit than is ordinarily moved to out-of-state outlets is another factual basis for inclusion of this type of authority in the marketing agreement and order.

Unusual weather conditions may arise during the crop year in one portion of the crop area as compared with other portions of such area. This possibility is particularly true with respect to such natural phenomena as hail, wind, and rain storms. Hazards of this nature are obviously beyond the control or reasonable expectation of growers in such localities. Because of these circumstances and to provide equity among producers and handlers as far as regulations under the marketing agreement and order are concerned, authority should be provided for the committee to consider such differences and make appropriate recommendations in that regard and for the Secretary to issue different regulations to accommodate any such differences in the crop arising out of actions beyond human control. Any differences in regulations within the production area should be limited to taking care of natural disasters, as above indicated, and appropriate consideration should be given in recommending or issuing any such regulations to the administrative problems that would be involved. Such authority should provide for regulating in any or all portions of the production area or differently for different portions of the production area. It is contemplated however, that any such relaxation will still require that the tomatoes shipped be the best quality available.

The marketing agreement and order should authorize the regulation of packs and should also authorize different regulations for specific packs. The standard packs, as specified in the United States Standards for Fresh Tomatoes, have been in common use by the Lower Valley tomato industry for years. However, in recent seasons there has been a trend toward "jumble" packs, which are packs without any particular arrangement of individual fruit. The need may arise whereby the committee would desire to establish the kind of packs in which the handling thereof may be permitted. It is presumed that the establishment and definition of such packs, to be set forth in rules and regulations, will spell out the grade and ranges of sizes permitted to be handled in conjunction with specified containers. Certain combinations of grade, size, and containers (which factors constitute packs) should be kept out of specified market channels when so recommended by the committee and limited by order of the Secretary, because of the adverse effect such packs have upon returns received by farmers for the tomatoes. For example, certain grades, sizes, qualities or maturities of tomatoes in certain containers should be withheld from certain outlets because such packs would reach destination in condition tending to demoralize the prices for tomatoes in superior packs and conditions. The committee should be empowered to recommend both maximum and minimum sizes and minimum grades with respect to the handling of certain packs. The marketing agreement and order should authorize different regulations for different packs so that this part of the marketing agreement and order program may help to assist the industry in furthering present merchandising approaches when deemed sound by the committee and when justified by marketing conditions.

The marketing agreement and order should permit regulations differently for different types of containers. The establishment of such regulation is authorized by virtue of an amendment to the act of Public Law 690, known as the Agricultural Act of 1954, enacted by the 83rd Congress. Principal types and sizes of containers in current use for the handling of tomatoes within the production area are the 60-pound wire bound crate, and the 30-pound lug. Other types of containers, such as a 20-pound fiber board box, are used to a lesser extent. A small volume of individual consumer size cartons or tubes containing 3 or 4 tomatoes, which in turn are packed in a master carton, are also being shipped from the production area. Should the use of certain of these containers when moved into commercial market channels be deemed by the committee, as having an adverse affect upon returns to growers thereof, then the Secretary should have the power to fix the size, weight, capacity, dimensions or pack of the containers which may be used in the packaging, transportation, sale, shipment, or other handling of such tomatoes. For similar reasons, the committee should be permitted to recommend different regulations for different containers. The committee may determine that certain types of containers should be prohibited if the fruit contained in them is subjected to excessive damage. This would be especially important in the case of shipments of vine ripened tomatoes to interstate markets. The hearing record shows that returns to producers of tomatoes should be more favorable under conditions where the number of containers used is held at the lowest practical minimum. Accordingly, the committee may determine that the standardization of containers would be in the best interests of the industry. Therefore, the provisions relating to container regulations should be included in the marketing agreement and order as set forth.

The marketing agreement and order should authorize different regulations during any period so that the committee and the Secretary may take into account different supply and demand conditions as they may arise and become apparent.

(f) The committee should be authorized to recommend and the Secretary to establish such minimum standards of quality and maturity and such grading and inspection requirements during any and all periods when tomato prices are above parity as will be in the public interest. Some tomatoes are of such low quality that they do not give consumer satisfaction at any time because of the large amount of waste and time consumed in preparing them. Consumers do not receive proper value for their expenditures for such low quality tomatoes as culls, even when prices are above parity. It is not in the public interest either of the producers, handlers, or of consumers to permit shipments of such poor quality. The shipment of immature or over-ripe tomatoes also tends to disrupt general market conditions for the commodity and the discounted prices received for such immature or over-ripe tomatoes adversely affects grower prices. The marketing agreement and order should authorize the establishment of such minimum standards of quality and maturity as will be in the public interest. It is also necessary that such authority should include grading and inspection requirements so that such minimum standards of quality and maturity may be determined whenever such regulations are in effect.

The committee should have the authority to recommend to the Secretary the establishment of minimum quantities below which handling will be free from regulation. Most shipments of Lower Valley tomatoes are made in carlots or in trucklots. However, some small quantities are moved outside of the production area. Such small quantities constitute only a minor percentage of the total production. Some of these small shipments, such as gifts, are sold to accomodate friends. Problems of inspecting such small lots, or other problems in complying with inspection regulations on such small lots, may make it uneconomical, undesirable, and impracticable to require that such small shipments comply with all the regulations required of the larger commercial shipments. The administrative difficulties in checking upon such shipments to see that they are inspected, or that assessments are paid on them, may be such that it would be impractical for the committee to attempt to do so. However, such shipments should not be allowed to contain culls or other discounted grades and sizes to depress the market on the bulk of commercial sales. It might be necessary to permit the maintenance of one or more regulatory requirements on such minimum quantities while relaxing other regulations applicable to them. It is contemplated, of course, that any such relaxations of regulations would be applied uniformly.

(g) The Secretary, upon the basis of recommendations and information submitted by the committee or other available information, should be authorized to modify, suspend, or terminate grade, size, or quality regulations with respect to the handling of tomatoes for purposes other than disposition in normal domestic fresh markets. The committee should be well qualified because of experience and knowledge of individual members to recommend such modifications, suspensions or terminations as will be in the best interests of the Texas tomato industry, and which will tend to effectuate the declared policies of the act, and the marketing agreement and order. Tomatoes moving to, or sold in, certain outlets such as those specified in § 1014.54 of the marketing agreement and order are usually handled in a different manner. Such outlets usually accept different grades, sizes, qualities, maturities, packs, containers, or different prices are returned, or combinations of such considerations may apply. The marketing agreement and order should provide authority for the committee to give appropriate consideration to the handling of tomatoes for such purposes so that full opportunity may be taken under the program to improve orderly marketing conditions for tomatoes, thereby tending to increase total returns to tomato growers in the production area.

Some export markets accept certain grades, and particularly some sizes, which normally are discounted in some domestic markets. Provision should be made for the modification, suspension, or termination of regulations which may be applied to shipments for export so that this demand can be met when it is in the best interests of growers' returns to do so. For example, many small size tomatoes are exported to Canada. Occasional small shipments of low grades or unclassified tomatoes are made to Mexico. Prohibiting the exportation of such tomatoes would not increase sales of larger size or better quality tomatoes to these two countries. It has been the custom of most Canadian markets to prefer small sizes. The Mexican market for poor quality tomatoes from the production area is small and confined to border cities in Mexico. Differences in levels of consumer income among these outlets and differences in trading customs influence the nature of demand for tomatoes in these export outlets, so that authority for recognizing such differences should be included in the proposed program. Therefore, the proposed marketing agreement and order should provide authority for regulating exports to Canada differently from domestic shipments, also exports to Mexico, or to any other export outlet, differently than domestic or any other export outlets.

The committee and the Secretary should have authority to give special consideration to tomatoes for relief or for charitable purposes. Such shipments are intended for special outlets and usually the shipments are by way of donation or due to some special consideration between the shippers and receivers. Occasional shipments are made from the production area to orphans' homes, hospitals, or similar facilities, and the committee should have the authority to waive some of the requirements in regard to such shipments.

The marketing agreement and order should provide that special consideration be given to the handling of tomatoes going to canning plants or other processing outlets. Shipments of tomatoes to be processed at canning plants are specifically exempted from regulation by the act. However, the committee should have the authority to require handlers making such shipments to give proper evidence that the shipments are going to the canning plant and the tomatoes are actually diverted into that outlet. No other regulation or restriction is implied on tomatoes for canning or processing. Such authority is necessary because occasional shipments of tomatoes from the production area are made to canning plants in Arkansas and other nearby States. It was testified at the hearing that the repacking of tomatoes should not be included under the term processing and that such repacking should not be given the same consideration as shipments made to canneries.

The State Agricultural College, through its Weslaco station which is located within the production area, is conducting various studies with respect to the production and marketing of tomatoes such as the acceptability of varieties, maturities, containers, and market preferences. Many of these studies are conducted with the cooperation of local shippers. Shipments are controlled since they are made under the direction of the station. However, shippers furnish the labor and packing facilities and oftentimes the tomatoes being shipped. The ultimate goal of such studies is to increase returns to the industry by reducing expenses and increasing consumer acceptance. The committee should have the authority to recommend the modification, suspension, or termination of regulations which might interfere with the successful completion of such studies.

The committee should be empowered to provide special treatment through modification, suspension, or terminations of regulations applicable to other special purposes which may develop in the future, and for other purposes which later may be specified by the committee with the approval of the Secretary.

It is appropriate and necessary that the Secretary of Agriculture notify the committee of any regulations or any modifications, suspensions, or terminations of regulations so that the committee will be informed of such actions. It is also proper that the committee after having received from the Secretary notification of regulation should relay such information on to handlers and producers within the production area. If the marketing agreement and order program is to be successful, growers and handlers must be informed of actions taken pursuant to the program.

The authority for modifying, suspending, or terminating, grade, size, quality, assessment, or inspection regulations, should be accompanied by the additional administrative authority for the committee to recommend and the Secretary to prescribe adequate safeguards to prevent shipments for such purposes from entering market channels contrary to the provisions of such special regulations. The authority for establishment of safeguards should include such limitations or appropriate qualifications on shipments which are necessary and incidental to the proper and efficient administration of the marketing agreement and order. Such safeguards may include, but should not necessarily be limited to, inspection, so that the committee may have an accurate record of the grades, sizes, and qualities of tomatoes shipped to special outlets; application to make such special shipments; requirements for the payment of assessments in connection with such shipments; reports by handlers with respect to the number of such shipments and the amounts of tomatoes shipped; and assurances by purchasers and handlers that the tomatoes are to be used for the purposes designated.

In order to maintain appropriate identification of shipments of tomatoes to special outlets, safeguards authorized in the marketing agreement and order may provide for the issuance of Certificates of Privilege to handlers of such tomatoes and, in addition, may require that such handlers obtain such certificates on all shipments made by them to such special outlets. Certificates of Privilege may be issued by the committee as an indication of the authority for the handler to make such shipments and as a means of identifying specific shipments. The certificates should be issued in accordance with rules and regulations established by the Secretary on the basis of committee recommendations or other available information so that the issuance thereof may be handled in an orderly and efficient manner which can be made known to all handlers. The committee should be authorized to deny or rescind Certificates of Privilege when necessary to prevent abuse of the privileges conferred by such certificates. The committee should have authority to rescind or deny certificates when it finds upon satisfactory evidence that handlers to whom Certificates of Privilege have been issued handled tomatoes contrary to the provisions of the certificates previously issued to them. If the committee rescinds or denies a Certificate of Privilege to any handler, such action should be in terms of a specified period of time. Any handler who might have a Certificate of Privilege rescinded should have the right of appeal to the committee for reconsideration.

The Secretary should have the right to modify, change, alter, or rescind any safeguards prescribed, or any Certificates of Privilege issued by the committee in order that the Secretary may retain all rights necessary to carry out the declared policy of the act. The Secretary should give prompt notice to the committee of any action taken by him in connection therewith, and the committee should promptly notify all persons affected by any such action.

The committee should maintain records with respect to safeguards and to Certificates of Privilege, and should submit reports thereon to the Secretary when requested, in order to supply pertinent information requisite for him to discharge his duties under the act and the marketing agreement and order. Such reports should include the number of applications received, the number granted and denied, the quantity of tomatoes handled under such certificates, the purposes for which issued, and any other information that might be requested.

(h) Inspection and certification of tomatoes grown in the production area is a common and usual practice for the purpose of determining officially the grade, size, quality and maturity of such tomatoes. The Federal Inspection Service is available throughout the entire production area and its inspectors are well qualified to certify upon the basis of the United States Standards for Fresh Tomatoes or the United States Consumer Standards for Fresh Tomatoes. Tomato growers and handlers throughout the production area are acquainted with such service and with the inspection offered on shipments of tomatoes.

Provision should be made in the marketing agreement and order for inspection by the Federal Inspection Service, or such other inspection service as the Secretary may approve, of tomatoes grown in the production area and handled during any period in which such handling of tomatoes is regulated under the program. Such inspection requirements should apply to all tomatoes handled under regulations issued under the marketing agreement and order except when any such handling is relieved from inspection requirements pursuant to § 1014.53 or § 1014.54 of the marketing agreement and order. Inspection establishes a means whereby the handler, the buyer, the committee, the Secretary, and other interested parties may determine whether such tomatoes handled subject to regulations comply with the requirements of any particular grade, size, quality and maturity regulation in effect under the marketing agreement and order. Effective regulation of the handling of tomatoes grown in the production area requires that the grade, size, quality and maturity of each sale or shipment of such tomatoes should be authoritatively established. The provisions for inspection and the certificates which are issued pursuant to inspection offer an appropriate and practical means of establishing and identifying the grade, size, quality and maturity of tomatoes handled pursuant to the terms and conditions of the marketing agreement and order.

Provision should be made in the marketing agreement and order for authority to inspect tomatoes not only by personnel of the Federal Inspection Service, but also by personnel of such other inspection service as the Secretary may designate so that sufficient flexibility for successful operation can be provided through appropriate inspection if Federal inspection is not available. In order to assure that production area tomatoes will not be shipped without inspection in the event the Federal Inspection Service is not available to furnish the service, the Secretary should be authorized to designate an appropriate inspection service to perform the inspection. Thus, there should always be an authoritative means of establishing the grade, size, quality and maturity of tomato shipments.

The requirement that no handler shall handle tomatoes unless each lot of tomatoes is inspected by an authorized inspection service approved under the marketing agreement and order is reasonable and necessary for the proper administration of the program. Such requirement should apply to all tomatoes handled except for those tomatoes which may be relieved of inspection requirements pursuant to § 1014.53 or § 1014.54 or both.

The marking of tomato containers with a number or other appropriate symbol to indicate they are part of a lot which has been inspected is a current practice among many Lower Valley tomato handlers. This marking or identification assists handlers in determining if such tomatoes have been inspected. Authority for making such marking a regulatory requirement, if the committee recommends and the Secretary approves, should be included in the proposed marketing agreement and order as a reasonable and necessary provision incidental to administration of the program.

Responsibility for obtaining inspection should fall primarily on the handler who first handles such tomatoes after they have been prepared for market since such person usually is responsible for the particular grade, size, quality and maturity to be shipped. Identification and certification of such tomatoes are essential to proper administration of the marketing agreement and order to determine whether such shipment accords with the grade, size, quality and maturity requirements issued under such order. The handler who first handles such tomatoes is required to obtain inspection and subsequent handlers may not handle tomatoes unless a properly issued inspection certificate valid under the terms of the marketing agreement and order applies to such shipment. Each handler must bear the responsibility for determining that each of his shipments is inspected. Such requirement is necessary so that the committee can obtain evidence in the form of inspection certificates which it needs to carry its appropriate functions in determining if specific shipments have been inspected and if they otherwise meet requirements of regulations issued pursuant to the marketing agreement and order.

Whenever any shipment of tomatoes subject to the terms and provisions of the marketing agreement and order have been prepared for market and inspected but are later dumped from the containers in which they were inspected, such tomatoes lose their identity insofar as the original inspection certificate is concerned and such inspection certificate no longer applies. If any such lot of tomatoes is thereafter repacked, such tomatoes, even though they may have been previously inspected in other containers, must meet regulations issued under the marketing agreement and order. Since the original certificate is no longer valid such tomatoes must be reinspected before they are shipped because it is not possible to determine whether the tomatoes which are being shipped meet the grade, size, or other regulatory requirements of the marketing agreement and order unless they are so inspected and certified. In this way handlers and the committee will be assured that such shipments comply with such regulations. The committee with the approval of the Secretary may provide for the exemption of such inspection requirements on regraded, resorted, or repacked tomatoes in circumstances where it appears reasonably certain that such tomatoes meet the applicable regulations after regrading, resorting and repacking.

The committee with the approval of the Secretary should be authorized to determine the length of time inspection certificates are valid insofar as requirements of the marketing agreement and order are concerned. Such requirement is appropriate and necessary especially with respect to lot inspections which may be administratively desirable to accommodate handlers and truckers because tomatoes are an extremely perishable commodity. It is not feasible and practical for the committee to recognize inspection certificates which may have been issued days previously, since the tomatoes so inspected could have since deteriorated and no longer comply with requirements in effect at the time the final shipment is made.

Copies of inspection certificates issued pursuant to the requirements of the marketing agreement and order should be supplied to the committee promptly by the appropriate inspection service so that such committee may properly discharge its administrative responsibilities under the program.

The committee should have the authority to recommend, and the Secretary to require, that any tomatoes transported by motor vehicle be accompanied by a copy of the inspection certificate issued thereon, which certificate shall be surrendered to such authority as may be designated. A large quantity of the tomatoes grown in the production area are trucked from the production area to market. By requiring the operators of such vehicles to surrender copies of inspection certificates applicable to their shipments upon demand to such authority as may be designated, evidence will be readily available that such shipments meet or comply with the requirements of the marketing agreement and order. The evidence indicates that such a requirement is not necessary with respect to other types of shipments, such as by railroad.

(i) Certain hazards are encountered in the production of tomatoes grown in the production area which are beyond the control or reasonable expectation of the producer of such tomatoes. Because of these circumstances, and to provide equity among producers and handlers insofar as any regulations under the marketing agreement and order are concerned, the committee should be given authority to issue exemption certificates to producer applicants to permit such applicants to sell their equitable proportion of all shipments from the production area. It is contemplated, however, that such an exemption will require the approved applicant to sell his best quality tomatoes.

The committee, by reason of its knowledge of the conditions and problems applicable to the production of tomatoes in the production area and the information which it will have available in each case, should be well qualified to judge each applicant's case in a fair and equitable manner and to fix the quantity of exempted tomatoes which each such applicant may sell.

The provisions contained in the notice of hearing relevant to the procedure to be followed in issuing exemption certificates, in investigating exemption claims, in appealing exemption claim determinations, and in recording and reporting exemption claim determinations to the Secretary are necessary to the orderly and equitable operation of the marketing agreement and order and they should, therefore, be incorporated in the agreement and order.

Provision should be made for the Secretary to modify, change, alter, or rescind any procedure established by the committee for granting of exemptions and of exemptions granted pursuant to each procedure. This is desirable to guard against inequities in the granting of exemptions and to preclude the issuance of exemption certificates in unjustifiable cases.

(j) The committee should have authority, with the approval of the Secretary, to require that handlers submit to it such reports and information as are needed to perform its functions. It is difficult to anticipate every type of report, or kind of information, which the committee may need in administering the program, but it should have the authority, subject to the approval of the Secretary, to request reports and information if needed, of the type set forth in the marketing agreement and order. The standards to be followed by the committee in requesting handlers to furnish reports should be along the lines set forth in § 1014.80 of the agreement and order and such reports should be those necessary for operation of the committee in carrying out the terms and conditions of the marketing agreement and order. Reports furnished to the committee should be submitted in such manner and at such times as may be designated by it. Such reporting procedures should accord with the need and requirements of the committee which are essential to administration of the marketing order, because changing conditions may warrant changes in the forms and methods of reporting. The Secretary should retain the right to approve, and also to modify, change, or rescind, any requests by the committee for information in order to protect handlers from unreasonable requests for reports.

Permissive use of the specified reporting requirements, and verifications of such reports and records by the committee will provide a means for it to check on compliance with and operation of the marketing agreement and order.

Since it is possible that a question might arise with respect to compliance with the marketing agreement and order, each handler should maintain complete records of his handling and disposition of tomatoes for not less than two years subsequent to the termination of each crop year.

Any and all reports and records submitted for committee use by handlers should remain under appropriate protective classifications and be disclosed to none other than persons authorized by the Secretary.

(k) Except as provided in the marketing agreement and order, no handler should be permitted to handle tomatoes, the handling of which is prohibited pursuant to the marketing agreement and order, and no handler should be permitted to handle tomatoes except in conformity with the marketing agreement and order. If the program is to be effective, no handler should be permitted to evade its provisions since such action on the part of one handler, although possibly of small impact on the industry measured by the proportion of tomatoes handled by him, would be demoralizing to other handlers and would tend to impair operation of the program.

(l) The provisions of §§ 1014.82 through 1014.92, as published in the FEDERAL REGISTER of September 1, 1956 (21 F. R. 6612), and as hereinafter set forth, are common to marketing agreements and orders now operating. The provisions of §§ 1014.93 through 1014.95, as hereinafter set forth, are also included in other marketing agreements now operating. Each of such sections sets forth certain rights, obligations, privileges, or procedures which are necessary and appropriate for the effective operation of the marketing agreement and order. These provisions are incidental to, and not inconsistent with, section 8c (6) and (7) of the act, and are necessary to effectuate the other provisions of the marketing agreement and order and to effectuate the declared policy of the act. The substance of such provisions, therefore, should be included in the marketing agreement and order.

General findings. Upon the basis of evidence introduced in the hearing and the record thereof it is found that:

(1) The marketing agreement and order as hereinafter set forth, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act with respect to tomatoes produced in the production area, by establishing and maintaining such orderly marketing conditions therefor as will tend to establish, as prices to the producers thereof, parity prices and by protecting the interest of the consumer (i) by approaching the level of prices which it is declared in the act to be the policy of Congress to establish by a gradual correction of the current level of prices at as rapid a rate as the Secretary deems to be in the public interest and feasible in view of the current consumptive demand in domestic and foreign markets, and (ii) by authorizing no action which has for its purpose the maintenance of prices to producers of such tomatoes above the parity level, and (iii) by authorizing the establishment and maintenance of such minimum standards of quality and maturity, and such grading and inspection requirements as may be incidental thereto, as will tend to effectuate such orderly marketing of such tomatoes as will be in the public interest:

(2) The said marketing agreement and order authorizes regulation of the handling of tomatoes grown in the production area in the same manner as, and is applicable only to, persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in a proposed marketing agreement and order upon which the hearing has been held;

(3) The said marketing agreement and order are limited in their application to the smallest regional production area which is practicable, consistently with carrying out the declared policy of the act; and the issuance of several marketing agreements and orders applicable to any subdivision of the production area would not effectively carry out the declared policy of the act;

(4) The said marketing agreement and order prescribes, so far as practicable, such different terms, applicable to different parts of the production area, as are necessary to give due recognition to the differences in the production and marketing of tomatoes grown in the production area; and

(5) All handling of tomatoes, as defined in the said marketing agreement and order, is in the current of interstate or foreign commerce, or directly burdens, obstructs or affects such commerce.

Ruling on proposed findings and conclusions. Interested parties were allowed until October 25, 1956 to file briefs with respect to findings of facts and conclusions based on evidence introduced at the hearing. Briefs were filed by Sid L. Hardin, Edinburg, Texas, attorney for the opponents and by Ewers, Cox and Toothaker, McAllen, Texas, attorneys for the proponents.

Each point covered in the arguments of the respective attorneys was carefully considered along with the evidence in the record in making the findings and reaching the conclusions herein set forth. The attorney for the opponents established the point at the hearing that grower-shipper representation on the committee was desirable and essential for effective operation of the program. The proposed marketing agreement and order as hereinafter set forth, provides that at least four of the nine members of the administrative agency must be producer-handlers. The attorney for the proponents also argued the point that the proposed order makes no provision for the handling and shipment of pink tomatoes. The findings of facts as herein above established and the authority for the proposed marketing agreement and order do not establish any prohibition against the handling of pink tomatoes. The findings on the evidence in the record and the proposed marketing agreement and order provide that pink tomatoes shall receive consideration and, to the extent that it may be justified by sound marketing practices, regulations can be different for pink tomatoes than for mature green tomatoes when and if regulations are justified with respect to the marketing of tomatoes from the Lower Valley.

Attorneys for the opponents argued the point that the fiscal period should be so established as to give recognition to the early spring crop of tomatoes in the Lower Valley and the varying dates on which shipments start from such areas. The proposed marketing agreement and order as hereinafter set forth provide for such consideration.

The attorneys for the opponents also argued the point that on meetings by the committee which are held by telephone, telegraph or other means of communication the procedure or requirements should be strengthened so that unanimous approval of any proposal so submitted should be required in order to approve committee action. The proposed marketing agreement and order so provide.

To the extent that the findings and provisions proposed in the briefs and arguments submitted by attorneys for the opponents and for the proponents are inconsistent with the findings and conclusions contained herein, the request to make such conclusions are denied on the basis of facts found and stated in connection with the conclusions in this recommended decision.

Recommended marketing agreement and order. The following marketing agreement and order are recommended as the detailed means by which the aforesaid conclusions may be carried out.

DEFINITIONS

§ 1014.1 Secretary. "Secretary" means the Secretary of Agriculture of the United States, or any officer or employee of the Department to whom authority has heretofore been delegated, or to whom authority may hereafter be delegated, to act in his stead.

§ 1014.2 Act. "Act" means Public Act No. 10, 73d Congress, as amended and as reenacted and amended by the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.; 68 Stat. 906, 1047).

§ 1014.3 Person. "Person" means an individual, partnership, corporation, association, or any other business unit.

§ 1014.4 Production area. "Production area" means all territory in the counties of Cameron, Hidalgo, Starr, and Willacy in the State of Texas.

§ 1014.5 Tomatoes. "Tomatoes" means all varieties of the edible fruit (lycopersicon esculentum) commonly known as tomatoes and grown within the production area.

§ 1014.6 Handler. "Handler" is synonymous with "shipper" and means any person (except a common or contract carrier of tomatoes owned by another person) who handles tomatoes or causes tomatoes to be handled.

§ 1014.7 Handle. "Handle" or "ship" means to transport, sell, or in any other way to place tomatoes in the current of commerce between the production area and any point outside thereof: Provided, That such terms will not include the transportation, sale, or delivery of tomatoes by a producer to a handler who is registered as such with the committee.

§ 1014.8 Producer. "Producer" means any person engaged in a proprietary capacity in the production of tomatoes for market.

§ 1014.9 Grading. "Grading" is synonymous with "preparation for market" and means the sorting or separation of tomatoes into grades, sizes, maturities, and packs for market purposes.

§ 1014.10 Grade and size. "Grade" means any one of the established grades of tomatoes and "size" means any one of the established sizes of tomatoes as defined and set forth in U. S. Standards for Fresh Tomatoes (§§ 51.1855 to 51.1876 of this title) or U. S. Consumer Standards for Fresh Tomatoes (§§ 51.1900 to 51.1913 of this title), both issued by the United States Department of Agriculture, or amendments thereto, or modifications thereof, or variations based thereon, recommended by the committee and approved by the Secretary.

§ 1014.11 Pack. "Pack" means any of the packs of tomatoes as defined and set forth in the United States Standards for Fresh Tomatoes issued by the United States Department of Agriculture (§§ 51.1855 to 51.1876 of this title), or any pack of tomatoes recommended by the committee and approved by the Secretary.

§ 1014.12 Maturity. "Maturity" means various degrees of ripeness for tomatoes as established by the committee with approval of the Secretary.

§ 1014.13 Container. "Container" means a box, bag, crate, hamper, basket, package, tube, or any other type of unit used in the packaging, transportation, sale, shipment, or handling of tomatoes.

§ 1014.14 Varieties. "Varieties" means and includes all classifications, subdivisions, or types of tomatoes according to those definitive characteristics now or hereafter recognized by the United States Department of Agriculture or recommended by the committee, and approved by the Secretary.

§ 1014.15 Committee. "Committee" means the Texas Valley Tomato Committee, established pursuant to § 1014.22.

§ 1014.16 Fiscal period. "Fiscal period" means the annual period beginning March 1, and ending on the last day of February of the following year, or such annual beginning and ending dates as may be approved by the Secretary pursuant to recommendations of the committee.

§ 1014.17 District. "District" means each of the geographic divisions of the production area initially established pursuant to § 1014.24 or as reestablished pursuant to § 1014.25.

§ 1014.18 Export. "Export" means shipment of tomatoes beyond the boundaries of continental United States.

COMMITTEE

§ 1014.22 Establishment and membership. (a) The Texas Valley Tomato Committee, consisting of 9 producer members, of whom at least 4 shall be producer-handlers, is hereby established. For each member of the committee there shall be an alternate. At least 4 of the alternate members shall also be producer-handlers.

(b) Each person selected as a committee member or alternate shall be an individual who is a producer, or an officer or an employee of a producer, in the district for which selected and a resident of the production area. An officer or employee of a cooperative association of tomato producers which markets the tomato production of its members shall be eligible to serve on the committee as a producer-handler member or alternate. In addition the producer-handler representatives shall be handlers in the production area.

§ 1014.23 Term of office. (a) The term of office of committee members and their respective alternates shall be for one year and shall begin as of August 1 and end as of July 31.

(b) Committee members and alternates shall serve during the term of office for which they are selected and have qualified, or during that portion thereof beginning on the date on which they qualify during such term of office and continuing until the end thereof, and until their successors are selected and have qualified.

§ 1014.24 Districts. For the purpose of determining the basis for selecting committee members the following districts of the production area are hereby initially established:

District No. 1. The County of Cameron in the State of Texas;

District No. 2. The County of Hidalgo in the State of Texas;

District No. 3. The County of Starr in the State of Texas; and District No. 4. The County of Willacy in the State of Texas.

§ 1014.25 Redistricting. The committee may recommend, and pursuant thereto, the Secretary may approve, the reapportionment of members among districts, and the reestablishment of districts within the production area. In recommending any such changes, the committee shall give consideration to: (a) Shifts in tomato acreage within districts and within the production area during recent years; (b) the importance of new production in its relation to existing districts; (c) the equitable relationship of committee membership and districts; (d) economies to result for producers in promoting efficient administration due to redistricting or reapportionment of members within districts; and (e) other relevant factors. No change in districting or in apportionment of members within districts may become effective less than 30 days prior to the date on which terms of office begin each year and no recommendations for such redistricting or reapportionment may be made less than six months prior to such date.

§ 1014.26 Selection. The Secretary shall select initially three members and their respective alternates from District 1; four members and their respective alternates from District 2; one member and his alternate from District 3; and one member and his alternate from District 4.

§ 1014.27 Nomination. The Secretary may select the members of the committee and alternates from nominations which may be made in the following manner:

(a) A meeting or meetings of producers and producer-handlers shall be held in each district to nominate members and alternates for the committee. For nominations to the initial committee, the meetings may be sponsored by the United States Department of Agriculture or by any agency or group requested to do so by such department. For nominations for succeeding members and alternates on the committee, the committee shall hold such meetings or cause them to be held prior to June 15 of each year, after the effective date of this subpart;

(b) At each such meeting at least one nominee shall be designated for each position as member and for each position as alternate member on the committee.

(c) Nominations for committee members and alternates, shall be supplied to the Secretary in such manner and form as he may prescribe, not later than July 15, of each year;

(d) Only producers and producer-handlers may participate in designating nominees for members and alternates on the committee. In the event a person is engaged in producing tomatoes in more than one district, such person shall elect the district within which he may participate as aforesaid in designating nominees; and

(e) Regardless of the number of districts in which a person produces tomatoes, each such person is entitled to cast only one vote on behalf of himself, his agents, subsidiaries, affiliates, and representatives in designating nominees for committee members and alternates. An eligible voter's privilege of casting only one vote as aforesaid shall be construed to permit a voter to cast one vote for each position to be filled in the respective district in which he elects to vote.

§ 1014.28 Failure to nominate. If nominations are not made within the time and in the manner specified in § 1014.27, the Secretary may, without regard to nominations, select the committee members and alternates, which selection shall be on the basis of the representation provided for in §§ 1014.24 through 1014.26 inclusive.

§ 1014.29 Acceptance. Any person selected as a committee member or alternate shall qualify by filing a written acceptance with the Secretary within ten days after being notified of such selection.

§ 1014.30 Vacancies. To fill committee vacancies, the Secretary may select such members or alternates from unselected nominees on the current nominee list from the district involved, or from nominations made in the manner specified in § 1014.27. If the name of nominees to fill any such vacancy are not made available to the Secretary within 30 days after such vacancy occurs, such vacancy may be filled without regard to nominations, which selection shall be made on the basis of the representation provided for in §§ 1014.24 through 1014.26, inclusive.

§ 1014.31 Alternate members. An alternate member of the committee shall act in the place and stead of the member for whom he is an alternate, during such member's absence, or when designated to do so by the member for whom he is an alternate. In the event of the death, removal, resignation, or disqualification of a member, his alternate shall act for him until a successor of such member is selected and has qualified.

§ 1014.32 Procedure. (a) Six members of the committee shall be necessary to constitute a quorum and six concurring votes shall be required to pass any motion or approve any committee action. At assembled meetings all votes shall be cast in person.

(b) The committee may meet by telephone, telegraph, or other means of communication and any vote cast at such a meeting shall be promptly confirmed in writing: Provided, That at any unassembled meeting unanimous vote of all committee members will be required to approve any action.

§ 1014.33 Expenses and compensation. Committee members and alternates may be reimbursed for expenses necessarily incurred by them in the performance of duties and in the exercise of powers under this part.

§ 1014.34 Powers. The committee shall have the following powers:

(a) To administer the provisions of this part in accordance with its terms;

(b) To make rules and regulations to effectuate the terms and provisions of this part;

(c) To receive, investigate, and report to the Secretary complaints of violation of the provisions of this part; and

(d) To recommend to the Secretary amendments to this part.

§ 1014.35 Duties. It shall be, among other things, the duty of the committee:

(a) As soon as practicable after the beginning of each term of office, to meet and organize, to select a chairman and such other officers as may be necessary, to select subcommittees of committee members, and to adopt such rules and regulations for the conduct of its business as it may deem advisable;

(b) To act as intermediary between the Secretary and any producer or handler;

(c) To furnish to the Secretary such available information as he may request;

(d) To appoint such employees, agents, and representatives as it may deem necessary and to determine the salaries and define the duties of each such person;

(e) To investigate from time to time and to assemble data on the growing, harvesting, shipping, and marketing conditions with respect to tomatoes;

(f) To prepare a marketing policy;

(g) To recommend marketing regulations to the Secretary;

(h) To recommend rules and procedures for, and to make determinations in connection with, issuance of certificates of privilege or exemptions, or both;

(i) To investigate an applicant's claim for exemptions;

(j) To keep minutes, books, and records which clearly reflect all of the acts and transactions of the committee and such minutes, books and records shall be subject to examination at any time by the Secretary or his authorized agent or representative. Minutes of each committee meeting shall be reported promptly to the Secretary;

(k) At the beginning of each fiscal period, to prepare a budget of its expenses for such fiscal period, together with a report thereon;

(l) To cause the books of the committee to be audited by a competent accountant at least once each fiscal period, and at such other time as the committee may deem necessary or as the Secretary may request. The report of such audit shall show the receipt and expenditure of funds collected pursuant to this part. A copy of each such report shall be furnished to the Secretary and a copy of each such report shall be made available at the principal office of the committee for inspection by producers and handlers; and

(m) To consult, cooperate, and exchange information with other marketing agreement committees and other individuals or agencies in connection with all proper committee activities and objectives under this part.

EXPENSES AND ASSESSMENTS

§ 1014.40 Expenses. The committee is authorized to incur such expenses as the Secretary may find are reasonable and likely to be incurred during each fiscal period for its maintenance and functioning, and for such purposes as the Secretary, pursuant to this subpart, determines to be appropriate. Handlers shall share expenses upon the basis of a fiscal period. Each handler's share of such expense shall be proportionate to the ratio between the total quantity of tomatoes under regulation handled by him as the first handler thereof during a fiscal period and the total quantity of tomatoes under regulation handled by all handlers as first handlers thereof during such fiscal period.

§ 1014.41 Budget. As soon as practicable after the beginning of each fiscal period and as may be necessary thereafter, the committee shall prepare an estimated budget of income and expenditures necessary for the administration of this part. The committee may recommend a rate of assessment calculated to provide adequate funds to defray its proposed expenditures. The committee shall present such budget to the Secretary with an accompanying report showing the basis for its calculations.

§ 1014.42 Assessments. (a) The funds to cover the committee's expenses shall be acquired by the levying of assessments upon handlers as provided in this subpart. Each handler who first handles tomatoes, which are regulated under this part, shall pay assessments to the committee upon demand, which assessments shall be in payment of such handler's pro rata share of the committee's expenses.

(b) Assessments shall be levied upon handlers at rates established by the Secretary. Such rates may be established upon the basis of the committee's recommendations and other available information. Such rates may be applied to specified containers used in the production area.

(c) At any time during, or subsequent to, a given fiscal period the committee may recommend the approval of an amended budget and an increase in the rate of assessment. Upon the basis of such recommendations, or other available information, the Secretary may approve an amended budget and increase the rate of assessment. Such increase shall be applicable to all tomatoes which were regulated under this part and which were handled by the first handler thereof during such fiscal period.

(d) The payment of assessments for the maintenance and functioning of the committee may be required under this part throughout the period it is in effect irrespective of whether particular provisions thereof are suspended or become inoperative.

§ 1014.43 Accounting. (a) All funds received by the committee pursuant to the provisions of this subpart shall be used solely for the purposes specified in this part.

(b) The Secretary may at any time require the committee, its members and alternates, employees, agents and all other persons to account for all receipts and disbursements, funds, property, or records for which they are responsible. An appropriate fidelity bond shall be required for all committee members or personnel responsible for receipt, custody, or disposition of committee funds. Whenever any person ceases to be a member of the committee or alternate, he shall account to his successor, the committee, or to the person designated by the Secretary, for all receipts, disbursements, funds and property (including but not being limited to books and other records) pertaining to the committee's activities for which he is responsible, and shall execute such assignments and other instruments as may be necessary or appropriate to vest in such successor, committee, or designated person, the right to all of such property and funds and all claims vested in such person.

(c) The committee may make recommendations to the Secretary for one or more of the members thereof, or any other person, to act as a trustee for holding records, funds, or any other committee property during periods of suspension of this subpart, or during any period or periods when regulations are not in effect and, if the Secretary determines such action appropriate, he may direct that such person or persons shall act as trustee or trustees for the committee.

§ 1014.44 Refunds. At the end of each fiscal period, monies arising from the excess of assessments collected over expenses shall be accounted for as follows:

(a) Each handler entitled to a proportionate refund of such excess assessments at the end of a fiscal period shall be credited with such refund against the operations of the following fiscal period unless he demands payment thereof, in which event such proportionate refund shall be paid to him; except

(b) The Secretary, upon recommendation of the committee, may determine that it is appropriate for the maintenance and functioning of the committee that some of the funds remaining at the end of a fiscal period which are in excess of the expenses necessary for committee operations during such period may be carried over into following periods as a reserve for possible liquidation. Upon approval by the Secretary, such reserve may be used upon termination of this order to liquidate the affairs of the committee: Provided, That upon termination of this part any monies in the reserve for liquidation which are not required to defray the necessary expenses of committee liquidation shall be returned upon a pro rata basis to all persons from whom such funds were collected.

RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT

§ 1014.48 Research and development. The committee, with the approval of the Secretary, may establish or provide for the establishment of marketing research and development projects designed to assist, improve, or promote the marketing, distribution, and consumption of tomatoes. The expenses of such projects shall be paid from funds collected pursuant to § 1014.42.

REGULATION

§ 1014.50 Marketing policy. Prior to or at the same time as initial recommendations are made pursuant to § 1014.51, the committee shall submit to the Secretary a report setting forth the marketing policy it deems desirable for the industry to follow in shipping tomatoes from the production area during the ensuing season. Additional reports shall be submitted from time to time if it is deemed advisable by the committee to adopt a new marketing policy because of changes in the demand and supply situation with respect to tomatoes. The committee shall publicly announce the submission of each such marketing policy report and copies thereof shall be available at the committee's office for inspection by any producer or any handler. In determining each such marketing policy the committee shall give due consideration to the following:

(a) Market prices of tomatoes, including prices by grades, sizes, and quality in different packs, and such prices by foreign competing areas;

(b) Supply of tomatoes, by grade, size, and quality in the production area, and in other production areas, including foreign competing production areas;

(c) Trend and level of consumer income;

(d) Marketing conditions affecting tomato prices; and

(e) Other relevant factors.

§ 1014.51 Recommendations for regulations. The committee, upon complying with the requirements of § 1014.50, may recommend regulations to the Secretary whenever it finds that such regulations as are provided for in this subpart will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

§ 1014.52 Issuance of regulations. (a) The Secretary shall limit by regulation the handling of tomatoes whenever he finds from the recommendations and information submitted by the committee, or from other available information, that such regulation would tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(b) Such regulation may:

(1) Limit, in any or all portions of the production area, the handling of particular grades, sizes, qualities, or packs of any or all varieties of tomatoes during any period; or

(2) Limit the handling of particular grades, sizes, qualities, or packs of tomatoes differently, for different varieties, for different stages of maturity, for different portions of the production area, for different containers, for different purposes specified in § 1014.54, or any combination of the foregoing, during any period; or

(3) Limit the shipment of tomatoes by establishing, in terms of grades, sizes, or both, minimum standards of quality and maturity; or

(4) Fix the size, weight, capacity, dimensions, or pack of the container or containers which may be used in the packaging, transportation, sale, shipment, or other handling of tomatoes.

§ 1014.53 Minimum quantities. The committee, with the approval of the Secretary, may establish, for any or all portions of the production area, minimum quantities below which handling will be free from regulations issued or effective pursuant to §§ 1014.42, 1014.52, 1014.54, or 1014.60, or any combination thereof.

§ 1014.54 Handling for special purposes. Upon the basis of recommendations and information submitted by the committee, or other available information, the Secretary, whenever he finds that it will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act, shall modify, suspend, or terminate regulations issued pursuant to §§ 1014.42, 1014.52, 1014.53, or 1014.60, or any combination thereof, in order to facilitate shipments of tomatoes for the following purposes:

(a) For export;

(b) For relief or for charity;

(c) For processing;

(d) For experimental projects; or

(e) For other purposes which may be specified.

§ 1014.55 Notification of regulation. The Secretary shall notify the committee of any regulations issued or of any modification, suspension, or termination thereof. The committee shall give reasonable notice thereof to handlers.

§ 1014.56 Safeguards. (a) The committee, with the approval of the Secretary, may prescribe adequate safeguards to prevent tomatoes handled pursuant to §§ 1014.53 or 1014.54 from entering channels of trade for other than the specific purpose authorized therefor, and rules governing the issuance and the contents of Certificates of Privilege, if such certificates are prescribed as safeguards by the committee. Such safeguards may include requirements that:

(1) Handlers shall file applications with the committee to handle tomatoes pursuant to §§ 1014.53 and 1014.54; or

(2) Handlers shall obtain inspection provided by § 1014.60, or pay the assessment levied pursuant to § 1014.42, or both, in connection with shipments made under § 1014.54.

(3) Handlers shall obtain Certificates of Privilege from the committee for handling of tomatoes affected or to be affected under the provisions of §§ 1014.53 and 1014.54.

(b) The committee may rescind or deny Certificates of Privilege to any handler if proof is obtained that tomatoes handled by him for the purposes stated in §§ 1014.53 and 1014.54 were handled contrary to the provisions of this part.

(c) The Secretary shall have the right to modify, change, alter, or rescind any safeguards prescribed and any certificates issued by the committee pursuant to the provisions of this section.

(d) The committee shall make reports to the Secretary, as requested, showing the number of applications for such certificates, the quantity of tomatoes covered by such applications, the number of such applications denied and certificates granted, the quantity of tomatoes handled under duly issued certificates, and such other information as may be requested.

INSPECTION

§ 1014.60 Inspection and certification. (a) During any period in which handling of tomatoes is regulated pursuant to this subpart no handler shall handle tomatoes unless such tomatoes have been inspected by an authorized representative of the Federal Inspection Service, or such other inspection service as the Secretary shall designate, and are covered by a valid inspection certificate, except when relieved from such requirements pursuant to §§ 1014.53, or 1014.54, or both. Handlers may be required, upon recommendation of the committee and approval of the Secretary, to mark or indicate on the containers that the tomatoes therein have been inspected.

(b) Regrading, resorting, or repacking any lot of tomatoes shall invalidate any prior inspection certificates insofar as the requirements of this section are concerned. No handler shall handle tomatoes after they have been regraded, resorted, repacked, or in any other way further prepared for market, unless each lot of such tomatoes is inspected by an authorized representative of the Federal Inspection Service, or such other inspection service as the Secretary shall designate: Provided, That the committee, with approval of the Secretary, may provide for waiving inspection requirements on any tomatoes in circumstances where it appears reasonably certain that, after regrading, resorting, or repacking, such tomatoes meet the applicable quality and other standards then in effect.

(d) When tomatoes are inspected in accordance with the requirements of this section, a copy of each inspection certificate issued shall be made available to the committee by the inspection service.

(e) The committee may recommend and the Secretary may require that any tomatoes transported by motor vehicle shall be accompanied by a copy of the inspection certificate issued thereon, which certificate shall be surrendered to such authority as may be designated.

EXEMPTIONS

§ 1014.70 Procedure. The committee may adopt, with approval of the Secretary, the procedures pursuant to which certificates of exemption will be issued to producers or handlers.

§ 1014.71 Granting exemptions. The committee shall issue certificates of exemption to any producer who applies for such exemption and furnishes adequate evidence to the committee, that by reason of a regulation issued pursuant to § 1014.52 he will be prevented from handling as large a proportion of his production as the average proportion of production handled during the entire season, or such portion thereof as may be determined by the committee, by all producers in said applicant's immediate production area and that the grade, size, or quality of the applicant's tomatoes have been adversely affected by acts beyond the applicant's control and beyond reasonable expectation. Each certificate shall permit the producer to handle the amount of tomatoes specified thereon. Such certificate shall be transferred with such tomatoes at time of transportation or sale.

§ 1014.72 Investigation. The committee shall be permitted at any time to make a thorough investigation of any producer's claim pertaining to exemptions.

§ 1014.73 Appeal. If any applicant for exemption certificates is dissatisfied with the determination by the committee with respect to his application, said applicant may file an appeal with the committee. Such an appeal must be taken promptly after the determination by the committee from which the appeal is taken. Any applicant filing an appeal shall furnish evidence satisfactory to the committee for a determination on the appeal. The committee shall thereupon reconsider the application, examine all available evidence, and make a final determination concerning the application. The committee shall notify the appellant of the final determination, and shall furnish the Secretary with a copy of the appeal and a statement of considerations involved in making the final determination.

§ 1014.74 Records. (a) The committee shall maintain a record of all applications submitted for exemption certificates, a record of all exemption certificates issued and denied, the quantity of tomatoes covered by such exemption certificates, a record of the amount of tomatoes handled under exemption certificates, a record of appeals for reconsideration of applications, and such other information as may be requested by the Secretary. Periodic reports on such records shall be compiled and issued by the committee upon request of the Secretary.

(b) The Secretary shall have the right to modify, change, alter, or rescind any procedure and any exemptions granted pursuant to §§ 1014.70, 1014.71, 1014.72, or 1014.73, or any combination thereof.

REPORTS

§ 1014.80 Reports. Upon the request of the committee, made with approval of the Secretary, each handler shall furnish to the committee in such manner and at such time as it may prescribe, reports and other information as may be necessary for the committee to perform its duties under this part. In this connection:

(a) Such reports may include, but are not necessarily limited to, the following: (1) The quantities of tomatoes received by a handler; (2) the quantities disposed of by him, segregated as to the respective quantities subject to regulation and not subject to regulation; (3) the date of each such disposition and the identification of the carrier transporting such tomatoes; and (4) identification of the inspection certificates and the exemption certificates, if any, pursuant to which the tomatoes were handled, together with the destination of each exempted disposition and of all tomatoes handled pursuant to §§ 1014.53 and 1014.54.

(b) All such reports shall be held under appropriate protective classification and custody by the committee, or duly appointed employees thereof, so that the information contained therein which may adversely affect the competitive position of any handler in relation to other handlers will not be disclosed. Compilations of general reports from data submitted by handlers is authorized, subject to prohibition of disclosure of individual handlers' identities or operations.

(c) Each handler shall maintain for at least two succeeding years such records of the tomatoes received and disposed of by such handler as may be necessary to verify the reports he submits to the committee pursuant to this section.

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

§ 1014.81 Compliance. Except as provided in this subpart, no handler shall handle tomatoes, the handling of which has been prohibited by the Secretary in accordance with provisions of this subpart, or the rules and regulations thereunder, and no handler shall handle tomatoes except in conformity to the provisions of this subpart.

§ 1014.82 Right of the Secretary. The members of the committee (including successors and alternates), and any agent or employee appointed or employed by the committee, shall be subject to removal or suspension by the Secretary at any time. Each and every order, regulation, decision, determination or other act of the committee shall be subject to the continuing right of the Secretary to disapprove of the same at any time. Upon such disapproval, the disapproved action of the said committee shall be deemed null and void, except as to acts done in reliance thereon or in compliance therewith prior to such disapproval by the Secretary.

§ 1014.83 Effective time. The provisions of this subpart, or any amendment thereto, shall become effective at such time as the Secretary may declare and shall continue in force until terminated in one of the ways specified in this subpart.

§ 1014.84 Termination. (a) The Secretary may, at any time, terminate the provisions of this subpart by giving at least one day's notice by means of a press release or in any other manner which he may determine.

(b) The Secretary may terminate or suspend the operation of any or all of the provisions of this subpart whenever he finds that such provisions do not tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(c) The Secretary shall terminate the provisions of this subpart at the end of any fiscal period whenever he finds that such termination is favored by a majority of producers, who during a representative period, have been engaged in the production of tomatoes for market: Provided, That such majority has, during such representative period, produced for market more than fifty percent of the volume of such tomatoes produced for market.

(d) The provisions of this subpart shall, in any event, terminate whenever the provisions of the act authorizing them cease to be in effect.

§ 1014.85 Proceedings after termination. (a) Upon the termination of the provisions of this subpart the then functioning members of the committee shall continue as joint trustees for the purpose of liquidating the affairs of the committee of all the funds and property then in the possession of or under control of the committee, including claims for any funds unpaid or property not delivered at the time of such termination. Action by said trusteeship shall require the concurrence of a majority of the said trustees.

(b) The said trustees shall continue in such capacity until discharged by the Secretary; shall, from time to time, account for all receipts and disbursements and deliver all property on hand, together with all books and records of the committee and of the trustees, to such person as the Secretary may direct; and shall, upon request of the Secretary, execute such assignments or other instruments necessary or appropriate to vest in such person full title and right to all of the funds, property, and claims vested in the committee or the trustees pursuant to this subpart.

(c) Any person to whom funds, property, or claims have been transferred or delivered by the committee or its members, pursuant to this section, shall be subject to the same obligations imposed upon the members of the committee and upon the said trustees.

§ 1014.86 Effect of termination or amendment. Unless otherwise expressly provided by the Secretary, the termination of this subpart or of any regulation issued pursuant to this subpart, or the issuance of any amendments to either thereof, shall not (a) affect or waive any right, duty, obligation, or liability which shall have arisen or which may thereafter arise in connection with any provision of this subpart or any regulation issued under this subpart, or (b) release or extinguish any violation of this subpart or of any regulations issued under this subpart, or (c) affect or impair any rights or remedies of the Secretary or of any other person with respect to any such violations.

§ 1014.87 Duration of immunities. The benefits, privileges, and immunities conferred upon any person by virtue of this subpart shall cease upon the termination of this subpart, except with respect to acts done under and during the existence of this subpart.

§ 1014.88 Agents. The Secretary may, by designation in writing, name any person, including any officer or employee of the United States Department of Agriculture, to act as his agent or representative in connection with any of the provisions of this subpart.

§ 1014.89 Derogation. Nothing contained in this subpart is, or shall be construed to be, in derogation or in modification of the rights of the Secretary or of the United States to exercise any powers granted by the act or otherwise, or, in accordance with such powers, to act in the premises whenever such action is deemed advisable.

§ 1014.90 Personal liability. No member or alternate of the committee nor any employee or agent thereof, shall be held personally responsible, either individually or jointly with others, in any way whatsoever, to any handler or to any person for errors in judgment, mistakes, or other acts, either of commission or omission, as such member, alternate, agent, or employee, except for acts of dishonesty, willful misconduct, or gross negligence.

§ 1014.91 Separability. If any provision of this subpart is declared invalid, or the applicability thereof to any person, circumstance, or thing is held invalid, the validity of the remainder of this subpart, or the applicability thereof to any other person, circumstance, or thing, shall not be affected thereby.

§ 1014.92 Amendments. Amendments to this subpart may be proposed, from time to time, by the committee or by the Secretary.

§ 1014.93 Counterparts. This agreement may be executed in multiple counterparts and when one counterpart is signed by the Secretary all such counterparts shall constitute, when taken together, one and the same instrument as if all signatures were contained in one original.[1]

§ 1014.94 Additional parties. After the effective date hereof, any handler who has not previously executed this agreement may become a party hereto if a counterpart hereof is executed by him and delivered to the Secretary. This agreement shall take effect as to such new contracting party at the time such counterpart is delivered to the Secretary, and the benefits, privileges, and immunities conferred by this agreement shall then be effective as to such new contracting party.[1]

§ 1014.95 Order with marketing agreement. Each signatory handler favors and approves the issuance of an order, by the Secretary, regulating the handling of tomatoes in the same manner as is provided for in this agreement; and each signatory handler hereby requests the Secretary to issue, pursuant to the act such an order.[1]

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON QUARANTINING ON ACCOUNT OF "YELLOW DWARF" DISEASE OF SOYBEANS

Notice is hereby given in accordance with section 8 of the Plant Quarantine Act of August 20, 1912, as amended (37 Stat. 318, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 161), that the Administrator of the Agricultural Research Service has information that the "yellow dwarf" disease of soybeans, a dangerous disease notoriously injurious to soybeans and certain other plants, caused by the soybean cyst nematode (Heterodera glycines Ichinoke), not heretofore widely prevalent or distributed within and throughout the United States, has recently been discovered in certain parts of Missouri, North Carolina, and Tennessee.

It is therefore proposed under the authority of said section 8 of the Plant Quarantine Act to quarantine the States of Missouri, North Carolina, and Tennessee, and to restrict or prohibit the movement from said States, or from any locations therein designated as infected of (1) any soybean cyst nematode in any stage of development; (2) soil, as such or attached to articles or things; (3) nursery stock and other plants with roots attached; (4) true bulbs, corms, rhizomes and tubers; (5) root crops; (6) soybeans and soybean hay; (7) farm tools, implements and harvesting machinery; (8) construction and maintenance equipment; (9) used crates, boxes, burlap bags and other farm products containers; (10) trucks, wagons, railway cars, boats, and other means of conveyance; and (11) other articles of any character whatsoever that present a hazard of spread of the soybean cyst nematode.

A public hearing will be held before a representative of the Agricultural Research Service in room 218-A, Administration Building, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Twelfth Street and Independence Avenue SW., Washington, D. C., at 10 a. m., January 31, 1957, at which hearing any interested person may appear and be heard, either in person or by attorney, on the aforesaid proposals. Any interested person who desires to submit written data, views, or arguments on the proposals may do so by filing the same with the Chief of the Plant Pest Control Branch, Agricultural Research Service, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C., on or before January 31, 1957, or with the presiding officer at the hearing.

Done at Washington, D. C., this 11th day of January 1957.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON QUARANTINING ON ACCOUNT OF DANGEROUS DISEASE OF CORN

Notice is hereby given in accordance with section 8 of the Plant Quarantine Act of August 20, 1912, as amended (37 Stat. 318, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 161), that the Administrator of the Agricultural Research Service has information that a dangerous disease notoriously injurious to corn, sorghum, and other crops of the grass family, as yet unnamed, but, variously known as witchweed wilt of corn, witchweed stunt of corn, Striga disease of corn, or Asiatic disease of corn, caused by an introduced species of the genus Striga, commonly known as witchweed, not heretofore widely prevalent or distributed within and throughout the United States, has recently been discovered in certain parts of North Carolina and South Carolina.

It is therefore proposed under the authority of said section 8 of the Plant Quarantine Act to quarantine the States of North Carolina and South Carolina, and to restrict or prohibit the movement from said States, or from any locations therein designated as infected of (1) witchweed seeds and plants (Striga spp.); (2) soil as such or attached to articles or things; (3) hay; (4) nursery stock and other plants with roots attached; (5) bulbs, corms, tubers, and rhizomes; (6) root crops, the edible parts of which are grown underground; (7) used farm machinery and equipment; (8) construction and maintenance equipment; (9) trucks, wagons, cars, boats, and other means of conveyance; (10) used crates, boxes, bags, and other farm products containers; and (11) other articles of any character whatsoever that present a hazard of spread of witchweed.

A public hearing will be held before a representative of the Agricultural Research Service in room 218-A, Administration Building, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Twelfth Street and Independence Avenue SW., Washington, D. The following learner certificates were issued for plant expansion purposes. The number of learners authorized is indicated:

Blue Bell, Inc., Warsaw, Ind.; effective 12-31-56 to 6-30-57; 10 learners (men's and boys' dungarees).

Byrds Manufacturing Corp., Star City, Ark.; effective 12-27-56 to 3-20-57; 100 learners (boys' sport shirts) (Supplemental certificate).

Regulations Applicable to the Employment of Learners (29 CFR 522.1 to 522.12, as amended February 28, 1955, 20 F. R. 645).

The following learner certificates were issued to the companies listed below manufacturing miscellaneous products. The effective and expiration dates, learner rates, occupations, learning periods, and the number or proportion of learners authorized to be employed, are as indicated:

K & P, Inc., 1501 Lincoln Street, Laredo, Tex.; effective 1-2-57 to 5-1-57; not less than 90 cents per hour for a maximum of 160 hours, for the occupations of polisher and press operator; authorizing the employment of 10 learners for plant expansion purposes (metal watch bands).

William B. Kessler, Inc., Pleasant and Tilton Streets, Hammonton, N. J.; effective 1-2-57 to 7-1-57; not less than 85 cents per hour for the first 280 hours and 90 cents per hour for the remaining 200 hours of the 480-hour learning period, for the occupations of sewing machine operator, hand sewer, final presser, and finishing operations involving hand sewing; authorizing the employment of five percent of factory production workers for normal labor turnover purposes (men's suits, sportcoats and slacks).

Noble Products Co., 308 West Street, Caldwell, Ohio; effective 12-28-56 to 6-27-57; not less than 85 cents per hour for a maximum of 320 hours, for the occupation of sewing machine operator; authorizing the employment of 6 learners for normal labor turnover purposes (life preserver vests, etc.).

Regulations Applicable to the Employment of Student-Workers (29 CFR 527.1 to 527.9, October 14, 1955, 20 F. R. 7737).

Adelphian Academy, Holly, Mich.; effective 1-1-57 to 8-31-57; woodworking shop (trellises, bird houses, etc.); not less than 85 cents per hour for a maximum of 240 hours, for the occupations of woodworking machine operator, assembler and related skilled and semiskilled occupations; authorizing the employment of 40 student-workers.

Each learner certificate has been issued upon the employer's representation that employment of learners at subminimum rates is necessary in order to prevent curtailment of opportunities for employment, and that experienced workers for the learner occupations are not available. The certificates may be annulled or withdrawn in the manner provided in regulations, Part 528 and as indicated in the certificates. Any person aggrieved by the issuance of any of these certificates may seek a review or reconsideration thereof within fifteen days after publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER pursuant to the provisions of the Regulations, Part 522.

Each student-worker certificate has been issued upon the employer's representation that the employment of the student-workers at subminimum rates is necessary to prevent curtailment of opportunities for employment.

Signed at Washington, D. C., this 7th day of January 1957.

MACKAY RADIO AND TELEGRAPH CO., INC.

ORDER DESIGNATING MATTER FOR HEARING AND INVESTIGATION

In the matter of Mackay Radio and Telegraph Company, Inc., Docket No. 11900; revision of Tariff F. C. C. No. 37 to broaden offer of tieline connections for telex users.

At a session of the Federal Communications Commission held at its offices in Washington, D. C., on the 8th day of January 1957;

The Commission having under consideration:

(a) Revised tariff schedules filed by Mackay Radio and Telegraph Company, Inc., to become effective January 10, 1957, designated as follows:

Mackay Radio and Telegraph Company, Inc.
Tariff F. C. C. No. 37.
4th Revised Page 9.
1st Revised Page 12.

which, respectively, revise section B 12, Teleprinter Station Equipment, so as to amend paragraph a and delete paragraph b, and revise section C 5, Teleprinter Station Equipment, so as to delete it in its entirety;

(b) A letter from the Commission dated December 12, 1956, to Mackay Radio and Telegraph Company, Inc., in reference to the above revised tariff schedules indicating that there appeared to be questions of their legality in certain respects;

(c) A response to such letter filed December 20, 1956, by Mackay Radio and Telegraph Company, Inc.;

(d) A letter filed December 31, 1956, by RCA Communications, Inc., as supplemented by a further letter filed January 3, 1957, in which certain objections were raised to the revised tariff schedules and in which the Commission was requested to suspend the operation of 4th Revised Page No. 9; and

(e) A letter filed January 7, 1957, by Mackay Radio and Telegraph Company, to supplement its position as well as to answer the December 31 letter of RCA Communications, Inc.;

It appearing that the above revised tariff schedules will result in an offer by the Company "[u]pon reasonable demand" to provide, install, and maintain on customers' premises in the cities of New York, Washington, San Francisco, or Honolulu, without additional charge above published international telex charges, "tie-line connections" subject to the availability of such facilities;

It further appearing that the Commission is unable to determine from an examination of the revised tariff schedules whether the above offer will be lawful under the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, insofar as the offer contains the phrases "[u]pon reasonable demand" and "tie-line connections";

It further appearing that the response of Mackay Radio and Telegraph Company, Inc., to the Commission letter of December 12, 1956, does not resolve the aforementioned problems;

It further appearing that if the above mentioned revised tariff schedules are permitted to become effective on the date specified, the rights and interests of the public may be adversely affected thereby;

It is ordered, That pursuant to sections 201, 202, 203, 204, 205 and 403 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the Commission shall enter upon a hearing and investigation concerning the lawfulness of the classifications, regulations, and practices set forth in the above-mentioned proposed offer;

It is further ordered, That pursuant to section 204 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the operation of the above-mentioned revised tariff schedules are hereby suspended until the 10th day of April 1957, unless otherwise ordered by the Commission, and that during said period of suspension no changes shall be made in the suspended revised tariff schedules unless authorized by special permission of the Commission;

It is further ordered, That without in any way limiting the scope of the investigation and hearing as above ordered, it shall include consideration of the following specific issues:

(a) Whether the revised tariff schedules may be unjust or unreasonable under section 201 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, in that:

(1) They may affect the earnings of the filing company adversely by decreasing revenues and increasing costs so that its ability to provide a rapid and efficient communication service with adequate facilities at reasonable charges may be impaired; or

(2) They may similarly adversely affect the earnings of other international telegraph carriers providing international teletypewriter service because competitive considerations may induce such carriers to adopt similar tariff provisions and thereby may impair the ability of such other carriers to provide a rapid and efficient communication service with adequate facilities at reasonable charges;

(b) Whether the revised tariff schedules are unjustly or unreasonably discriminatory under section 202 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, in that they fail to set standards which would prevent such discrimination;

(c) Whether the revised tariff schedules are unlawful under section 203 of the Communications Act of 1934, as

FEDERAL POWER COMMISSION

[Docket No. G-11432]

PACIFIC NORTHWEST PIPELINE CORP.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION AND DATE OF HEARING

JANUARY 9, 1957.

Take notice that Pacific Northwest Pipeline Corporation (Applicant), a Delaware corporation, with its principal place of business in Houston, Texas, filed an application on November 6, 1956, for a certificate of public convenience and necessity, pursuant to section 7 of the Natural Gas Act, authorizing the construction and operation of certain facilities to render natural gas service as hereinafter described, subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission, all as more fully represented in the application which is on file with the Commission and open to public inspection.

Applicant seeks authorization to render natural gas service to Intermountain Gas Company, Incorporated (Intermountain) for resale in the Village of Declo, Cassia County, Idaho. For this purpose Applicant seeks further authorization to construct and operate a main line tap meter and regulator on its main line in Idaho about half a mile south of Declo.

The Village of Declo is not now served with natural gas. Intermountain estimates that the first three years of operation will show the following requirements:

Year of operation	Peak day (Mcf)	Annual (Mcf)
1	32	2,930
2	39	3,690
3	45	4,200

Intermountain has received a franchise from the community of Declo and a certificate from the Idaho Public Utilities Commission permitting it to operate a natural gas system in Cassia County for service to communities therein.

Applicant estimates it will spend $15,320 out of currently available funds to build its proposed facilities.

Take further notice that, pursuant to the authority contained in and subject to the jurisdiction conferred upon the Federal Power Commission by sections 7 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act, and the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, a hearing will be held on February 7, 1957, at 9:30 a. m., e. s. t., in a Hearing Room of the Federal Power Commission, 441 G Street NW., Washington, D. C. concerning the matters involved in and the issues presented by such applications: Provided, however, That the Commission may, after a noncontested hearing, dispose of the proceedings pursuant to the provisions of § 1.30 (c) (1) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure. Under the procedure herein provided for, unless otherwise advised, it will be unnecessary for Applicants to appear or be represented at the hearing.

Protests or petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington 25, D. C., in accordance with the rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) on or before January 21, 1957. Failure of any party to appear at and participate in the hearing shall be construed as waiver of and concurrence in omission herein of the intermediate decision procedure in cases where a request therefor is made.

Secretary.

[Docket No. G-11710]

TEXAS CO., ET AL.

ORDER SUSPENDING PROPOSED CHANGES IN RATES

The Texas Company (Operator) et al., on December 5, 1956, submitted for filing proposed changes in rate schedules for sales of natural gas subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission. The proposed changes are contained in the following filing:

Description: Notice of change, undated.
Purchaser: Natural Gas Pipeline Company of America.
Rate schedule designation: Supplement No. 5 to Phillips FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 133.
Proposed effective date: January 23, 1957.[1]

In support of the proposed increased rate, Texas states that the contract resulted from bona fide, arms' length bargaining and that the increases are justified on a continuing basis because of increasing operating costs due to workover wells; replacement, addition and repair of equipment; exploratory and drilling costs of new wells; and interest lost on deferred income occasioned by extending the sale over 20 years.

The proposed increased rates and charges designated above have not been shown to be justified, and may be unjust, unreasonable, unduly discriminatory or preferential, or otherwise unlawful.

The Commission finds: It is necessary and proper in the public interest and to aid in the enforcement of the provisions of the Natural Gas Act that the Commission enter upon a hearing concerning the lawfulness of the said proposed changes, and that the above-designated supplement be suspended and the use thereof deferred as hereinafter ordered.

The Commission orders:

(A) Pursuant to the authority contained in sections 4 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act and the Commission's general rules and regulations (18 CFR, Chapter I), a public hearing be held upon a date to be fixed by notice from the Secretary concerning the lawfulness of the proposed increased rates and charges and, pending such hearing and decision thereon, said supplement be and it is hereby suspended and the use thereof deferred until June 23, 1957, and until such further time as it is made effective in the manner prescribed by the Natural Gas Act.

(B) Neither the supplement hereby suspended, nor the rate schedule sought to be altered thereby, shall be changed until this proceeding has been disposed of or until the period of suspension has expired, unless otherwise ordered by the Commission.

(C) Interested state commissions may participate as provided by sections 1.8 and 1.37 (f) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 and 1.37 (f)).

By the Commission.[2]

Issued: January 9, 1957.

Secretary.

[Docket No. G-11711]

NICKLOS OIL & GAS CO., ET AL.

ORDER SUSPENDING PROPOSED CHANGE IN RATES

Nicklos Oil & Gas Co., et al. (Nicklos), on December 11, 1956, tendered for filing proposed changes in presently effective rate schedules for sales of natural gas subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission. The proposed changes, which constitute increased rates and charges, are contained in the following designated filing:

Description: Notice of change, dated December 10, 1956.
Purchaser: Texas Gas Transmission Corporation.
Rate schedule designation: Supplement No. 1 to Nicklos' FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 1.
Effective date: January 11, 1957.[1]

As support for the proposed increase Nicklos recites, among other things, that the contract provides for a favored-nations rate increase in the event that a buyer pays a higher rate within 50 miles of the point of delivery, and that buyer has agreed to pay another producer a higher rate. Nicklos further states that the proposed rate will not exceed some other area rates.

The increased rates and charges proposed in the aforesaid filing have not been shown to be justified, and may be unjust, unreasonable, unduly discriminatory, or preferential, or otherwise unlawful.

The Commission finds: It is necessary and proper in the public interest and to aid in the enforcement of the provisions of the Natural Gas Act that the Commission enter upon a hearing concerning the lawfulness of the said proposed change, and that the above-designated supplement be suspended and the use thereof deferred as hereinafter ordered.

The Commission orders:

(A) Pursuant to the authority contained in sections 4 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act and the Commission's general rules and regulations (18 CFR Chapter I), a public hearing be held upon a date to be fixed by notice from the Secretary concerning the lawfulness of said proposed change in rates and charges; and, pending such hearing and decision thereon, the above-designated supplement be and the same hereby is suspended and the use thereof deferred until June 11, 1957, and until such further time as it is made effective in the manner prescribed by the Natural Gas Act.

(B) Neither the Supplement hereby suspended nor the rate schedule sought to be altered shall be changed until this proceeding has been disposed of, or until the period of suspension has expired, unless otherwise ordered by the Commission.

(C) Interested State commissions may participate as provided by §§ 1.8 and 1.37

[1] The stated effective date is the first day after expiration of the required thirty days notice, or the effective date proposed by Nicklos, if later.

amended, and fail to meet the requirements of § 61.55 of the Commission rules as to clear and explicit language;

It is further ordered, That a copy of this order be filed in the offices of the Commission with the revised tariff schedules herein suspended, that the Mackay Radio and Telegraph Company, Inc., and protestant RCA Communications, Inc., are hereby made parties to the proceeding, and that a copy thereof shall be served upon each of said parties;

It is further ordered, That a copy of this order shall be served upon Globe Wireless Ltd. which also offers an international teleprinter exchange service, and that such carrier may participate in the proceeding herein by filing a notice of intention to participate within twenty days after the date this order is released;

It is further ordered, That this matter is designated for hearing at a time and place to be specified in a subsequent order; and that the presiding officer shall certify the record to the Commission without preparing either a recommended or initial decision.

Released: January 8, 1957.

REVISED TENTATIVE ALLOCATION PLAN FOR CLASS B FM BROADCAST STATIONS

NOTICE OF PROPOSED ALLOCATION

1. Notice is hereby given of further proposed rule making in the above-entitled matter.

2. It is proposed to amend the Revised Tentative Allocation Plan for Class B FM Broadcast Stations in the following manner:

General area	Channels
	Delete	Add
Hagerstown, Md.		295
Cumberland, Md.	295	254
Baltimore, Md.	294

3. The purpose of the proposed amendment is to provide a Class B channel in Hagerstown, Maryland, to facilitate consideration of a pending application submitted by the United Broadcasting Company of Western Maryland, Inc. for a new Class B FM broadcast station in that city.

4. Authority for the adoption of the proposed amendment is contained in sections 4 (i), 301, 303 (c), (d), (f), and (r), and 307 (b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

5. Any interested party who is of the opinion that the proposed amendment should not be adopted or should not be adopted in the form set forth herein, may file with the Commission on or before February 8, 1957, a written statement or brief setting forth his comments. Comments in support of the proposed amendment also may be filed on or before that same date. Comments or briefs in reply to the original comments may be filed within 10 days from the last day for filing said original comments or briefs. The Commission will consider all such comments that are submitted before taking action in this matter, and if any comments appear to warrant the holding of a hearing or oral argument, notice of the time and place of such hearing or oral argument will be given.

6. In accordance with the provisions of § 1.764 of the Commission's rules and regulations, an original and 14 copies of all statements, briefs, or comments shall be furnished the Commission.

Adopted: January 10, 1957.

Released: January 11, 1957.

H. S. COLE, JR., ET AL.

ORDER SUSPENDING PROPOSED CHANGES IN RATES

H. S. Cole, Jr., et al. (Cole), on December 17, 1956, tendered for filing proposed changes in presently effective rate schedules for sales subject to the jurisdiction of the Commission. The proposed changes, which constitute increased rates and charges, are contained in the following designated filing:

Description: Notice of change, dated December 15, 1956.

Purchaser: Texas Gas Transmission Corporation.

Rate schedule designation: Supplement No. 1 to Cole's FPC Gas Rate Schedule No. 3.

Effective date: [1] January 17, 1957.

As support for the proposed increase Cole recites, among other things, that the contract provides for a favored-nations rate increase in the event that a buyer pays a higher rate within 50 miles of the point of delivery, and that buyer has agreed to pay another producer a higher rate. Cole further states that the proposed rate will not exceed some other rates in the area.

The increased rates and charges proposed in the aforesaid filing have not been shown to be justified, and may be unjust, unreasonable, unduly discriminatory, or preferential, or otherwise unlawful:

The Commission finds: It is necessary and proper in the public interest and to aid in the enforcement of the provisions of the Natural Gas Act that the Commission enter upon a hearing concerning the lawfulness of the said proposed changes, and that the above-designated supplement be suspended and the use thereof deferred as hereinafter ordered.

The Commission orders:

(A) Pursuant to the authority contained in sections 4 and 15 of the Natural Gas Act and the Commission's general rules and regulations (18 CFR Chapter I), a public hearing be held upon a date to be fixed by notice from the Secretary concerning the lawfulness of said proposed changes in rates and charges; and, pending such hearing and decision thereon, the above-designated supplement be and the same hereby is suspended and the use thereof deferred until June 17, 1957, and until such further time as it is made effective in the manner prescribed by the Natural Gas Act.

(B) Neither the Supplement hereby suspended nor the rate schedule sought to be altered shall be changed until this proceeding has been disposed of, or until the period of suspension has expired, unless otherwise ordered by the Commission.

(C) Interested State commissions may participate as provided by §§ 1.8 and 1.37 (f) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 and 1.37 (f)).

Issued: January 9, 1957.
